Women's Business Institute Announces Addition to Staff

Marie Beckey is now serving as business counselor/program coordinator at the Women's Business Institute office at SU. The WBI is a nonprofit organization serving women entrepreneurs throughout Maryland. Beckey is providing no-cost, confidential small business counseling to clients throughout the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Beckey previously worked for Perdue Farms, Inc. where she served in various marketing management positions. She currently owns and operates her own retail bicycle business, BikeSport, in Salisbury. Beckey received her B.A. in communications and her M.B.A. from SU.

The WBI was founded in Annapolis in 1997. It manages a variety of programs providing training, mentoring, counseling and technical assistance. Counseling will be provided in Salisbury by appointment on Mondays and Thursdays.

The WBI is funded in part by the U.S. Small Business Administration Office of Women's Business Ownership, the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, and the Community Foundation of the Eastern Shore. For more information on WBI or to schedule an appointment for business counseling, please call 410-548-3991 or e-mail mmbeckey@salisbury.edu.

Outgoing Foundation Chair Recognized: Outgoing chair of the Salisbury University Foundation, Inc., Deborah Abbott (center) recently received a framed watercolor of Holloway Hall from President Janet Dudley-Eshbach and incoming SU Foundation Chair Henry Hanna. Abbott, senior vice president and regional officer of Peninsula Bank, served two two-year terms as chair of the Foundation's board of directors and remains an active board member, serving on the Nominating and Executive committees. During her tenure, Foundation assets grew from $22 million to over $35 million. SU became a partner in the Perdue-Kresge Challenge (with an $800,000 goal) and the privately-funded Scarborough Student Leadership Center was built.

Philosophy Professor Remembered: Professor George Walsh, beloved member of the Philosophy Department for 10 years (1979-1989), died last fall after a long illness. He will be remembered fondly by colleagues and students alike for his encyclopedic knowledge of philosophy and his quick Irish wit. In this photo, his wife Cathy presents a picture of George to Drs. Fran Kane, Jerry Miller and Grace Clement (all of the Philosophy Department) that now hangs in the Philosophy House. "Having George's picture is a comfort for us and a reminder of his devotion to philosophy," commented Kane. "Seeing George's impish smile will," he added, "keep us from taking ourselves too seriously."

Social Science Honor Society Seeks Nominations

Maryland Gamma, SU's chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the international honor society of the social sciences, will hold its fall initiation on Saturday, October 5, and is accepting nominations for membership. Membership is open to juniors, seniors and graduate students in the upper 35 percent of the class with at least 21 semester hours in the social sciences and a grade point average of 3.3 or better. Faculty are also initiated.

In the past 18 years, several SU students have won international scholarships; only 10 are awarded annually by Pi Gamma Mu. Last year was a banner year for the chapter as two of the 10 scholarships were won by Doris Gelbman and Dennis Urban, May SU graduates. The Maryland Gamma chapter has also won national and international awards.

Faculty advisors for Pi Gamma Mu are Drs. Richard Bowler, Michael Lewis, Melanie Perreault and Clara L. Small. Since 1992 Small has served as the northeastern regional chancellor and as a member of Pi Gamma Mu's board of trustees.

For more information contact one of the advisors or the History Department by Wednesday, September 25.

University Chess Club Meetings

If you like to play chess, plan to attend the weekly meetings of the Salisbury University Chess Club. The Chess Club is open to all interested students, faculty, staff and members of the community—regardless of chess-playing ability. The club's goal is to bring together everyone interested in playing chess.

The Chess Club meets every Wednesday evening, and the first meeting is September 4, 7:45 p.m., in Nanticoke Room A in the Guerrieri University Center. If possible, bring a chess board.

For more information contact Chess Club President Clinton Young at 410-548-9084 or Greenbear41@yahoo.com, or Faculty Advisor Chapman McGrew at 410-543-6457 or jcmcgrew@salisbury.edu.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Lambda Invites GLBT Faculty and Staff

Lambda Society, the faculty and staff association for gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender faculty and staff, invite all GLBT faculty and staff, their partners and allies to join the confidential Lambda e-mail list to receive notices of meetings, events and initiatives. Members of the SU community who wish to be included on the Lambda mailing list should send an e-mail to lambda@salisbury.edu.

Preseason Practices Underway

Head Coach Sherman Wood and the Sea Gull football team began official preparations for the 2002 season last week with 118 players reporting for the start of preseason camp. Wood and his coaching staff will guide the players through two weeks of two-a-day workouts before closing preseason camp on August 30. The Sea Gulls open the season on Saturday, September 7, at home against Christopher Newport.

Wood welcomed 45 returning players and 73 newcomers (freshmen and transfers) to preseason. The Sea Gulls return seven offensive starters and nine defensive starters from last year's 4-6 squad. Solidifying the depth chart will be among the preseason priorities for the coaching staff.

"We feel pretty confident with the personnel we have at a number of positions," said Wood. "I think we're very solid on the offensive line, at linebacker and the offensive backfield. A couple of areas we hope to settle during camp are the secondary and receivers. I like the athletic ability that we have at all positions. Our goal as coaches will be to help limit mistakes and to get our players focused on the season ahead."

Head Coach Jim Nestor welcomed 25 players to the first women's soccer practice of the season, including five returning starters from last year's 14-2-3 squad. The team faces two- and three-a-day practice sessions through the preseason. The Gulls open the regular season at the Methodist (NC) College Tournament on Friday, August 30.

Forty players took to the field last week for the first day of men's soccer practice. Head Coach Gerry DiBartolo, beginning his 21st season, will pare the roster through the preseason. Following three August scrimmages, the Gulls will open the regular season at home on Sunday, September 1, with the annual Elmer Lord Memorial Tournament.

Athletic Training Welcomes New Staff

Athletic Training has several new people joining the staff this fall.

Rebecca Liddle is the new assistant athletic trainer. Liddle earned an M.S. in athletic training from the University of Virginia and a B.S. in athletic training from West Virginia University. She most recently was an assistant athletic trainer at West Virginia.

The program has five new graduate assistants: Drue Stapleton from Cortland State University, Jessica Springstead from Kean University, Jason Smeenk from Roanoke College, Stepahanie Pippin from Slippery Rock University and Jason Edsall also from Slippery Rock.

Also, added to the staff is Jackie Russin who will serve as a part-time assistant athletic trainer in association with Health South Sports Medicine Center. Russin earned an M.S. in athletic training from Ohio University and a B.S. in athletic training from Pennsylvania State University.

Three recent athletic training graduates are working in the National Football League (NFL) this year. Jeremy Gsell will be the year-long intern for the Indianapolis Colts. Marco Mastrangelo will serve in the same capacity with the Washington Redskins. Kevin Domboski is a summer intern with the Baltimore Ravens.

Kaleidoscope Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are needed to guide and encourage children through the Kaleidoscope traveling exhibit at the Centre at Salisbury, October 7-20. Sponsored by the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art and Hallmark, this program is a free exhibit that aims to expand the educational opportunities in the region.

Volunteer shifts are 8:30 a.m.-noon and 11:30 a.m.-2:15 p.m. on weekdays and noon-4 p.m. on weekends. All volunteers and their families will have a private, one-hour session to experience Kaleidoscope.

To volunteer or find out more about Kaleidoscope please call the Ward Museum Volunteer Office at 410-742-4988, Ext. 109, as soon as possible.

Conversation Partners Program

Interested in another culture? In making friends with international students? In challenging your own perceptions about the world? In sharing your language skills? If so, the Conversation Partners program is for you.

The goal of the program is to give ESL (English as a Second Language) students an opportunity to practice their listening and speaking skills in English, and to provide opportunities for interaction between peoples of different cultures. This program pairs international students from SU with English-speaking students, faculty or staff for weekly conversational meetings. Karen Gianninoto, director of Training for All Teachers (TAT) on campus, will provide a two-hour training session before individual meetings begin. The objective is for partners to meet once a week for an hour of conversation. In previous years, many partners have developed meaningful and lasting friendships, which continued through the summer and into the next academic year.

If interested in the program, please contact Agata Liszkowska for an application or questions at 410-543-6313 or Guerrieri University Center Room 242E. Applications are also available online at www.salisbury.edu/Students/ISS/HelpYou/partners.html. Deadline for returning applications is Monday, September 9; the training session is Friday, September 13, at 3 p.m. in Nanticoke Room A of the Guerrieri Center.

Field Hockey Advisor Needed

The SU Club Field Hockey Team is looking for an advisor. A faculty or full-time staff member is needed for approximately one Saturday or Sunday a month, September-November. Responsibilities are minimal and all travel arrangements will be at no expense. There is no experience or knowledge of the game necessary. Those interested should contact Laura Buchanan at laura31000@hotmail.com or leb6893@students.salisbury.edu.

Perdue-Kresge Goal at 90%

With 90 percent of its goal raised, the Salisbury University Foundation is already benefiting from a campaign to raise endowment support for SU outreach programs. The SU Foundation is a partner in the Perdue-Kresge Challenge for the Community, an endowment campaign sponsored by the Community Foundation of the Eastern Shore.

The goal assigned to the SU Foundation is $800,000 that will be matched dollar-for-dollar to create a $1.6 million endowment for University outreach programs.

SU assembled the SU Foundation Endowment Partnership as the ideal response to the Perdue-Kresge Challenge for the Community: the partner organizations are all firmly tied to the University's educational mission but each is primarily oriented to SU's goal of civic engagement. Partners were selected because each serves the Lower Shore community, and the region, in a unique way. Each Partner is finding the Challenge has energized volunteers.

"The exciting thing is that the Perdue-Kresge Challenge has allowed us to bring together five groups within the University who will not only achieve their goals, but be better because of the process and more financially stable because of the funds raised," said Henry Hanna, chair of the Foundation and SU's Perdue-Kresge Challenge.

Those five partner organizations that make up the SU Foundation Endowment Partnership are: The Center for Conflict Resolution, the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra, the Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture, the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art and the Seidel Challenge. Each organization has individual fund-raising goals to reflect the length of its fund-raising program.

Together, the Partnership has raised $725,000 in pledges toward the $800,000 goal.

The Ward Museum, acquired by Salisbury University last year, has already reached its $350,000 Perdue-Kresge goal, although it continues to raise funds for other grants.

SSO funds will be further enhanced by the $100,000 gift given by benefactor Peter Jackson. This means each dollar raised by the Symphony will become $2 with Perdue-Kresge and then $4 with the Peter Jackson Challenge Gift.

The Seidel Scholarship Challenge for future teachers, launched in response to a generous gift from the late Sam Seidel and his wife, Marilyn, is the fifth component to the partnership. This effort is particularly important as SU responds to the regional and nationwide teacher shortage by increasing scholarships for students majoring in education.

Two of the youngest fund-raising programs in the partnership belong to the Nabb Research Center and the Center for Conflict Resolution. The Perdue-Kresge Challenge has enabled them to broaden their donor base with supporters who have a better understanding of fund-raising.

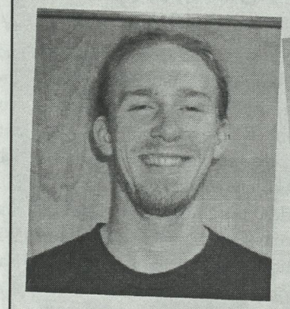
Nabb Awards History Prize



Two SU students were winners of the spring 2002 Miles Stevenson History Prize, awarded by the University's Edward H. Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture.

Donnie Meyd focused his research on early Somerset County resident Richard Holland. Meyd is a senior history major.

Stacy Godfrey researched 17th century Somerset County resident Jane Elzey. Godfrey attended Parkside High School and is currently an SU sophomore majoring in history and secondary education.

Established by Marelyn Zipser in honor of Roger Atwood Miles and Arintha May Stevenson, the Miles Stevenson Prize is awarded in the fall and spring semesters for outstanding historical research in Delmarva history. It includes a $250 cash award. For more information on the Miles Stevenson Prize or the Nabb Research Center's other history award, the Wilcomb E. Washburn Prize, please visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Counseling Services Earns Accreditation

SU's Student Counseling Services (SCS) was recently accredited by the International Association of Counseling Services (IACS).

The IACS is the primary accreditation body for counseling center programs throughout the country. Currently, there are only 158 accredited university counseling center programs.

"The accreditation process," said Dr. Edward Morris, director of SCS, "is an arduous process that involved a critical review of administrative procedures and counseling protocol, interviews with faculty, staff and administrators who have had contact with our services, and in-depth interviews with staff members. Based on the interviews and other collected information, six counseling center directors independently reviewed our documentation and decided that we met the criteria established by IACS."

In its review, the ICACS was especially complimentary of the "individual and collective skills, the expertise, and the commitment and accessibility" of the SCS staff.

"Besides being an affirming accolade from professional peers who have been directors of counseling centers for decades," said Morris, "the accreditation represents an assertive effort by the staff of Student Counseling Services and the SU Office of Student Affairs to maintain the highest standard of care and services for the Salisbury University community."

Glass Artist Exhibits in Pennsylvania

Hot glass artist Daniel Marder exhibits his blown glass work at Rosemont College, Rosemont, PA, September 6-29.

"Body Language" is a collection of work featuring his series, "Tripod." Marder describes the show as a dialogue with the viewer using references to the body through form and gesture without the literal use of the figure.

Marder has shown work internationally for the last 20 years and examples of his work are catalogued in the Corning Museum and Creative Glass Center of America archives.

He teaches glass blowing and sculpture in the hot glass-working program he established at SU. He works with materials ranging from blown glass to original audio compositions, metal and electronic components.

Exhibit hours are Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-8 p.m., and by appointment on weekends. Call Rosemont College at 610-526-2967 for more information.

Mum Sale Supports Scholarships

The Lambda Eta chapter of Sigma Theta Tau international honor society of nursing is once again selling mums to raise money for the scholarship fund. The mums are available in red, yellow, bronze, pink-lavender and white and are in 6-inch pots. Mums will be delivered on Tuesday, September 24, to the Power Professional Building from 4:30-6 p.m. The cost is $3 each.

Orders may be placed by mailing or calling Nancy Flurer at P.O. Box 1, Quantico, Maryland 21856, 410-546-3657, or by e-mail to Dorothea McDowell, Department of Nursing, emcdowell@salisbury.edu.

Landscape Paintings in Fulton Gallery

Landscape artist Henry Coe presents "Plein Air Paintings" through Monday, September 30, in the Fulton Hall Gallery. An opening reception is Friday, August 30, from 6-8 p.m.

Coe's work has been shown extensively in the United States and abroad. He is a graduate of the Maryland Institute, College of Art in Baltimore and has worked as an artist-in-residence in France.

Hours for the Fulton Hall Gallery are: Tuesdays through Fridays, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., and Saturdays-Sundays, noon-4 p.m. There are no weekend hours August 31-September 1. The exhibit and opening reception are free and open to the public.

Ropko Exhibits 'Familiar Things'

Crisfield artist Fred Ropko exhibits prints and pottery in his show, "Familiar Things," through Monday, September 30, in the Atrium Gallery of the Guerrieri University Center.

Ropko has exhibited ceramic art extensively in the Maryland-D.C. area. He has shown at the Kennedy Center and Norfolk Museum in juried group shows. A retired associate professor of art at SU, he describes his stoneware forms as inspired by the ancient Chinese and Japanese master potters.

For more information, call the Atrium Gallery at 410-548-2547.

Global Trade Workshop

"Introduction to World Trade," a comprehensive workshop for businesses that are ready to grow and are considering going global, is on Tuesday, September 10, from 9 a.m.-noon in Nanticoke Room A.

The workshop, which offers ways to increase product life and expand customer base to business opportunities beyond the U.S. borders, includes procedures to develop an international business plan, customs best practices, international transaction payment, international marketing, managing export operations and legal issues in world trade.

The workshop is sponsored by the Maryland Small Business Development Center Network-Eastern Region, the World Trade Center Institute, Salisbury Area Chamber of Commerce and Salisbury University.

The fee for the workshop is $25, which includes continental breakfast and all course materials.

To register or for more information, call Steffanie Malkus at 410-543-6516 or e-mail sjmalkus@salisbury.edu.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Student Health Services

Student Health Services (SHS) provides primary, episodic care for all students. Hours of operation are Monday-Tuesday and Thursday-Friday from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. and Wednesday from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. All patients are seen by appointment only. There is a $5 patient visit fee payable by cash, check or Gull Card.

Preventive programs on a variety of wellness topics are offered throughout campus. Students, faculty and staff can request guest speakers or other outreach support. SHS offers a Self-Care Center at no cost for students needing to manage minor conditions without an appointment. All services are confidential. For more information, contact SHS at 410-543-6262 or www.salisbury.edu/health. SHS is located in Holloway Hall Room 180.

Leadership Workshop Series

The Leadership Workshop Series is a set of leadership workshops that are provided throughout the academic year to expose emerging, established and experienced student leaders to a series of activities including team building, understanding organizations, responsible citizenship, motivation, recruitment and others. These consecutive sessions run concurrently on Tuesday nights between October 8 and November 29, and are free to all SU students.

The are three levels of leadership education: 101 Emerging Leaders, 201 Established Leaders, 301 Experienced Leaders. Students who complete all seven of the workshops will be recognized during Celebration of University Leadership at the end of the academic year. Those students who complete all three levels will receive special recognition and a commemorative gift to mark the accomplishment. For more information visit the Scarborough Student Leadership Center.

Science Hall Ribbon Cutting Today

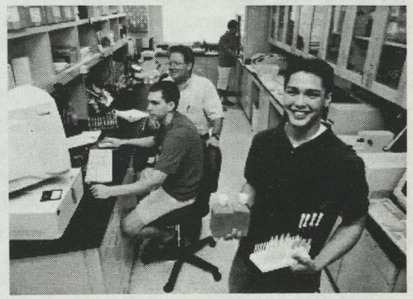
President Janet Dudley-Eshbach cuts the ribbon today, Thursday, September 5, at 1:30 p.m., on SU's new $37 million Henson Science Hall.

At 145,500 square feet, the new science building is the largest academic facility on campus and one of the largest science buildings in the state.

The three-story brick structure houses five of the seven departments of the Richard A. Henson School of Science and Technology, endowed by the late Maryland aviation pioneer who lived in Salisbury, and also the Guerrieri Laboratory Wing, endowed by the Guerrieri Family Foundation of Ocean City, supplemented by the State of Maryland's Private Donation Incentive Program.

"Maryland's unparalleled quality of life is directly related to the excellence of the State's higher education system," said Gov. Glendening. "The tremendous work and important research that will be performed here at Salisbury University is a shining example of what we can achieve through meaningful investment in our outstanding colleges and universities."

"I am very grateful to Gov. Glendening who has made this a truly Golden Age of building construction for the University System of Maryland," said President Dudley-Eshbach, "and to Del. Norman Conway for his constant perseverance in the General Assembly on Salisbury University's behalf. We also want to acknowledge another pair of dear friends, Richard Henson and the Guerrieri Family, for opening up new possibilities for our students."



"Science education has made remarkable strides in the past 30 or 40 years, not the least of which is the introduction of newer, safer ways of teaching from the laboratory bench," said USM Chancellor William E. Kirwan.

"Everything—from the computerized replication of experimental results to the safe handling of chemicals—has been revolutionized," said Kirwan.

"Nonetheless, all of these wonderful changes have put laboratory space at a premium, and at many institutions there is a constant struggle for room in which to work. I am happy to say that at Salisbury University, however, our young people and their teachers will

Mum Sale Supports Scholarships

The Lambda Eta chapter of Sigma Theta Tau international honor society of nursing is once again selling mums to raise money for the scholarship fund. The mums are available in red, yellow, bronze, pink-lavender and white and are in 6-inch pots. Mums will be delivered on Tuesday, September 24, to the Power Professional Building from 4:30-6 p.m. The cost is $3 each.

Orders may be placed by mailing or calling Nancy Flurer at P.O. Box 1, Quantico, MD 21856, 410-546-3657, or by e-mail to Dorothea McDowell, Department of Nursing, emcdowell@salisbury.edu.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Football, Field Hockey Seasons Begin This Week

Four of SU's fall athletic teams began their seasons last week, leaving the Sea Gull football and field hockey squads as the only two yet to see game action. That changes on Saturday, September 7, as the Gulls host Christopher Newport in the football opener (1 p.m., Sea Gull Stadium), while the field hockey team visits conference-rival St. Mary's for its first game.

With 16 starters returning, the football team begins Head Coach Sherman Wood's fourth season at the helm with lofty expectations, including hopes for a championship in the Atlantic Central Football Conference.

"Our goal this year is to win our conference championship," said Wood. "Some of the best teams on our schedule are in our conference, so if we do well against them, we should fare well against some of the non-conference teams also. We know that winning the conference is a high goal, but we think it's truly realistic. We've been very close in the past and we think our time has come."

Salisbury and Christopher Newport will be meeting for just the second time as the Captains inaugurated a new program in 2001. The Gulls defeated CNU 21-6 in last year's contest, played before an overflow crowd of 6,136 in Newport News, VA.

Meanwhile, the field hockey team begins its quest for an eighth straight Capital Athletic Conference championship as it starts play in Coach Dawn Chamberlin's 16th season. The Gulls return 19 letterwinners from last year's team which finished 16-3 overall and held the number one spot in the national rankings for six straight weeks.

The Gulls host their annual two-day field hockey tournament on September 14-15, with Denison, Washington & Lee and Wesley joining Salisbury in the four-team event.

Varsity Club Luncheons Open to All

The SU Varsity Club is once again hosting its weekly football luncheons with Head Coach Sherman Wood. The luncheons, scheduled for each Thursday at noon in the Commons, are open to all members of the campus community. The cost of the luncheon is $6.05 plus tax per person, which includes an all-you-can-eat a la carte menu, as well as beverages and dessert. Reservations are not necessary. Wood will offer a preview and review of each week's game, and have selected players also on-hand to answer questions each week.

FOOD COMMITTEE

The first meeting of the FOOD Committee is Wednesday, September 11, at 5 p.m. in the Caroline Room. The FOOD Committee is made up of students who evaluate the menus, test new items and give input about all areas of Dining Services to make sure voices are heard. Those interested in joining may sign up at the Commons cashier's station or call Dining Services at 410-677-5418. Members receive free meal at meetings, coupons for Cool Beans, Gull's Nest and carts, and an appreciation dinner.

Join the Sea Gull Social Club

Faculty and staff who are looking for good food and friendly people are encouraged to join the Sea Gull Social Club. The primary purpose of the club is to welcome friends into Salisbury University's community and to acquaint members with all events available on campus.

Members will enjoy four cocktail parties with an open bar and hors d'oeurves, a wine and cheese social, and two outstanding dinners with an open bar. Dollar-for-dollar many "old timers" in the club call this the "best deal in town." Fifteen percent of membership dues is given to the Salisbury University General Scholarship Fund.

All new faculty and staff are invited to the Sea Gull Social Club's first cocktail party of the semester on Saturday, September 14, in the Worcester Room, Commons, at no cost.

For those who wish to join, annual fees are $300 for couples and $150 for single memberships. SU faculty and staff joining the club for the first time will receive a 20 percent discount on the annual membership fee. For an application or more information contact Melanie Stefursky at 410 543-6030 or Carolyn Collins at 410 543-6079.

In Face of Shortage, SU Nursing Enrollment Rises

Nursing enrollment is up 30 percent at SU this fall, especially heartening news in view of recent reports of a nationwide shortage of nurses, according to SU new Nursing Department chair, Dr. Susan Battistoni.

"The quality of the nursing program remains high as well," said Battistoni, "as evidenced by our recent 100 percent pass rate by SU family nurse practitioner students on their national certification examination." The national average pass rate for the exam is 89 percent.

Enrollment in nursing courses has grown from 61 last fall to 93 for the fall 2002 semester. Nursing at SU is an upper-division program where the students start taking their nursing courses in the fall semester of their junior year.

Battistoni is replacing Dr. Lisa Seldomridge who was the Nursing Department chair for the past six years. Seldomridge is returning to the nursing faculty. Additionally, Dr. Karen Badros takes over as chair of the Nursing Graduate Program, succeeding Dr. Ruth Carroll, chair for the last three years. Dr. Catherine Walsh continues as associate chair.

The Nursing Department is adding a pair of new full-time faculty. Dr. Mary B. DeLashmutt, assistant professor of nursing, is a certified registered nurse midwife. A former member of the nursing faculties of the University of Virginia and Shehperd (WV) College, DeLashmutt will be teaching Nursing Care of Childbearing and Childbearing Families and Psychiatric-Mental Health Nursing. She received her B.A. in nursing from the University of Virginia, her M.S. in nursing from Columbia University, her M.A. in moral theology from Mount Saint Mary's Seminary and her Ph.D. in nursing administration from George Mason University.

Also new this fall is Michele Bracken, instructor of nursing and a certified registered nurse practitioner. Bracken, who earned her B.S. and M.S. in nursing from SU, will be teaching Nursing Care of Children and Adolescents and Maternal Newborn Nursing.

Due to the increased enrollment, nine part-time clinical faculty have been added: Nancy Flurer, M.S., R.N.; Joann Lewis, B.S.N., R.N.; Brenda Ronk, M.S., R.N.; Tess Iten, M.S., R.N.; Valerie DuBosq, B.S.N., R.N.; Annette Hall-Barnes, M.S., R.N.; Tracy Palmer, M.Ed., R.N.; Tammy Hurley, B.S.N., R.N.; and Wynne Aroon, M.S., R.N.

Byrnes Shares 'Safe Communities' Philosophy

Chris Byrnes Jr., regional Safe Communities director for SU, recently gave a presentation in Orlando, FL, at the Lifesavers Conference for highway safety advocates and professionals.

Byrnes addressed the philosophy of Safe Communities, a program started by the U.S. Department of Transportation to address local traffic safety issues. Maryland's Safe Communities Program focuses on child safety seat compliance, impaired driver education, traffic safety awareness for employers and assistance to older or non-English-speaking motorists. The group also provides grant money for college traffic safety programs including the University's SafeRide. The campus is home to one of the Safe Communities' four regional Maryland offices and is funded through a State Highway Administration grant.

Byrnes' presentation was with highway safety officials from Michigan and California.

September 11: A Day of Remembrance

SU commemorates the tragedies of September 11 with four significant events, including participation in the worldwide "Rolling Requiem." Other activities are a meditative labyrinth walk, a University-community dialogue reflecting on the impact of the attacks and a student candlelight vigil.

SU is the only campus in Maryland and one of only two choral organizations in the state participating in the "Rolling Requiem." Globally, some 150 choirs in 23 countries are working with the project. At the Eastern Shore campus, this will be a participatory choral event where attendees join together in a "read-through" of Mozart's Requiem on Wednesday, September 11, at the time the World Trade Center was first attacked.

SU Director of Choral Activities Patrick Freer invites all members of the local community; church, community and school choirs; and the SU campus to participate with the University Choirs in this worldwide singing of the Mozart masterwork. All are asked to assemble at 8:30 a.m. in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall for instructions and reflection. Following a campuswide minute of silence at 8:46 a.m. during which the University carillon will toll, the Requiem will begin. The program is expected to conclude around 10 a.m. Other Music Department faculty involved are Susan Zimmer, piano, and Robert Tudor, baritone.

Throughout the morning the carillon will toll for one minute commemorating the times of the four terrorist attacks.

On the eve of the anniversary, Tuesday, September 10, a meditative labyrinth walk in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center opens at 5:15 p.m. Clergy from faiths throughout the region including Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Muslim, Hindu and Baha'i are part of the ceremonial opening.

Also Tuesday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Auditorium, a University-community dialogue on September 11, a year later, will allow those attending to share their thoughts about its impact and meaning. Organized by Dr. Maarten Pereboom, chair of the History Department, he hopes that this open dialogue with faculty, students and Shore residents will engage all.

Wednesday, September 11, at 9 p.m. a Student Remembrance Walk and Candlelight Vigil begins at the Wicomico Room. Students, faculty and staff are invited to light candles and join a procession to Red Square for an hour of reflection.

The labyrinth remains open throughout the week, allowing walking and contemplation. Hours are Tuesday, September 10, 6-8 p.m.; Wednesday, September 11, 8 a.m.-8 p.m.; and Thursday-Friday, September 12-13, 10 a.m.-8 p.m.

A digital (finger) labyrinth for the visually and mobility-impaired also is available. Both are courtesy of Amy Isaacs of Salisbury. (Isaacs will be available each evening and all day September 11 to answer questions about the labyrinth.) A memorial journal allows walkers to record their thoughts following the event.

For more information on the Requiem call Freer at 410-543-6386. For other events call the SU Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs at 410-543-6271 or visit the University Web site at www.salisbury.edu.

Conners Honored for Teaching Innovation

University Professor Keith J. Conners recently received the Award for Innovative Excellence in Teaching, Learning and Technology from the Center for the Advancement of Teaching and Learning.

Conners attended the Center's International Conference on College Teaching and Learning in April along with more than 800 faculty from colleges and universities in 18 different countries.

As professor of education, Conners has been instrumental in implementing a Professional Development School (PDS) partnership between SU and Worcester County Public Schools. He has supervised SU student teachers and, in support of the intent of PDS, taught University courses on-site in Worcester County. Conners has also pioneered flexible instruction and student teaching schedules designed to better meet the needs of working adults and the public school system alike.

The Seidel School also employs another of Conners' innovations, "Huxley College." At this fictitious institution, students in the post-secondary track of the Master of Education program assume roles and grapple with timely issues and authentic challenges throughout the semester.

Conners credits much of his success in the field of education to his ability to "steal" good ideas from fellow teachers and his willingness to be different.

"I have enjoyed the freedom to rethink many of the assumptions underlying our profession," Conners said. "This has given me the opportunity to reshape the way the next generation of public school teachers is prepared."

Shipper Presents At Summer Institute

Frank Shipper, professor in the Perdue School, presented at the 14th annual Summer Instructional Institute at Utah State University in August. His talk, "Web-Enhanced 360, 720, 1180 Feedback and Beyond," introduced conference participants to interactive, Web-based learning in support of 360 feedback, a management and leadership development tool. Online learning modules have been developed so performance improvements can be addressed without attending traditional courses, seminars and training sessions.

Kaleidoscope Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are needed to guide and encourage children through the Kaleidoscope traveling exhibit at the Centre at Salisbury, October 7-20. Sponsored by the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art and Hallmark, this program is a free exhibit that aims to expand the educational opportunities in the region.

Volunteer shifts are 8:30 a.m.-noon and 11:30 a.m.-2:15 p.m. on weekdays and noon-4 p.m. on weekends. All volunteers and their families will have a private, one-hour session to experience Kaleidoscope.

For more information please call the Ward Museum Volunteer Office at 410-742-4988, Ext. 109, as soon as possible.

Fall 2002 Campus Recruiting Schedule

Sign-up for on-campus recruiting via JobCo at www.salisbury.edu/careerservices. Most companies are prescreening applicant resumes, so submission should be made at least a week prior to the date of the actual interviews. Students are encouraged to have a credential file in Career Services. Unless otherwise specified, recruiters are interviewing all graduates up to and including May 2003. Information sessions are held by many employers. Any interested students may attend. Applicants are particularly encouraged. For more information visit Career Services in Guerrieri University Center Room 133.

BEACON Gets New Home

The Business, Economic and Community Outreach Network (BEACON), an outreach and experiential learning unit of the Perdue School of Business, moves to a new home in January: the former SU International House at the corner of Camden and College avenues.

BEACON offers business, economic, community and workforce development consulting and assistance services to a variety of clients, including private businesses, government agencies, and non-profit and community organizations. BEACON also undertakes undergraduate and graduate research projects and offers a variety of experiential learning opportunities for Perdue School students and faculty through its community outreach team projects.

According to BEACON Director Memo Diriker, associate professor of management and marketing at the Perdue School, BEACON's previous location in the Power Professional Building across Route 13 from the main campus inhibited interaction with the rest of the University community, particularly the Perdue School. Diriker said, "This move will put us right across the street from our business school colleagues and better facilitate collaborative projects." In addition, the new location will be more visible to the general public.

Students will also benefit from BEACON's close proximity to the main campus. Said Ruth Baker, BEACON's managing director: "The move will make it easier for students without cars to be part of the BEACON team and benefit from the learning opportunities here." The facility will be set up to accommodate four fully networked project/group study teams, or even small seminars. Diriker is currently finalizing plans for utilizing the four group study rooms for two M.B.A. evening classes this fall

Look for BEACON's official ribbon cutting and grand opening festivities during the first week of the spring semester. For more information about BEACON, contact Diriker or Baker at 410-548-5353 or e-mail beacon@salisbury.edu.

Convocation Marks Official Start To Fall Semester

Salisbury University celebrates the opening of its 77th year with its annual ceremonial kickoff to the fall semester, the Fall Convocation, on Tuesday, September 10, at 3:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The keynote speaker is Dr. Mark Holland, professor of biology, whose talk is titled, "The Last Man Who Knew Everything." Holland will discuss the difference between getting an education and accumulating factual knowledge.

Recipients of many University scholarships are recognized at Fall Convocation. This year two are highlighted—the SU Alumni Scholarship and the Alumni Association International (affiliated with the University System of Maryland) Scholarship. In addition, the SU Alumni Association presents its Faculty Appreciation Awards honoring outstanding educators from each school.

Amy Lynn Dryden is the Alumni Scholarship recipient. The scholarship requires students to have both a minimum 3.5 GPA and a 1200 score on the SAT. Her mother, Linda Dryden, is an SU graduate (Class of 1996). The four-year renewable scholarship is valued at $8,000. Dryden also won a Seidel Education Scholarship, valued at $4,000 over four years.

James Norman Richardson is the recipient of the Alumni Association International Scholarship, which goes to a Maryland resident who has outstanding academic credentials and has been actively involved in his/her high school and community. He graduated in the top 5 percent of his Snow Hill High School class. The scholarship is valued at $2,559 annually.

The Faculty Appreciation Award-winners are revealed at the Convocation. Criteria include at least 10 years of full-time teaching and having made a significant impact on the lives of students who, in turn, go on to contribute to their communities. The selection process includes nominations by graduates and final choice by a committee of alumni and faculty. Alumni Director Roy Perdue; Clinton Bradway (Class of 1956), chair of the Faculty Appreciation Committee; and Pam Winters Dolle (Class of 1976), president of the Alumni Association, present the awards.

Other scholarships to be announced are: Presidential, Fulton, Guerrieri, Henson, Perdue, Seidel Education, Seidel Endowment, Bellavance Honors, Nettie C. Bentley, A.T. and Mary H. Blades, Cahall, Elizabeth Cannon, Christopher, Coca-Cola, Fred Durr, Garland Bull Arcadia, Martin S. Kane, James G. Kiefer, Jack Metzger, Mid-Shore Community Foundation, Nathan Foundation, Mary L. Nock, Rotary Club of Salisbury, SU Art, Shore Scholars, Joseph and Hannah Smith Memorial, J. Edwin Tawes Memorial, Calvin. B. Taylor, Mary E. T. Truitt, Transfer, University of Maryland Alumni, Wicomico High School and Worcester County.

The public is invited to attend; there is no charge.

Science Hall Ribbon Cutting Today

be able to experience a quality education in science and technology in a great new facility with plenty of capacity. The Henson building is another indicator that Salisbury is an innovator, and well deserving of its national reputation for academic excellence."

Henson Science Hall is the first academic facility to be constructed at SU in a decade. (The last was Fulton Hall, home to the liberal and performing arts, which opened in 1990.) The new state-of-the-art science hall houses the departments of biology/environmental health, chemistry, physics and engineering, mathematics and computer science, and geography and geosciences.

It holds 12 classrooms of various sizes including two tiered auditoriums, 32 teaching laboratories and 20 research laboratories. Salisbury and the Henson School are recognized nationally as leaders in the undergraduate research movement and its alumni have gone on to such institutions as the University of Maryland College Park, Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, National Institutes of Health and Duke University, among others. The 20 undergraduate research labs allow for highly motivated students like those to work with faculty on self-directed projects. The "smart" classrooms and labs also are wired for the Internet and computer-projection systems. In addition, the building has student study rooms, conference rooms and 95 faculty/staff offices.

Planning for the building has been underway for 10 years. Dr. Tom Jones, dean of the Henson School, and other University officials visited science facilities throughout Maryland and beyond researching the latest in science construction. To accommodate the new facility, two buildings were demolished: an old one-story dining hall, and a metallic one-story multi-use building. The current home of the Henson School, Devilbiss Hall, will be renovated to house the Nursing and Health Sciences departments, previously located on Power Street near the athletic fields. These departments have never been on main campus. Having the different departments in such close proximity "allows sciences to be more interdisciplinary," said Jones.

"This is indeed an exciting moment for me personally and for the future of science education at Salisbury University," said Jones. "I have spent over 20 years teaching biology and mentoring undergraduate research students in Devilbiss Hall. While Devilbiss served us well in the '70s and '80s, the requirements of higher education science instruction today and the ever increasing size of the science student body and faculty have led us to this ribbon cutting of this state-of-the-art complex. This facility will enable us to prepare highly competitive graduates for a world where science literacy is essential."

Architectural firms involved were Cho, Benn, and Holback, and Mitchell/Giurgola. The construction management was by Bovis Lend Lease.

Vol. 20 No. 3
September 12, 2002

Football Runs to Opening Game Victory

Freshman QB Dustin Johnson rushed for one touchdown and passed for another as the Sea Gulls posted a season-opening 20-13 win over Christopher Newport on Saturday, September 7. Johnson had 102 yards rushing and was one of three SU players to finish with over 100 yards on the ground. Senior RB Tony Ellis led the Gulls with 121 yards, while senior FB Reggie Boyce added 105 yards. The trio's accomplishment marked just the fourth time in Salisbury's 31-year football history that three players hit the century mark in the same game.

The Gulls will try to register their first 2-0 football start since 1998 when William Paterson comes to Sea Gull Stadium this week. The Pioneers downed the Gulls 26-13 last season. Kickoff time on Saturday, September 14, is 1 p.m.

The men's soccer team, ranked 18th in the nation last week, is likely to move into the top 10 this week following a 5-0 shutout of No. 3 ranked Greensboro on Saturday. Forwards Matt Bowman and C.R. Krauss had one goal and one assist each to pace the Gulls, while Dan Lader added a pair of assists. SU returns to action Saturday with a non-conference match at Villa Julie.

The field hockey team opened its season with a convincing 5-0 win Saturday at conference-rival St. Mary's. Junior forward Lindsey Elliott led Salisbury with three second half goals. The Gulls host their annual four-team tournament this week and will play three games over two days. Wesley, Denison and Washington & Lee join SU in this year's tournament field. Action gets underway on Saturday morning and continues through Sunday.

The men's and women's cross country teams both placed second among seven teams at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore Invitational on Saturday. Steve Jacobs and Amy Lang were SU's top individual finishers.

The volleyball and women's soccer teams play their first home contests this week. The volleyball team is off to a 3-4 start following a 2-2 showing at the Gettysburg College Tournament last week. The women's soccer team (0-4) hosts York at home Sunday. Game time is 1 p.m.

For the latest in sports news and schedules, visit www.salisbury.edu/athletics/default.asp.

Senior RB Tony Ellis was one of three Gulls to rush for over 100 yards in Saturday's 20-13 won over Christopher Newport.

Personal Safety Tips

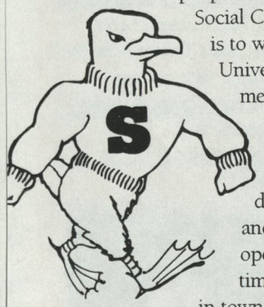
These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Join the Sea Gull Social Club

Faculty and staff who are looking for good food and friendly people are encouraged to join the Sea Gull Social Club. The primary purpose of the club is to welcome friends into Salisbury University's community and to acquaint members with all events available on campus.



Members will enjoy four cocktail parties with an open bar and hors d'oeurves, a wine and cheese social, and two outstanding dinners with an open bar. Dollar-for-dollar many "old timers" in the club call this the "best deal in town." Fifteen percent of membership dues is given to the Salisbury University General Scholarship Fund.

All new faculty and staff are invited to the Sea Gull Social Club's first cocktail party of the semester on Saturday, September 14, in the Worcester Room, Commons, at no cost.

For those who wish to join, annual fees are $300 for couples and $150 for single memberships. SU faculty and staff joining the club for the first time will receive a 20 percent discount on the annual membership fee. For an application or more information contact Melanie Stefursky at 410 543-6030 or Carolyn Collins at 410 543-6079.

Celebrate International Housekeepers Week

September 8-14 is International Housekeepers Week. This is the time to recognize the hard work and dedication of the Salisbury University housekeepers and their efforts to meet the needs of the campus community. Special recognition will be made to the Supervisor of the Year, Housekeeper of the Year and Best Maintained Building/Team of the Year. Take this time to thank the people that do so much to make SU a beautiful campus.

FBI Internships

Due to the very selective and highly competitive nature of the Honors Internship Program with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, a limited number of internships are awarded. Only individuals possessing strong academic credentials, outstanding character and a high degree of motivation are eligible. More specifically the applicant must be a junior or a graduate student that will be returning to his/her campus after the internship, have a minimum of 3.0 GPA (though no intern has ever been chosen that had below a 3.4) and be a U.S. citizen. The application will take about eight hours to complete. Please pick up a packet in Career Services if you meet the requirements and this meets your career goals.

Start Job Search At Senior Saturday

The Scarborough Student Leadership Center hosts the first-ever Senior Saturday, on September 14, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. This professional conference is designed to jump start a senior's job quest. Corporate sponsors, Boscov's and Capital Securities, and an array of successful alumni, faculty and other employers will serve as panelist and presenters on a variety of topics such as dressing for success, business etiquette, succeeding at your first professional jobs, and interviewing and managing your finances. Student registration is required, please call 410-543-6075 or register on the Career Services Web page at www.salisbury.edu/careerservices/

Seniors - Graduation Application Deadline

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in May 2003 or summer 2003 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, October 4, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to his/her last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

Business School Winter Study Abroad

Business students are encouraged to apply for the Perdue School's winter term study abroad program in London and Dublin. Applications are available in the business school or contact Janine Vienna, Global Programs, at 410-548-3983 or jmvienna@salisbury.edu.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Accounting Scandals 101: What Went Wrong?

As part of its Mind Shrapnel and Cookies Series the Bellavance Honors Program presents a discussion about this summer's corporate accounting scandals on Wednesday, September 25, from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in the Bellavance Honors Center. Presiding will be Dr. E. Patrick McDermott, assistant professor in the Accounting and Legal Studies Department of the Perdue School of Business. All are welcome to attend, comment, question and share in conversation, coffee and cookies.

Early Bird Job Fair

The Early Bird Job and Internship Fair is on Thursday, September 26, noon-4 p.m., throughout the first floor of Guerrieri University Center. This is the first time that Career Services has hosted a large job fair in the fall. The fall fair serves to meet the needs of the ever tightening job market where students may require a longer time to land a full-time, professional job—on average four to six months. About 100 businesses will be participating. For more information visit the Career Services Web page at www.salisbury.edu/careerservices/. Students should bring resumes and plan on meeting the employers.

Child Care After-School Conference

The Lower Shore Child Care Resource Center on Milford St. is hosting a "Fall Back to After School" conference on Saturday, September 28, from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. in Caruthers Hall.

The conference, part of the Maryland After School Opportunity Fund, offers quality education for all school-age providers. Keynote speaker is Mary Arhana, director of character education for the Maryland State Department of Education. The conference is open to after-school staff, family providers, center staff, administrators and anyone interested in fun school-age activities.

Cost is $20 for Resource Center members and $25 for non-members; registration includes materials, continental breakfast and lunch. Six hours of Child Care Administration approved clock hour credit will be awarded to all who attend.

For more information, contact Jenna Miller at the Lower Shore Child Care Resource Center at 410-742-9245.

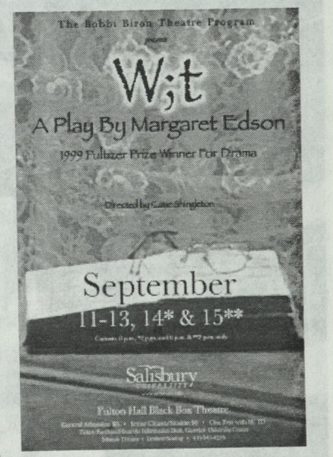
Theatre Season Opens With Pulitzer Prize Winner

The Bobbi Biron Theatre Program presents the 1999 Pultizer Prize-winning drama W;t [sic], by Margaret Edson, in the Fulton Hall Theatre, Wednesday, September 11-Sunday September 15.

Curtain is 8 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday with matinees at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

W;t, also seen spelled Wit, is a compelling, yet humorous, story about accomplished English professor Vivian Bearing who becomes a student of ovarian cancer treatment research after her own cancer diagnosis. The play, directed by Catie Shingleton, follows Bearing through her education as a patient undergoing experimental treatments, with insightful flashbacks and profound revelations about herself.

Cast members include SU students Kristina Lawall, Jason Lang, Matt Ripa, Kristen Tull, Jason Castaneda and Priscilla Magalee. Salisbury residents are Betty McBriety Powell, and Heather Shingleton.



Opportunities to learn more about the play and community resources for those affected by cancer follow during post-performance discussions on Thursday and the Saturday matinee. These talks include Shingleton, the cast and representatives of local non-profit agencies serving persons with cancer or terminal illnesses.

Ticket prices are $8 for adults and $6 for senior citizens and students. SU ID holders are entitled to one free ticket to be picked up at the Information Desk of the Guerrieri University Center during regular Guerrieri Center hours. The play contains adult language and situations. For more information, call the Theatre Box Office at 410-543-6228.

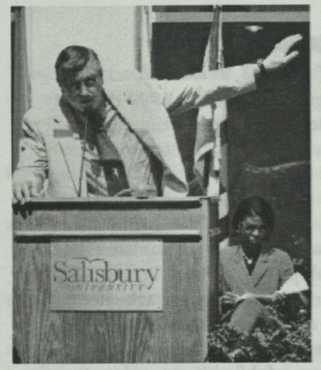
International Business Conference at SU

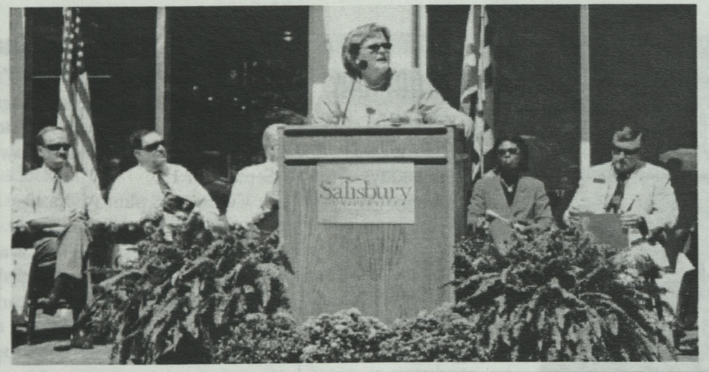
The Perdue School of Business hosts the Academy of International Business' Northeast Conference from September 26-28.

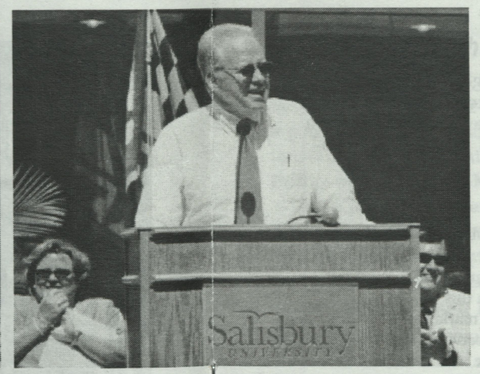
Some 50 academics from United States, Asia and Europe will present papers and hold discussions on the theme, "Global Transformations." Ten Perdue faculty will participate in the conference which will include 12 paper sessions, two special panels and a keynote speaker from the World Bank.

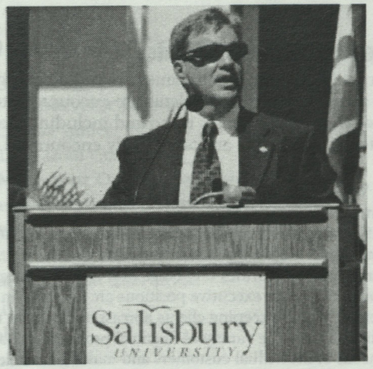
The Academy of International Business is the leading academic association of 3,000 international business scholars in 65 nations. Membership is open to professionals and their institutions. The AIB publishes the leading journal in the field, the Journal of International Business Studies. The Northeast is one of five (14 worldwide) chapters of the AIB in the United States, drawing its membership mostly from the region.

For additional information about the conference, please contact either Dr. Dick Hoffman, professor of management and program chair, or Janine Vienna, M.B.A. coordinator/Global Programs administrator and conference coordinator at 410-543-6316.









Henson Science Hall Ribbon Cutting

University friends gathered to celebrate the opening of the Henson Science Hall on September 5. Among those in attendance were University System of Maryland Chancellor William Kirwan, Maryland Higher Education Commission Secretary Karen Johnson, Del. Norm Conway and Past SU President Bill Merwin. Limited edition Henson Science Hall sunglasses were distributed to mark the bright future of those that will study in this state-of-the-art facility.

The three-story structure houses five of the seven departments of the Richard A. Henson School of Science and Technology, endowed by the late Maryland aviation pioneer who lived in Salisbury, and also the Guerrieri Laboratory Wing, endowed by the Guerrieri Family Foundation of Ocean City, supplemented by the State of Maryland's Private Donation Incentive Program.

Fall 2002 Campus Recruiting Schedule

Sign up for on-campus recruiting via JobCo at www.salisbury.edu/careerservices. Most companies are prescreening applicant resumes, so submission should be made at least a week prior to the date of the actual interviews. Find Your Delmarva Roots

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva Culture and History at SU welcomes the Maryland Genealogical Society annual seminar "Tracing Your Delmarva Ancestors" Friday-Saturday, September 20-21.

Co-sponsored by the Lower Delmarva Genealogical Society and the Nabb Research Center, the conference provides an opportunity for Delmarva researchers, whether professional or novice, to learn family history research from some of the best historians and researchers in the field.

Sessions include a wide variety of topics including Beginning Your Search for Ancestors; Slavery and the Underground Railroad on the Eastern Shore of Maryland; A Survey of Church Records of the Delmarva from the 17th and 18th Centuries; and Researching Your Delmarva Ancestors on the Internet.

The cost for Friday and Saturday is $50 or $25 per day; the Friday night banquet is $25. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit the Nabb Research Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Social Science Honor Society Seeks Nominations

Maryland Gamma, SU's chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the international honor society of the social sciences, holds its fall initiation on Saturday, October 5, and is accepting nominations for membership. Membership is open to juniors, seniors and graduate students in the upper 35 percent of the class with at least 21 semester hours in the social sciences and a grade point average of 3.3 or better. Faculty are also initiated.

For more information contact one of the advisors or the History Department by Wednesday, September 25.

Study in Sunny Ecuador this Winter Term

Students interested in studying in Ecuador during the upcoming winter term are encouraged to attend an interest meeting on Tuesday, September 24, in Caruthers Hall Room 107. There is a meeting at 3:30 p.m. and again at 6:30 p.m. SU's institutional partner, the Centro de Estudios Interamericanos in Cuenca, Ecuador, supports this University-sponsored study abroad program.

Courses in Spanish are taught by professors from Frostburg, Salisbury and St. Ambrose universities as well as by native Ecuadorian faculty. Courses offered include Spanish 101 through 202, a class in Andean culture and an advanced Hispanic literature class. The courses may count toward General Education and all courses at the 200 level or higher count toward the major or minor in Spanish.

Courses in English are taught by professors from St. Ambrose and Salisbury universities. Courses offered include Latin American Women's Issues, Human Relations for Teachers, Photography, Principles of Marketing and Modern Latin American History; the courses have a one hour a day session in "survival" Spanish for those with no previous exposure to that language. The courses may count toward General Education or the major or minor in history, business or education. Transfer of the credits for these courses needs to be arranged with the chair of the department housing these disciplines at SU.

Students may also enroll in an intensive education certification course in Teaching English as a Second and Foreign Language (TESFL). The class format involves both teaching methodology and teaching practice with English students. The TESFL certificate earned at the end of the program is often required by institutions in foreign countries which teach English to their own populations and is one of the keys to traveling and teaching in other countries where English is not spoken.

There are also exciting cultural activities offered almost every day and a number of field trips planned including the mysterious Inca ruins at Inga Pirca, the majestic natural beauty of El Cajas National Park in the in the Andes and overnight trips to the capital city of Quito, the beaches of Ecuador's Pacific coast and the world-famous market at Otavalo.

Students will live with carefully-screened Ecuadorian families, where only Spanish is spoken. Students with limited or no Spanish may request families in which at least some English is spoken.

The program runs from December 26, 2002, to January 24, 2003, and costs from $2,500-$3,000. This fee includes transportation to and from Ecuador from BWI or Reagan National, although air fare costs have not yet been finalized. It also includes housing, most meals, ground transportation in Ecuador, and in-state tuition and fees for three credits.

For more information contact Dr. Gerry St. Martin (grstmartin@salisbury.edu) or Dr. Brian Stiegler (bnstiegler@salisbury.edu) in the Department of Modern Languages, Holloway Hall Room 342, 410-543-6245.

Sea Gulls Ascend to Top Tier

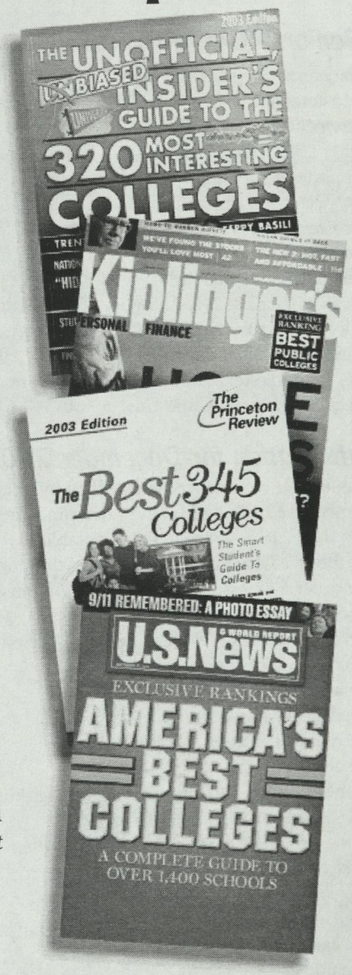
Salisbury University has vaulted into the Top Tier rankings of the just released U.S. News & World Report's 2003 "America's Best Colleges." This marks the first time Salisbury has earned this Top Tier status. SU is ranked in the Best Universities—Master's category—North region, which includes both public and private universities.

The recognition from U.S. News' "America's Best Colleges," the most popular of the annual college ranking publications, comes on the heels of similar kudos from other guide books and magazines in recent weeks. Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine, The Princeton Review's Best 345 Colleges and Kaplan Publishing's 320 Most Interesting Colleges all ranked SU among the nation's best universities, public and private.

"We are obviously extremely pleased about the recognition Salisbury University is receiving from these national publications," said President Janet Dudley-Eshbach. "The rankings confirm what many in Maryland and the rest of the Mid-Atlantic have known for some time, that SU is one of best universities of its kind, public or private, in the nation. No doubt about it, Salisbury University is rising in reputation and quality and we're loving it!"

In the October issue of Kiplinger's, SU is 55th, its highest rank ever, among the over 600 public colleges and universities in the country surveyed. SU is featured for the fourth straight year in The Princeton Review's Best 345 Colleges, or the top 10 percent of some 3,500 public and private colleges and universities nationally.

Visit SU online at www.salisbury.edu for the full story on these stellar rankings.



Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Seniors - Graduation Application Deadline

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in May 2003 or summer 2003 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, October 4, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to his/her last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

Business Coaching Workshop

"Business Coaching: Getting the Most from Yourself and Others," a one-day workshop sponsored by SU's Center for Professional Development, is on Thursday, September 26.

The workshop, coordinated by Kathryn Danko-Lord, president of Responsible Resources, Inc. (RRI), a skills and attitudes development company, is designed to define business coaching and to foster proficiency with distinct coaching models, practice skills and techniques of effective business coaches.

The workshop is at the Scarborough Student Leadership Center from 8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. Continental breakfast and lunch are included.

The fee for the workshop is $95. A $5 discount is offered for members of the Society of Human Resources Managers (SHRM) and Chamber of Commerce members.

For registration information, contact Carol Brady, 410-548-4481, cmbrady@salisbury.edu; or Kathryn Redden, 410-543-6394, keredden@salsibaury.edu.

Business School Winter Study Abroad

Business students are encouraged to apply for the Perdue School's winter term study abroad program in London and Dublin. Applications are available in the business school or contact Janine Vienna, Global Programs, at 410-548-3983 or jmvienna@salisbury.edu.

Accounting Scandals 101: What Went Wrong?

As part of its Mind Shrapnel and Cookies Series the Bellavance Honors Program presents a discussion about this summer's corporate accounting scandals on Wednesday, September 25, from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in the Bellavance Honors Center. Presiding will be Dr. E. Patrick McDermott, assistant professor in the Accounting and Legal Studies Department of the Perdue School of Business. All are welcome to attend, comment, question and share in conversation, coffee and cookies.

FBI Internships

Due to the very selective and highly competitive nature of the Honors Internship Program with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, a limited number of internships are awarded. Only individuals possessing strong academic credentials, outstanding character and a high degree of motivation are eligible. More specifically the applicant must be a junior or a graduate student that will be returning to his/her campus after the internship, have a minimum of 3.0 GPA (though no intern has ever been chosen that had below a 3.4) and be a U.S. citizen. The application will take about eight hours to complete. Please pick up a packet in Career Services if you meet the requirements and this meets your career goals.

Early Bird Job Fair

The Early Bird Job and Internship Fair is on Thursday, September 26, noon-4 p.m., throughout the first floor of Guerrieri University Center. This is the first time that Career Services has hosted a large job fair in the fall. The fall fair serves to meet the needs of the ever tightening job market where students may require a longer time to land a full-time, professional job—on average four to six months. About 100 businesses will be participating. For more information visit the Career Services Web page at www.salisbury.edu/careerservices/. Students should bring resumes and plan on meeting the employers.

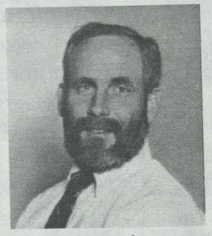
Rediscover the Summer of 1862



Thomas G. Clemens

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU sponsors "The Rebel's Heel Is on Thy Shore: The Maryland Campaign of 1862" on Thursday, October 3, at 1 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

Presenter Thomas G. Clemens, an SU alumnus and Maryland Humanities Council Speakers Bureau member, discusses the political and military dilemmas facing the Union and Confederate governments in the summer of 1862. Using maps to trace the routes of the opposing armies, Clemens weaves an engaging story of the pivotal importance of Maryland in the Civil War and the domestic and international consequences of the conflict.

Clemens is professor of history at Hagerstown Community College. A founding member and president of Save Historic Antietam Foundation, Clemens earned his B.A. and M.A. in history from Salisbury University. He is currently pursuing doctoral studies at George Mason University.

The event, sponsored by the Maryland Humanities Council, is free and open to the public. A sign language interpreter is available upon request. For more information, call 410-543-6312 or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Mystic Warriors Outdoor Concert

As part of the Latin-American Cultural Series, the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs presents Mystic Warriors in concert Wednesday, September 25, at 7 p.m.

Their music promises a journey to the highest snowed mountains of the Andes with the resonating power of the bass panflutes, or "toyas," as they perform a blend of Andean, modern and classical sounds. This award-winning group has five albums and numerous appearances to their credit.

This free concert will be held at Red Square on the SU campus; in case of rain, it will be moved to Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Performance Explores 'One Peace'

SU presents "One Race, One People, One Peace," a choreopoem by James H. Chapmyn, on Monday, September 23, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Chapmyn, who has written several other choreopoems and plays, describes "One Race" as a look at racism, homophobia and terrorism through poignant monologues and poetic scenes. The performance uses video and music combined with dramatic and comic monologues.

The event, sponsored by the Office of Multiethnic Student Services, Union of African-American Students and student chapter of NAACP, is free and open to the public. For more information, call 410-548-4503.

SU Students Head to New Zealand

Eight seniors from the Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies are heading to New Zealand classrooms to do their teaching internships.

For the last several years, elementary education majors have been offered the opportunity to learn in New Zealand, recognized around the world for its successful reading program. Students are immersed in the New Zealand culture through placements with host families and are mentored by master teachers.

Four students have been interning in New Zealand during the summer semester. They are Joanne Casper, Melissa Dugan, Lindsey Norbeck and Michelle Reinhardt.

Scheduled to begin their fall internships in early October are Andrew Douds, Natalie Peabody, Amanda Raven and Heather Tyng.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Hawkins Appointed to CASE

Gains Hawkins, assistant vice president of University advancement, was recently appointed to serve on the Commission on Communications and Marketing for the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE), which is headquartered in Washington, D.C.

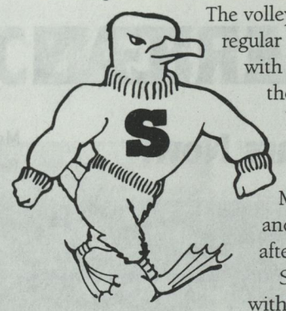
Hawkins, who has worked in the Public Relations Office at SU for 23 years, was one of 24 professionals selected from a pool of more than 200 candidates nationwide to serve on the CASE commission.

The commission provides leadership and guidance on a host of issues affecting educational advancement, including the development of CASE's core curriculum and campaign standards, revising the Circle of Excellence Awards program, establishment of research and benchmarking measures, and identification of new product and service offerings.

Hawkins' responsibilities at SU encompass advertising, media relations, publications, sports information and the campus' Copy Center. He works closely with the Admissions and Development offices devising recruitment and fund-raising strategies respectively.

Also, Governor Parris Glendening recently appointed him to the State of Maryland's Bicycle and Pedestrian Advisory Committee. An active fund-raiser for the local chapter of the American Lung Association he is a member of the Smoke Free Maryland Communications Workgroup. He is a member of Wicomico County's Sheriff's Advisory Committee and Tourism Advisory Committee.

Volleyball Hosts Tournament This Week



The volleyball team hosts the first of its two regular season tournaments this week, with play beginning Friday afternoon at the Maggs Center. Johns Hopkins, Frostburg State, Catholic and Richard Stockton join the Sea Gulls in the five-team field. Matches begin at 3 p.m. on Friday and continue through Saturday afternoon.

Salisbury improved to 6-5 overall with a second place finish at Richard Stockton's Tournament last week. The Gulls defeated Widener (3-2) and Catholic (3-2) before falling to the host team in the championship match. Three Sea Gulls—Monica McLaughlin, Rachell Bachtell and Brittany Mister—were named to the all-tournament team.

The field hockey team, ranked sixth in the nation, won its annual home tournament last weekend. SU recorded three shutout wins over Denison (2-0), Wesley (2-0) and Washington & Lee (9-0) to improve to 5-0 overall. Salisbury faces its stiffest test of the young season on Saturday when it visits No. 3 ranked Messiah.

The men's soccer team puts its No. 7 ranking on the line at home Saturday in a non-conference match against Shenandoah. Mike Steinen scored twice and the defense registered its third straight shutout as SU improved to 3-0 overall with a 3-0 win at Villa Julie last weekend.

Senior Kristey Lillis scored unassisted in the 83rd minute to lift the women's soccer team to its first win of the year, 1-0 over York at home on Sunday. Lillis has accounted for all of the team's scoring through its first six games.

The football team is aiming for its first 3-0 start since 1986 when it visits Methodist on Saturday. The Gulls rolled to 485 yards of total offense in last week's 55-18 victory over William Paterson. SU also registered its highest point total in 14 years in that game.

Child Care After-School Conference

The Lower Shore Child Care Resource Center on Milford St. is hosting a "Fall Back to After School" conference on Saturday, September 28, from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. in Caruthers Hall.

The conference, part of the Maryland After School Opportunity Fund, offers quality education for all school-age providers. Keynote speaker is Mary Arhana, director of character education for the Maryland State Department of Education. The conference is open to after-school staff, family providers, center staff, administrators and anyone interested in fun school-age activities.

Cost is $20 for Resource Center members and $25 for non-members; registration includes materials, continental breakfast and lunch. Six hours of Child Care Administration approved clock hour credit will be awarded to all who attend.

For more information, contact Jenna Miller at the Lower Shore Child Care Resource Center at 410-742-9245.

Find Your Delmarva Roots

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU welcomes the Maryland Genealogical Society annual seminar "Tracing Your Delmarva Ancestors" Friday-Saturday, September 20-21.

Co-sponsored by the Lower Delmarva Genealogical Society and the Nabb Research Center, the conference provides an opportunity for Delmarva researchers, whether professional or novice, to learn family history research from some of the best historians and researchers in the field.

Sessions include a wide variety of topics including Beginning Your Search for Ancestors; Slavery and the Underground Railroad on the Eastern Shore of Maryland; A Survey of Church Records of the Delmarva from the 17th and 18th Centuries; and Researching Your Delmarva Ancestors on the Internet.

The cost for Friday and Saturday is $50 or $25 per day; the Friday night banquet is $25. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit the Nabb Research Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Miller Wins Governor's Service Award

Anita Miller, a second year ShoreCorps/PALS member at SU, recently won the Education and Literacy category for the annual Governor's Volunteer and Service Awards. The honor was given for providing teaching, tutoring or assistance in an educational setting, adult literacy or English as a second language.

Miller was honored at the Maryland Hall for the Creative Arts in Annapolis. Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend made a presentation to all of the winners of the Volunteer and Service Awards and presented Miller with her award.

As part of her ShoreCorps/PALS assignment, Miller works with the Somerset County Department of Social Services. In 2001, she was also instrumental in starting a service project on Smith Island to clean up the museum and surrounding areas in preparation for tourist season.

Cuban Guitarist Manuel Barrueco Performs

One of the world's most accomplished classical guitarists, Manuel Barrueco performs in concert Tuesday, October 1, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

This is Barrueco's second appearance at SU. Consistently described as possibly the finest classical guitarist of our time, his tours take him to some of the most important musical centers around the globe each season.

Barrueco, a native of Cuba, has performed with such orchestras as the Los Angeles Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Barcelona Symphony, the Baltimore Symphony and others. Earlier this year he toured the U.S. and also completed his ninth tour of Japan. With a repertoire ranging from Latin American to Lennon and McCartney, Barrueco has released over a dozen recordings on EMI.

Barrueco emigrated to the United States in 1967 and later completed his studies at Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore where he teaches presently. His master classes attract students from all over the world.

SU's Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs sponsors this concert as part of the fall Latin-American Culture Series. The event is free and open to the public. For information call 410-543-6271.

Japanese Study-Abroad Scholarships

The Bridging Scholarship program administered by the Association of Teachers of Japanese will award 30 scholarships to American students participating in study-abroad programs in Japan that begin in spring 2003. Undergraduate students majoring in any field of study and attending any recognized exchange or independent program in Japan are eligible to apply for these scholarships.

Recipients of Bridging Scholarships receive stipends ranging from $2,500 to $4,000, depending on the length of their study programs in Japan. The deadline for applications is Thursday, October 3. Selection will be based on academic potential and financial need.

Information and downloadable application forms are available at ATJ's Web site: www.colorado.edu/ealld/atj/Bridging/scholarships.html.

National Scholars Honor Society Scholarship

The National Scholars Honor Society is an academic honors organization dedicated to actively encouraging, recognizing and rewarding high academic achievement in all areas of study. Scholarship eligibility is determined for each new applicant at the time of acceptance and is reviewed biannually. It is the responsibility of each member to update their file on an annual basis to remain in the scholarship eligibility pool. Scholarships are funded by private grants and membership fees. Apply online at www.CollegeHonors.org.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Shipper Earns Booth Company Award

Dr. Frank Shipper has been awarded special recognition by The Booth Company of Boulder, CO, for his expertise in the scientific evaluation of Clark Wilson Task Cycle 360 survey feedback instruments, and in the development management and leadership training programs.

Shipper teaches strategic management and organizational behavior in the Perdue School of Business.

Important December Commencement News

Seniors - Graduation Application Deadline

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in May 2003 or summer 2003 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, October 4, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to his/her last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

Information for December 2002 Graduates

Admission for commencement will be by ticket only. Each December graduate will be provided nine guest tickets. Unfortunately, there are no extra tickets available.

Football Rolls to First 3-0 Start Since 1986

The offensive juggernaut continued for the football team as the Gulls ran to a 45-20 win at Methodist last week. Salisbury amassed 29 first downs, 477 yards rushing and 585 yards in total offense while improving to 3-0 on the season. The Gulls have scored 120 points through three games.

Senior RB Tony Ellis recorded the third-highest rushing total of his career in last week's game, finishing with 181 yards. He scored on touchdown runs of four- and 15-yards. QB Dustin Johnson added 147 yards on 16 attempts, while FB Reggie Boyce finished with 65 yards, including a 13-yard TD run. Johnson rushed for one touchdown and threw for another, connecting with WR Kevin Belt on a 27-yard scoring toss.

The high-octane Sea Gulls are averaging 384.3 yards per game rushing, third best in the nation in the latest NCAA statistics.

Salisbury hosts Greensboro at Sea Gull Stadium on Saturday, September 28. Kick-off time is 1 p.m.

The field hockey team won its first six contests before suffering its first loss of the season at No. 2 ranked Messiah last week. The Gulls lost 2-1 in overtime. Salisbury, ranked sixth in the nation, hosts Villa Julie and York in home games this week.

The men's soccer team will likely fall from its No. 7 national ranking following a loss and a tie last week. The Gulls (3-1-1) dropped a 1-0 overtime decision to Eastern, then battled to a 1-1 overtime tie against Shenandoah. Salisbury begins conference play against Gallaudet this week, then steps out-of-conference again with a visit to North Carolina Wesleyan on Saturday.

The volleyball team finished 2-2 and third place in its five-team Sea Gull Invitational last week. The Gulls, 8-8 overall, posted wins over Richard Stockton and Johns Hopkins, but lost to tournament-winner Frostburg State and runnerup Catholic.

The men's cross country team finished ninth among 35 teams and the women were 15th among 33 at the NYU Invitational last week. Steve Jacobs (30th) and Andy Marrocco (42nd) paced the men, while Kelsey Scheitlin (68th) and Amy Lang (69th) were the top finishers for the women.

The women's soccer team will try to win its third straight game and remain unbeaten in the conference when it hosts St. Mary's at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

USM Women's Forum To Host 13th Annual Conference

The University System of Maryland Women's Forum will host its 13th Annual Conference, "Steps for Success," from 8:45 a.m.-4:30 p.m. on Friday, October 18, at Martin's Crosswinds in Greenbelt, MD. The conference features keynote addresses by Maryland State Treasurer Nancy K. Kopp; Kathryn B. Freeland, chair and CEO, RGII Technologies, Inc.; and Dr. Gloria A. Wilder-Braithwaite, director, Mobile Health Programs, Children's Health Project of Washington, D.C. USM Chancellor William E. Kirwan will bring greetings at the luncheon.

Conference participants will attend workshops geared toward teaching the "steps for success"—from career planning, negotiating and leadership to yoga, self-defense and achieving balance between work and home. A "Marketplace" will be open throughout the day for those interested in purchasing goods or services.

The cost for the conference (including the luncheon) is $60, payable by check to the USM Women's Forum or via budget transfer. All participants must register in advance by September 30. Registration forms may be downloaded from the USM Women's Forum Web site, www.inform.umd.edu/usmwf/conference.

Waters Enjoys Prolific Spring/Summer

Dr. Michael Waters, professor of English, attended the seventh annual Cultural Symposium, "Selves in Exile, Selves at Home," at Ege University in Izmir, Turkey, in May.

In June he completed a brief residency at Pogor House in Iasi, Romania, where he was interviewed for the literary journal Convorbiri Literare.

In July he taught at the Catskill Poetry Workshop at Hartwick College in Oneonta, NY.

Waters' recent book, Parthenopi: New and Selected Poems, is reviewed in the current issue of World Literature Today. New poems appear in the current (spring) issue of The Gettysburg Review and the June issue of Poetry. Other new poems will appear in The Gettysburg Review, The Kenyon Review and The Southern Review, among other journals.

His article, "The Bicycle and the Soul," is forthcoming in The Georgia Review.

ShoreCorps/PALS Grads Make a Difference

Commencement speaker Norman Conway, member of the Maryland House of Delegates from the 38th District, recently encouraged the 29 graduates of the ShoreCorps/PALS program at SU to help "America come together and be an even greater community" on the eve of the first anniversary of September 11.

Conway congratulated the graduates for "working to serve a commitment, a pledge, that will be integral to building stronger communities locally, nationally and globally."

The ShoreCorps/PALS graduation marks the end of the program's seventh year. In its initial year, 16 participants, men and women of an array of ages, ethnicities and educational backgrounds, began mentoring and tutoring area youth at numerous public and non-profit agencies. When it begins its eighth year this fall, some 40 new members will continue that tradition.

During 2001-02, ShoreCorps/PALS mentored some 600 at-risk youth including pregnant and parenting teens in area schools, county health departments and family support centers. Site supervisors report some 400 of those youth improved self-esteem and life skills.

PALS members mentored and tutored over 1,700 students. Site supervisors report almost 900 students improved school attendance or academic performance by at least one letter grade by the end of the school year.

Conflict resolution skills were taught to some 850 at-risk youth, with over 160 showing improvement in their behavioral responses to conflict. Nearly 300 at-risk youth were advised about the hazards of drugs, alcohol and smoking.

For more information about ShoreCorps/PALs, please contact Linda Beall at 410-543-6137.

Fafoutis Is Social Science Review Editor

Dean Fafoutis, a member of the history faculty was recently elected editor of the International Social Science Review by the board of trustees of Pi Gamma Mu, the international honor society of the social sciences.

The Review is the journal of the honor society. With the acceptance of the editorship, the journal will be housed on SU's campus and will provide members of the honor society the opportunity to publish articles, monographs and reviews.

Mansfield Earns Fondes Scholar Award

Melissa Mansfield, a junior nursing major, is the eighth annual recipient of the Fondes Scholar Award in Nursing given each fall. This scholarship is funded from a memorial donation made by Tabitha Parker Fondes' son, Robert Parker Fondes. Mrs. Fondes was born in Parsonsburg, MD, graduated in 1915 from Mercer Hospital School of Nursing in Trenton, NJ, and was a successful registered nurse for over 50 years.

Mansfield was chosen based on her outstanding scholastic ability with an impressive 3.86 cumulative GPA. "She possesses all of the qualities desired in a Fondes Scholar and has demonstrated a strong commitment to her studies thus far in the nursing major. We look forward to her continuing the tradition of academic excellence as a Fondes scholar," stated Mary DiBartolo, scholarship coordinator for the Department of Nursing. For more information, contact DiBartolo at 410-543-6403.

Hoffman Goes Global

Dr. Dick Hoffman, professor of management in the Perdue School of Business, was a recent reviewer of the "Code for Global" e-work developed by the Centre for Social Innovation in Vienna, Austria, for the European Commission.

Additionally this summer, Hoffman reviewed a manuscript for the Journal of Management Information Systems and completed a "Global Franchising" summer research grant; the article based on this research has been submitted to the Journal of Services Marketing.

Visions of Southern Mexico Exhibited

As part of SU's fall Latin American Culture Series, the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs is sponsoring an exhibit titled "Pueblo del Volcan" (People of the Volcano). The exhibit features photographs of Southern Mexico by Washington-area photographer Grace Taylor.

Taylor, who favors documentary photography involving people, traveled from Oaxaca across the Sierra Madre del Sur, through a cloud forest to reach the tiny village of Cuiyachapa on Citlaltepetl, an 18,000-foot volcano which is the highest peak in Mexico. "The people of Cuiyachapa were so friendly, open and tolerant of my inability to speak their language," said Taylor "I don't think any North Americans ever stopped there before. ... They allowed me to see and photograph a part of Mexico that I had not seen on previous trips, and the day was truly magical."

The exhibit runs September 27-October 25 in the Atrium Gallery of the Guerrieri University Center. The gallery's hours are Tuesday-Friday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. The gallery is closed on Monday and the weekends.

An opening reception featuring the mariachi group Los Tres Amigos will be held on Friday, September 27, from 5-7 p.m. The mariachis and dancers from the SU Dance Company—replete with traditional costumes—will also perform during a Latin-American dinner in the Commons that evening. The cost of the meal is $8.50.

For more information, call 410-548-2547 or visit www.salisbury.edu.

Wang Awarded Welcome Fellowship

Dr. Xiaohong (Sophie) Wang has been awarded the Welcome Fellowship by the Maryland Higher Education Commission. Wang, a native of China, received her doctorate from the University of Victoria, British Columbia, Canada. She joined SU in 2001 and is assistant professor in the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science. The Welcome Fellowship is a $20,000 grant, paid over a three-year period.

Wang's research involves "object-oriented" programming in scientific computing. She plans to build a library of selected mathematical functions—or "objects"—that are commonly used in scientific computing. These functions will be used in the fields of meteorology, oceanography and climate research by bridging a gap between computer programming and scientific applications.

In addition, her work will focus on developing a programming framework for a multidisciplinary computer model of the Chesapeake Bay.

"Dr. Wang's cutting-edge research represents the best of the best," said Provost David H. Buchanan. "Her work is indicative of the increasingly high standards being set at Salisbury University."

The fellowship is named for Dr. Henry C. Welcome, who served on the State Board for Higher Education, the predecessor of the Maryland Higher Education Commission. He was active in politics and civil rights with his wife, the late Senator Verda F. Welcome, the first black woman in the United States to be elected senator.

Last year, Dr. Anjali Pandey of SU's Department of English was a recipient of a Welcome Fellowship.

Groutt Participates In Oxford Round Table

SU's director of housing and residence life, Dr. Kathleen Groutt, participated in the Oxford Round Table at St. Anthony's College in the University of Oxford, England, from June 30-July 5.

The Round Table provides a forum for higher education personnel to discuss current issues facing state and national systems of education. Topics included the financing of higher education, the impact of technology and distance learning on higher education, assessment and strategic planning, and student retention.

Groutt served on a panel which reacted to a presentation titled "Enhancing the Quality of the Learning Environment: An Innovative, Theme-Based, Longitudinal Learning Experience for Students."

Senkbeil Shares Combustible Demos

Dr. Edward Senkbeil, professor of chemistry, recently attended the 17th Biennial Conference on Chemical Education held at Western Washington University in Bellingham, WA.

Senkbeil has developed several chemical demonstrations at SU which are not only entertaining, but also useful in exploring the factors affecting chemical reactions. At the conference, Senkbeil presented "Laboratory Demonstrations for Teaching Combustion" as part of the workshop, "Chemical Demos and Tricks of the Trade."

Senkbeil uses a variety of demonstrations in the courses he teaches at SU to develop student interests and student concepts of chemical principles.

Latin America Series Focuses On Amazon Deforestation

Dr. Jill Caviglia-Harris, assistant professor of environmental and natural resource economics, lectures on "Development of the Brazilian Amazon: The Impact of Colonists on Deforestation and Urbanization" on Wednesday, October 2, at 7 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center. Her talk is part of the Latin America Lecture Series.

Caviglia-Harris is the principal investigator of a National Science Foundation grant developed to investigate the diffusion of sustainable agriculture in the Brazilian Amazon and analyze how different agricultural techniques impact deforestation in the region. Over the past six years, she has returned to the Amazon to interview local farmers in Brazil and gather data on their farming practices. She has published Sustainable Agriculture in Brazil: Economic Development and Deforestation and various journal articles relating household-level data to economic and environmental policy in this region.

The event is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Admission is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6271.

Kaleidoscope Children's Exhibit at Centre

Kaleidoscope, a magical place where children are encouraged to stretch their imaginations and express their own personal creativity, is coming to Salisbury.

Created and funded by Hallmark, Kaleidoscope is a unique program that has nurtured the creativity of nearly five million children since 1969. Kaleidoscope is coming to Salisbury, October 7-20, under the local co-sponsorship of the Ward Museum of Art and SU. Just look for the playful, purple pavilion located in the parking lot of the Centre at Salisbury.

During its stay, children explore and create inside an imaginative world that unfolds from two colorful trucks. Puzzles, star glasses and airplanes are just some of the fun projects the children choose from. Kids can take a starry journey into a cosmic outer space adventure and make some extraterrestrial art, and step inside Kaleidoscope's "aquajungle" to create even more fun art from mountains of magical Hallmark materials!

Weekday sessions are reserved for elementary school groups. On Saturday-Sunday, October 12-13, and Friday-Sunday, October 18-20, Kaleidoscope will be open to all ages from noon-4 p.m. and it's free. Dads, moms, grandparents, aunts, uncles and friends will be invited to enjoy creating alongside their children during these weekend Family Creation Celebrations.

New Comm. Arts Professor Is Widely Published

Dr. Chrys Egan, an assistant professor in the Communication and Theatre Arts Department, has written four textbook ancillaries that are due out by the end of the year.

Her book Communication Research and Instructor's Manual and Test Bank accompanies Communication Research by D.W. Stacks and J.E. Hocking and has a December publication date. She is the author of St. Martin's Guide to Public Speaking Student Workbook and St. Martin's Guide to Public Speaking Test Bank. She is co-author of the St. Martin's Guide to Public Speaking Instructor's Manual. All have a November publication date.

Additionally, Egan's review of C.J. Hamelink's The Ethics of Cyberspace (Sage, 2000) will appear in an upcoming issue of the Southern Communication Journal. Her article, "(Un)Ethical Actions: Activities on Deceptive Personal Acts, Advertisements and Speeches," which is based on the teaching demonstration she did for her SU job interview last spring, appears in the September edition of the Iowa Journal of Communication. Her article, "The Chilling Effect on Dissension Speech on America's Campuses after September 11," appears in an upcoming issue of Free Speech Yearbook.

She will also be presenting academic papers and chairing panels at two conferences this fall: the National Communication Association in New Orleans, LA, and the Popular Culture Association in the South in Charlotte, NC. She co-presents the paper, "My Professors Wear Leather in Their Punk Band: A Look Through the Johari Window at Discordant Self Identities," with her husband John Egan, a new adjunct professor in biology at SU. The paper examines being both professor and alternative musicians.

Egan received her Doctorate of Philosophy in mass communications from Florida State University, her M.A. in communication theory and research from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and her B.A. in English from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. She comes to SU from the University of Georgia where she was an Honors Fellow and instructor in the departments of Speech Communication and English.

Perdue School Day Is Oct. 3

The Perdue School of Business holds its annual business meeting, open and free to all current and prospective students, on Thursday, October 3, at 3:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. Iannis (John) Dikos (class of '99), winner of the 1999 Richard Bernstein Achievement Award, recognizing the outstanding business plan in an annual entrepreneurial competition among SU University students, is the keynote speaker.

The meeting is an opportunity for students and undeclared majors from throughout the University to orient themselves to the business school, named in honor of agri-businessman and philanthropist Frank Perdue. Highlights of the meeting include presentations by the various department heads from the undergraduate and graduate programs and student services.

An Expo immediately follows the meeting in the Great Hall to provide an opportunity for students and anyone interested in a business career to learn about the Perdue School, meet professors and network with other students.

Each academic department, student services and student organizations are represented at the Expo showcasing the Perdue School's variety of resources including the Global Program, Applied Business Learning Experience Program, master's program and academic services. Regional companies are also present to discuss job/internship opportunities.

Dikos, a 1999 graduate of the Perdue School, is co-founder of Capital Avenue, a commercial financing conduit for insurance agents. The company was sold in early 2002 to the National Cooperative Bank. He now serves as director of business development for NCB Capital, a division of National Cooperative Bank. NCB Capital provides financial products and services to companies nationwide.

Dikos also enjoys consulting with entrepreneurs in various industries. Most recently, he is involved with a film venture called Making Euphoria. According to Dikos, "this is the first film project to combine neuroscience and a practical philosophy on the meaning and pursuit of happiness." The venture is funded by the National Institutes of Health.

For more information, please call the Perdue School at 410-543-6316.

Graduating Perdue School Students

All undergraduate Perdue School students planning to graduate in May 2003 must fill out a graduation application form at the Registrar's Office by Friday, October 4. Anyone in the Perdue School who wishes to change his/her major from business administration with a concentration in finance, management or marketing to a major in finance, management or marketing must come to Holloway Hall Room 005, the Perdue School Student Services Center, to fill out the paperwork to make that change. Students changing to the new majors must meet the requirements of the current (2001-03) catalogue. Contact Lee Townshend at MLTownshend@salisbury.edu if you have questions.

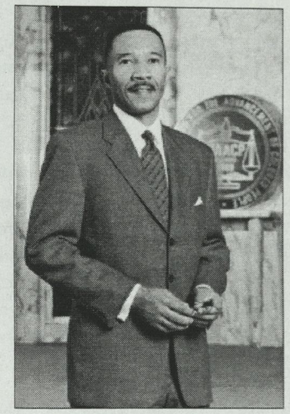
NAACP Leader Discusses 'Political Empowerment'

Kweisi Mfume, president and chief executive officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), speaks on Monday, October 7, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. Mfume's topic is "Political Empowerment and the Civil Rights Agenda." The public is cordially invited.

"It has long been a wish of SU's student chapter of the NAACP to bring Kweisi Mfume to campus," said Vaughn White, advisor and director of SU's Office of Multiethnic Student Services. "With the cooperation of many sponsoring departments on campus, we're proud to have him here. We expect a great evening."

In 1996 Mfume gave up his seat in the United States Congress to assume the presidency of the NAACP after being unanimously elected by its board of directors. He had, for 10 years, represented Maryland's Seventh Congressional District.



Kweisi Mfume

Born and raised in Baltimore, Mfume became politically active as a freshman at Morgan State University where he served as editor of the school's newspaper and as head of the Black Student Union. He graduated magna cum laude.

In 1984, he earned a master's degree in liberal arts with a concentration in international studies from Johns Hopkins University.

As Mfume's community involvement grew, so did his popularity as an activist, organizer and radio commentator. He translated that approval into a grassroots election victory when he won a seat on the Baltimore City Council in 1979 by a margin of just three votes. During the next seven years, Mfume led efforts to diversify city government, improve community safety, enhance minority business development and divest city funds from the apartheid government of South Africa. In 1986, he was decisively elected to the Congress.

As a member of the House of Representatives, Mfume consistently advocated landmark minority business and civil rights legislation. He successfully co-sponsored and helped to pass the Americans with Disabilities Act. He authorized the minority contracting and employment amendments to the Financial Institutions Reform and Recovery Act. He strengthened the Equal Credit Opportunity Act and amended the Civil Rights Act of 1991 to apply the

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in May 2003 or summer 2003 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, October 4, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to his/her last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

National Scholars Honor Society Scholarship

The National Scholars Honor Society is an academic honors organization dedicated to actively encouraging, recognizing and rewarding high academic achievement in all areas of study. Scholarship eligibility is determined for each new applicant at the time of acceptance and is reviewed biannually. It is the responsibility of members to update their file on an annual basis to remain in the scholarship eligibility pool. Scholarships are funded by private grants and membership fees. Apply online at www.CollegeHonors.org.

act to U.S. citizens working for American-based companies abroad. He also sponsored legislative initiatives banning assault weapons and establishing stalking as a federal crime.

Mfume served two successful years as chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus and later served as the Caucus' chair of the Task Force to Preserve Affirmative Action. During his last term in Congress, he was appointed by the House Democratic Caucus as the vice chairman for communications.

Since assuming the position of president and CEO of the nation's oldest and largest civil rights organization, Mfume has raised the standards and expectations of NAACP branches nationwide and has worked with the NAACP volunteers across the country to help usher in a whole new generation of civil rights advocacy. His five point action agenda which encompasses civil rights, political empowerment, educational excellence, economic development and youth outreach, has given the NAACP a clear and compelling blueprint for the 21st century.

Mfume's background in broadcasting includes 13 years in radio. For the last seven years, he has hosted the award-winning television show, The Bottom Line. He is the recipient of seven honorary doctoral degrees and hundreds of awards, proclamations and citations. His best-selling autobiography is titled No Free Ride.

His SU visit is sponsored by the University's Hargreaves Civic Engagement Fund, Union of African-American Students, the student chapter of the NAACP, the offices of Vice President of Student Affairs and Multiethnic Student Services, and the Fulton School of Liberal Arts.

Free tickets are available at the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk for SU or University of Maryland Eastern Shore students, faculty and staff. They may receive two free tickets with presentation of a University ID. Through Monday, October 7, free tickets are available for the general public. The night of the lecture, ticket holders need to be seated by 6:45 p.m. At that time open seating becomes available to non-ticket holders on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information call 410-548-4503.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

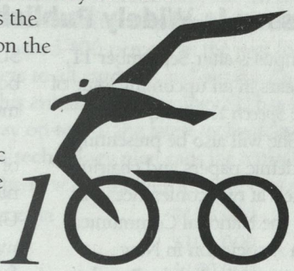
Graduates Get Your Study Abroad Sash

Students graduating in December who have studied abroad while in college have the opportunity to commemorate that learning experience at graduation. International Student Services is taking orders for graduation sashes that represent the country in which students studied. The colors and design of these sashes are based on the official flags of nations. The cost is $30 and samples are available in International Student Services on the second floor of Guerrieri University Center.

In order to receive the sashes by graduation, all orders must be received by Friday, October 18. For more information, please contact Carol Wellinghoff at 410-548-4503.

Sea Gull Century Arrives Oct. 12

The 14th annual Sea Gull Century on Saturday, October 12, brings nearly 7,000 cyclists to Delmarva, where they'll boost the economy and enjoy the Shore's scenery on a 100-kilometer or 100-mile ride that is the largest single-day tourism event on the Eastern Shore.



This year's Century offers two routes: the Assateague Century (100 miles) and the UMES Metric (63 miles). These rides follow the same basic routes and rest stops offered in years past. Both routes begin and end at Salisbury University.

For the fifth year, an original limited-edition artwork by a local artist adorns the Sea Gull Century brochure. This year, Lynne Lockhart depicts an 1893 highwheeler as it would appear in Berlin, MD, during the early 1900s. The artwork is available for sale through the University Galleries at 410-548-2547.

For information on the Sea Gull Century, please call the Salisbury University Public Relations Office at 410-543-6030, or visit www.seagullcentury.org.

Join a Theatre Bus Trip

The Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs offers three bus trips to theatre productions in Washington, D.C., as part of its fall Latin American Culture Series.

On Friday, October 11, a bus travels to the Warner Theatre for a performance of Ballet Folklorico de Mexico with artistic director Amalia Hernandez. Tickets for SU students, faculty and staff are $25, or $40 for community residents.

On Sunday, October 20, a bus travels to the Gala Hispanic Theatre for a performance in Spanish of El lugar ideal by Hector Quinteros. Tickets for SU students, faculty and staff are $20, or $35 for community residents.

In addition, a bus travels to the Shakespeare Theatre for a performance of The Winter's Tale on Tuesday, October 15. Tickets for SU students, faculty and staff are $20, or $35 for community residents.

For more information call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006.

Salisbury Athletics Hall of Fame Set to Add Three

SU will be adding three new members to its Athletics Hall of Fame during Homecoming/Family Weekend festivities in November. The newest inductees will be officially honored at a dinner banquet on Friday, November 1. The 2002 inductees are:

Harry "Clark" Cugler '50, a three-year letterwinner on the soccer, baseball and basketball teams after transferring from the University of Maryland College Park. Cugler served as team captain in both soccer and baseball and was selected as the University's "Best Male Athlete" in 1950.

Cheryl Ish '92, a four-sport athlete who earned 13 varsity letters. Ish was a three-time field hockey all-American and the team's leading scorer in each of her four seasons. She also graduated with three school records in track & field and ranks among the career scoring leaders in lacrosse.

Andre Foreman '92, a two-time basketball all-American who was also named as the NCAA Division III player of the year in 1992. Foreman led the Sea Gulls in scoring and rebounding in each of his four seasons, was a four-time team MVP and still ranks as the all-time scoring leader in NCAA Division III history.

The Hall of Fame was initiated in 1985 to honor those who have made outstanding contributions to Salisbury's athletic heritage. The addition of these three inductees brings the Hall's membership to 76.

Selection for the Hall of Fame is the highest honor that the University can bestow upon one of its former student-athletes or coaches. To be eligible, an individual must have graduated from the University at least 10 years earlier or be retired as a coach.

Reservations for the induction banquet are available through the SU Alumni Office at 410-543-6042. The cost is $25 per person and reservations are required. The evening begins with a cocktail reception at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Upon induction, each honoree will have a permanent plaque added to the Hall of Fame display case in the Maggs Physical Activities Center.

Chesapeake Wildfowl Expo Returns to Salisbury

the Ward® Museum
Salisbury University

The Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art hosts its annual Chesapeake Wildfowl Expo on Friday-Saturday, October 4-5, at the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art on Schumaker Drive. The weekend is two days of buy-sell-and-trade action, filling the Museum's parking lot with an eclectic mix of fine antique decoys, hunting items, folk art and antiques. "It's a something for everyone market atmosphere," said Kenneth Basile, Ward Museum director. Free appraisals of decoys and sporting collectibles are also available for those people who wish to know the worth of their collections.

Saturday, October 5, has two events for decoy enthusiasts. The third annual Ward Museum "Old Birds" Antique Decoy Competition is from 1-3 p.m. Working decoys made prior to 1950 will be judged in 10 categories for a chance at prize money totaling $1,500. The 10 winning decoys are then exhibited at the museum as the "Best in Region" traditional hunting decoys. Sponsors include Alan Haid, Henry Stansbury and Vance Strausburg.

Also on Saturday, the fifth annual Chesapeake Challenge Shootin' Stool Competition will be judged on Schumaker Pond at noon. The competition is expected to bring carvers from around the mid-Atlantic region to compete for cash prizes, ribbons and plaques in floating decoy and shorebird divisions, as well as the new categories featuring woodpecker and waterfowl silhouette decoys. The event is sponsored, in part, by Cousins, Jaymes Co., Ernie Muehlmatt, the Refuge Motor Inn, Stoney Point Decoys and Wildfowl Carving Magazine,

At 5 p.m. on Saturday, the Ward Museum will holds a Benefit Sale and Eastern Shore Deck Party. Admission is free and the evening is a perfect opportunity to tour the "Sporting Dog" exhibit, as well as its new Maryland Junior Duck Stamp exhibit.

"The Expo should be fun for the whole family," added Basile. If anyone would like to donate an item for the benefit sale on Saturday or would like more information, please contact 410-742-4988, Ext. 106.

'Sporting Dog Art' Reviewed

by Ursula Ehrhardt

A special exhibition of "Sporting Dog Art," on view in the Ward Museum's Le May Gallery through October 13, gives area viewers the opportunity to see a subject rarely shown in museums.

Consisting of 35 works by 21 artists, the exhibition mixes paintings and drawings by well-known, late 19th and early 20th century artists who specialized in the representation of sporting dogs (mostly pointers, setters and spaniels), with recent works, including several small bronzes, by contemporary artists.

According to William Secord, author of The Dog in Art 1840-1940: A Social History, late 18th and early 19th century pictures of sporting dogs generally focused on the dogs' performance or achievements in the hunt. A late example of this type is the charcoal drawing by Edmund H. Osthaus (1858-1928) that shows a cropped, close-up view of a setter holding a grouse in its mouth while leaping over a log.

In the mid-19th century, as interest grew in classifying and improving the various breeds of dogs, and in having dogs compete at field trials and in showing them at dog shows, artists developed what Secord called the "pure-bred dog portrait." This focuses on the appearance of a specific dog, not only showing how it conforms to the characteristics of the breed, but also conveying something of its individual personality.

Among the finest of such pure-bred dog portraits are those by Percival Rosseau (1859-1937). "English Setters," in Rosseau's later, more impressionistic style, depicts two dogs pointing game, one backing the other, in a field of high grass bordered by distant trees. The dogs are shown in great detail and are clearly differentiated from one another in color, markings and pointing stance; whereas, the landscape features are much more loosely painted.

Recent paintings of dogs pointing game have a less portrait-like, more generalized character. Robert K. Abbett's "Point of Honor," for example, emphasizes the unity of the pointing spaniels with nature, rather than depicting them as unique members of specific breeds subtly set apart from their surroundings.

The small bronzes also have this generalized character, placing greater emphasis on the characteristics of the breed than on the individual dog.

The exhibition includes several recent examples of what Secord called the "pet portrait," which shows only the head and shoulders of the dog, emphasizing its individual appearance and character. Typical examples are John Atherton's "Springer Spaniel" and Louis Frisino's "Chesapeake Bay Retriever with Canvasback," both done in watercolor in an extraordinarily detailed, realistic style.

Rounding out the exhibition are several oils and watercolors of hunting scenes, mostly recent works. With the exception of "Foxhounds" by the English artist Thomas Blinks (1853-1910), their focus is not on the dogs, but on the sense of companionship between the hunters and their interaction with nature.

This is a most interesting exhibition of a once popular subject that is now in the early stages of a revival, with increasing appeal to both collectors and the general public.

The Ward Museum, located on Schumaker Drive at Beaglin Park Drive, is open Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., and Sunday, noon-5 p.m. For more information, call 410-742-4988.

New Tech Fee Explained

SU adopted a technology fee in fall 2002. This $50 per semester fee is the first in the history of the campus. "Over the past few weeks I have been getting some reaction to the technology fee. The questions and comments I have received indicate that we need to let students know how the new fee is used," said Jerome Waldron, SU chief information officer.

Since 1998 there has been an explosion of technology use on the campus. The University network includes over 7,000 active data ports; there are now 73 SMART classrooms (up from four in 1997); e-mail accounts have increased to over 10,000 per semester; Internet bandwidth costs have increased 400 percent in the past four years; and the University now licenses and provides the most popular Microsoft software products to all students and faculty. And the addition of Henson Hall has added over $800,000 of new technology to the campus. With this enhanced technology SU has been honored as one of Yahoo Magazine's Most Wired Campuses.

The on-going challenge is to stay on top of the latest technology and to be sure that the University can both maintain and replace it when it begins to age. The campus technology plan calls for replacing lab computers and SMART room technology every three years.

Some of the annual costs that the new technology fee supports are:

Microsoft software licenses and media	$130,000	Computer lab computers	$75,000
Internet bandwidth costs	$104,000	WebCT licensing costs	$18,000
SMART room equipment	$180,000	Wireless laptop program in the Blackwell Library	$15,000

There are also personnel support costs for SMART rooms, the IT Helpdesk, Computer Lab student monitors and staff, and telecommunications staff. The technology fee does not cover these costs. According to the Campus Computing Survey 2001, students at over 65 percent of public U.S. colleges and universities are charged a technology fee.

Waldron explained why the fee is now needed, "The University budget cannot keep up with the escalating cost of campus technology. Therefore, the technology fee is critical if SU is to continue to encourage the growth in use of technology. Ultimately, the best technology will lead to the best-prepared graduates."

"These are challenging financial times for students, families and the University. Financial ups and downs are inevitable, but our focus on providing quality technology and preparing students for their careers and lives after graduation cannot falter. I thank the students of SU for accepting the additional burden of the technology fee and assure you that you are making a wise investment."

Posts and Positions

Assistant Professor of Mathematics Education

The Department of Education seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty appointment in mathematics education at the assistant professor level. Primary duties will include teaching K-8 mathematics methods and other courses in the undergraduate and master's programs, student advising, service to the department and University, engaging in scholarship related to math education, and ongoing involvement with the education community, especially in the local professional development schools.

The successful candidate will have K-12 teaching experience and the potential for relevant scholarship. An earned doctorate in mathematics education or a closely related field is preferred, but candidates nearing completion of doctoral studies may be considered for an initial appointment at the instructor level. Desirable qualifications include documented expertise in one or more of the following: college teaching, inquiry-based pedagogy, educational technology, student teacher supervision, early childhood education and/or professional development school involvement. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience.

Send letter addressing position description and qualifications, curriculum vita, unofficial transcripts, and names and current contact information for three references to Dr. Ed Robeck, Math Search Committee. Review of applications will commence Friday, November 1, and will continue until the position is filled.

Michelson and Hutchinson Are SU's Distinguished Faculty

Two members of the Seidel School are this year's winners of the Distinguished Faculty Award. Honorees must demonstrate outstanding achievement in teaching, service and professional development including scholarship and research. This year's winners are Dr. Nancy Michelson, associate professor in the Department of Education, and Dr. Victoria Hutchinson, associate professor in the Department of Physical Education.

Michelson has devoted her career to championing a child's right to read, from assisting children and their teachers with innovative classwork and programs, to mining the canon of children's literature, from nursery rhymes to Harry Potter, for ways to entice the young into a world of imagination and thought.

Since joining the SU faculty in 1995, Michelson has played a pivotal role in developing reading programs, directly and indirectly affecting the training of hundreds of new and veteran reading teachers, and through them, thousands of Eastern Shore children.

"I believe I was nominated for this award because of my dedication to serving the needs of my students," she said. This dedication has most often been expressed by forging connections between students and the families they will serve as classroom teachers, between the University and local community, and introducing to often hard-working and time-strapped Eastern Shore educators helpful ideas and programs culled from the field of reading nationally.

A few highlights of her work include:

- Founding director of the John and Florence Simonds May Literacy Lab to help area children in their struggles to learn to read.
- Coordinator of the Master of Arts in Teaching Program (a collaboration with the University of Maryland Eastern Shore).
- Officer and active member with the Eastern Shore Reading Council.
- Nationally she has represented Maryland on the Field Council of the National Reading Conference and served on the Political Action Committee of the International Reading Association.
- Author of some half-dozen publications, she is a regular presenter at state and national conferences.
- She is winner of the students' Outstanding Advisor Award.

Prior to her current award nomination, Michelson was, in the words of student Rachel Elben, "In my heart, and the hearts of many of my fellow classmates, already honored as a distinguished member of the faculty."

Alumni Return to SU Classrooms

SU welcomes nearly 50 alumni, some from as far away as New York and Connecticut, back into classrooms this month to share their professional expertise with students seeking to follow in their footsteps.

"Alumni in the Classroom," October 14-18, is a week when faculty turn over the podium to alumni guest lecturers, giving students a chance to gain real-world insight from men and women who have launched successful careers after SU.

Roy Perdue, director of the Office of Alumni Relations, said this is one of the most significant programs the Alumni Association offers since it directly helps students with their goals after graduation.

"The alumni share information that money can't buy," said Perdue. "Not only can students consider the many options open to them in their current majors, some actually decide to pursue another direction as a result of the experience."

Professors can invite one or more guest speakers and many alums return to the same classroom year after year. This fall has the highest faculty participation rate ever.

Dr. Frances Kendall of the Department of Communication and Theatre Arts will host former student Aaron Talasnik ('00) in her broadcast journalism class. "Two years ago he was a student here; now he's at ESPN," Kendall said. "Bringing alumni back enables today's students to see the possibilities and think about their own bright futures!"

"Alumni in the Classroom" also has its rewards for those who return, according to Don Taylor ('73), chief information officer for Perdue Farms, Inc., who visits an information systems class taught by Dr. Karen Papke-Shields. "A strong relationship between the Perdue School of Business and Perdue Farms is very important to both organizations," Taylor said. "Participation in this event gives me an opportunity to share my experiences as CIO and also to see potential employees."

In fact, some SU students garner internships as a result of the connections they make during the week. The Career Services Center also offers open workshops on resume writing and interview skills where students from all disciplines can interact with alumni in the human resources profession.

For more information call Roy Perdue in the Office of Alumni Relations at 410-543-6042 or visit www.salisbury.edu/alumni/.

SU Earns SWAC Grants

The Salisbury Wicomico Arts Council (SWAC) distributed grants to several Salisbury University arts organizations recently. The grants are intended to enhance and improve the artistic offerings in the community.

Grants were awarded to the SU Dance Company ($2,000), WSCL-FM ($1,750), Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art ($1,000), Salisbury Symphony Orchestra ($1,750) and Salisbury Symphony Youth and Collegiate Orchestra ($1,000), and the American Association of University Women ($1,000).

SWAC's next arts grant deadline is Thursday, October 17. For more information or for application forms call 410-543-ARTS or e-mail 543arts@compuserve.com.

BTGLASS Sponsor Concert/Diversity Fair

Breaking Through GLASS (Bisexual, Transgendered, Gay, Lesbian and Straight Support) offers the following upcoming events.

On Thursday, October 10, BTGLASS sponsors Suzanne Mallow in concert at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. The event is free.

On Friday, October 11, the club's Diversity Fair is from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. under the Pergola outside Guerrieri University Center. There will be displays by various diversity and lesbian/gay/bisexual/transsexual groups.

For more information, e-mail btglasspresident@aol.com.

Disabled Mentoring Day

The Lower Eastern Shore Governor's Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities is looking for disabled high school and college students who are ready to move into the work force to take part in Disability Mentoring Day.

On Wednesday, October 16, the Lower Shore Committee will pair disabled students with mentors as part of the National Disability Mentoring Day. This will afford the students an opportunity to interact with mentors in a field that might be of interest to them.

For more information about Disability Mentoring Day call 410-548-7041.

Gorrow Is Coach of the Year: Wayne Gorrow of the women's soccer program was recently honored as one of the NCAA Division III Assistant Coaches of the Year. Gorrow has been with the program since its inception in 1994 and was presented with the award, sponsored by the AFLAC Insurance Company, prior to SU's recent home game. Pictured at the award presentation are (left to right) Assistant Coach Sarah Harding, Head Coach James Nestor, Director of Athletics Michael Vienna, Gorrow, local AFLAC representative Dick Cooley and team captain Amber Bradford.

Eastern Shore Art Auction

The National Kidney Foundation of Maryland, Eastern Shore Services, presents Eastern Shore Art Auction 2002 on Saturday, October 19, in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall at 7 p.m., following a reception at 6 p.m. The event will feature silent and live auctions of works from artists from the Eastern Shore of Virginia and Maryland, as well as the Baltimore and Annapolis areas. To be auctioned are more than 130 pieces of original work in various mediums that include acrylics, chalk pastels, digital fine art, inks, mixed media, oils, paint on paper constructions, paper collage, pencil drawings, photography, pottery, sculpture, stained glass, watercolors, woodwork and furniture. Tickets are available by calling the NKF Eastern Shore Office at 410-546-9228.

Bernstein Award Information Meeting

The Bernstein Award Competition provides $5,000 to the student who presents the best plan for a new business. Now in its 16th year, the competition provides an opportunity for every SU student—regardless of major—to develop a plan for the business of his or her dreams. The goal is to describe a proposed business so that a banker or venture capitalist would want to fund its development. Groups are encouraged to enter; and groups including students from more than one school are particularly encouraged.

Students who would like to learn more about the competition and the campus resources available to help them create their plans are invited to an information meeting on Thursday, October 17, at 3:30 in Holloway Hall Room 119. For more information contact Stephen Adams, assistant professor of management, 410-677-5058 or sbadams@salisbury.edu.

Art Department Chair Exhibits Pottery

James Hill, chair of SU's Art Department, is a featured artist in the Elements of Adornment show at The Gallery in Salisbury from October 16-November 23. An opening reception is Wednesday, October 16, from 5-8 p.m.

Hill has been creating pottery, especially large clay pots, since 1964.

The Gallery is located at the corner of Eastern Shore Drive and South Division Street. For more information and hours, call 410-742-2880.

Hutchinson, a 12-year faculty member, is "by any standard, a master teacher," said Dr. K. Nelson Butler, professor of physical education. She "brings a boundless energy and passion to her professional responsibilities … that deserves recognition."

Dance educators, colleagues and students agree. Hutchinson's dossier ranks in the top 5 percent of dance education professionals in the country, said Dr. John Wilson, professor emeritus of dance and international studies at the University of Arizona. She has created a "gem-like program which has succeeded competitively in Maryland and the region under her well-focused leadership and initiatives."

"As a scholar, as a teacher, as a colleague, Victoria is one of the best," said Karen Kohn Bradley, director of graduate studies in the Department of Dance at the University of Maryland College Park. "Victoria is … a wonderful role model for students."

Hutchinson holds three degrees in dance and has created more than 40 dance works. Her list of awards and honors include the University of Arizona Creative Achievement Award, the American Oil Company/John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts Award of Excellence for Performance, and study in India of dance and music as a Fulbright Scholar.

"One of the most dedicated capable professionals that I know—artistically, administratively and professionally," added Dr. Jane Bonbright, executive director of the National Dance Education Organization, outside of Washington, D.C.

While Hutchinson established SU's dance minor, she values her interdisciplinary work with colleagues in other departments and schools on campus, including elementary education, the performing and visual arts, and General Education. Like all artists and good educators, "she takes risks," said Dr. Patricia Richards, associate dean of the Seidel School. An innovative teacher who uses dance as a framework for examining issues of diversity, Hutchinson is a faculty mentor for integrating technology into both studio and lecture courses. Her noteworthy service includes the Board of Directors for the American College Dance Festival Association Board of Directors, chair of the 2001-02 Seidel School's Dean Search Committee and member of SU's General Education Task Force.

For young dancers, Hutchinson demonstrates a passion for her chosen field which "inspires students to go beyond a normal choreographic vision … to delve within and create from the heart," said Christiana Moore, past president of the SU Dance Company.

"My most valuable and memorable experiences in college have been those spent working with Dr. Hutchinson," added student Gretchen Lieb.

Football Gulls Remain Unbeaten

The Sea Gull football team continued its best-start in 16 years with a 41-12 win at Gallaudet last week. Senior fullback Reggie Boyce rushed for a season-high 155 yards and two touchdowns to pace the offense. Boyce scored on runs of two and 67 yards, while freshman QB Dustin Johnson added scoring passes of six yards to TE Kyle Acker and 38 yards to WR Kevin Belt. The SU defense limited the Bison to 84 total yards. Salisbury (5-0) hosts Chowan at Sea Gull Stadium Saturday.

The men's cross country team claimed its first-ever Maryland State championship, finishing first among the 12 teams entered. The Sea Gulls placed four runners among the top 15, led by freshman Will Murdoch (8th), senior Andy Marrocco (11th), junior Steve Jacobs (14th) and sophomore Brad Ellis (15th). Each also earned all-state honors by virtue of their top 15 finish. The SU women were fourth among 12 teams, with sophomore Kelsey Scheitlin (17th) registering the team's top individual showing.

The men's soccer team (7-1-1 overall) posted its second victory over a nationally-ranked opponent with a 1-0 overtime win at 13th-ranked Roanoke on Sunday. Senior CR Krauss registered the game-winner in the 102nd minute. Salisbury, ranked 20th in the most recent poll, had also defeated No. 3 Greensboro last month.

The women's soccer team (4-5) claimed its fourth straight victory with a 2-0 win over Chowan last week. Junior Kathleen Tiedemann scored both goals and freshman goalie Katie Hendrickson made two saves to record her second career shutout.

The field hockey team (9-1 overall), ranked fifth in the nation, faces a showdown with top-ranked New Jersey at home Saturday. The Gulls have won three straight since their only loss, at Messiah, on September 21. Salisbury also remains unbeaten in the Capital Athletic Conference with a 3-0 league record.

The volleyball team finished in second place in its own Salisbury Invitational Tournament last week. The Gulls finished with a 3-1 round-robin mark, losing only to tournament champion McDaniel. Seniors Rachel Bachtell and Monica McLaughlin were named to the all-tournament team for the Sea Gulls (13-9).

Whaley Honored With Alumni Association Award

The SU Alumni Association recently presented Donald Whaley, associate professor and coordinator of American studies in the Fulton School, with its Faculty Appreciation Award during Fall Convocation ceremonies. One faculty member in each of SU's four schools received the award.

Whaley has taught at SU since 1975. He holds a master's in history from Princeton University and a bachelor's in philosophy and history from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. A widely-published author, Whaley specializes in history of the South, 19th century America and social/cultural history. His work on film director Oliver Stone has received critical acclaim and is included in the Encyclopedia of Filmmakers as well as a forthcoming book from University of Kentucky Press. A contributing editor of the Literature/Film Quarterly, Whaley is also vice president of the Literature/Film Association.

One former student wrote of Whaley, "I have tried to pattern my teaching style after his, but I'm afraid it has been a pale imitation."

Each school's selection committee consisted of last year's award recipients, one other faculty member chosen by the dean, and three alumni from that school, each having different majors, backgrounds and experiences. Nominated professors must have taught full-time 10 or more years at SU and must have made lasting and significant contributions to their graduates' lives.

Alumni Relations Director Roy Perdue said, "We feel this is one of the highest honors a faculty member can receive-one coming their former students. We are proud that the University's high standards in the classroom have a lasting effect on our alumni."

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Leap into the Latin American Culture Series!

Ballet Hispanico Dances onto SU Stage

As part of its fall Latin American Culture Series, the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs presents the internationally-renowned Ballet Hispanico on Monday, October 14, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The troupe's innovative repertory fuses ballet, modern and Latin dance forms into a spirited image of contemporary Hispanic-American culture. Recognized around the world as the foremost dance interpreter of Hispanic culture in the United States, Ballet Hispanico was founded in 1970 by Artistic Director Tina Ramirez. She addresses the audience before the performance.

Acclaimed by audiences and critics alike, the company has performed for over two million people, appearing in such major venues as The Kennedy Center, Houston's Wortham Center, the Auditorium Theater in Chicago, UCLA's Royce Hall, the Annenberg Center in Philadelphia, Wolf Trap, Jacob's Pillow, Boston's Celebrity Series and The Joyce Theater. They have appeared on CBS Sunday Morning and, on NBC, Hispanics Today, Latin Access and the 1999 Hispanic Heritage Awards. International appearances include the Zurich Summer Festival in 2001 and a tour of Spain in 1998 and as well as an appearance in Seville where Ballet Hispanico represented the United States at Expo '92.

SU students, faculty, staff and community members may receive one free ticket; ID is required. All tickets will be distributed at the Guerrieri University Information Desk. Ticket holders must be seated by 6:45 p.m. on the night of the performance. At that time, open seating becomes available to non-ticket holders on a first-come, first-served basis.

The event is co-sponsored by Student Organization for Activity Planning (SOAP). For more information, call 410-543-6271.

Join a Theatre Bus Trip

The Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs offers three bus trips to theatre productions in Washington, D.C., as part of its fall Latin American Culture Series.

On Friday, October 11, a bus travels to the Warner Theatre for a performance of Ballet Folklorico de Mexico with artistic director Amalia Hernandez. Tickets for SU students, faculty and staff are $25, or $40 for community residents.

On Sunday, October 20, a bus travels to the Gala Hispanic Theatre for a performance in Spanish of El lugar ideal by Hector Quinteros. Tickets for SU students, faculty and staff are $20, or $35 for community residents.

In addition, a bus travels to the Shakespeare Theatre for a performance of The Winter's Tale on Tuesday, October 15. Tickets for SU students, faculty and staff are $20, or $35 for community residents.

For more information call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006.

Latin American Nobel Laureate Series Begins

The University presents "Readings from Gabriela Mistral" as part of its Cinco Estrallas Series on Latin America's Nobel Laureates in Literature on Thursday, October 17, at 7 p.m. at the Fireside Lounge, Guerrieri University Center. Lectures on four other "stars" are scheduled throughout the fall.

Mistral is considered one of the most accomplished Latin American women of the 20th century as author, educator and diplomat. In 1945 she was the first Latin American writer to win the Nobel and remains the only female writer to date so honored.

Dr. Carmen Jimenez, a faculty member in the Department of Modern Languages, will lead the discussion in both English and Spanish. Photocopies of the readings are available on reserve in the Blackwell Library. (Ask for the "Cinco Estrallas" file.)

Admission is free and open to the public. The event is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, call 410-543-6271.

Sea Gull Century Keeps on Rolling

The 14th annual Sea Gull Century on Saturday, October 12, brings nearly 7,000 cyclists to Delmarva, where they'll boost the economy and enjoy the Shore's scenery on a 100-kilometer or 100-mile ride that is the largest single-day tourism event on the Eastern Shore.

Starting and ending at SU, the Sea Gull Century got its start 14 years ago when 68 friends and cycling enthusiasts banded together to develop a 100-mile century ride. Ridership has grown steadily, and last year's ride attracted a record 7,406 riders. They come—some of them year after year—because of the terrain, the challenge, the food, the entertainment, the chance to explore a new area and the hundreds of volunteers who make the Sea Gull Century happen.

This year's Century offers two routes: the Assateague Century (100 miles) and the UMES Metric (63 miles). These rides follow the same basic routes and rest stops offered in years past. Both routes begin and end at SU.

A special feature this year is an exhibit and demonstration of antique bicycles by the Mt. Airy Highwheelers on Friday on campus.

For the fifth year, an original limited-edition artwork by a local artist adorns the Sea Gull Century brochure. This year, Lynne Lockhart depicts an 1893 highwheeler as it would appear in Berlin, MD, during the early 1900s. The artwork is available for sale through the University Galleries at 410-548-2547.

Proceeds from the Sea Gull Century support many student organizations and programs on campus, as well as local community groups. Exercise equipment has been purchased over the years for the SU Fitness Center with Century proceeds. Donations to the local chapter of Habitat for Humanity are approaching $100,000 as a result of contributions made through the Century. Hundreds of area school children wear bicycle helmets donated by the Century. And, SU's Perdue School has estimated the annual economic impact on the Lower Eastern Shore at $2.5 million.

The Sea Gull Century is a "Best Bicycling in America" event and was a National Century Challenge Winner in 1995 and 1993 by the League of American Bicyclists. The Sea Gull has also been named among the top 10 century rides in the nation by Bicycling magazine.

Century riders and their traveling companions begin arriving in Salisbury Friday, October 11, when there will be an informal ride to the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art. On Saturday, October 14, riders leave the University on a show-and-go start from 7-9 a.m. on one of the two routes. Sunday, October 15, caps off the weekend with informal rides to the Red Roost and Old Mill crab houses.

For information on the Sea Gull Century, please call the 410-543-6030, or visit www.seagullcentury.org.

SU Student Research Conference Poster Contest

The SU Student Research Conference (SRC) Committee needs the creative help of students to advertise the spring conference, and it will award $250 for the best poster design. Original, creative and visually-arresting posters are desired.

The poster must include the conference name, times, locations and date of the event: Salisbury University Student Research Conference, April 25, 2003, 1-7 p.m., Henson Science Hall and Wicomico Room. All posters must be submitted as 8 1/2" x 11" Adobe Illustrator, MacroMedia FreeHand, Adobe Photoshop or QuarkXPress documents. All submissions must be received by Friday, November 15. Interested students should send submissions to Dr. Jill Caviglia-Harris, Economics Department, Holloway Hall Room 304.

The contest winner will be determined by the SRC Conference Committee. The contest is not open to family members of committee members. Only SU students are invited to submit entries to this contest. Poster designs involving large copyright fees may not be ranked as highly as those without such fees.

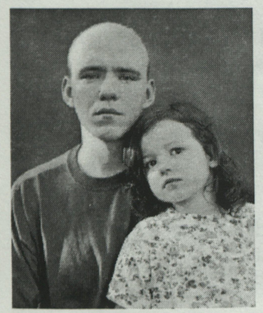
The University hosts "Children of Children: Portraits and Stories of Teenage Parents," a multimedia photographic exhibit at Fulton Hall Gallery from October 11-November 3. Photographer-artist Michael Nye will be present at the opening reception, sponsored by the American Association of University Women, on Friday, October 11, from 6-8 p.m.

Nye, a San Antonio attorney-turned-photographer, lectures internationally for the U.S. Information Agency. His images of people around the world have led to "Children of Children," and a commentary on the impact of teen pregnancy on different cultures, ages and backgrounds.

The show has traveled to more than 25 cities throughout the United States and abroad. Fifty black-and-white portraits are accompanied by audio stories of those whose lives have been dramatically affected by teenage pregnancy. Visitors can walk up to any portrait, and using headphones, listen to a four- to five-minute narrative of the subjects' difficult choices.



Funding is provided by the Community Foundation of the Eastern Shore, the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs at Salisbury University and partial funding from the Maryland State Arts Council.

Admission is free and open to the public. Gallery hours are Tuesdays-Fridays, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., and Saturday-Sunday, noon-4 p.m. For more information call 410-548-2547.

The event coincides with "A Community Dialogue on Social Justice," a Woman-to-Woman Summit sponsored by the AAUW on Saturday, October 12, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center. For more information on the Woman-to-Woman Summit call Alem Gedamu at 410-543-0189 or e-mail ngedamu@aol.com.

Sen. Sarbanes Kicks Off Lecture Series

SU inaugurates on Tuesday, October 22, a unique Maryland initiative: "The Paul S. Sarbanes Lecture Series" that will bring to its campus some of the most prominent and influential public figures in the country. The yearly series will be kicked off by a special lecture by Senator Sarbanes himself.

The Senator will address the campus community at 7 p.m. in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center. In his talk, "The Crisis in Corporate America: The Legislative Response," Senator Sarbanes will discuss the genesis and process, the delicate balance, of creating the most far-reaching reform of business practices in the last six decades.

The Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement — The PAUL S. SARBANES LECTURE SERIES at Salisbury UNIVERSITY — PACE

The lecture is free and the public is cordially invited. For more information call 410-543-6030 or visit the SU Web site at www.salisbury.edu.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

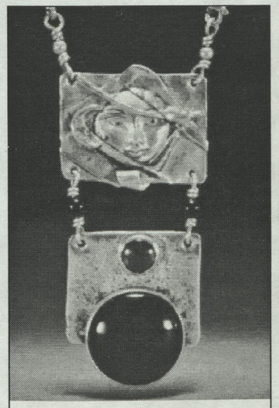
Student Speaker For December Commencement

The University Graduation Committee is again seeking eligible students to deliver a brief address to graduating seniors this December. Criteria for eligibility include a cumulative G.P.A. of 3.3 or above (including summer 2002 if applicable) and completion of at least 60 semester hours at SU, of which at least 30 semester hours are in 300- or 400-level courses (grades of A, B or C). If you are interested and eligible for consideration for this honor, pick up an application and time line in the Vice President of Student Affairs Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 212. Application and speech must be submitted by noon, Thursday, October 24.

Graduates Get Your Study Abroad Sash

Students graduating in December who have studied abroad while in college have the opportunity to commemorate that learning experience at graduation. International Student Services is taking orders for graduation sashes that represent the country in which students studied. The colors and design of these sashes are based on the official flags of nations. The cost is $30 and samples are available in International Student Services on the second floor of Guerrieri University Center.

In order to receive the sashes by graduation, all orders must be received by Friday, October 18. For more information, please contact Carol Wellinghoff at 410-548-4503.



American Craft Exhibit at Ward

An exhibition of American crafts is on display in the LaMay Gallery of the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art from October 18 to January 5. These traditional and contemporary works of glass, jewelry, baskets, pottery, paper, wood and textiles may be purchased throughout the period. On Saturday, November 3, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., the artisans will be present to demonstrate and discuss their works. A reception that day is from 3-5 p.m. For more information, call Kevan Collins at 410-742-4988, Ext. 106.

Study Abroad Travel Grants

SU is offering several travel grants to students who plan to study abroad during winter and spring 2003 sessions. Grant amounts may vary depending on individual circumstances. This grant stipulates that recipients will perform well academically in their classes and be willing to participate in study abroad workshops/information sessions upon their return.

Applicants need to have a declared major, be enrolled full-time and have a 3.0 or higher GPA.

Applications are available in the International Student Services Office (Guerrieri University Center Room 229A), Global Programs Coordinator Office/Perdue School (Holloway Hall Room 005), Department of Modern Languages (Holloway Hall Room 347) or the International Education Office (Guerrieri University Center Room 242C). Applications are also available online at www.salisbury.edu/Students/ISS/HelpYou/whatsnew.html.

Deadline for returning the applications is Friday, November 15. For more information, please contact Agata Liszkowska at 410-543-6313.

Diversity in the Workplace Conference

"Organizational Success: Unlocking the Potential of Diversity," a three-day conference featuring speakers discussing workplace diversity issues critical to business success, is Wednesday-Friday, October 23-25, at SU.

"The business community has expressed a need for a better understanding of the meaning of diversity in the workplace," said Dr. Anthony Jemison, special assistant for diversity at SU and co-chair of the conference, "and specifically how to recruit and retain traditionally underrepresented employees."

Added Kathryn Redden, conference co-chair and program director for SU's Center for Professional Development: "Eastern Shore businesses are currently interacting with companies and governments globally. The need to understand different cultures is vital to running a successful business in today's marketplace."

Conference organizers feel the sessions would be especially beneficial to regional business owners, CEOs and vice presidents, human resource professionals, coaches, educators, mental health practitioners, and social services and law enforcement professionals. Regional professionals and business owners are participating as panelists and moderators to discuss methods for businesses to respond to diversity.

Sponsors of the event are SU's Diversity Initiatives Office and Center for Professional Development, the Eastern Shore Business Leadership Network, the Greater Salisbury Committee and regional chambers of commerce.

Cost of the conference is $300 or $100 per day. Society for Human Resource Managers and chamber of commerce members receive a 5 percent discount. The registration deadline is Monday, October 14.

For registration materials or more information, please call the Center for Professional Development at 410-548-4481 or go to the www.salisbury.edu/community/cpd.

Cockey Piano Recital

Linda Cockey, professor of music, performs a piano recital on Sunday, October 20, at 4 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

Cockey, who coordinates the keyboard division at SU, holds a Doctor of Musical Arts from the Catholic University of America. She has studied with William Fairlamb, Susan Starr, Bela Nagy, Barbara English Maris and Thomas Mastroianni. Locally, she has performed concertos with the Salisbury Symphony under the baton of Thomas Elliot, and, in solo and duo-piano recitals, she has performed at Longwood Gardens and other concert venues in the mid-Atlantic.

The recital includes works by Joahann Christian Bach, Beethovan, Chopin, Brahms, Schumann and Bartok.

Admission is free and open to the public. For more information, call 410-543-6030.

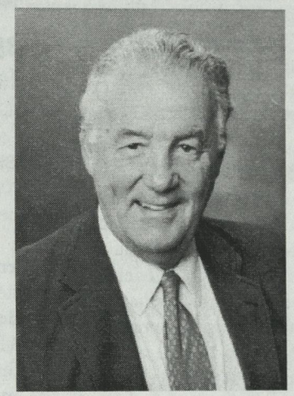
Sen. Sarbanes Addresses Corporate Scandal

In the wake of the huge corporate scandals at Enron, WorldCom and others, one senator began what seemed to be an impossible task: legislative reform of this country's unethical business practices. Against all odds, the distinguished senator from Maryland, Paul S. Sarbanes, crafted a bill to prevent corporate abuses and restore investor confidence.

Utilizing his considerable political skills to draft a law that had bi-partisan support, the "Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002" has become the law of the land. "Getting that bill through Congress was a masterful act," said Dr. Harry Basehart, political scientist and co-director of SU's Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement (PACE), "but anyone who has watched his long and distinguished career would know that he had the unique skills to pull it off."

On Tuesday, October 22, Senator Sarbanes will address the University community and his hometown about the intriguing political dynamics that led to the passage of the most important corporate reform bill in six decades. His talk, titled "The Crisis in Corporate America: The Legislative Response," will discuss the genesis, the process and the delicate balance that was created to ensure that his bill would become the law of the land. "There is so much cynicism out there about politicians," said Dr. Francis Kane, ethicist and also co-director of PACE, "and, yet, here is a man who displayed tremendous moral wisdom. He was the right man for the right time. All of us are looking forward to hearing how he did it."



Senator Paul S. Sarbanes

This talk inaugurates "The Paul S. Sarbanes Lecture Series," a yearly series that will bring to campus some of the most prominent and influential public figures in the country.

Sen. Sarbanes' talk is at 7 p.m. in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center. Admission is free and the public is cordially invited. For more information call 410-543-6030.

SU Students Summer (and Study) in Spain

Thirteen SU students, under the direction of Dr. Keith Brower, participated in the SU Summer Program in Spain from June 28-July 1 of this year. During the five-week program, each student experienced Spanish culture first-hand by living and taking meals in a private Spanish home in the city of Málaga, on the country's beautiful Costa del Sol.

Students met each weekday for classes in Spanish on the language, culture, history and art of Spain at the Universidad de Málaga's Cursos para Extranjeros Center in downtown Málaga. Local university faculty conducted in-class instruction. Brower also met regularly with students for "cultural brokering" sessions and cross-cultural discussions. He also had the participants write several essays on Spanish culture, as well as intercultural themes.

Students also met in small groups about two times a week with Spanish "cultural tutors," from the Universidad de Málaga, who took the groups on cultural immersion experiences in and around the city. The program included trips to the historic cities of Granada, Córdoba and Sevilla, where students toured Roman ruins, Moorish castles and Catholic cathedrals under the guidance of Brower and the program's art history professor, whose services were also provided by the Universidad de Málaga.

Participants received four credits via MDFL 399: International Field Study. All work was conducted in Spanish. Brower designed and organized the program, which was initiated in 2001, and plans to offer it on an annual basis. He has also developed an SU semester/year program in Málaga, which he hopes to initiate in the near future.

Interest meetings for the 2003 SU Summer Program in Spain will be held later this fall. Anyone interested or with questions prior to these meetings may contact Brower in the Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies, Holloway Hall Room 347, 410-543-6442.

SU's Business Economic and Community Outreach Network (BEACON) welcomes its fall 2002 team of research associates.

They include M.B.A. student Jennifer Jackson, sophomore Stephanie Powell, senior Ari Hantske, recent SU graduate Billy Biggs, sophomore Jessica Grabau, senior Rachel Zitnik and freshman Zachary Bateman.

In addition to fulfilling the regional service mission of the University by providing business, economic and community development services, BEACON helps to fulfill the University's academic mission by providing students and faculty with applied business learning opportunities.

Study Abroad Grants/ Internships

The honor society of Phi Kappa Phi is awarding four $1,000 study abroad grants and four $1,000 internship grants in each of Phi Kappa Phi's five regions. These competitions are open to both qualified members of the society and non-members in all fields of study.

All applicants must have a minimum GPA of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale. He/she may be nominated by a Phi Kappa Phi chapter or may apply independently.

All applicants must have earned a minimum of 56 semester hours of academic credit but not more than 90 semester hours at the time of application, as well as at least one full year remaining in his/her academic program after participating in the study abroad/internship.

All applicants must be accepted into a study abroad or internship program and must provide a letter of acceptance from the program.

Students applying for the internship grant must be committed to an internship of at least 20 hours per week for a minimum of six weeks.

The deadline for applications for both programs to be received (not postmarked) at Phi Kappa Phi Headquarters is February 17, 2003. Grant recipients will be announced no later than April 15, 2003.

Information and application packets are available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213 or from the Phi Kappa Phi Web site at www.phikappaphi.org.

Delmarvacade of Bands Returns

The Parkside High School Rams Marching Band hosts the annual Delmarvacade of Bands on Saturday, October 26, at 6 p.m. at Wicomico County Stadium (across from the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center).

Six high school marching bands, including Parkside, James M. Bennett and Wicomico, will perform in field show competition. The National Judges Association evaluates the band performances.

Human Rights on the Border

Dr. Timothy Dunn, assistant professor of sociology, presents "Human Rights and Immigration at the U.S.-Mexican Border" on Wednesday, October 23, at 7 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

Dunn earned a doctorate in sociology from the University of Texas at Austin. His work has appeared in numerous professional journals and anthologies and his book, The Militarization of the U.S.-Mexico Border, 1978-1992: Low Intensity Conflict Doctrine Comes Home, was published in 1996. That year he also directed a documentary video for the El Paso Border Rights Commission. Dunn, who has worked extensively with Hispanic groups both in the U.S. and Central America, joined SU in 1999. He is currently working on a second book due out in 2004.

The lecture, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs as part of the Latin America Lecture Series. For more information call 410-543-6271.

Asturias Is Next Latin-American Laureate

The University presents "Readings from Miguel Angel Asturias" as part of its Cinco Estrellas Series on Latin America's Nobel Laureates in Literature on Thursday, October 24, at 7 p.m. at the Fireside Lounge, Guerrieri University Center.

Miguel Angel Asturias

Asturias won the Nobel Prize in 1967 and remains one of the most internationally recognized writers of Central America. A poet, novelist and anthropologist, he combines a high literary aesthetic with a burning commitment to the socio-political battles of Latin America and his own Guatemala. Dr. Brian Stiegler of the Department of Modern Languages will lead the discussion in both English and Spanish. Photocopies of the readings are available on reserve in the Blackwell Library. (Ask for the "Cinco Estrallas" file.)

Admission is free and open to the public. The event is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, call 410-543-6271.

Claremont Duo Goes Latin

The Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs presents the Claremont Duo Juilliard Concert on Wednesday, October 30, at 7 p.m.

As part of SU's fall Latin American Culture Series, two-time Grammy Award-winning artists Maxine Neuman and Peter Ernst perform South American works on cello and guitar. The duo has just released its second CD, Divertimento.

Neuman, also a founding member of the Crescent String Quartet, the Vermont Cello Quartet and the Walden Trio, has appeared as a soloist before a sold-out audience in New York's Town Hall in the American premier for Viotti's only cello concerto. She has judged several international competitions and teaches at New York's School for Strings.

Ernst has recorded seven CDs and has toured throughout the United States, Europe, Japan and the Middle East. Widely recognized for his guitar interpretations of folklorist music from South America, he has also won numerous international awards in both solo and chamber music competitions.

The concert, free and open to the public, is held in Holloway Hall, Great Hall. For more information call 410-543-6271.

Orson Welles and Hispanic America Lecture

Richard Vela, professor of English at the University of North Carolina at Pembroke, will give an illustrated lecture on "Orson Welles in Mexico and South America" on Monday, October 21, at 7 p.m. The lecture is sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee.

Vela is co-author with SU English professor Jim Welsh of Shakespeare Into Film (Checkmark 2002) and has served as contributing editor to Literature/Film Quarterly, The Encyclopedia of Stage Plays Into Film (Facts On File 2001) and The Encyclopedia of Orson Welles (forthcoming 2003). He has earned fellowships and awards from the Ford Foundation, the Danforth Foundation and the North Carolina Board of Governors Award for Excellence in Teaching.

The lecture is in Henson Science Hall Room 243. The public is invited.

Maryland Grad Rates at All-time High

Students graduating from Maryland's public colleges and universities is at an all-time high, with a record 58.4 percent earning bachelor's degrees within six years, according to a report released by the Maryland Higher Education Commission. In comparison, the six-year graduation rate for all new full-time undergraduates was 56.7 percent last year and 46.7 percent in the 1980 cohort.

The report, "Retention and Graduation Rates at Maryland Public Four-Year Institutions," examines the number and percentage of students who were retained at their original public four-year campus and those who graduated from any senior public college or university in the state. The report covers data collected over a six-year period of first-time, full-time undergraduates from 1980-2000. The six-year measurement is a nationally recognized standard of measuring graduation at the baccalaureate level.

The four-year public institutions with the greatest six-year graduation rates for the entering class of 1995 were St. Mary's College of Maryland (77.6 percent), Salisbury University (73.9 percent), University of Maryland College Park (64.8 percent) and Towson University (64.5 percent). Salisbury's graduation rate was the highest ever achieved by the institution. University of Maryland Eastern Shore also set a new record with six-year rate of 47.3 percent.

The four-year public institutions that had the greatest six-year graduation rates among African-Americans in the 1995 cohort were St. Mary's (73.0 percent), University of Maryland Baltimore County (61.7 percent), and Salisbury (60.6 percent). The six-year graduation rate of African-Americans at UMBC was greater than that for whites.

"The improvements in graduation and retention reflect the quality advances that have catapulted our colleges and universities into the top tier of our nation's higher education institutions," said Dr. William E. Kirwan, chancellor of the University System of Maryland. "Maryland is beginning to reap the rewards of its investment in higher education."

For more information about the report, contact Dr. Michael Keller at 410-260-4559.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Student Speaker For December Commencement

The University Graduation Committee is again seeking eligible students to deliver a brief address to graduating seniors this December. Criteria for eligibility include a cumulative GPA of 3.3 or above (including summer 2001 if applicable) and completion of at least 60 semester hours at SU, of which at least 30 semester hours are in 300- or 400-level courses (grades of A, B or C). Those interested and eligible for consideration for this honor should pick up an application and timeline in the Vice President of Student Affairs Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 212. Application and speech must be submitted by noon, October 24.

Grad School Fair On October 25

SU hosts its second annual Graduate School Fair on Friday, October 25, 10 a.m.-2 p.m., in the Wicomico Room. This is an excellent opportunity for students to talk to a variety of graduate schools attending. Currently there are 34 graduate programs represented.

Also planned are a variety of graduate school workshops offered the same week addressing graduate school topics including: "Is Graduate School for You?"; "Opening Doors for Acceptance to Grad School"; and "Taking the GRE."

For more information concerning the workshops and a complete list of schools attending, follow the "Grad School Fair" link at www.salisbury.edu/careerservices/.

Football Moves to 6-0

For the first time since Ronald Reagan was President of the United States, Tom Cruise was the "Top Gun," and "Walk Like an Egyptian" topped the music charts, the Sea Gull football team sports a 6-0 record in the month of October. SU continued its best start since the 1986 season with a 35-7 victory over Chowan on Saturday.

QB Dustin Johnson and FB Reggie Boyce each rushed for over 100 yards and two touchdowns to pace the nation's No.1 ranked rushing offense. The defense forced eight Chowan turnovers and registered five sacks on the afternoon while limiting the Braves to just 77 rushing yards.

The Sea Gulls are idle until October 26, when they return to action against Newport News Apprentice in the Oyster Bowl Game in Hampton, VA.

The men's soccer team, ranked 11th in the nation, extended its winning streak to six straight games with a 4-1 win over York on Sunday. Senior CR Krauss and junior Fanor Ramos each scored twice to lead the Sea Gulls. York's first half goal also snapped SU's record-setting streak of five straight shutouts. Salisbury, now 9-1-1 overall and 4-0 in the Capital Athletic Conference, continues league play with matches at Catholic and Mary Washington this week.

The women's soccer team is riding a five-game winning streak following a 3-0 win at Gallaudet last week. Like the men's squad, the SU women (5-5 overall) are also unbeaten in conference action and face CAC matches at Goucher and Mary Washington this week.

The field hockey team, 10-1 overall and ranked fourth in the nation, visits No.1 ranked Rowan in a key non-conference showdown this week. The Sea Gulls bring a four-game winning streak into that contest.

The volleyball and cross country teams both return to action this week after being idle last weekend. The volleyball team (13-10 overall) plays in the McDaniel College Tournament on Friday and Saturday. The men's and women's cross country teams compete in the Mason-Dixon Championship Meet on Saturday.

Honors Convocation Committee Seeks Nominations

The Honors Convocation Committee requests nominations for all three awards listed here. Nominations are due in the Vice President of Student Affairs Office no later than Friday, October 25. Faculty, staff and student organizations may nominate students to receive awards and students may propose their own name for consideration. In addition, students must contact one faculty or staff member who will agree to write a recommendation (the form to be used is in the application packet sent to qualified nominees). Please be sure to nominate early so that there is ample time to contact the student and to complete an application packet. All students are eligible for the following awards provided they have completed at least 18 credit hours total for fall 1999 and spring 2000 semesters.

The Achievement Key is awarded to juniors and seniors on the basis of outstanding scholarship and outstanding campus and/or community service. Students become eligible for nominations upon receiving a 3.6 academic average for each of the two preceding semesters. Undergraduate students may receive this award a total of two times. Students may be nominated for both Campus Life and Achievement Key awards.

The Campus Life Award is granted to undergraduates on the basis of outstanding contributions to campus life. Students are eligible for nomination on the basis of a 2.6 cumulative average. Students may be nominated for both Campus Life and Achievement Key awards. Students are eligible to receive this award more than once. Sophomores, juniors and seniors are encouraged to apply.

Nominees for inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges are evaluated on the basis of scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, service to the University and potential for future achievement. Eligibility for the award is open to juniors, seniors and graduate students with a 3.0 overall grade point average. Students are not eligible to receive this award more than once.

White Explores Teaching, Language and Learning

Dr. Arlene White (center) with Jiménez (left) and Powell.

Dr. Arlene White and Dr. Carmen Jiménez of the Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies and Patricia Powell of Wicomico Senior High School in Salisbury participated in the Preparing Tomorrow's Teacher to Use Technology (PT3) grant this summer at Frostburg State University.

Other faculty from SU's Fulton and Seidel schools as well as faculty from UMES joined them. Individuals and teams developed projects that would integrate technology into their courses. There was a variety of speakers and workshops. Participants will meet again this fall to share the results of their week-long efforts.

Also this summer, White worked with French IV and Spanish IV teachers in Wicomico County to review curriculum and textbooks. She is also serving on a Salisbury-Wicomico County Arts Council committee to recreate a dinner from Claude Monet's days at Giverny. This will serve as a fund-raiser for SWAC.

White has a two-year appointment at SU as special assistant to the provost for General Education. This year, she will be studying transcripts from a random sample of SU graduates from the last three to five years. She will be examining the courses which were taken for General Education credit and aligning them with the "Learning Goals" which the faculty approved in 2000.

She is also providing support in regard to General Education to those programs that are undergoing academic program review this year. She is working with the University Academic Assessment Committee to start preliminary discussions regarding the assessment of the General Education program at SU.

O'Rourke Honored by Pennsylvania School District

Dr. Timothy G. O'Rourke

Dr. Timothy G. O'Rourke, dean of the Fulton School of Liberal Arts, has been named to the 2002 inaugural class of Distinguished Alumni of the Tyrone Area School District in Tyrone, PA.

Over the course of an academic career spanning more than 25 years, O'Rourke has led major public programs designed to bring campus and community together and to promote greater citizen engagement in the political process. From 1995-2002, O'Rourke was the Teresa M. Fischer Professor of Citizenship Education at the University of Missouri-St. Louis; he directed Kids Voting Missouri, a program in which nearly 68,000 Missouri elementary and secondary students went to official polling sites and voted alongside their parents in the 2000 presidential election.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Pittsburgh (1970) and holder of a Ph.D. in political science from Duke University (1977), O'Rourke has also held faculty appointments at Clemson University and the University of Virginia. From 1985-1992, he served as the executive director of the Virginia Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. O'Rourke has written extensively on political redistricting and has testified before both U.S. House and Senate committees on various voting rights issues.

The other distinguished alumni are Dr. Joseph L. Fink III, vice president of corporate relations and economic outreach at the University of Kentucky; Dr. Mark S. Mooseker, a world-renowned research scientist at Yale University; the Honorable Judge D. Brooks Smith, recently confirmed by the U.S. Senate for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit; and Dr. Nick C. Leasure, an oncologist in Reading, PA.

Tyrone Schools' superintendent, Dr. William N. Miller, lauded the honorees: "These five exceptional alumni, who have made and continue to make significant contributions in their various fields of expertise, are recognized both in national and international circles. They all bring great honor to the Tyrone School District."

Theatre Gets Earnest

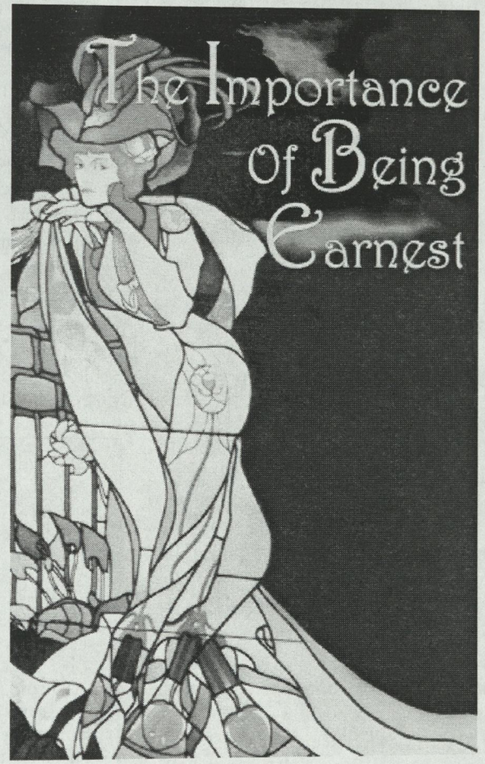
The Bobbi Biron Theatre program at Salisbury University presents The Importance of Being Earnest, Oscar Wilde's immortal satire of the hypocrisy of class, education, morality and love in Victorian England, from Thursday, October 24-Sunday, November 3.



This classic commentary on middle class morality and social climbing pits truth against illusion in the battle for romance.

Members of the cast include senior theatre major Justin Gallo as Algernon Moncrieff; senior theatre major Dan Wachtner as Jack Worthing; and faculty member Karen Rayne as Lady Bracknell. Also appearing are Eric Gemmer, Lindsay Smith, Stephanie Hallgren, Abi Treut, Jefferson Boyer, Chip Willet, Jessica Banner, Nicki Dziduch, Anne Crossman and Ben Rayne.

Set design is by Gerry Patt, costume design by Lisa Lantz, lighting design by Adam Grant, technical director is David Shuhy and the production manager is Jessica Fritz. SU's director of theatre, Dr. T. Paul Pfeiffer, directs the comedy.

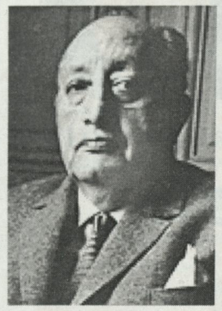
Performances are at 8 p.m., except Sundays. Matinee performances on Sundays, October 27 and November 3, have a 2 p.m. curtain. Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for students and seniors; students with current SU ID receive one free ticket. Tickets are available at the Information Desk in the Guerrieri University Center or by calling the box office at 410-543-6228. Reservations are suggested.

Delmarvacade of Bands Returns

The Parkside High School Rams Marching Band hosts the annual Delmarvacade of Bands on Saturday, October 26, at 6 p.m. at Wicomico County Stadium (across from the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center).

Six high school marching bands, including Parkside, James M. Bennett and Wicomico, will perform in field show competition. The National Judges Association evaluates the band performances.

Asturias Is Next Latin-American Laureate



The University presents "Readings from Miguel Angel Asturias" as part of its Cinco Estrellas Series on Latin America's Nobel Laureates in Literature on Thursday, October 24, at 7 p.m. at the Fireside Lounge, Guerrieri University Center.

Asturias won the Nobel Prize in 1967 and remains one of the most internationally recognized writers of Central America. A poet, novelist and anthropologist, he combines a high literary aesthetic with a burning commitment to the socio-political battles of Latin America and his own Guatemala. Dr. Brian Stiegler of the Department of Modern Languages will lead the discussion in both English and Spanish. Photocopies of the readings are available on reserve in the Blackwell Library. (Ask for the "Cinco Estrallas" file.)

Admission is free and open to the public. The event is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, call 410-543-6271.

SU Student Research Conference Poster Contest

The SU Student Research Conference (SRC) Committee needs the creative help of students to advertise the spring conference, and it will award $250 for the best poster design. Original, creative and visually-arresting posters are desired.

The poster must include the conference name, times, locations and date of the event: Salisbury University Student Research Conference, April 25, 2003, 1-7 p.m., Henson Science Hall and Wicomico Room. All posters must be submitted as 8 1/2 x 11 Adobe Illustrator, MacroMedia Freehand, Adobe PhotoShop or Quark Xpress documents. All submissions must be received by Friday, November 15. Interested students should send submissions to Dr. Jill Caviglia-Harris, Economics Department, Holloway Hall Room 304.

The contest winner will be determined by the SRC Conference Committee. The contest is not open to family members of committee members. Only SU students are invited to submit entries to this contest. Poster designs involving large copyright fees may not be ranked as highly as those without such fees.

Claremont Duo Goes Latin

The Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs presents the Claremont Duo Juilliard Concert on Wednesday, October 30, at 7 p.m.

As part of SU's fall Latin American Culture Series, two-time Grammy Award-winning artists Maxine Neuman and Peter Ernst perform South American works on cello and guitar. The duo has just released its second CD, Divertimento.

Neuman, also a founding member of the Crescent String Quartet, the Vermont Cello Quartet and the Walden Trio, has appeared as a soloist before a sold-out audience in New York's Town Hall in the American premier for Viotti's only cello concerto. She has judged several international competitions and teaches at New York's School for Strings.

Ernst has recorded seven CDs and has toured throughout the United States, Europe, Japan and the Middle East. Widely recognized for his guitar interpretations of folklorist music from South America, he has also won numerous international awards in both solo and chamber music competitions.

The concert, free and open to the public, is held in Holloway Hall, Great Hall. For more information call 410-543-6271.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Blackwell Library will hold its annual Book Sale Thursday-Saturday, October 31-November 2, in conjunction with Homecoming/ Family Weekend. The Book Sale will run from 9 a.m.-midnight on Thursday, from 8 a.m.-10 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday. The sale will be held on the first floor of the library at the back of the building behind the current periodicals.

There will be items available such as cookbooks, children's literature, novels, videos and books representing various academic subject areas. Book sets and a few unique titles will also be offered at special prices.

Paperbacks will be on sale for $.50. Most hardcover books and videos will be on sale for $1.

Learn About M.S.W. Program

SU's Master of Social Work program holds informational meetings for interested students on Monday, November 4, from 7-9 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 102; and on Wednesday, December 4, from 7-9 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 103.

Faculty members will discuss the program, admissions criteria and application procedures. The Department of Social Work strives to meet the needs of working students and boasts small classes and quality instruction. M.S.W. students are prepared to provide direct social work services in a community agency setting.

For more information call Dr. Batya Hyman, coordinator of the M.S.W. program, at 410-677-5346.

Gear Up For Grad School

Worried about your job being here in five years? Wondering about a career change? Ready for that next step up? Then attend SU's second annual Graduate School Fair on Friday, October 25, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center. The event is open to the public in addition to SU students.

For a listing of graduate programs participating in the fair or information on workshops, follow the "Grad School Fair" link at www.salisbury.edu/careerservices/

Brower Discusses 'Spain's Religious Legacy'

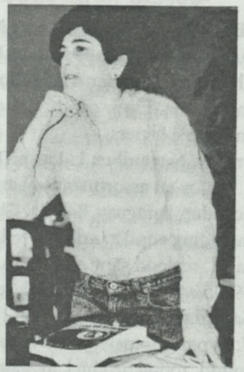
SU presents "Spain's Religious Legacy in Latin American Culture: Not Just a Sunday Obligation" on Wednesday, November 6, at 7 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

Dr. Keith Brower addresses the religious beliefs brought by Spanish missionaries to the New World and the life and world views that accompanied such beliefs. He explores how those beliefs permeate Latin American culture among present-day non-believers.

Brower is an SU professor of Spanish, director of SU programs in Malaga, Spain, and chair of the Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies. The author of over 40 books, articles and reviews on Spanish, Spanish-American and Brazilian culture, he is currently researching and writing a book on the role and influence of Catholicism in Spanish and Latin American culture.

The lecture is free and open to the public. For information call 410-543-6271.

Library Hosts Local Author



Blackwell Library presents a talk by accomplished author and professor Dr. Gianni (formerly Nan) DeVincent Hayes on Saturday, November 2, at 11 a.m.

Hayes, of Salisbury, is the author of 14 books and over 100 articles and essays. Her diverse body of work includes romance novels, local history, how-to books and sci-fi thrillers such as Thy Brother's Keeper in which modern-day science grapples with cloning. A production company is developing the book into a movie.

In addition to her work as a writer, Hayes has also taught journalism classes at SU and other institutions. She graduated summa cum laude from the University of Maryland College Park and founded Writers' Bloc, a group of published and aspiring writers.

As part of SU's Homecoming-Family Weekend festivities, Hayes will share her thoughts on the challenges of writing and sign her latest titles (for sale at the event). Light refreshments are served.

For more information call the Office of Public Relations at 410-543-6030 or visit www.salisbury.edu/homefamily/ for a complete listing of SU's Homecoming-Family Weekend roster.

Gong Show Comes to SU

The newly-formed E-Crew Club is staging the Inaugural SU Gong Show on Saturday, October 26, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. The Gong Show will feature the talented, the not so talented, and those who don't know any better.

Based on the wacky 1970s TV series, Gong Show participants perform for a panel of judges and try to woo the audience in their favor. Those who don't impress face being "gonged" off the stage.

Not just for laughs, there is real money at stake for the participants. The prize amounts depend on the size of the audience and how many people are in the show. Everybody involved with the show adds to the prize amount. SU students pay $.96, UMES students pay $1.23, the general public pays $1.49 and each performer pays $2.22.

For more information, contact Jason Shipley, president of the SU E-Crew, at seagullship@hotmail.com or call 410-548-4597. The E-Crew is also looking for new members to help run the SU Variety Show, the Gong Show and to help out community groups via technical support. The E-Crew is a fun way to learn the production side of the entertainment industry and to meet some new friends.

Study Abroad Grants/Internships

The honor society of Phi Kappa Phi is awarding four $1,000 study abroad grants and four $1,000 internship grants in each of Phi Kappa Phi's five regions. These competitions are open to both qualified members of the society and non-members in all fields of study.

All applicants must have a minimum GPA of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale. He/she may be nominated by a Phi Kappa Phi chapter or may apply independently.

All applicants must have earned a minimum of 56 semester hours of academic credit but not more than 90 semester hours at the time of application; as well as at least one full year remaining in his/her academic program after participating in the study abroad/internship.

All applicants must be accepted into a study abroad or internship program and must provide a letter of acceptance from the program.

Students applying for the internship grant must be committed to an internship of at least 20 hours per week for a minimum of six weeks.

The deadline for applications for both programs to be received (not postmarked) at Phi Kappa Phi headquarters is February 17, 2003. Grant recipients will be announced no later than April 15, 2003.

Information and application packets are available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213, or from the Phi Kappa Phi Web site at www.phikappaphi.org.

SU Dance Company on the Move

The SU Dance Company directed by Dr. Victoria Hutchinson has received a $2,000 grant from the Salisbury Wicomico Arts Council for its 2002-3 dance season. SWAC awarded the organization for continuing to "provide high quality."

The Company selected 25 members during fall entrance auditions judged by faculty Judy Binkowski and Linda Scott-Collison. Fall semester guest artist teachers are Linda Hallman-Darr of the Suitland Visual and Performing Arts High School in Prince George's County; Doug Hamby of Doug Hamby Dance; and SU alumnus Carolyn Hitchcock-Evans of the Henson Valley Montessori School in Camp Springs, MD.

2002-2003 Dance Company

The Company is preparing for the 13th annual Fall Dance Showcase on Wednesday, Friday-Saturday, November 6, 8-9, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. The troupe also performs at cultural events including the Latin American Festival of Food and Culture and the SU German Club Oktoberfest and the Homecoming-Family Weekend football game on November 2.

For more information contact the Dance Program at 410-548-4183 or visit www.salisbury.edu/schools/seidel/dance.

BEACON Helps Bring Vision to Area

Nearly 100 community leaders gathered at a "visioning" conference hosted by SU and the its Business, Economic and Community Outreach Network (BEACON) in October. Called "Creating a Community Vision for the Lower Eastern Shore," the conference was a response to the many challenges and opportunities facing the region including State and local elections, an aging population, the recently-created regional Tri-County Council and a new regional transportation network.

Topics of concern included education, economic well-being, infrastructure, workforce development and the environment and an effort to understand trends and events affecting our regional community.

BEACON Director Memo Diriker and Managing Director Ruth Baker challenged attendees to envision and voice what they felt that the community should look and feel like in the next 10-15 years. "This is our opportunity to 'think big' about our collective future. The visioning process should be grounded in current reality, but should also free us to dream," said Diriker.

The conference was sponsored by the Community Foundation of the Eastern Shore, the Tri-County Council of the Lower Shore of Maryland, the Salisbury Area Chamber of Commerce, the Wicomico Partnership for Families and Children, and BEACON. A "kick off" event, the conference launches a more extensive community planning process involving both county and municipal committees. The outcome will be a regional "vision document" that can serve as a blueprint for future planning efforts.

For more information and an opportunity to comment on a vision for the region, visit the BEACON Web site at http://beacon.salisbury.edu or contact them at beacon@salisbury.edu or 410-548-5353.

Access 26 Honored For Education Series

Access 26, the area's only local community access television channel, was recently honored by the Wicomico County Board of Education for the station's efforts in producing the "Ready For School" series.

After receiving a Certificate of Appreciation, Mike Goodson, manager of Access 26, said, "This kind of affirmation really lifts our spirits and lets us know that we are in fact doing good work for our community."

The seven-episode series was co-produced by Grace Murdock, mentor teacher at Pinehurst Elementary School, and Access 26. In it, local educators give basic readiness lessons for parents and caregivers of children up to age 6. The emphasis is on helping children develop their oral expressive language through presentation of appropriate vocabulary in each segment while learning basic skills such as numbers, counting, colors, shapes, letters and letter sounds.

Themes include "Environmental Learning," "Counting 0-10," "Before I Write" and "Learning Around the House." Exposure and possible mastery of the basic skills offered in this series, coupled with related concepts, provides an excellent foundation for children entering pre-kindergarten and kindergarten, Goodson said.

"We've only scratched the surface of what is possible," he added. "Our service benefits both the viewers and citizens who utilize our publicly accessible equipment to produce local programs; the potential is very exciting."

For more information about Access 26 and the "Ready For School" program, e-mail www.access26.org or visit the Access 26 Web site at www.wcboe.org/programs/ReadyforSchool.

Senkbeil Honored by Alumni

The Alumni Association recently presented Dr. Edward Senkbeil, professor of chemistry, with its Faculty Appreciation Award during Fall Convocation ceremonies. One faculty member in each of SU's four schools received the award.

Senkbeil, who earned his bachelor's degree in chemistry from SU in 1974, has taught at the University since 1980. He received both his master's and doctoral degrees in chemistry/biochemistry from the University of Delaware.

Senkbeil developed and implemented the popular biochemistry track for chemistry majors who are interested in biological applications. The biochemistry lab experiments he created for SU undergraduates have been published in the Journal of Chemical of Education.

In addition to chemistry and biochemistry, he has for the past 15 years taught a laboratory safety course, making the University one of the few in the country that offer such training. Senkbeil's research on laboratory safety demonstrations has also been presented nationally at chemical education workshops and conferences.

One of Senkbeil's former students, now at the top of her class in graduate school, wrote of him, "I have him to thank for all my success. He is a dedicated professor who has an extraordinary ability to clearly convey complex information."

Each school's selection committee consisted of last years award recipients, one other faculty member chosen by the dean, and three alumni from that school, each having different majors, backgrounds and experiences. Nominated professors must have taught full-time 10 or more years at SU, and must have made lasting and significant contributions to their graduate's lives.

SU Faculty Lecture At Genealogical Society Seminar

Several SU genealogical experts presented sessions at the 2002 Maryland Genealogical Society Seminar, "Tracing Your Delmarva Ancestors," held at SU in September.

Rebecca Miller, director of the Nabb Center for Delmarva History and Culture, presented seminars on "Researching Old Somerset" and "Researching Families of Old Somerset: Methods and Sources."

Dr. G. Ray Thompson of the History Department delivered a genealogical research resources workshop on "Putting Flesh on Your Ancestor's Bones" as well as "The Early Settlers of the Eastern Shore of Virginia and Lower Delmarva."

History professor Dr. Clara Small spoke on "Slavery and the Underground Railroad on the Eastern Shore of Maryland" on the area's rich history of the antebellum period.

"Maryland and the Civil War" was the keynote address delivered by SU history professor Dr. Bart Talbert at the opening night banquet.

Cavallaro Earned Corning Award

Marie Cavallaro, ceramic artist and professor of art, recently received the 2002 Communications/ Humanities Division Alumni Award from Corning Community College in Corning, NY.

Cavallaro is an associate professor and former chair of SU's Art Department.

She is president of Cavallaro Cleary Visual Arts Foundation (CCART), an art scholarship foundation that she co-founded with former SU professor John Cleary. In 2002 CCART granted $1,300 in art scholarships and awards.

In addition to her associate's degree from Corning, Cavallaro holds a bachelor's in art education from the State University College at Buffalo and a master's in fine arts from East Tennessee State University. She began teaching at SU in 1973. In 1978 Cavallaro was a member of the Fulbright teachers exchange to England.

Widely-known for her ceramics and 3-D design, Cavallaro's work has been exhibited in galleries throughout the eastern United States.

Schneider Shares Pulmonary Disease Research

Dr. Sidney Schneider, associate professor of health sciences and director of the Respiratory Therapy Program, was a featured speaker recently at the American Association of Cardiovascular and Pulmonary Rehabilitations (AACVPR) 17th International Annual Meeting held in Charlotte, NC. Schneider spoke on "Understanding Pulmonary Function Testing and the Relationship to Exercise Tolerance in Older Adults with Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD)."

He also presented research findings in the form of a poster session and discussion at the American Association of Respiratory Cares (AARC) 48th International Respiratory Congress held in Tampa, FL, from October 5-8. The research study "The Influence of Fev 1 Percent of Predicted on Exercise Tolerance in Older Adults with Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease Participating in Pulmonary Rehabilitation," was published in the September 2002 issue of Respiratory Care.

The study Schneider conducted jointly with other University and PRMC researchers seeks to bring about a better understanding of factors that influence exercise tolerance in older adults with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease.

New International Studies Major

In this shrinking world where the actions of a nation as far away as Afghanistan can change the lives of millions of Americans, the study of international relations and knowledge about other nations and languages is vital. To create better-informed citizens of the global community and to prepare students for professions crossing national boundaries, SU has initiated a new interdisciplinary major in international studies.

Part of the way the major prepares students to live and work in an international environment is by requiring them to directly experience other parts of the world by studying or living abroad. Students must also show proficiency in a foreign language. These requirements reflect a growing trend toward international involvement on the SU campus.

After satisfying core requirements, students may choose one of three concentrations: international relations, global cultural studies or international political economy.

The concentration in international relations focuses on contemporary world politics and foreign policy. Students develop skills vital for positions in foreign service, federal departments related to international affairs, and military or intelligence agencies that monitor international issues.

The concentration in global cultural studies uses the humanities and social sciences to understand cultural differences. The track prepares students for work in journalism, trans-national organizations, international assistance programs and federal departments focusing on international issues.

The third concentration is in international political economy. Economic studies in a global environment becomes a foundation for careers with multinational business, or trans-national interest groups, international organizations, including those in development, and federal agencies focusing on international economic policy.

To provide a broad view of the global scene, class work will span 11 disciplines in three of the University's four schools. Students can choose from courses offered in anthropology, communication arts, English, history, conflict and dispute resolution, economics, geography, modern foreign languages, philosophy, sociology and political science.

The coordinator of the new undergraduate major is Dr. Greg Cashman, a professor of political science and author of the book What Causes War? Working with him as an advisor to students in the program is another member of the Political Science Department, Dr. Leonard Robinson, a Middle East expert who has written on the domestic and foreign politics of the Middle East. Reflecting the times, the two professors are offering a new course this semester titled Political Violence and Terrorism.

For more information call 410-548-2546.

Grecay Published In Biology/Ecology Journal

Dr. Paul Grecay, professor of biology, has published "A device for simultaneously controlling multiple treatment levels of dissolved oxygen in laboratory experiments" in the Journal of Experimental Marine Biology and Ecology.

The paper, co-authored with alumnus Kevin Stierhoff, describes a method to precisely control dissolved oxygen levels in laboratory experiments. Such control gives researchers the ability to address previously unanswered ecological questions such as the effects of prolonged exposure to hypoxia on the growth, behavior and physiology of juvenile fishes.

The paper appears in volume 280 of the journal.

Cross Country Men Win Mason-Dixon Title

For the second time in three seasons, the men's cross country team captured top honors at the Mason-Dixon Championship Meet. The Gulls placed five runners among the top eight finishers to edge host Christopher Newport by two points for first place. Mary Washington finished a distant third in the seven-team event.

Junior Steve Jacobs led the Gulls with a second place individual finish in 26:59 over the 8K course. Will Detwiler (fourth), Will Murdoch (sixth), Andy Marrocco (seventh) and Brad Ellis (eighth) also earned all-Mason-Dixon honors.

The SU women finished third among seven teams, with two runners among the top 15. Sophomore Kelsey Scheitlin (seventh) paced the squad, with junior Rebecca Lyons (10th) close behind. Both SU teams compete at the Gettysburg Invitational this week.

The men's and women's soccer teams both suffered their first conference losses of the season on Saturday. Both teams dropped 1-0 decisions at Mary Washington. The loss snapped a seven-match winning streak for the men, who fall to 10-2-1 overall and 5-1 in the Capital Athletic Conference. The women, now 6-6 overall and 5-1 in the CAC, had their six-match winning streak halted.

The field hockey team rebounded from its 2-0 loss to number-one ranked Rowan with a pair of victories last week, downing Washington 3-1 and Frostburg 2-0. The Sea Gulls, ranked fourth in the nation, are 12-2 overall and remain unbeaten in the CAC with a 4-0 league record. The Sea Gulls host Mary Washington Saturday at 1 p.m.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Celebrate the New— Connect with the Past

The University expects over 4,000 visitors Friday-Sunday, November 1-3, for Homecoming/Family Weekend.

Alumni, family, friends, students, faculty and staff are invited to "Celebrate the New and Connect with the Past" during three days filled with academic, athletic, cultural and social festivities.

According to Roy S. Perdue, director of alumni relations, and Lawanda Dockins-Gordy, director of new student experience and the Guerrieri University Center, this year's schedule of events promises to have something for everyone.

"It's always a treat to plan for so many Sea Gull enthusiasts," Dockins-Gordy said. "Family weekend activities are also open to alums as well."

Friday evening the annual SU Athletics Hall of Fame reception and banquet is in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center. Three new members are being inducted: Harry "Clark" Cugler ('50, soccer, baseball and basketball), Cheryl Ish ('92, field hockey, lacrosse, basketball, and track and field) and Andre Foreman ('92, basketball). Pre-registration is required.

On Saturday open houses are from 8:30-11 a.m. in all four of the University's schools (business, education and professional studies, liberal arts, and science and technology), followed by an 11 a.m. brunch with President Janet Dudley-Eshbach in the Gull's Nest Eatery. Pre-registration is required.

Blackwell Library's open house and book sale begins at 10 a.m. with continental breakfast. At 11 a.m., local author Gianni (formerly Nan) DeVincent Hayes discusses the challenges of writing and signs books available for sale at the event.

SU Student Research Conference Poster Contest

The SU Student Research Conference (SRC) Committee needs the creative help of students to advertise the spring conference, and it will award $250 for the best poster design. Original, creative and visually-arresting posters are desired.

The poster must include the conference name, times, locations and date of the event: Salisbury University Student Research Conference, April 25, 2003, 1-7 p.m., Henson Science Hall and Wicomico Room. All posters must be submitted as 8 1/2" x 11" Adobe Illustrator, MacroMedia Freehand, Adobe PhotoShop or Quark Xpress documents. All submissions must be received by Friday, November 15. Interested students should send submissions to Dr. Jill Caviglia-Harris, Economics Department, Holloway Hall Room 304.

The contest winner will be determined by the SRC Conference Committee. The contest is not open to family members of committee members. Only SU students are invited to submit entries to this contest. Poster designs involving large copyright fees may not be ranked as highly as those without such fees.

Learn About M.S.W. Program

SU's Master of Social Work program holds informational meetings for interested students on Monday, November 4, from 7-9 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 102; and on Wednesday, December 4, from 7-9 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 103.

Faculty members will discuss the program, admissions criteria and application procedures. The Department of Social Work strives to meet the needs of working students and boasts small classes and quality instruction. M.S.W. students are prepared to provide direct social work services in a community agency setting.

For more information call Dr. Batya Hyman, coordinator of the M.S.W. program, at 410-677-5346.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Study Abroad Grants/Internships

The honor society of Phi Kappa Phi is awarding four $1,000 study abroad grants and four $1,000 internship grants in each of Phi Kappa Phi's five regions. These competitions are open to both qualified members of the society and non-members in all fields of study.

All applicants must have a minimum GPA of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale. He/she may be nominated by a Phi Kappa Phi chapter or may apply independently.

All applicants must have earned a minimum of 56 semester hours of academic credit but not more than 90 semester hours at the time of application; as well as at least one full year remaining in his/her academic program after participating in the study abroad/internship.

All applicants must be accepted into a study abroad or internship program and must provide a letter of acceptance from the program.

Students applying for the internship grant must be committed to an internship of at least 20 hours per week for a minimum of six weeks.

The deadline for applications for both programs to be received (not postmarked) at Phi Kappa Phi headquarters is February 17, 2003. Grant recipients will be announced no later than April 15, 2003.

Information and application packets are available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213, or from the Phi Kappa Phi Web site at www.phikappaphi.org.

Phi Eta Sigma Scholarship

The Phi Eta Sigma Freshman Honor Society invites current chapter members to apply for a local academic scholarship of $500. Criteria for eligibility include current membership in Phi Eta Sigma, junior or senior status, and cumulative GPA of 3.5 or higher. Applications are available in the Provost's Office, Holloway Hall Room 238, and are due by Friday, November 15.

Give the Library a Hand

Be a part of the changes affecting your comfort and service by volunteering to serve on the Student Library Advisory Council. It won't be boring, and you'll have a chance to contribute ideas by evaluating the library's Web page, considering possibilities for a permanent café, suggesting new services, doing a visitor checklist of the building, contributing art work for programs and perhaps helping with book sales.

Call or e-mail Karen Wilson (klwilson@salisbury.edu or 410-543-6026) with your name, days/times you could meet and a preferred contact number (e-mail or telephone).

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Brower Discusses 'Spain's Religious Legacy'

SU presents "Spain's Religious Legacy in Latin American Culture: Not Just a Sunday Obligation" on Wednesday, November 6, at 7 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

Dr. Keith Brower addresses the religious beliefs brought by Spanish missionaries to the New World and the life and world views that accompanied such beliefs. He explores how those beliefs permeate Latin American culture even among present-day non-believers.

Brower is an SU professor of Spanish, director of SU programs in Malaga, Spain, and chair of the Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies. The author of over 40 books, articles and reviews on Spanish, Spanish-American and Brazilian culture, he is currently researching and writing a book on the role and influence of Catholicism in Spanish and Latin American culture.

The lecture is free and open to the public. For information call 410-543-6271.

Study Abroad Travel Grants

SU is offering several travel grants to students who plan to study abroad during winter and spring 2003 sessions. Grant amounts may vary depending on individual circumstances. This grant stipulates that recipients will perform well academically in their classes and be willing to participate in study abroad workshops/information sessions upon their return.

Applicants need to have a declared major, be enrolled full time and have a 3.0 or higher GPA.

Applications are available in the International Student Services Office (Guerrieri University Center Room 229A), Global Programs Coordinator Office/Perdue School (Holloway Hall Room 005), Modern Languages Office (Holloway Hall Room 347) or the International Education Office (Guerrieri University Center Room 242C). Applications are also available online at www.salisbury.edu/Students/ISS/HelpYou/whatsnew.html.

Deadline for returning the applications is Friday, November 15. For more information, please contact Agata Liszkowska at 410-543-6313.

Intramural Golf Tournament

The Intramural Office holds its annual fall golf tournament on Friday, November 8, at Wood Creek Golf Course in Delmar.

This event is a two-person team scramble format. The cost is $9 per person and can be paid at the Campus Recreation Office in Maggs Center through the entry deadline on Monday, November 4, at noon. For more information, contact Wayne Gorrow at the Intramural Office or call 410-548-3266.

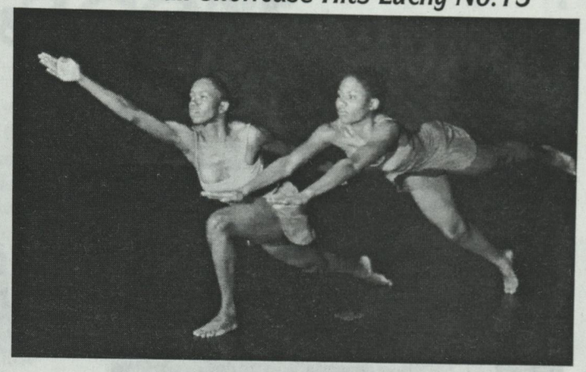
Dance Fall Showcase Hits Lucky No.13



SU Dance Company's 13th annual Fall Showcase is Wednesday, November 6, and Friday-Saturday, November 8-9, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. The popular production features guest artists Darby Iva Pack and Lisa Jones, and six new member works.

Pack and Jones perform "Subconscious Faults," a duet choreographed to the music of Tracy Chapman. Exploring the foundation of friendship between two women, the dance has been performed at the Kennedy Center National Gala of the National American College Dance Festival and the Black College Dance Exchange in Tallahassee, FL.

Seniors Kristen Nicole Flowers and Tracee Torrillo present "Icon," a fun and entertaining jazz dance for 10 featuring the music of Madonna from the 1980s to present.

Senior Carlyn L. Keene presents "Fever," a jazz work for six set to the music of Peggy Lee.

"Cuttin' Loose," by junior Dara L. Phillips, explores the contrast between classical and popular dance and music.

Jennifer Plourde, a senior, presents "Undertones" for 12 dancers. Set to the soulful works of Jack Johnson, the dancers' costumes reflect the three apparent undertones of the music in the modern and lyrical "Sexy Plexi" and the playful and upbeat "Bubble Toes."

Senior Erin Fair Rhoades presents "An Angel's Requiem," set to the music of the Pat McGee Band. Dedicated to those who have left this Earth too soon, this lyrical work for six dancers explores the acceptance of a new angel into heaven.

Stephanie Stotler, a junior, presents a nightclub scene in "Walk on the Wild Side" to the music of Si Zenter and his jazz orchestra.

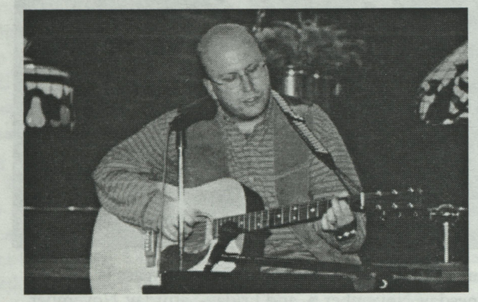
Guest choreographer and SU alumna Carolyn Hitchcock-Evans premiers the swinging "All for One," a rousing all-company work in three sections.

Tickets for the performance are $8 for adults; $6 for senior citizens and teens. Children under 12 and SU ID holders are admitted free. Reservations are not required; tickets are available at the door 30 minutes before curtain. Fund-raising proceeds benefit the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

For more information call 410-548-4183 or visit the Dance Company Web site at www.salisbury.edu/schools/seidel/dance.

Homecoming/Family Weekend 2002

Gull's Nest Coffeehouse



Dr. Wayne Ackerson

As part of the Homecoming/Family Weekend, there is a Homecoming Coffeehouse with acoustic music on Friday, November 1, from 7-9 p.m. in the Gull's Nest.

Andy Stuhl plays from 7-7:40 p.m. Well known around campus, Stuhl plays an acoustic set full of pop and alternative covers as well as original songs.

From 7:40-8:20 p.m. history faculty member Dr. Wayne Ackerson plays a wide variety of acoustic songs, covering everything from Britney Spears to the musical Grease.

A special treat from 8:20-9 p.m. is "Afterglow: The Not-Ready-for-Tenure Players" starring Dr. Tom Moriarty (English Department) on drums, Dr. Les Erickson (Communication and Theatre Arts Department) on sax, Dr. John Egan (Biology Department) on lead bass guitar and Dr. Chrys Egan (Communication and Theatre Arts Department) on lead vocals, keys, conga, guitar, harmonica even xylophone. Self-described as a "pop/punk" band, the group plays a wide range of tunes from cartoon themes to alternative and new wave music.

For more information contact Ackerson at wackerson@salisbury.edu or 410-546-2868.

Library Book Sale

Blackwell Library will hold its annual Book Sale Thursday-Saturday, October 31-November 2, in conjunction with Homecoming/Family Weekend. The Book Sale will run from 9 a.m.-midnight on Thursday, from 8 a.m.-10 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday. The sale will be held on the first floor of the library at the back of the building behind the current periodicals.

There will be items available such as cookbooks, children's literature, novels, videos and books representing various academic subject areas. Book sets and a few unique titles will also be offered at special prices.

Paperbacks will be on sale for 50 cents. Most hardcover books and videos will be on sale for $1.

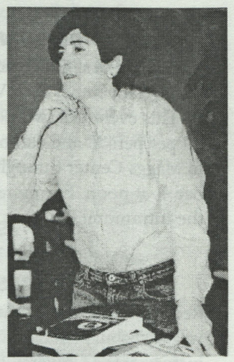
Library Hosts Local Author



Blackwell Library presents a talk by accomplished author and professor Dr. Gianni (formerly Nan) DeVincent Hayes on Saturday, November 2, at 11 a.m.

Hayes, of Salisbury, is the author of 14 books and over 100 articles and essays. Her diverse body of work includes romance novels, local history, how-to books and sci-fi thrillers such as Thy Brother's Keeper in which modern-day science grapples with cloning. A production company is developing the book into a movie.

As part of SU's Homecoming/Family Weekend festivities, Hayes will share her thoughts on the challenges of writing and sign her latest titles (for sale at the event). Light refreshments are served.

Wilde Theatre

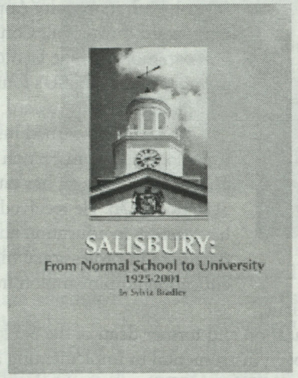
The Bobbi Biron Theatre program presents The Importance of Being Earnest, Oscar Wilde's immortal satire of the hypocrisy of class, education, morality and love in Victorian England. Remaining performances are Thursday-Sunday, October 31-November 3, at 8 p.m., except Sunday is at 2 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for students and seniors; students with current SU ID receive one free ticket. Tickets are available at the Information Desk in the Guerrieri University Center, or are available by calling the box office at 410-543-6228. Reservations are suggested.

Bradley's SU History Published



Sylvia Bradley, retired professor and University historian, has written Salisbury: From Normal School to University, the first comprehensive history SU has published.

Bradley, who joined the University in 1966, began writing an account of what was then Salisbury State College in 1974. Planned for publication in time for SSC's 50th anniversary in 1975, the book was completed but never published due to lack of funding.

For the next 25 years, Bradley continued to keep files on the campus, its students, faculty and staff as it evolved from State College to State University to the present Salisbury University.

Nearly 500 pages, the narrative includes interviews from many who were instrumental in the very conception and realization of a State "normal" school to train teachers in 1925. Often insightful, often revealing, photographs take readers back to a time when Salisbury was known for apple orchards, Maypole dances and formal dress in the dining hall.

Bradley's research took her through the campus archives, much of which was boxed in the library basement or culled from the Education Department, once the only "major" students came to study.

She also spent hundreds of hours talking with faculty and staff who had been at Salisbury during the early days. Those interviews, Bradley said, were some of the most rewarding as she was able to piece together some crucial turning points when administrators fought to keep the fledgling school open.

"It has been interesting to see a real continuity. We have fought the same battles with some commission or another since the doors opened," Bradley said. "Even the students, I found, really do change very little."

Bradley, who retired from the History Department in 2001, is currently writing two new books. She hopes to publish her research on the Loyalist Party on Delmarva during the Revolutionary War as well as a collection of source material on Nanticoke-area history.

Nearly three decades in the making, Salisbury: From Normal School to University is available at this week's Homecoming/Family Weekend festivities, the Edward H. Nabb Center for Delmarva History and Culture on SU's East Campus and at the University Bookstore for $36.75 (tax included).

For more information call the Office of Public Relations at 410-543-6030.

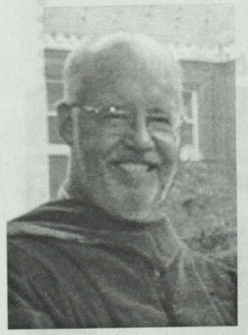
Alumni Honor Conners



Dr. Keith Conners

SU's Alumni Association recently presented Dr. Keith Conners, professor of education in the Seidel School, with its Faculty Appreciation Award during Fall Convocation ceremonies. One faculty member in each of SU's four schools received the award.

Conners, who earned his bachelor's degree in French from Middlebury College, has taught at SU since 1976. He received both his master's in education and doctorate in professional higher education administration from the University of Connecticut.

As professor of education and former dean of the Seidel School, Conners has been instrumental in implementing a Professional Development School (PDS) partnership between Salisbury University and Worcester County Public Schools. He has supervised SU student teachers and, in support of the intent of PDS, taught University courses on-site in Worcester County. Conners has also pioneered flexible instruction and student teaching schedules designed to better meet the needs of working adults and the public school system alike.

One of Conners former students said, "He once wrote on a paper of mine that I was a lot smarter than I give myself credit for. That one sentence I carried with me all these years and I will always remember him for it."

Field Hockey Secures No. 1 Seed for Tournament

Senior Jessica Manzone scored twice and three others tallied once as the nationally-ranked field hockey team completed its regular season Saturday with a 5-1 win over conference-rival Mary Washington. The Sea Gulls, ranked No. 3 in the nation, concluded the regular season with a 13-2 overall record and an unblemished 5-0 mark in the Capital Athletic Conference. Salisbury earned the No. 1 seed for the CAC Tournament and will try to secure its eighth straight conference championship.

The women's soccer team capped a 3-0 week with a 7-0 non-conference win over Immaculata on Saturday. Freshman Brandi Sproul scored twice and senior Kristey Lillis added one goal and one assist in the victory as SU improved to 9-6 overall. The Sea Gulls conclude the regular season at home against Villa Julie this week before beginning play in the CAC Tournament.

The men's soccer team will be the No. 2 seed in the CAC Tournament, which begins at home on Sunday. The Gulls, ranked 15th in the nation, bring an 11-2-1 overall record into their final regular season contest against Marymount on October 28.

The men's cross country team enjoyed another strong showing in last week's 34-team Gettysburg Invitational. The Gulls placed sixth overall, with three runners among the top 40 in a field that included 241 men. Andy Marrocco paced the Gulls, finishing 35th. Brad Ellis was 38th and Tristan Gilbert finished 40th. The women's team placed 17th of 30 squads, with Rebecca Lyons (77th) leading the Sea Gulls.

The volleyball team closes its regular season at the Elizabethtown Tournament this week before beginning play in the CAC Tournament on Tuesday. The Sea Gulls, 13-16 overall, enter the CAC Tournament as the No. 6 seed following a 3-4 finish during the conference's regular season.

The football team welcomes Wesley to Sea Gull Stadium for this week's Homecoming/Family Weekend game at 1 p.m. SU, ranked No. 20 in the nation, improved to 7-0 with a 31-6 win over Newport News Apprentice in last week's Oyster Bowl game in Hampton, VA. Freshman QB Dustin Johnson was named game MVP after rushing for 181 yards and two touchdowns. FB Reggie Boyce added 166 yards and a touchdown. Salisbury, which leads the nation in rushing, finished with 455 yards on the ground.

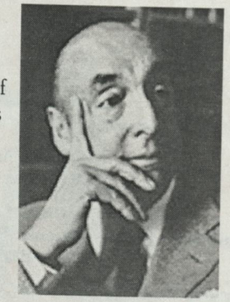
Naruda Continues Nobel Readings



Pablo Neruda

SU presents "Readings from Pablo Neruda" as part of its Cinco Estrallas Series on Latin America's Nobel Laureates in Literature on Thursday, November 7, at 7 p.m. at the Fireside Lounge, Guerrieri University Center. Lectures on two other "stars" are scheduled throughout the fall.

Born in Chile, Neruda is widely recognized as one of Latin America's greatest poets of the 20th century. For more than five decades, his poetry wandered from the romantic to the existential to the political to the everyday. He was awarded the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1971.

Professor Carolina Bown of the Department of Modern Languages will lead the discussion in both English and Spanish. Photocopies of the readings are available on reserve in the Blackwell Library. (Ask for the "Cinco Estrallas" file.)

Admission is free and open to the public. The event is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, call 410-543-6271.

New Student Experience: Call for Proposals

Would you like to help a new student succeed at Salisbury University? Do you feel that retention of students is paramount to the future success of the University? Did you know that bonding with faculty and staff is an essential part of a new students' academic, social and personal success at SU during their first semester? Then become a part of the SU success story.

The Office of New Student Experience is seeking faculty and full-time exempt staff to develop New Student Experience seminars for the new student population for fall 2003 semester. Tie the curriculum of the NSE seminars to a major or a minor. If you have a passion for a particular service-oriented program, turn that passion into a NSE seminar that will benefit you, SU students and the community.

If interested in pursuing this call-for-proposals, contact Lawanda Dockins-Gordy, director, Office of New Student Experience, Guerrieri University Center Room 222, to schedule an appointment at 410-543-6100 or ldgordy@salisbury.edu.

$1.3 Million Grant Goes to SU

Several counties on the Eastern Shore of Maryland are experiencing growth rates above 40 percent for U.S. immigrants whose native language is not English. Immersion of these students into Delmarva public school classrooms has created challenges for these young students as well as their monolingual teachers.

The passage of President Bush's "No Child Left Behind" act will put added pressure on these school systems when the mandate of 100 percent pass rate on statewide standardized tests in reading, writing and science is implemented in 2007.

In response to the obvious need for teachers experienced with students for whom English is a second language, Salisbury University has secured a $1.3 million five-year federal grant to create the Accelerated Career Enhancement (ACE) Master's in English/Teaching English as a Second Language (TESOL) at SU. The grant coming out of the U.S. Department of Education's Office of English Language Acquisition utilizes a model of expert training involving collaborative faculty expertise at SU, UMES and other state and national colleges and universities.

Participants in ACE will come from Caroline, Dorchester, Somerset, Talbot and Wicomico counties on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

"The ACE model aims to increase the quality and quantity of trained graduate degree-holding ESOL professionals on the Eastern Shore," said Dr. Anjali Pandey, a linguistics professor in the English Department who wrote the grant and will supervise its implementation.

"Thanks to the collaboration between SU, UMES and Eastern Shore public school systems," said Pandey, "we have been able to develop a relatively fast-track program that has high incentives for teachers in addition to improving routes of educational accessibility for Shore K-12 students.

"The courses are delivered in longer blocks of time than conventionally sequenced semester classes permitting for more intense continuous study and the eventual creation of 'flexible experts,'" said Pandey.

The 11-month niche-program, beginning in January and ending in November, is limited to 12 participants, two each from Caroline, Dorchester, Talbot and Somerset counties and four from Wicomico. Admission to the program, through a competitive application process, is open to qualified, licensed classroom teachers from various subject and grade levels.

Basketweaving Comes to SU

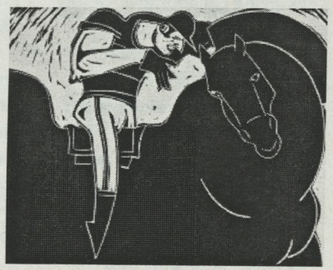
Basketweaving at SU? Not a course, however, but rather a hands-on workshop in traditional Indian basket design is Monday, November 18, at the Edward H. Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture. Two sessions are scheduled: 1-3:30 p.m. and 5-7:30 p.m.

Chief Dawn Manyfeathers, of Eden, MD, is director of the Lenapehauken Educational and Research Center, a nonprofit organization dedicated to public education about the Eastern Woodland Indians. She will demonstrate and assist participants in the making of a coil basket using pine needles.

The cost of the basketweaving workshop, held in conjunction with Native American History Month, is $20 per person ($15 for SU students and Nabb Research Center members). All materials are included. Class size is limited and reservations required. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Ángel Exhibit Opens Nov.15

The Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs presents "Félix Ángel: Selected Works 1991-2002" from Friday, November 15-Monday, December 16, in the Fulton Hall Gallery. The artist will be at the opening reception on Friday, November 15, from 6-8 p.m.



Born in Medillin, Columbia, Ángel settled in the United States in 1977. His paintings, drawings, engravings, prints, murals and collages have earned international accolades for nearly three decades. He has participated in more than 250 group exhibitions and nearly 100 solo shows, art competitions and fairs around the world.

Described as a contemporary artist whose "active lines" evoke a sense of visual immediacy, Ángel has stretched the boundaries of the role of an artist. In 1975 he published a novel, Te Quiero mucho, poquito, nada (I love you a lot, a little, not at all). He has written several art criticisms and is an editor of the Handbook of Latin American Studies.

In 1992 Ángel joined the Inter-American Development Bank to help establish the IDB Cultural Center. The recipient of numerous awards and distinctions, his works appear in several permanent collections in the U.S. and abroad.

The exhibit, part of SU's fall Latin American Culture Series, is free and open to the public. Fulton Hall Gallery hours are Tuesdays-Fridays, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and Saturday-Sunday, noon-4 p.m. For more information call 410-548-2547.

A Time To Share

Faculty and staff at SU are encouraged to participate in a payroll deduction personal giving opportunity: the 2002 Maryland Charity Campaign. Employees should have received contribution materials with their most recent paycheck.

The Maryland Charity Campaign provides State of Maryland employees with an annual, consolidated and convenient campaign serving an array of health and human service agencies. Employees may direct their contributions to their favorite charities from a wide and inclusive list of agencies. (Please see MCC 2002 directory.)

Through payroll deduction or a one-time contribution, the MCC enables employees to give generously to any of hundreds of worthy causes. The MCC is a uniquely effective way to help those in need.

All faculty and staff should have received a pledge card for the Campaign. To participate, please submit pledge card and contribution to Debbie Merryweather in the Financial Services Office, Holloway Hall Room 228, by Monday, December 2.

Prizes have been donated from the SU Foundation, the Bookstore and Dining Services for a random drawing for participants of the Campaign.

Campaign coordinator at the University is Gains Hawkins, Public Relations Office, 410-543-6030.

Garden Acosta Joins Riall Lecture Series

The winner of the 1998 Heinz Award for the Human Condition, Luis Garden Acosta, delivers this fall's Riall Lecture on Tuesday, November 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. In 1982 Acosta and his wife co-founded El Puente ("the bridge"), a human services organization that transformed one New York neighborhood.

Originally intended to address troubled youth in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn, NY, El Puente served as a catalyst for the development of the entire community and its residents. Intent on fixing more than "the killing fields" of Williamsburg, Garden Acosta had to change the way institutions traditionally related to the area and, in so doing, built a bridge to the church, the hospital, the school and the home.

El Puente now operates the Academy for Peace and Justice, the first public high school focused on human rights. Alumni have gone on to graduate from top universities. The organization also runs a health center focused on family health, childhood vaccinations and AIDS issues.

The unique social action movement has grown to other communities which are self-managed with technical assistance from El Puente's membership. The organization estimates the number of persons affected by their services to be more than 10,000 each year.

Garden Acosta, who gave up a career as a hospital administrator, believes that principles, not personalities, should serve as the anchor for El Puente. His commitment to culture and identity has been realized by creating a multicultural environment in which ethnic traditions are celebrated and respected.

Begun in 1988, the E. Pauline Riall Lecture Series brings to the University and community outstanding national lecturers in the field of education. The series was established by the late Miss Riall, long-time principal and teacher of the former Campus School at Salisbury University. A generous bequest was provided by Miss Riall's will to fund this special program.

The program, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Seidel School.

Study Abroad Travel Grants

SU is offering several travel grants to students who plan to study abroad during winter and spring 2003 sessions. Grant amounts may vary depending on individual circumstances. This grant stipulates that recipients will perform well academically in their classes and be willing to participate in study abroad workshops/information sessions upon their return.

Applicants need to have a declared major, be enrolled full time and have a 3.0 or higher GPA.

Applications are available in the International Student Services Office (Guerrieri University Center Room 229A), Global Programs Coordinator Office/Perdue School (Holloway Hall Room 005), Modern Languages Office (Holloway Hall Room 347) or the International Education Office (Guerrieri University Center Room 242C). Applications are also available online at www.salisbury.edu/Students/ISS/HelpYou/whatsnew.html.

Deadline for returning the applications is Friday, November 15. For more information, please contact Agata Liszkowska at 410-543-6313.

Youth Symphony Autumn Performance

The Salisbury Symphony Orchestra's Youth and Collegiate Symphony at SU performs in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall, on Thursday, November 14, at 7:30 p.m. The ensemble features University students and other musicians from across Delmarva.

The program includes "Procession of the Mastersingers" from "Die Meistersinger" by Richard Wagner, arranged by Bruno Reibold; "Chester" by William Billings; "Dance of the Tumblers" from Snow Maiden by Rimsky-Korsakoff; "Come Little Shepherds" from three Spanish carols arranged by Robert Bauernschmidt; "The Peanut Vendor" by Moises Simons; "The Penny-Whistle Song" by LeRoy Anderson featuring the flute section with Amanda Doss, Ashley Burton and Erin Meyer.

During the second half of the concert, the Collegiate Orchestra performs "Theme from Schindler's List" featuring principal violinist, Hannah Bienhoff, playing the hauntingly beautiful main theme. "English Folk Song Suite" by Ralph Vaughn Williams is a well-known medley of folk tunes arranged for symphony orchestra.

Math Comp 2002

Mathematics takes center stage at SU on Wednesday, November 13, when area high school students test their skills in the 19th annual High School Mathematics Competition.

Sixty-three students from 22 schools in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia will be called on to demonstrate their math expertise on an individual and team basis.

Conectiv, SunTrust and SU's Department of Mathematics and Computer Science are cosponsoring the event. "We are thrilled about our partnership with Conectiv and SunTrust," said Dr. Barbara Wainwright, coordinator for the Mathematics Competition. "Without their generous support in planning and funding, we would not be able to provide this valuable opportunity for area students to showcase their math talents."

Each student will receive a certificate of participation and commemorative T-shirt. U.S. Savings Bonds will be awarded to the top three students in the individual portion of the competition, as well as to students on the three best teams. Special math-related books will also be awarded to the top three students, as well as to students on the three best teams.

$1.3 Million Grant Goes to SU

12 courses plus a stipend for books.

Also included in the scholarship is a "Substitute Teacher Payment" for each participant for his/her respective county for six course meetings (24 altogether) held on weekdays in the program. This is an effort to ensure all participants have enough time to travel and be academically prepared for their course work. Six of the other courses are on weekends and during the summer months.

At the end of the program successful participants will earn a graduate degree in English/TESOL. Subsequent years will also be limited to 12 participants.

The ACE program faculty, who will have a minimum of a doctorate in the area of applied linguistics, TESOL or bilingual education, will be from SU and UMES as well as other colleges and universities. All courses will be taught at SU.

The culmination of each project year is a conference on the "No Child Left Behind" act as this relates to rural ESOL populations.

"By the end of the grant (November 2008)," said Pandey, "we hope there will be enough ESOL classroom teachers, coordinators and assessment and curriculum specialists in Eastern Shore public school systems to ensure the fair and accountable implementation of the 'No Child Left Behind' act as it relates to limited English speaking populations."

"The ACE program is based on two crucial premises of democratic education," said Pandey, "namely, that all children should have equal access to high-quality education, and that high-quality education comes from highly-qualified teachers, administrators and educational practitioners who have augmented their training in the content area beyond the required baccalaureate qualification.

"The ultimate beneficiaries of the grant will be the students, especially those with a limited English-speaking and writing background."

For more information on ACE, please call Pandey at 410-677-5387.

Education Majors Attend Conference

On Friday, October 11, 12 education majors attended Diamond State Reading Association's Annual Conference held in Dover, DE. The theme of this year's conference was "Literacy Instruction: Making It Different To Make a Difference."

The students joined over 600 other participants as they attended sessions by such notable children's literature authors/illustrators as Ralph Fletcher, Pamela Duncan Edwards and Henry Cole, and Ruth Heller. They also had an opportunity to choose from a variety of concurrent sessions addressing the topic of literacy.

Students attending were Jessica Davis, Theresa Driscoll, Rebecca Johnson, Mary Laurenzano, Lindsay Madden, Ashley Mann, Rachel Milby, Rebecca Price, Caroline Rajasingh, Tracee Torrillo, Kimberly Weaver and Ashley Williams. They were joined by their University professors, Drs. John Wolinski, Amy Meekins and Patricia Richards who presented sessions during the conference.

Ross Shares 'A Family Journey' In the Wilderness

Adventurer Cindy Ross narrates an hour-long multi-media presentation about her family's five-year journey in the untamed wilderness of the American Rockies on Monday, November 11, at 7 p.m. in the Great Hall in Holloway Hall.

Author of Scraping Heaven: A Family Journey Along the Continental Divide, Ross, her husband and their children, Bryce and Sierra, did the incredible. Using llamas as kid-carriers and packers and carrying supplies and diapers, they traveled by foot and tandem bicycle, braving weather extremes from glaciers and snowstorms to mud, heat waves and wind. This intrepid family used their summers remarkably while challenging the concepts of travel, family and unity.

Ross is the author of four books and hundreds of articles appearing in the Los Angeles Times, Boston Globe, Chicago Tribune and other publications.

Her talk is sponsored by the SU Outdoor and Cycling clubs. Admission is free and the public is invited.

University Night Gospel Event

On Friday-Saturday, November 15-16, the SU Gospel Choir presents its annual University Night. Friday evening will showcase a revival and a gospel concert is planned for Saturday. Both nights' events are in the Guerrieri Center's Wicomico Room at 7:30 p.m.

The Drama and Passion of Flamenco

The Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs at SU presents, back by popular demand, the drama and passion of flamenco dancer Micaela Morena and classical guitarist Miguel Perez on Wednesday, November 13, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Flamenco is considered the national dance of Spain and an integral part of Spanish-heritage music, dance and folklore. Audiences have long been captivated by this art form characterized by song ("Cante"), dance ("Baile") and guitar accompaniment ("Guitarra"). Born in the Andalusia region of 18th century Spain, flamenco dancing features festive traditional costumes and rhythmic guitar. Shows can include diverse styles of music such as jazz or salsa.

As a young girl, Morena first started dancing flamenco in Rockville, MD, under the tutelage of Ena Camargo and later Anna Menendez. She has performed for several embassies and at Latino festivals throughout the Washington, D.C. area.

Perez, who took up the guitar at the age of 8, began studying flamenco in his senior year at California State University Fullerton where he earned his bachelor's degree in music. He performs regularly for flamenco dance companies in Washington, D.C.

A flamenco dance master class is offered before the performance from 5-6 p.m. onstage in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The performance and the master class, free and open to the public, are part of SU's fall Latin American Culture Series. Call 410-543-6271 for more information.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

SU Student Research Conference Poster Contest

The SU Student Research Conference (SRC) Committee needs the creative help of students to advertise the spring conference, and it will award $250 for the best poster design. Original, creative and visually-arresting posters are desired.

The poster must include the conference name, times, locations and date of the event: Salisbury University Student Research Conference, April 25, 2003, 1-7 p.m., Henson Science Hall and Wicomico Room. All posters must be submitted as 8 1/2" x 11" Adobe Illustrator, MacroMedia Freehand, Adobe Photoshop or Quark XPress documents. All submissions must be received by Friday, November 15. Send submissions to Dr. Jill Caviglia-Harris, Economics Department, Holloway Hall Room 304.

The contest winner will be determined by the SRC Conference Committee. The contest is not open to family members of committee members. Only SU students are invited to submit entries to this contest. Poster designs involving large copyright fees may not be ranked as highly as those without such fees.

SU News Guidelines

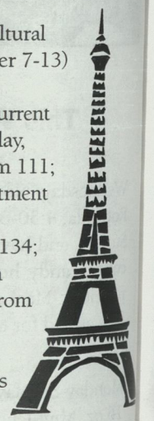
The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Celebrate French Week



The Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies celebrates National French Week (November 7-13) with *beaucoup d'*activities.

Remaining activities include a presentation by current SU students who have studied in France on Thursday, November 7, from 4-5 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 111; a talk by Dr. Wayne Ackerson of the History Department about his trip to Senegal this summer on Monday, November 11, from 7-8 p.m. in Fulton Hall Room 134; and a showing of the film My Father's Glory (French with English subtitles) on Tuesday, November 12, from 7-9 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 108.

The American Association of Teachers of French designated National French Week to raise awareness of French language and culture.

All events are open to the public and free. Ackerson is willing to bring his presentation to area schools; call him at 410-546-2868 or e-mail him at mwackerson@salisbury.edu.

For more information on French Week at SU, please call Dr. Arlene White of the Department of Modern Languages at 410-543-6253 or e-mail her at afwhite@salisbury.edu.

Business School Gets U.S. News Nod

The Perdue School of Business was recently featured in the directory of the 2003 edition of U.S. News & World Report's Best Graduate Schools.

Only four other schools of business at Maryland colleges and universities, public and private, were included in the directory: Loyola College's Sellinger School, Morgan State University's Graves School, the University of Baltimore's Merrick School and the University of Maryland College Park's Smith School.

For more information about the Perdue School, please call 410-543-6316.

Hu Earns Elmore Nursing Scholarship

Teresa Hu has been selected as a recipient of the Margaret Johnson Elmore Nursing Scholarship for the 2002-2003 academic year at SU. She is a graduate of Parkside High School and is currently an undergraduate nursing major in the University's traditional B.S.N. program.

"Teresa was chosen based on the belief that she possesses the exceptional qualifications, aptitude and potential for an outstanding career in nursing. This award should greatly assist her in achieving this goal and serving her community in this important capacity," said Mary DiBartolo, Department of Nursing scholarship coordinator.

The scholarship was established by Page Elmore in memory of his mother and has been in existence since 1993. It is awarded each year to nursing majors from the Eastern Shore of Virginia. Up to $3,000 a year for up to four years is available for incoming freshmen that meet the academic and residential criteria.

Any questions regarding nursing scholarships may be directed to DiBartolo at 410-543-6403.

Respiratory Students Have 100% Pass

All of the May graduates in the University's Respiratory Therapy Program recently passed the National Board for Respiratory Care's Certification Examination (a 100 percent pass rate).

The national average pass rate for Advanced Practitioner Respiratory Therapy Program is 75 percent. In addition, prior to graduation each graduate had achieved certification by the American Heart Association in Health Care Provider CPR, Advanced Cardiovascular Life Support, Neonatal Resuscitation and Pediatric Advanced Life Support. Also, all students that sought employment after graduation are employed.

Championship Week at SU

QB Dustin Johnson rushed for 95 yards, including a 68-yard touchdown, as the 8-0 Sea Gulls remained unbeaten with a thrilling 22-19 victory over Wesley before an overflow Homecoming crowd of 3,123 on Saturday.

It's championship week in the Capital Athletic Conference and once again, several Sea Gull teams will be key players in the title chase.

The field hockey team, which closed the regular season with a 13-2 record and No. 2 ranking in the national poll, begins its quest for an eighth straight CAC crown at home Wednesday against St. Mary's. A victory moves SU into Saturday's championship game against either York or Mary Washington. Bids and pairings for the NCAA Championship Tournament will be announced on Sunday.

The 15th-ranked men's soccer team began its title quest with a 2-0 win over Marymount on Sunday. Tim Lane and Fanor Ramos netted goals and the defense posted its 11th shutout of the season. The Gulls (13-2-1) host York in the tournament's semifinal round Wednesday. A victory would move SU into Saturday's championship game against either St. Mary's or Mary Washington.

The women's soccer team also began tournament play with a first round victory, blanking Goucher 3-0 on Saturday. Salisbury (11-6) hosts York in Tuesday's semifinal round. With a win, SU will host either St. Mary's or Mary Washington in Saturday's championship game. The tournament winner earns an automatic berth into next week's NCAA Championship Tournament.

The men's and women's cross country teams also compete for CAC championships on Saturday. York (PA) College will serve as championship host.

The volleyball team (16-19) visits Mary Washington in the first round of its tournament on Tuesday. The Gulls are trying to claim their third CAC title in five years.

Meanwhile, the football team remained unbeaten with a thrilling 22-19 Homecoming win over Wesley on Saturday. The 8-0 Sea Gulls visit Ferrum in a non-conference clash this week, then face Frostburg on November 16 in the Regents Cup Game that will also decide the champion of the Atlantic Central Football Conference.

Seidel Challenge Met

SU and the Eastern Shore community said thank you this week to one of the area's leading families with a million dollar contribution to their favorite project: the Samuel W. and Marilyn C. Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies.

Sam and Marilyn Seidel

With the successful completion of the Seidel Challenge Campaign, officially launched a little over a year ago, the Seidel School now enjoys an endowment of some $2.5 million—on par with the founding endowments of its sisters schools: the Perdue School of Business, the Fulton School of Liberal Arts and the Henson School of Science and Technology.

"Sam would be very pleased that people have continued to honor him in this way," said his wife, Marilyn. "The family and I are proud and appreciative." Her husband died last year.

"The successful completion of the Seidel Challenge is ultimately a tribute to those values we hold dear on the Eastern Shore," said SU President Janet Dudley-Eshbach. " The Seidels, a Salisbury family with high principles, worked hard to make their dreams a reality and have helped others to do the same. The Seidel name will always be synonymous with fairness, public service and advancement through education. A grateful community has responded enthusiastically to their unselfishness."

More than half of the million dollars raised is earmarked for scholarships, which are particularly important to the Seidels. "The real goal of the endowment is to get good people into education," said Sam Seidel when he and his wife endowed the school in 1997. In addition, funds were also designated for library acquisitions, equipment, and faculty recruitment and research.

The campaign has enjoyed widespread community support, including a $150,000 matching gift from the Perdue-Kresge Fund, through the Community Foundation of the Eastern Shore.

The Seidel family's hope of attracting the best into education comes at a critical time. By next year, over 50 percent of Maryland's teachers become eligible for retirement and the teacher shortage has prompted national headlines on hiring efforts by desperate school systems.

This year the Seidel School has enrolled some 1,454 students in its departments of Education, Social Work and Physical Education. "The Seidel endowment will allow us to continue attracting some of Maryland's most promising young people into teaching careers," said Dr. Dennis Pataniczek, dean of the Seidel School.

Basketweaving Comes to SU

Chief Dawn Manyfeathers

Basketweaving at SU? Not a course, however, but rather a hands-on workshop in traditional Indian basket design is Monday, November 18, at the Edward H. Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture. Two sessions are scheduled: 1-3:30 p.m. and 5-7:30 p.m.

Chief Dawn Manyfeathers, of Eden, MD, is director of the Lenapehauken Educational and Research Center, a nonprofit organization dedicated to public education about the Eastern Woodland Indians. She will demonstrate and assist participants in the making of a coil basket using pine needles.

The cost of the basketweaving workshop, held in conjunction with Native American History Month, is $20 per person ($15 for SU students and Nabb Research Center members). All materials are included. Class size is limited and reservations required. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

University Night Gospel Event

On Friday-Saturday, November 15-16, the SU Gospel Choir presents its annual University Night. Friday evening will showcase a revival and a gospel concert is planned for Saturday. Both events are in the Guerrieri Center's Wicomico Room at 7:30 p.m.

Silent Peace Vigil

Area organizations including the Peace Alliance of the Lower Shore (PALS) and some area religious groups will again be holding a silent peace vigil from 2-3 p.m. on Sunday, November 17, at the Route 13 and College Avenue intersection. Participants support a peaceful solution to the Iraqi conflict. The campus community is invited to participate.

Access 26 Goes Live

Access 26 began televising live local government programming starting November 5. A26 will carry both city and county council meetings live as well as taping the events for rebroadcast. City Council meetings are held the second and fourth Monday of each month at 7 p.m., County Council meetings are held the first and third Tuesday of each month at 10 a.m. In the future, A26 may also televise other municipal meetings from the chambers as well. Additional program information is available at www.access26.org.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

QuinTango Returns

SU presents the world-renowned tango music group QuinTango on Saturday, November 23, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

A master class is offered from 5-6 p.m. onstage in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The performance and the master class, both free and open to the public, are sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. For more information call 410-543-6271.

Youth Symphony Performance

The Salisbury Symphony Orchestra's Youth and Collegiate Symphony at SU performs in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall, on Thursday, November 14, at 7:30 p.m. The ensemble features University students and other musicians from across Delmarva.

The program includes "Procession of the Mastersingers" from "Die Meistersinger" by Richard Wagner, arranged by Bruno Reibold; "Chester" by William Billings; "Dance of the Tumblers" from Snow Maiden by Rimsky-Korsakoff; "Come Little Shepherds" from three Spanish carols arranged by Robert Bauernschmidt; "The Peanut Vendor" by Moises Simons; and "The Penny-Whistle Song" by LeRoy Anderson featuring the flute section with Amanda Doss, Ashley Burton and Erin Meyer.

Tickets, sold at the door, are $5 for adults and $2 for children 18 and under.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

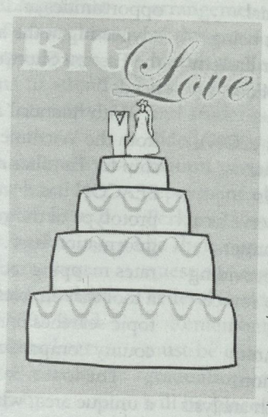
Music, Song and Flying Wedding Cake



The Bobbi Biron Theatre Program presents Big Love from November 20-25, in the Fulton Hall Theatre.

The 2001-02 Obie Award-winner was written by Charles Mee. Inspired by a diverse range of authors, Mee appropriates texts and ideas from philosophy, contemporary literature, current events and popular culture. Big Love examines the meaning of love, commitment and free will in this comic romp filled with intrigue, wrestling and flying wedding cake.

Communication and theatre arts faculty member Robert Smith directs the play. "Big Love," he said, "gives theatre students an opportunity to address elements related to musical theatre in unusual ways.

"Being presentational, addressing the audience directly, blending music and song, wild movement with words, not pretending to be other than theatrical, the play offers the opportunity to produce a more stylized, even symbolic event," Smith said.

Performances are at 8 p.m. with an additional 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday, November 24. Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for students and seniors; students with current SU ID receive one free ticket. Tickets are available at the Information Desk in the Guerrieri University Center or by calling the Box Office at 410-543-6228. Reservations are suggested.

An Evening Of Classical Music

As a fund-raising event for the Dr. John W. Sutton Scholarship, University of Maryland Eastern Shore presents pianist Natasha Koval-Paden on Sunday, November 17, 4-6 p.m., in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

The scholarship benefits UMES graduate students studying to be rehabilitation counselors. A dessert reception will immediately follow the concert in the Social Room. The concert fee is $10. For more information call 410-651-0549 or 410-651-6262.

Classical Guitar Concert November 22

SU presents classical guitarist Lars Helgert on Friday, November 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall.

Helgert performs works from Dowland, de Mudarra, Johann Sebastian Bach, Brouwer and others. A faculty member in the Department of Music, he is pursuing a doctorate in music history at Catholic University.

The recital, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Department of Music. For more information call 410-543-6385.

President Dudley-Eshbach Reads Paz

SU presents "Readings from Octavio Paz" as part of its Cinco Estrallas ("five stars") Series on Latin America's Nobel Laureates in Literature on Thursday, November 21, at 7 p.m. at the Fireside Lounge, Guerrieri University Center.

Essayist, poet and diplomat, Paz was one of the great public intellectuals of 20th century Mexico. For most of the second half of the century, his essay "The Labyrinth of Solitude" was considered the foundational statement about the Mexican national character. Paz was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1990.

University President Janet Dudley-Eshbach leads the discussion in both English and Spanish. She completed undergraduate studies in Spanish and Latin American studies at Indiana University and earned her doctorate in Hispanic literature at El Colegio De Mexico in Mexico City. In 1980, Dudley-Eshbach undertook post-doctoral study in Chile on a Fulbright-Hays Grant.

Readings from Gabriel Garcia Márquez by Dr. Keith Brower Thursday, November 14 7 p.m., Fireside Lounge

Photocopies of the readings are available on reserve in the Blackwell Library. (Ask for the "Cinco Estrallas" file.)

Admission is free and open to the public. The event is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, call 410-543-6271.

Holiday Door Decorating Contest

Holloway Hall artistes take note: The fourth annual Holloway Hall Holiday Door Decorating Contest is upon us. As in previous years, any door that opens onto a public corridor in Holloway Hall is eligible to enter. An anonymous, unbiased, open-minded, tolerant, kind, but with good taste, and discerning panel of judges will evaluate decorations based on creativity, originality, beauty, imaginations, good intentions, high moral standards, humor and/or execution. (These judges are easy.) Winners receive two pizzas and runners-up cookies from University Dining Services, courtesy of the President's Office. Judging occurs December 9-10. Decorators take note: Think Martha Stewart without the insider trading. Or think whatever you want. It's the holidays! Call Richard Culver in Public Relations at 410-543-6017 (Ext. 36017), for more information.

Students Win $200, Just Complete Survey

The SU Office of Housing and Residence Life invites any SU undergraduate student to take a chance to have $200, $100 or $50 put on her/his Gull Card simply by filling out an online housing survey. To participate, students can log on to www.andersonstrickler.com/survey/su. Respondents do not need to live on campus.

The deadline for completing surveys is Monday, November 18. Only one survey per student, please. Winners will be randomly selected from survey respondents. The survey results will become part of a comprehensive student housing planning study and will only be used for reporting/planning purposes. For more information, call the Housing Office at 410-543-6040.

Master Plan e-Survey

The Facilities Master Plan outlining campus needs over the next 5-10 years is currently being developed by a group of consultants led by CS&D. These consultants met with over 25 groups of SU faculty, staff and students in September. In an effort to solicit as wide array of opinions and suggestions as possible, the consultants have now created questionnaires for students, faculty and staff. The surveys have already been sent out to everyone with an SU e-mail account, and managers have been asked to solicit the input of staff who may not have accounts. Please take the time to complete the survey and return it directly to CS&D by e-mail by Monday, November 25. Make your views about our campus home heard.

BEACON Planning Regional Information Base

An automated regional information base is being developed for the lower Eastern Shore by the Business, Economic and Community Outreach Network (BEACON), affiliated with the Perdue School of Business. This information base will serve as a critical tool for area planners and decision makers, providing a Web-based, one-stop source for regional economic, workforce and community development information, including vital in-depth analysis of local trends.

"Good planning requires good information," said Ruth Baker, BEACON's managing director. "However, our region currently has no centralized, searchable repository for the kind of information that is critical to planning, such as regionally relevant industry and labor statistics, socio-economic indicators and trend forecasting. This results in missed opportunities and difficulty in advocating at the state level for the Eastern Shore's unique needs."

With financial assistance from the Wicomico Partnership for Families and Children, BEACON has developed a prototype of the regional information base. It incorporates mapping technology into a tool that enables county or topic searches and county-by-county comparisons.

"The lower Eastern Shore is a unique area, whose needs are not always well understood at the state level," said BEACON Director Memo Diriker. "This tool will help local decision makers be proactive, rather than reactive, in developing the region's true potential for economic prosperity and quality of life."

For more information on the regional information base contact BEACON at 410-548-5353 or beacon@salisbury.edu.

Perkins Loan Exit Interview

December 2002, graduating Federal Perkins Loan borrowers are required by federal regulations to attend a mandatory exit interview for their Federal Perkins Student Loan. Those students who choose not to attend will have their diplomas and academic records held.

Perkins Loan borrowers who are anticipating graduating in December 2002 need to contact the Perkins Loan Office at 410-546-6201 or Ext. 66201 or stop by Holloway Hall Room 217 to schedule an appointment. The sessions are scheduled for Monday, November 25, in the Montgomery Room (Commons Room 214), at 9-10 a.m. and 3-4 p.m.

There will be no make-up sessions; students must make arrangements to attend one of these two scheduled meetings. Each session will last approximately one hour and students will be provided with pertinent information pertaining to the repayment of their Federal Perkins Loan. This will also be their opportunity to ask questions regarding their Federal Perkins Loan.

Remember, this interview must be completed before graduation or a hold flag will be placed on students' accounts and their diploma and/or academic records will be withheld.

This Federal Perkins Loan exit interview is in no way associated with the separate exit process students may need to attend for the Direct/Stafford Student Loan.

Art Scholarship Sale

The Cavallaro Cleary Visual Arts Foundation (CCART) annual Arts and Crafts Sale is Tuesday-Sunday, November 19-24, at the Cleary Gallery & Studio. An opening reception is 5-9 p.m., Tuesday, November 19.

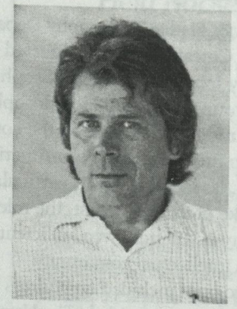
CCART, founded in 1999, is a non-profit organization which funds scholarships and awards for students pursuing careers in the visual arts. Thirteen students to date have received CCART scholarships and awards generated from art sales and private and business donations.

The Arts and Crafts Sale features original drawings, pottery, paintings, prints, jewelry, glassware, silkware and music by over 75 well-known artists.

The November 19 opening reception features a silent auction and door prizes. Attendees receive one door prize ticket for every $20 spent on art.

The Cleary Gallery & Studio is located at 118-B North Division Street, above Aesop's Antiques. For more information contact CCART co-founder Marie Cavallaro of SU's Department of Art at 410-543-6273 or 410-546-1068.

Skinner Opens Writers-on-the-Shore Series



As part of its Writers-on-the-Shore series, the Department of English presents poet and author Jeffrey Skinner on Monday, November 25, at 8 p.m. in the Commons, Montgomery Room.

The author of four award-winning volumes of poetry (Late Stars, A Guide to Forgetting, The Company of Heaven and Gender Studies), Skinner has been Poet-in Residence at The Frost Place and the James Merrill House. When not residing in the homes of dead poets, he teaches at the University of Louisville. His poems have appeared in The New Yorker, The Atlantic, The Yale Review and numerous other publications.

The reading is free and open to the public. For more information call Dr. Michael Waters at 410-543-6540.

PACE Gets Out the Vote

The Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement (PACE) has been actively involved during this fall semester in student voter registration. In addition to new voter registrations, volunteers and interns helped students apply for absentee ballots.

Drs. Harry Basehart and Francis Kane, co-directors of PACE, emphasized the importance of student involvement in the voting process. Basehart, chair of the Political Science Department, said that with the amount of paperwork involved in registration and absentee ballots, the voter registration tables staffed by PACE were a much-needed service to encourage students to become politically involved.

Heading the student team of around 20 volunteers and nine interns, Ron Cirillo also recruited professors and educators to invite PACE into their classrooms to spread the word about their voter registration drive. He is pleased with the involvement of the faculty, which has increased significantly over the previous years.

"Students have the lowest involvement by age group in the voting process," said Kane of the Philosophy Department. "PACE is hoping to increase these numbers by launching this campaign on the campus each fall."

Alice Wilkerson, a political science major and student intern at PACE, got involved partly because of such statistics. She said, "At one point in time, people in our age group fought to have the right to vote, and now students don't take advantage of that right. The voter registration drive makes it easier for college students to register and vote. Many students don't know how to register or get absentee ballots. However, by bringing the information to them through the drive, many more students are able to exercise their right to vote."

In this gubernatorial race year, the voter registration project was important to give students a voice in their government. In 2004, the presidential election year, PACE will be involved in an even larger effort to get students involved in the voting process as well as offering programs to raise their political awareness.

To learn more about the voter registration project or to become involved, contact PACE at 410-677-5045.

England Shares Research

Dr. Richard England, assistant director of the Bellavance Honors Program, presents two papers at national conferences this November. The first, on the scientific friendships of Oxford Movement leader Edward Pusey, is part of the "Individuals and Communities" panel at the History of Science Society annual meeting in Milwaukee, WI.

The second, on the metaphysical thought of Victorian biologist George Romanes, is an invited contribution to the Toronto meeting of the American Academy of Religions 19th Century Theology group.

England is also editing a set of primary source volumes tentatively titled Design after Darwin: 1860-1900. It addresses both well- and lesser-known British discussions of the effect of Darwinism on the argument for God's existence from the apparent design of nature. The set is due out late next year from U.K. publisher Thoemmes Press.

Zaprowski Presents At Geological Society

Dr. Brent Zaprowski of the Henson School presented "Using GIS to Estimate Climatic Influences on River Incision" at the 114th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America in Denver.

Assistant professor in the Geography and Geosciences Department, Zaprowski's research focuses on how much major changes in climate can cause landscapes to erode. The study uses elevation data from 40 river basins in the midwestern United States to measure how much erosion one might expect from an increase in storm activity in that region.

Hatley Directs Philosophy Meeting

Dr. James Hatley, Philosophy Department, recently returned from Chicago where he directed the first official meeting of the Society for Continental Philosophy in a Jewish Context.

This group, consisting of philosophers from a variety of religious traditions, focuses on the contributions of Jewish thought to European and Euro-American philosophy over the last 200 years. Its membership is particularly concerned about how, in the wake of the Holocaust, the role of Jewish thought in philosophy is still not given sufficient attention by the Euro-American intellectual community.

The program included an address by Bettina Bergo of Duquesne University titled "The Unacknowledged Debt of Heidegger to the Jewish Tradition." There was also an animated discussion of two philosophical texts of Emmanuel Levinas on Heidegger led by Drs. Robert Gibbs of Toronto University and Sandor Goodhart of Purdue University.

During Hatley's visit to Chicago, he also had the chance to visit with and hear a talk by Dr. Ted Toadvine, an SU alumnus in philosophy who is currently teaching at Emporia State University. Toadvine's address was featured in a plenary session of the International Association for Environmental Philosophy. In it, he discussed whether and in what sense nature can be said to have a language.

Pi Gamma Mu Chapter Earns Roll of Distinction

Maryland Gamma, SU's chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the international honor society in social science, was recently awarded the Roll of Distinction. The Roll of Distinction is the highest award granted to a chapter by the board of trustees of the society. The award is based on the annual activities of the chapter, social service and its involvement in campus life. The award was announced at the Triennial, the international meeting of the society, in Atlanta.

Dean Fafoutis, a member of the History Department, was installed as the new editor of the International Social Science Review, the official journal of the society, at the meeting. As editor of the journal, Fafoutis is also a member of the board of trustees.

Dr. Richard Bowler and Dr. Clara L. Small, the chancellor of the North Eastern Region of Pi Gamma Mu, also attended the Triennial. It was also announced that Small was reelected to a third three-year term as chancellor of the region. Bowler and Small are two of the advisors of the local chapter, along with Drs. Michael Lewis and Melanie Perreault.

Quinn Earns Alumni Association Honor

SU's Alumni Association recently presented Joseph Quinn, professor of accounting in the Perdue School, with its Faculty Appreciation Award during Fall Convocation ceremonies. One faculty member in each of SU's four schools received the award.

Quinn, a certified public accountant for 25 years, began teaching at SU 1989. He earned his bachelor's in business administration from the University of Maryland College Park in 1987 and his M.B.A. from SU in 1990. Author of numerous journal publications, Quinn is also a consultant in real estate management and development whose business success translates into real-world insights for his classes.

Former students praised Quinn as a mentor for professional and personal development, saying, "He not only made sure students understood the concept and material at hand, but also helped them walk away with strong analytical and decision making skills."

Making a Difference: The American Lung Association of Maryland, Inc. recently recognized Amelia Hallworth, 7, with its annual Community Service Award. She was cited for her independent fund-raising efforts on behalf of the ALA. Last fall, Amelia sold handmade Christmas tree ornaments to family members and friends and sent the proceeds to the Lung Association. The award presentation was made at the ALA of Maryland's Annual Meeting and Services Awards event at the Sheraton International Hotel at BWI Airport. Amelia, a second-grade student at Westside Intermediate School, is the daughter of Rob Hallworth, SU's director of international education.

Academy for Leadership In Education Receives Gift

Peninsula Bank recently made a gift of $5,000 to the Academy for Leadership in Education at SU.

Jeffrey Turner, president and CEO of Peninsula Bank, said, "This investment in the future leadership of our public schools is one that even a cautious banker can guarantee will yield a positive return for our community. Peninsula Bank is excited about being a partner with the Academy and with Salisbury University."

"The intent of the Academy," said Dr. Gerry Rossi, associate dean of the Seidel School, "is to provide a perspective on leadership that is based on the models from business and industry as well as education. The emphasis is on developing individual leadership skills and a network of leadership teams."

The Academy was developed to attract and prepare experienced and aspiring educational leaders, who are recommended by their respective school superintendent, in a two-year series of in-depth training sessions beginning with leadership and change, including instructional leadership. Many of the Academy participants will have already completed an advanced degree in educational leadership but need the opportunity to experience specialized training.

Upcoming Academy sessions feature Neil Dowling, director of human resources planning and development at Perdue Farms, Inc.; Dr. Darrell Mullins, chair or SU's Communications Department, presenting "Dealing with Difficult Situations" and "Communicating a Vision"; Dr. Joan Buffone, assistant superintendent of Kent County Public Schools, presenting "Adult Learning and Change Theory"; and Dr. Frank Shipper, SU Management and Marketing Department faculty member, presenting "What Effective Managers Do."

The Greater Salisbury Committee was instrumental in bringing together area school superintendents and SU officials to discuss the concept of the Academy. Business and industry have been involved in the planning and development of the Academy from its inception. The 53 participants enrolled in the inaugural class of the Academy are teachers or administrators in school districts from Dover, DE, to Tangier, VA.

Field Hockey, Men's Soccer Teams Earn NCAA Tournament Bids

The field hockey and men's soccer teams begin play in their respective NCAA championship tournaments this week after capturing Capital Athletic Conference championships on Saturday.

Salisbury will serve as one of four regional field hockey hosts this weekend. The Sea Gulls, 15-2 overall, face New England College (16-2) in Saturday's, November 16, opening game at 10 a.m. SUNY-Cortland and Lynchburg meet in Saturday's second game at 1 p.m. Saturday's winners meet Sunday at 1 p.m. for a berth in the final four.

The Gulls, ranked third in the nation, are making their ninth straight and 18th overall appearance in the NCAA Tournament. SU has advanced to the final four five times, and won the national championship with a perfect 21-0 record in 1986.

The men's soccer team has been placed in the four-team regional to be hosted by Roanoke (VA) College. The regional will be played on Friday/Saturday or Saturday/Sunday, depending on the outcome of a first-round game between Messiah and Johns Hopkins on Wednesday. If Messiah wins, SU plays Messiah on Friday. If Hopkins wins, SU plays Hopkins on Saturday.

Salisbury, 13-2-2 overall and ranked sixth in the nation, is making its third NCAA Tournament appearance in four years. SU had its best postseason showing in 1999, when it advanced to the final eight.

Salisbury is also serving as host for the NCAA Mideast Cross Country Regional, to be run on Saturday, November 16, at Winter Place Park. Over 40 teams are expected to compete in both the men's and women's races. The regional serves as the team and individual qualifier for next week's NCAA National Championship Meet in Northfield, MN.

The football team will try to cap an undefeated regular season with a victory in the Regents Cup Game against Frostburg, Saturday in Towson. A Sea Gull victory will also secure the Atlantic Central Football Conference championship and provide SU with its first NCAA Tournament berth since 1986.

Wenke on NPR, the Web

Dr. John Wenke, professor of English, was recently a featured guest on the nationally syndicated public radio show, "To the Best of Our Knowledge." His broadcast can be heard via the Web at www.wpr.org/book/.

The one-hour program looks at the life of famed fiction writer J.D. Salinger and his legacy to American culture. Also interviewed with Wenke are Garrison Keillor of Lake Wobegon fame and Margaret Salinger, daughter of J.D. Salinger, who wrote a memoir of life with her father titled Dream Catcher.

Wenke is a nationally recognized Salinger scholar and author of the book, J.D. Salinger, A Study of the Short Fiction.

"Best of our Knowledge" is produced by Wisconsin Public Radio and hosted by Jim Fleming. Each of its two one-hour programs weekly explores a topic in-depth. They are broadcast nationally.

Field Hockey Returns To Final Four; Football Earns NCAA Playoff Berth

For the second time in three years and the sixth time in the history of the program, the Salisbury field hockey team has advanced to the NCAA's final four. The Sea Gulls, 17-2 overall and ranked third in the nation, face No. 1 ranked Rowan (19-0) in the national semifinal Friday, November 22, at noon in Springfield, MA. A victory would move SU into Saturday's national championship game against either No. 2 Messiah or No. 4 New Jersey.

The Sea Gulls earned their ticket to Springfield with victories over New England College and Cortland State in last week's regional playoffs. Junior Lindsey Elliott and sophomore Erin Budd scored two goals each to lead SU past New England 6-1. Elliott, sister Brittany and senior Jess Manzone tallied markers in Salisbury's 3-1 win over Cortland in the regional final.

"It's always a thrill and honor to get to the final four," said Head Coach Dawn Chamberlin. "This team has worked very hard all season long and has played some excellent hockey, especially in the last couple of weeks. We set a number of goals before the season started and we've met all of those goals up to this point. The final goal is to win the national championship."

The Sea Gulls carry a seven-game winning streak into Friday's national semifinal and have outscored their oppo-

Perkins Loan Exit Interview

December 2002, graduating Federal Perkins Loan borrowers are required by federal regulations to attend a mandatory exit interview for their Federal Perkins Student Loan. Those students who choose not to attend will have their diplomas and academic records held.

Perkins Loan borrowers who are anticipating graduating in December 2002 need to contact the Perkins Loan Office at 410-546-6201 or Ext. 66201 or stop by Holloway Hall Room 217 to schedule an appointment. The sessions are scheduled for Monday, November 25, in the Montgomery Room (Commons Room 214), at 9-10 a.m. and 3-4 p.m.

There will be no make-up sessions; students must make arrangements to attend one of these two scheduled meetings. Each session will last approximately one hour and students will be provided with pertinent information pertaining to the repayment of their Federal Perkins Loan. This will also be their opportunity to ask questions regarding their Federal Perkins Loan.

Remember, this interview must be completed before graduation or a hold flag will be placed on students' accounts and their diploma and/or academic records will be withheld.

This Federal Perkins Loan exit interview is in no way associated with the separate exit process students may need to attend for the Direct/Stafford Student Loan.

Graduating Stafford Loan Borrowers

December graduating Stafford Loan borrowers are reminded to complete the Direct Loan Exit Interview Online Session by Monday, December 2. Students will need to visit www.dlservicer.ed.gov to complete this federal mandate. Those students who choose not to complete the online exit session(s) will have their academic records held.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Any questions may be directed to Monica Shores, mss5781@salisbury.students.edu.

SU News Guidelines

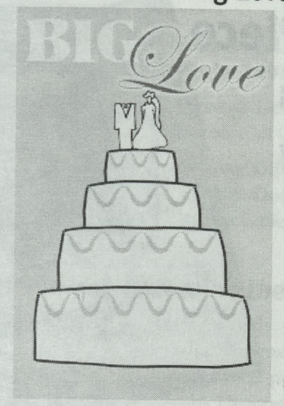
The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Christine Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Make Time for Big Love



The Bobbi Biron Theatre Program presents Big Love through November 25, in the Fulton Hall Theatre.

The 2001-02 Obie Award-winner was written by Charles Mee. Inspired by a diverse range of authors, Mee appropriates texts and ideas from philosophy, contemporary literature, current events and popular culture. Big Love examines the meaning of love, commitment and free will in this comic romp filled with intrigue, wrestling and flying wedding cake.

The cast includes Bill Baisey, Diana Giattino, Patrick Herb, Kendra Jones, Jason Lang, Priscilla Magalee, Sean Michalski, Lindsey Porter and Alex Scott.

Performances are at 8 p.m. with an additional 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday, November 24. Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for students and seniors; students with current SU ID receive one free ticket. Tickets are available at the Information Desk in the Guerrieri University Center or by calling the Box Office at 410-543-6228. Reservations are suggested.

Wind Ensemble Concert

The University Wind Ensemble performs on Tuesday, December 10, at 7:30 p.m. on the stage of Holloway Hall Auditorium. The performance, free and open to the public, features as its guest artist soprano Beth Holder, who will perform "Four Maryland Songs" for soprano and wind ensemble written by composer Jack Stamp in 2001.

The SU Wind Ensemble will also premiere the 2002 "Ballerbach Consortium" commission, Pater Noster, written by composer John Franzten. The composition was composed in response to the tragedy of September 11, 2001, and is based on the Gregorian chant, "Our Father." Franzten currently teaches music in the public schools in the Severna Park area of Maryland.

The SU Wind Ensemble is under the direction of Dr. Richard L. Johnson, professor of music and director of instrumental music at the University. Johnson teaches courses in undergraduate and graduate conducting, orchestration and arranging, instrumental methods and music education. He currently serves as chair of the Department of Music in the Fulton School of Liberal Arts.

For more information about the concert, please call the SU Music Department at 410-543-6385.

Classical Guitar Concert November 22

SU presents classical guitarist Lars Helgert on Friday, November 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall.

Helgert performs works from Dowland, de Mudarra, Johann Sebastian Bach, Brouwer and others. A faculty member in the Department of Music, he is pursuing a doctorate in music history at Catholic University.

The recital, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Department of Music. For more information call 410-543-6385.

Holiday Chorale Concert

The annual holiday concert by the SU Chorale and Chamber Choir is Sunday, December 8, at 4 p.m. at Asbury United Methodist Church.

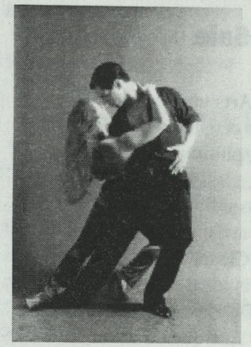
Patrick Freer, director of choral activities, has planned a performance with contemporary and classical works. The student director for the Chorale is Erin Waggoner with University accompanist Susan Zimmer. The Chamber Choir student conductor is Patrick Gates with student accompanist Sung Eun Kim.

The Chamber Choir performs "The Gloria" from Puccini's Messe di Gloria featuring tenor soloist Curtis White ('00). Among the numerous other soloists and instrumentalists, mezzo soprano Lauren Stott is soloist with the combined choir performance of Robert Ray's "Gospel Magnificat."

Freer, also instructor of music education at SU, is an accomplished educator and author. An active pianist, clinician and conductor, his choirs have performed at such prestigious venues as Carnegie Hall and the United Nations.

The performance is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6385.

QuinTango Sizzles on SU Stage



SU presents the world-renowned tango music group QuinTango on Saturday, November 23, at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The only such group to give a command performance at The White House, QuinTango has been featured on network television in the U.S. and abroad. The five-member troupe includes violinists Joan Singer and Rachel Schenker, cellist Jorge Espinoza, pianist Bruce Steeg and Libby Blatt on double bass. QuinTango's music is expressed in dance by Argentinian guest artists Carina Losano and Pablo Repun.

The group's belief that music allows diverse cultures to recognize what they have in common has resulted in such adventurous programming as performances of Turkish tango. Their educational mission offers a variety of outreach programs for all grade levels.

With sizzling energy and contagious passion, QuinTango performed 46 concerts last season in venues ranging from elementary schools to packed concert halls.

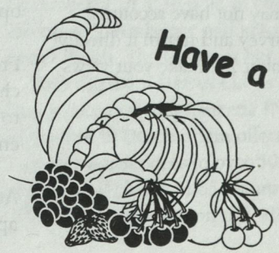
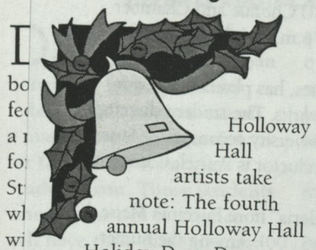
The performance and the master class, both free and open to the public, are sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. For more information call 410-543-6271.



Holiday Door Decorating Contest



Holloway Hall artists take note: The fourth annual Holloway Hall Holiday Door Decorating Contest is upon us. As in previous years, any door that opens onto a public corridor in Holloway Hall is eligible to enter. An anonymous, unbiased, open-minded, tolerant, kind, but with good taste, and discerning panel of judges will evaluate decorations based on creativity, originality, beauty, imaginations, good intentions, high moral standards, humor and/or execution. (These judges are easy.) Winners receive two pizzas and runners-up cookies from University Dining Services, courtesy of the President's Office. Judging occurs December 9-10. Decorators take note: Think Martha Stewart without the insider trading. Or think whatever you want. It's the holidays! Call Richard Culver in Public Relations at 410-543-6017 for more information.

Art Scholarship Sale

The Cavallaro Cleary Visual Arts Foundation (CCART) annual Arts and Crafts Sale runs through November 24, at the Cleary Gallery & Studio.

CCART, founded in 1999, is a non-profit organization which funds scholarships and awards for students pursuing careers in the visual arts. Thirteen students to date have received CCART scholarships and awards generated from art sales and private and business donations.

The Arts and Crafts Sale features original drawings, pottery, paintings, prints, jewelry, glassware, silkware and music by over 75 well-known artists.

The Cleary Gallery & Studio is located at 118-B North Division Street, above Aesop's Antiques. For more information contact CCART co-founder Marie Cavallaro of SU's Department of Art at 410-543-6273 or 410-546-1068.

Master Plan e-Survey

The Facilities Master Plan outlining campus needs over the next 5-10 years is currently being developed by a group of consultants led by CS&D. These consultants met with over 25 groups of SU faculty, staff and students in September. In an effort to solicit as wide array of opinions and suggestions as possible, the consultants have now created questionnaires for students, faculty and staff. The surveys have already been sent out to everyone with an SU e-mail account, and managers have been asked to solicit the input of staff who may not have accounts. Please take the time to complete the survey and return it directly to CS&D by e-mail by Monday, November 25. Make your views about our campus home heard.

nents 31-6 during that span. Their last loss came at Rowan in mid-October, losing 2-0 to the top-ranked Profs.

The football team will be making its first NCAA playoff appearance since 1986 when it visits King's (PA) College in Saturday's first round game. Coming off a 9-1 regular season, the Sea Gulls were one of 28 teams selected for the championship. Kickoff time in Wilkes-Barre, PA, is noon.

Salisbury is making its fourth overall NCAA appearance, with previous playoff berths 1983, 1985 and 1986. The Sea Gulls advanced to the national championship game in 1986 before losing in the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl. SU has a 5-3 all-time record in NCAA play.

"This is a great step for our program," said fourth-year Head Coach Sherman Wood. "One of our main goals has been to get to the postseason. Our players are very excited because they just wanted one more chance after last Saturday's game. They were extremely disappointed in our performance and wanted one more opportunity to put forth a better effort."

Salisbury won its first nine games this season before losing to Frostburg State in Saturday's Atlantic Central Football Conference championship game. Despite the loss, the Sea Gulls were invited to the NCAA Tournament as one of seven "Pool B" at-large entries.

King's (8-2) enters the tournament as champion of the Middle Atlantic Conference. The Monarchs are making their first NCAA appearance. Salisbury and the King's have never met.

President Dudley-Eshbach Reads Paz

SU presents "Readings from Octavio Paz" as part of its Cinco Estrallas ("five stars") Series on Latin America's Nobel Laureates in Literature on Thursday, November 21, at 7 p.m. at the Fireside Lounge, Guerrieri University Center.

Essayist, poet and diplomat, Paz was one of the great public intellectuals of 20th century Mexico. For most of the second half of the century, his essay "The Labyrinth of Solitude" was considered the foundational statement about the Mexican national character. Paz was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1990.

University President Janet Dudley-Eshbach leads the discussion in both English and Spanish. She completed undergraduate studies in Spanish and Latin American studies at Indiana University and earned her doctorate in Hispanic literature at El Colegio De Mexico in Mexico City. In 1980, Dudley-Eshbach undertook post-doctoral study in Chile on a Fulbright-Hays Grant.

Photocopies of the readings are available on reserve in the Blackwell Library. (Ask for the "Cinco Estrallas" file.)

Admission is free and open to the public. The event is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Light refreshments will be served. For more information, call 410-543-6271.

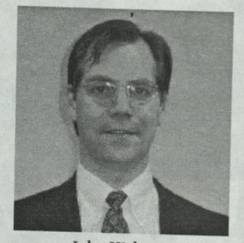
Hickman New SBDC Director



John Hickman

John Hickman has been named director of the Eastern Region Small Business Development Center at SU's Perdue School of Business.

"John's background and experience make him an impressive asset to the SBDC," said Dr. William Moore, dean of the Perdue School. "We are pleased to offer such exceptional leadership to the business community."

Hickman received his M.B.A. from the College of William and Mary and a B.S. in agricultural economics from North Carolina State University. He joined the SBDC in 2001.

Located on SU's East Campus, the SBDC provides assistance to entrepreneurs and the small business community in the form of one-on-one consulting, technical assistance and topical training seminars. For more information call 410-548-4419 or visit the SBDC Web site at www.salisbury.edu/community/sbdc.

Small Attends Williamsburg Institute

Dr. Clara L. Small, professor of history, attended the Colonial Williamsburg Institute, Williamsburg, Virginia, November 1-3. The topic of the Institute was "Protest in America: Engineering the Revolution." Attendance at the Institute allows scholars and history buffs the opportunity to participate in discussions led by noted historians and authors and to meet in small groups to interact on a more personal basis with authorities in Colonial history.

The topic was inspired by Thomas Jefferson who declared that "a little revolution is a good thing, and as necessary in the political world as storms in the physical ... It is a medicine necessary for the sound health of government. God forbid we should ever be 20 years without such a rebellion." Major presenters, noted historians and authors at the conference, Pauline Maier, Gordon S. Wood, Cary Carson, Ronald Hoffman and others, discussed the founding fathers who established this tradition of protest and conflict as they engineered the American Revolution that resulted in the birth of the American nation.

ING CEO Is Great Leader Lecturer

SU Hosts International Business Conference

Janine Vienna and Dr. Richard Hoffman

The Academy of International Business - North east Chapter recently held its 2002 annual conference at SU; it focused on "Global Transformations" in recognition of the world's technological changes and economic and political upheavals. Sponsors for the day-and-a-half conference were the Perdue School of Business and K&L Microwave.

While most of the participants were from the Northeast, others came from the Southwest and Midwest as well as from Asia and Europe, presenting 41 professional papers related to the conference theme in 12 different paper sessions. Some sessions examined transformations in business functions such as entrepreneurship, human resources, finance and marketing. Other sessions explored transformations in world regions such as Eastern Europe and South Asia. The papers were published in the conference proceedings.

Keynote speakers at the conference included Lou Abaggnaro, president of K&L Microwave, Dr. Eric Swanson of the World Bank and Dr. Briance Mascarenhas of Rutgers University.

A number of innovations were introduced at the conference including a special panel of business executives from regional multinational firms and a panel on e-learning across cultures. The business panelists included: Rafael Correa, founder and president of MaTech, Inc. an international machine tool firm; Jean DellAmore, president of Stertil-Koni, the U.S. branch of a worldwide producer of equipment for automotive maintenance; and Mitch Boswell, export manager for Perdue Farms, Inc.

Moderator William Moore, dean of the Perdue School, led a lively discussion following the panelists' remarks, including a panel featuring business leaders. "Their [the executives'] unhesitating willingness to participate speaks well of the business community's support of Perdue School programs," said Moore.

Best paper awards were given for the first time in three categories: best empirical paper, Drs. Brent Allred and Scott Swan, College of William and Mary; best conceptual paper, Nehad El Sawaf and Dr. Earl Honeycutt, Old Dominion University; and best doctoral paper, Denise Dunlap-Hinkler, Temple University. The University of Scranton provided a cash award to the doctoral student winner, presented by Dr. Susan Trussler, past program chair.

The conference was organized by SU's Dr. Richard C. Hoffman, professor of management at the Perdue School, who served as program chair, and Janine Vienna, Global Programs and M.B.A. director, who served as conference coordinator. Hoffman and Vienna also served as co-editors of the conference proceedings. Members of the program committee included: Dr. John Preble, University of Delaware; Dr. Vincent Luchsinger, University of Baltimore; Dr. Rajib Sanyal, College of New Jersey; Dr. Tagi Sagafi-nejad, Seton Hall University; Dr. Susan Trussler, University of Scranton; and Drs. Gerry DiBartolo, Kashi Khazeh and Ying Wu, Salisbury University.

Rybacki Is Commencement Speaker

Cristy Rybacki, a member of the Class of 2002 who receives both a Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Arts in history/conflict resolution and dispute resolution, always thought that the role of commencement speaker was for other students, but surely not her.

"Somehow I didn't think a non-traditional student would be selected," she recalled. "But I guess we each have something unique to offer."

To her fellow graduates, she will share her "Clichés, Lyrics and Quotes: Words to Make Life's Journey Less Stressful and More Zestful" at commencement on Saturday, December 21, at 2 p.m. at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center.

"I'd like to proffer some advice that may result in a smoother journey," Rybacki explained. "We're still learning that life is a dance you learn as you go ... sometimes you lead and sometimes you follow. Attempt to view your circumstances with optimism ... and stay focused on what is really important."

Rybacki moved to Salisbury in 1985 and began taking courses at SU in 1995 having also attended Ohio State. She served on the search committee for the dean of the Seidel School and was named SU's Social Work Student of the Year for 2002.

She is a member of several academic honorary societies including Phi Alpha, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Sigma Lambda, Phi Alpha Theta and Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. In addition, she has earned the SU Achievement Key Award and Student Excellence in Writing Award.

The mother of three, Rybacki was a part-time student until her junior year. After graduation, she plans to continue her work counseling at-risk students in Worcester County schools.

"I have seen that students at Salisbury University are exactly the types of people in whose hands we can place our trust," she said. "Those who fought in World War II ... are often called the Greatest Generation. But I can say without hesitation that my fellow graduates are part of a great generation indeed."

Commencement speaker Cristy Rybacki

Admission to commencement is by ticket only. A reception following the awarding of diplomas is on campus at the Guerrieri University Center Wicomico Room and Fireside Lounge, and does not require a ticket.

For more information about the graduation ceremony, please call the Public Relations Office at 410-543-6030.

Holiday Door Decorating Contest

Holloway Hall artists take note: The fourth annual Holloway Hall Holiday Door Decorating Contest is upon us. As in previous years, any door that opens onto a public corridor in Holloway Hall is eligible to enter. An anonymous, unbiased, open-minded, tolerant, kind, but with good taste, and discerning panel of judges will evaluate decorations based on creativity, originality, beauty, imaginations, good intentions, high moral standards, humor and/or execution. (These judges are easy.) Winners receive two pizzas and runners-up cookies from University Dining Services, courtesy of the President's Office. Judging occurs December 9-10. Decorators take note: Think Martha Stewart without the insider trading. Or think whatever you want. It's the holidays! Call Richard Culver in Public Relations at 410-543-6017 for more information.

Holiday Chorale Concert

The annual holiday concert by the SU Chorale and Chamber Choir is Sunday, December 8, at 4 p.m. at Asbury United Methodist Church.

Patrick Freer, director of choral activities, has planned a performance with contemporary and classical works. The student director for the Chorale is Erin Waggoner with University accompanist Susan Zimmer. The Chamber Choir student conductor is Patrick Gates with student accompanist Sung Eun Kim.

The Chamber Choir performs "The Gloria" from Puccini's Messe di Gloria featuring tenor soloist Curtis White ('00). Among the numerous other soloists and instrumentalists, mezzo soprano Lauren Stott is soloist with the combined choir performance of Robert Ray's "Gospel Magnificat."

Freer, also instructor of music education at SU, is an accomplished educator and author. An active pianist, clinician and conductor, his choirs have performed at such prestigious venues as Carnegie Hall and the United Nations.

The performance is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6385.

Submit Writing to the Review

Submissions may be hand delivered to the Mid-Atlantic Review mailbox in the English Department Office, Holloway Hall Room 339, or sent to MAR c/o English Department, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801

Eligible submissions include fiction pieces, poetry, creative nonfiction, as well as black and white artwork or photographs. Please send only proofread, typewritten manuscripts. Include cover letter with name, local address, e-mail address and phone. Deadline for submissions is Sunday, December 15. Any questions may be directed to Monica Shores, mss5781@salisbury.students.edu.

Med Tech. Achieves 100% Pass

All graduates of SU's Laboratory Science/Medical Technology Program last spring passed the national certification exams given by the American Society of Clinical Pathology. Nationally, only 80 percent of examinees passed this exam in the most recent cycle. The SU program also scored above the national mean in five of six categories indicating significant accomplishment across the board in a variety of laboratory areas.

According to Gary Shortall, laboratory manager at Shore Health Labs, "Shore Health has always been pleased with the graduates that we have employed from the program. It's great to have a program like this available on the Eastern Shore and the consistent ability of SU graduates to pass their certification exams is a credit to the students and faculty."

Michael Hafez, a graduate of the program who is currently supervising at Johns Hopkins DNA/Molecular Lab, likes the career potential.

"Medical technology/clinical laboratory science provides a solid foundation in the medical and laboratory sciences. This strong background provides one with the knowledge to pursue many different avenues for future growth in the laboratory or in other areas."

For information on the SU program, contact Program Director Johanna Laird at 410-543-6364.

Students Make a Holiday Difference

University students are working to bring the spirit of the holidays to area families. The Union of African-American Students (UAS) donated a Thanksgiving dinner to a needy family in the area. The organization raised money for the project by sponsoring a Homecoming dance. Ella B. Russell, Wicomico County Department of Social Services outreach coordinator, accepted the food on behalf of the family.

The UAS gives back to the community in other ways, including sponsoring a weekly tutoring program for 20 children at the Fruitland Community Center.

UAS members will also be working with DSS to adopt a family for Christmas. They are donating clothes, gifts and food. If you would like to make a contribution to any of the UAS's charitable projects, please contact Wala-Neh Labala at 410-546-4011.

Annual Musical Theatre Production

The Bobbi Biron Theatre Program presents the musical production King of the Mountains, with lyrics and music by SU student Adam Lehman. Based on Edmund About's French novel Le Roi des Montagnes, the performance is Saturday, December 7, at 7 p.m. in Fulton Hall Theatre.

Set in the Greek mountain town of Parnes, King Hadgi-Stavros and his men are known for their pillage and plunder tactics. News of the king's death allows the relieved townspeople to once again venture out safely. Three villagers who set out for a journey, however, find themselves taken captive by a group of bandits.

Cast members are Kristy Adams, Jessica Banner, Charles Bounds, Amber Carsons, Anne Crossman, Nicki Dziduch, Pat Gates, Eric Gemmer, William Hart and Kat Michaud. The stage manager is Megan Centineo. The play is directed by senior theatre and communication arts major Adam Lehman, who translated the story from French. King of the Mountains is part of Lehman's application to New York University's graduate musical theatre writing program.

The play is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6628.

Elliott, Cressor Named Field Hockey All-Americans

Coming on the heels of a 17-3 season and third-place finish in the NCAA Championship Tournament, two SU field hockey players have been named as national all-Americans, as announced by the National Field Hockey Coaches Association (NFHCA). Their selections mark the 17th straight year that at least one Sea Gull player has been represented on the all-America squad.

Junior forward Lindsey Elliott was selected to the 16-player first team and senior forward Jill Cressor was named to the second team. Elliott earns the national award for the first time in her career, while Cressor becomes the third Salisbury player to receive the award three times in her career.

Lindsey Elliott

Elliott led the Sea Gulls and the Capital Athletic Conference in scoring in 2002 with 21 goals, six assists and 48 total points. Her 48-point total is the eighth highest single-season output in SU team history.

Cressor receives second team AA honors this season after earning third team status in both 2000 and 2001. She finished second on the team and in the conference in scoring with 16 goals, eight assists and 40 points. Cressor concluded her four-year career as Salisbury's all-time scoring leader with 80 goals, 14 assists and 174 points.

Jill Cressor

Salisbury earned its sixth NCAA final four berth in 2002 while also appearing in the NCAA Championship Tournament for the ninth straight year. The Gulls also won the CAC championship for the eighth straight season.

Wind Ensemble Concert

The Wind Ensemble performs on Tuesday, December 10, at 7:30 p.m. on the stage of Holloway Hall Auditorium. The performance, free and open to the public, features as its guest artist soprano Beth Holder, who will perform "Four Maryland Songs" for soprano and wind ensemble written by composer Jack Stamp in 2001.

An SU graduate, Holder studied voice with Kathleen Turner-Barlow and Dr. Sandra Jarrett. While on campus, she performed as a member of the Chamber Choir and the University Chorale and was a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, the international professional music fraternity. She performs as a soloist for the Easton Choral Arts Society and performs in numerous recitals and performances throughout the Eastern Shore area.

The SU Wind Ensemble will also premiere the 2002 "Ballerbach Consortium" commission, Pater Noster, written by composer John Franzten. The composition was composed in response to the tragedy of September 11, 2001, and is based on the Gregorian chant, "Our Father." Franzten currently teaches music in the public schools in the Severna Park area of Maryland.

The SU Wind Ensemble is under the direction of Dr. Richard L. Johnson, professor of music and director of instrumental music at the University. Johnson teaches courses in undergraduate and graduate conducting, orchestration and arranging, instrumental methods and music education. He currently serves as chair of the Department of Music.

Johnson has appeared internationally conducting works by the Hedwig Van Amerigen Rome Prize Fellow David Rakowski at the American Academy in Rome, Italy. He also lectured at the Ferenc Liszt Academy in Budapest, Hungary at the invitation of Liszt Academy conductor, Lazlo Marosi. Johnson is well known in the mid-Atlantic states as a conductor of contemporary wind music. World premiere performances include a chamber version of Act II Scene III of Peter Westergaard's opera, The Tempest, James Syler's O Magnum Mysterium for solo soprano and wind ensemble, Beth Wiemann's The Shortness of All the Notes for 10 winds and tape and Pater Noster.

For more information about the concert, please call the Music Department at 410-543-6385.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Posts and Positions

AmeriCorps Positions Still Available

The SU AmeriCorps program, ShoreCorps/PALS, is still looking for qualified candidates to fill two full-time positions and one part-time position. The full-time positions are with the Worcester County Health Department (WACS Center) and the Wicomico County Library and require 40 hours per week. The part-time position is with the Boy Scouts (male needed) and requires some 25 hours per week. Because the program actually started in September, members starting now will have to put in extra hours to catch up.

ShoreCorps/PALS covers a seven county region on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Its goal is to increase positive behaviors in the youth served and decrease negative behaviors through mentoring, tutoring, teaching conflict resolution and providing education about the dangers of drugs, alcohol and tobacco.

Full-time members commit to 1,700 hours of service from September to September. Part-time members commit to 900 hours of service during the same one-year period. They receive a living stipend and (upon completion of their service commitment) an Education Award to pay for future schooling or to pay off student loans. The full-time stipend is $9,600, with an education award of $4,725 and the part-time stipend is $4,800, with an education award of $2,363. Full-time students cannot be full-time AmeriCorps members.

All members meet once a week on campus (during the fall and spring semesters) to attend class, where topics ranging from conflict resolution to child abuse, diversity to communication, are discussed. The class, which is provided tuition free to members, counts toward the hourly service commitment. The class is every Thursday, 9:30 a.m.-12:15 p.m. in Nanticoke A Room of the Guerrieri University Center.

If interested or for more information, please contact ShoreCorps/PALS at 410-548-5119 or e-mail jccugler-dwyer@salisbury.edu.

New Scholarship Information

The following new scholarship information has been received in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213.

The MG James Ursano Scholarship administered by Army Emergency Relief is for students who study at an undergraduate, technical or vocational institution accredited by the U.S. Department of Education and approved by Title IV funds. Scholarships are awarded based primarily on financial need, secondarily on academic achievements and individual accomplishments. In academic year 2002-2003, of the 2,114 applicants with complete applications, 93 percent received scholarship funds. Applications are available online for children of Army soldiers (active, retired or deceased). The application can be printed or apply online at www.aerhq.org. The deadline for submission of the completed scholarship application and supporting documentation is March 3, 2003. The Financial Aid Office also has a list of Web addresses of military aid societies to further assist the dependent children of all military services.

Applications have been received from the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution for scholarships in the following fields: political science, history, government, economics, nursing and medical (no pre-med). Scholarships range from $500 to $5,000. Several of these awards are renewable while others are a one-time award. All applicants must be U.S. citizens and must attend, or plan to attend, an accredited college or university in the U.S. All applicants must obtain a letter of sponsorship from their local DAR chapters. The local chairman is Anna Rohrer (410-742-8066), 418 Pine Bluff Road, Salisbury, MD 21801.

Students may qualify for the Marine Corps Scholarship if they are the son or daughter of a Marine on active duty or in the Reserves; the son or daughter of a former Marine or Marine Reservist who has received an Honorable Discharge, Medical Discharge, or who was killed while in the service of our country; or the son or daughter of an active duty, reserve or former U.S. Navy corpsman who is serving or has served, with the U.S. Marine Corps. Students must also be either a senior in high school or a high school graduate; currently enrolled as an undergraduate in an accredited college or university or in a post high school accredited vocational/technical school; and have a 2002 family income of $54,000 or less (the limit increases if siblings also apply). For an application e-mail mcsf@marine-scholars.org or call 800-292-7777. The Scholarship Foundation Web site is www.marine-scholars.org. Application submission deadline is April 1, 2003.

The James Madison Memorial Fellowship Foundation is seeking applicants with a demonstrated commitment to a career in teaching American history, American government or social studies at the secondary level. An applicant for a fellowship must be a U.S. citizen or U.S. national; be a teacher or plan to become a teacher of American history, American government or social studies at the secondary school level; have earned an undergraduate degree by August 31 of the competition year. Two levels of fellowships are offered. Junior Fellowships are awarded to students who are about to complete, or have completed, their undergraduate course of study and intend to pursue full-time graduate. Senior Fellowships are awarded to teachers who want to pursue graduate studies on a part-time basis through summer and evening classes. For additional information or to receive an application, please visit Web site at www.jamesmadision.com. Applications are due March 1 annually.

Christa Mcauliffe Memorial Teacher Education Award provides funding to full-time or part-time students who are pursuing teacher certification in a critical shortage subject area. The critical shortage areas for academic year 2003-2004 are chemistry, computer science, earth space science, ESOL, foreign language (Spanish), mathematics, physical science, physics, special education and technology education. Applicants must meet one of the following criteria: be an undergraduate student who will have earned 60 credit hours by the beginning of the first award year; possess a bachelor's or higher degree and no certification in a critical teacher shortage subject area; be a classroom teacher who is not certified in a critical shortage subject area. Applicant must be a Maryland resident with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.0 and must agree to a service agreement of one year for every year the program assistance is granted. Applicants must submit the application and required documents by December 31 to be considered for awards beginning in September 2003.

The Women's Opportunity Awards program, funded by the Soroptimist Foundation, is designed to assist women who provide the primary source of financial support for their families. The women may use the awards to offset any costs associated with their efforts to attain higher education, including books, child care and transportation. Eligible applicants are a female head of household, with primary financial responsibility for supporting her family (including children, a spouse and parents); are attending, or have been accepted to, a vocational/skills training program, or an undergraduate degree program; have financial need; are motivated to achieve her educational and career goals; and reside in one of Soroptimist International of the Americas' member countries and territories. Women who already have an undergraduate degree are ineligible to apply. Soroptimists, employees of Soroptimist, and the immediate families of both are ineligible to apply. The application, with two completed reference forms, must be received by December 15.

ProfNet Celebration: President Janet Dudley-Eshbach and Provost David Buchanan recently saluted some 35 faculty and staff members for their work in extending the reputation of the University through the media in the past year. At a reception honoring these University ambassadors, both the president and provost stressed how important reputation-building in media, both locally and beyond, was for the administration. Faculty and staff were thanked for their work in some 100 national ProfNet interviews and 200 local radio, television and newspaper interviews. Pictured, left to right, are Dr. Herman Manakyan, chair of the Department of Economics and Finance; Buchanan; Dr. Rebecca Emery, director of Career Services; Dr. Wayne Decker, chair of the Department of Management and Marketing; and Dr. Memo Diriker, director of BEACON and member of management faculty.

DECEMBER 2002 COMMENCEMENT INFORMATION • Please read carefully!

GENERAL INFORMATION AND DIRECTIONS

1. Commencement will be held at 2 p.m., Saturday, December 21, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center. ADMISSION WILL BE BY TICKET ONLY. Doors will be opened to the public at 1 p.m. All graduates are requested to enter through the Civic Center Danang Room entrance to form for processional at 1 p.m. in the side corridors adjacent to the main arena on the first floor of the Civic Center.

2. The student commencement speaker will be Cristy A. Rybacki.

3. Students/Guests with Physical Disabilities: - Students with physical disabilities who will need assistance should contact the office of the Vice President of Student Affairs at 410-543-6080. For guests with physical disabilities please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 to reserve physically disabled seating. A reserved section is provided on the main floor of the arena. Space is limited, therefore, only one guest may be seated with each physically disabled person. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

4. Hearing Impaired Guests - Signers are present for the entire graduation ceremony. Please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 for information about seating. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

5. The First Aid Staff of the Civic Center will be on duty in the office on the right side of the foyer entrance just outside the main arena.

6. Caps, gowns, master's hoods, tickets and announcements were distributed at the Graduation Center in the SU Bookstore through November 20. Please note that students who were not able to pick up their graduation items during the above listed period may still pick them up until noon on December 20. Graduation items may be retained by the graduates and need not be returned following the ceremony. Problems with caps and gowns can be corrected at the SU Bookstore (normal hours) OR prior to the ceremony by SU Bookstore employees at the Civic Center in Flanders Room No. 1, near the snack bar to the left of the arena entrances. Bookstore hours are Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m, Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. GRADUATES MUST PICK UP THE NECESSARY ITEMS BEFORE NOON FRIDAY, DECEMBER 20.

TICKETS FOR GRADUATION WILL BE DISTRIBUTED BY THE SU BOOKSTORE. EACH STUDENT WILL RECEIVE NINE GUEST TICKETS. GUESTS ARE REQUIRED TO BE SEATED BY 1:45 P.M.

Students should NOT bring personal property, such as coats, cameras, purses, backpacks, etc. to graduation. If necessary, the above items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1. This room will be locked during the graduation ceremony. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over. Students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends. You will not be allowed to carry personal items during the ceremony.

7. Students will first be awarded degrees by school (e.g., School of Liberal Arts), and will be asked, by President Dudley-Eshbach, to stand and remain standing until all degrees have been awarded for that school. President Dudley-Eshbach will then signal undergraduates to move the tassel from the right side to the left side of the mortarboard and then to be seated.

8. Then students will individually be awarded their diploma. The faculty marshals will have given each graduate a card containing his/her name and school, (e.g. Perdue School of Business). The card is to be handed to the person at the podium when the graduate reaches the stage and, at the same time, the graduate is to announce his/her name to the person at the podium, who will then know who the person is and how to pronounce the name correctly. THE NAME ON THE CARD MUST NOT BE CHANGED FOR ANY REASON.

9. Students are expected to return to their seats and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony.

10. DURING THE RECESSIONAL, GRADUATES AND FACULTY ARE TO RETURN TO THE AREA WHERE THEY ASSEMBLED PRIOR TO THE CEREMONY. They should not stop or congregate in the lobby.

11. A brief reception for graduates and their guests will be held immediately following commencement in the Fireside Lounge and the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center on SU's campus. The reception is sponsored by the Salisbury University Alumni Association, and at the conclusion of the ceremony graduates will be official alumni of Salisbury University.

12. Degree candidates who do not plan to participate in the commencement exercises MUST NOTIFY THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE by calling 410-543-6150 no later than Friday, December 13. All graduates will receive a blank folder at commencement, and all diplomas will be mailed approximately six weeks after the ceremony. It should be noted that the recognition of graduates and those who will achieve Honors is tentative pending certification of all graduation requirements.

13. The Department of Nursing will hold its Nursing Convocation in the Worcester Room, Commons, on Friday, December 20, at 5 p.m. A reception will follow the ceremony.

14. Faculty and staff should enter through the Midway Room entrance and line up for the processional at 1:15 p.m. in the Danang Room of the Civic Center. Faculty members are required to attend; those who are unable to do so should inform their respective school dean.

15. BACHELOR OF SCIENCE candidates with last names beginning with the letter A through the letter L will report to DRS. ED SENKBEIL AND KIM HUNTER . When you enter the main entrance of the Civic Center, go to the left corridor at the rear and line up alphabetically along the inside wall, facing East (the rear of the building). You will sit in Section 3* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE candidates beginning with the letter M through the letter Z will report to DRS. AUGUSTINE DIGIOVANNA AND HAREL BARZILAI. When you enter the main entrance of the Civic Center, go to the left corridor and line up alphabetically along the windows, facing West (the front of the building). You will sit in Section 5* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle.

16. BACHELOR OF ARTS candidates will assemble in the south corridor of the Civic Center (to the right after you enter the front doors, on the side nearest the park). Candidates with last names beginning with the letter A through the letter L, will report to DRS. HOMER AUSTIN AND FRANCES KENDALL at the rear of the corridor and will line up alphabetically facing east (the rear of the building). You will sit in Section 4* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the section starting from the side aisle.

BACHELOR OF ARTS candidates with last names beginning with the letter M through the letter Z will also go to the right after you enter the front doors of the Civic Center, but will go to the cross corridor (leading to the Midway Room) and report to DRS. VICTORIA HUTCHINSON AND CAROLYN BOWDEN. You will line up alphabetically in that corridor against the wall nearest the rear of the building. You will sit in Section 6* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the section starting from the side aisle.

17. BACHELOR OF FINE ARTS candidates will assemble in the south corridor of the Civic Center, to the right after you enter the front doors. Report to DR. HOMER AUSTIN and he will tell you where to stand in the line. You will sit in Section 4* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seat via the center aisle.

18. BACHELOR OF ARTS IN SOCIAL WORK (B.A.S.W.) candidates will also go to the right after you enter the front doors of the Civic Center. You will proceed to the cross corridor (leading to the Midway Room) and report to DR. CAROLYN BOWDEN. You will line up alphabetically in that corridor against the wall nearest the front of the building. You will sit in Section 6* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the rows starting from the side aisle.

19. ALL MASTER'S DEGREE candidates (M.A., M.S., M.B.A., M.A.T. and M.Ed.) will enter the Civic Center at the Midway Room front entrance (closest to the park) and report to a faculty marshal in that corridor.
M.A., M.S. and M.B.A. candidates will report to DR. DARRELL MULLINS. You will line up according to his direction, alphabetically by degree, and will sit in Section 7* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the rows starting from the side aisle.
M.A.T. and M.Ed. candidates are to report to DR. STARLIN WEAVER and line up alphabetically at her direction. You will also sit in Section 7* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the rows starting from the side aisle.

20. DRESS CODE
Graduation is a formal academic occasion and should be viewed as such in dress and demeanor. The academic robe is black with a V neckline and will show part of your clothing underneath. The recommended dress therefore is similar to what you would wear to a formal interview. Thus you should be mindful of the following considerations:

- Dress clothing, preferably black or navy.
- Black dress shoes (or some other dark color).
- The gown should be mid-calf. If a dress is worn, the gown should cover the length of the dress.
- No visible jewelry. Fraternity or sorority pins/ribbons may be worn; these are academic emblems and are not considered jewelry as such. Kente cloths are permissible as well.
- No flowers on the academic robe, and no flowers are to be carried.
- The mortarboard (academic hat) is to be worn with the front point over the forehead below the front hairline, so the flat board is parallel to the floor. (Not worn on the back of the head with the board pointing upward.) NO DECORATION OF ANY KIND IS TO BE PLACED ON THE MORTARBOARD.
- Honors students will have a gold and white hood. It is to be worn with the gold side out and the white inner lining turned out at the top, over the gold (like a collar). Gold cords would be worn under the honors hood.
- Candidates for the bachelor's degree should come into the auditorium with the tassel on the right, hanging near the right eye. After the degrees are conferred, the tassel is shifted to the left side. The signal for shifting the tassel will be given by the president (and/or your faculty marshal).
- Candidates for the master's degree will wear both the robe and hood. Faculty marshals will give you more specific information.
- Graduates will receive graduation picture information from Chappell Studio, Inc. This information will arrive at your permanent address in the near future.
- Candidates should not chew gum or tobacco.
- Candidates should NOT have personal belongings in their possession during the commencement ceremony. If necessary, personal items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1 during the graduation ceremony, when the room will be locked. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over and students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends.

21. GRADUATION DECORUM
Graduation ceremonies are, by their very nature, festive occasions. The festivity manifests itself in many ways including the dress of the students and faculty adorned in academic regalia and the warmth, joy and satisfaction of accomplishment. The ceremonies are also marked by seriousness where the actual conferring of degrees signifies long hard work on the part of everyone involved: students, faculty, administrators, parents and spouses. As a consequence of the serious nature of the ceremony, students are expected to maintain a measure of decorum consonant with the occasion. Applause and other recognition of the conferring of degrees should be limited to a joint effort at the conclusion of each graduation group, (e.g., B.S., B.A., etc.). Students are expected to return to their seats after receiving their diploma, and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony. Family and guests are asked to remain seated for the entire ceremony, refraining from leaving their seats in order to take pictures or to talk to graduates.

Alumni Honored At Commencement

The SU Alumni Association presents three awards at commencement ceremonies on Saturday, December 21.

Honored will be Bruce W. Cort ('71) with the Lifetime Achievement Award, Norman H. Conway ('65) with the Service to Society Award, and Daniel H. Gladding ('78) with the Alumni Appreciation Award.

Director of Alumni Relations Roy Perdue said these awards are indicative of SU's strong alumni commitment. These three individuals characterize an unsurpassed dedication to their Alma Mater.

Cristy Rybacki, a member of the Class of 2002 who receives both a Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Arts in history/conflict resolution and dispute resolution, is the student commencement speaker. To her fellow graduates, she will share her "Clichés, Lyrics and Quotes: Words to Make Life's Journey Less Stressful and More Zestful."

This December's SU graduating class of 605 includes 170 receiving the Bachelor of Arts, 313 the Bachelor of Science, two the Bachelor Fine Arts, 12 the Bachelor of Arts in Social Work, 14 the Master of Arts, 55 the Master of Education, 22 the Master of Business Administration, 13 the Master of Applied Teaching and four the Master of Science.

Admission to the Salisbury University commencement is by ticket only. A reception following the awarding of diplomas is on campus at the Guerrieri University Center Wicomico Room and Fireside Lounge, and does not require a ticket.

For more information about the graduation ceremony, please call the Public Relations Office at 410-543-6030.

Submit Writing to the Review

Submissions may be hand delivered to the Mid-Atlantic Review mailbox in the English Department Office, Holloway Hall Room 339, or sent to MAR c/o English Department, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801

Eligible submissions include fiction pieces, poetry, creative nonfiction, as well as black and white artwork or photographs. Please send only proofread, typewritten manuscripts. Include cover letter with name, local address, e-mail address and phone. Deadline for submissions is Sunday, December 15. Any questions may be directed to Monica Shores, mss5781@salisbury.students.edu.

Inclement Weather Policy

Should inclement weather result in classes being canceled information will be given to all local radio and television stations. Students can receive information concerning cancellations by listening to local stations, by visiting SU's Web site, www.salisbury.edu, or by calling the Gull Line at 546-6426.

The institutional policy with regard to closing is that unless there are the most dire circumstances the institution will remain open for business. Students, staff and faculty members must exercise their best judgment about whether they attend class or report to work. Different conditions prevail for each individual under inclement weather situations so the decision should be essentially an independent one.

If you do not hear an announcement about cancellation of classes, then classes and events will be held as scheduled. Please do not call the University Police Office about cancellation notices so that office can assist with emergency needs.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Posts and Positions

AmeriCorps Positions Still Available

The SU AmeriCorps program, ShoreCorps/PALS, is still looking for qualified candidates to fill two full-time positions and one part-time position. The full-time positions are with the Worcester County Health Department (WACS Center) and the Wicomico County Library and require 40 hours per week. The part-time position is with the Boy Scouts (male needed) and requires some 25 hours per week. Because the program actually started in September, members starting now will have to put in extra hours to catch up.

ShoreCorps/PALS covers a seven-county region on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Its goal is to increase positive behaviors in the youth served and decrease negative behaviors through mentoring, tutoring, teaching conflict resolution and providing education about the dangers of drugs, alcohol and tobacco.

Full-time members commit to 1,700 hours of service from September to September. Part-time members commit to 900 hours of service during the same one-year period. They receive a living stipend and (upon completion of their service commitment) an Education Award to pay for future schooling or to pay off student loans. The full-time stipend is $9,600, with an education award of $4,725 and the part-time stipend is $4,800, with an education award of $2,363. Full-time students cannot be full-time AmeriCorps members.

All members meet once a week on campus (during the fall and spring semesters) to attend class, where topics ranging from conflict resolution to child abuse, diversity to communication, are discussed. The class, which is provided tuition free to members, counts toward the hourly service commitment. The class is every Thursday, 9:30 a.m.-12:15 p.m. in Nanticoke A Room of the Guerrieri University Center.

If interested or for more information, please contact ShoreCorps/PALS at 410-548-5119 or e-mail jccugler-dwyer@salisbury.edu.

News Producer Needed

WSCL FM seeks an experienced producer/announcer to produce live and recorded news and information programming, to recommend program services consistent with the station's mission, and to identify and research topics and issues important to WSCL listeners

Candidates should have a minimum of three years experience in broadcasting with strong journalism background and superior on-air skills. Public radio experience is desired. WSCL offers a competitive salary plus an attractive benefit package.

Send cover letter, resume and tape to: General Manager, WSCL FM, P.O. Box 259, Salisbury, MD 21802. Review of applications will begin January 2, 2003, and will continue until the position is filled.

Equal Opportunity Employment

Salisbury University has a strong institutional commitment to diversity and is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, providing equal employment and educational opportunities to all those qualified, without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, disability or sexual orientation.

Shore Transit Innovation Honored

Shore Transit, a creative, forward-thinking and results-driven government program serving Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico counties, is among the 99 semifinalists in the prestigious 2002 Innovations in American Government Award competition—often referred to as the Oscars of government. The award recognizes outstanding programs that devise imaginative and effective ways to meet urgent social and economic challenges.

The Perdue School's Business, Economic and Community Outreach Network (BEACON) and the Henson School's Mapping Sciences Group (MSG) helped to launch Shore Transit by leading regional stakeholders through a year-long transportation master planning process. Both BEACON and MSG have continued to provide logistical and management support to this network.

"Reaching this level in such an important competition demonstrates that the University's talents and resources can have a lasting impact on the surrounding community," said David Buchanan, provost.

"We are very proud of this recognition for Shore Transit," said Memo Diriker, director of BEACON. "As the first fixed-route public transit system to link the three counties of the Lower Shore, we believe it really does represent innovative thinking that's making a difference."

Dedicated to making government work better, the Shore Transit program provides seamless, non-duplicative and cost-effective regional transportation services for residents of Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico counties.

The tri-county effort was selected from a pool of nearly 1,000 applicants. Fifteen finalists will be selected from the semifinalists in early winter 2002. Each semi-finalist is eligible for one of five top grants of $100,000.

The Innovations in American Government Award is a program of the Institute for Government Innovation at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University. The Institute is funded through an endowment from the Ford Foundation.

Symphony Gets in Holiday Spirit

The Salisbury Symphony Orchestra at SU presents its annual Holiday Concert on Saturday, December 14, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Featuring traditional carols and the popular sing-a-long finale, the program is directed by Dr. Thomas G. Elliot. The SSO will perform Mozart's "Symphony No. 40" for the first time in concert.

The SSO boasts 63 members, some who travel up to three hours for rehearsals and performances. Founded in 1986, the orchestra will also perform "Sibelius Filandia" and Johann Strauss' "Tales from Vienna Woods Waltzes, O. 325" during the popular event.

Tickets are $15 for adults or $10 for seniors/children. For information on the SSO's three-concert series subscription, phone 410-548-5587.

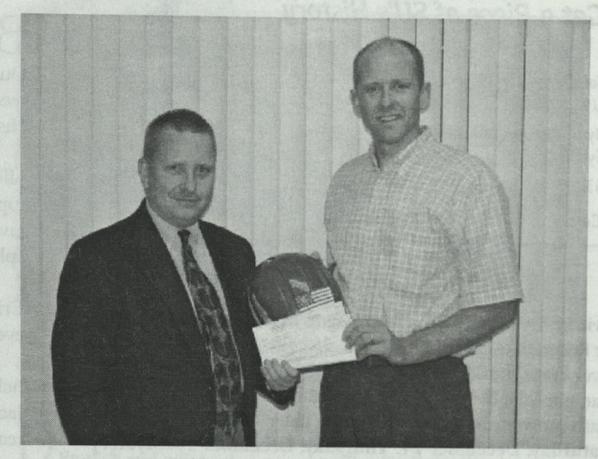
MarathonFoto Supports SU Foundation



Bruce Franke, general manager for Chappell/MarathonFoto, presents check for $1,000 to Dave Brown, chairman of Sea Gull Century.

MarathonFoto recently made a $1,000 contribution to the SU Foundation, Inc., with $500 to go toward the campus chapter of Habitat for Humanity and $500 to the University-coordinated Helmets for Kids campaign.

Over the past seven years, MarathonFoto has contributed $3,500 to each of those community service programs.

Chappell Graduation Images headquartered in Fairfield, IA, has been the official SU commencement photographer since 1991. Its subsidiary, MarathonFoto has been the official photographer for the Sea Gull Century bicycle ride sponsored by the SU Campus Recreation Office since 1996. Both Habitat and Helmets for Kids receive funding support from the Sea Gull Century.

Dance Company Spring Auditions

Auditions for the annual Spring Concert and Children's Matinee will be held on Monday, February 3, from 4:30-6 p.m. in the Maggs Center Dance Studio. Selected students will be required to add DANC 106, Dance Company (1.0 credit hours). Both returning and prospective company members are required to entrance audition for this course at the beginning of each semester.

Please arrive before 4:30 p.m. to sign-in, register and warm-up. The required dress is a black leotard and convertible tights with ballet slippers, jazz shoes and bare feet. Brief ballet, jazz and modern dance combinations will be taught and performed in small groups. A panel of faculty and guest artists will judge the audition and make recommendations to the director-course instructor. The results will be posted Tuesday, February 4, with add and drop registration forms.

The company meets 4:30-6:30 p.m. every Monday for master classes with guest artists and rehearses throughout the week. The annual Spring Concert celebrates National Dance Week and the Children's Matinee supports the Maryland Food Bank. For information, please contact Dr. Victoria Hutchinson, director, at vvhutchinson@salisbury.edu or call 410-543-6353.

BEACON Hosts Health/Education Mini-Fair

Bienvenidos a Delmarva (Welcome to Delmarva), an initiative launched by the Business, Economic and Community Outreach Network (BEACON) at the Perdue School of Business, recently hosted a health and education mini fair for the regional Hispanic community at the Wicomico County Public Library.

The event, "Compartir es Aprender" (To Share Is to Learn), offered free information on a variety of health and community topics. Books for children were also provided as well as free giveaways that added to the fun and excitement of the atmosphere.

Exhibitors included the American Cancer Society, the Life Crisis Center and the Wicomico County Health Department. The event was made possible by a grant from the Health Department.

"We appreciate those who donated so much time and effort, helping to reach this underserved community," said Jennifer Jackson, a senior research associate at BEACON. The event reached many in the Hispanic/Latino community.

Bienvenidos' next project is a half-day professional development workshop on "Cultural Competency" on Wednesday, January 22, from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. in the Worcester Room of the Commons. The workshop will emphasize the provision of culturally competent care to Latinos and will feature Dr. Larry Purnell, an internationally-known expert on culturally competency from the University of Delaware, and Dr. Tim Dunn, an SU assistant professor of sociology.

Through Bienvenidos and other community projects, BEACON helps to fulfill SU's regional service mission. For more information on Bienvenidos, contact BEACON at 410-546-6001 or e-mail beacon@salisbury.edu.

Bryce Named Associate Vice Chancellor

Joseph C. Bryce, chief legislative officer for Gov. Parris Glendening, has been named associate vice chancellor for governmental relations for the University System of Maryland (USM). Bryce will represent the USM to the Maryland General Assembly, the Office of the Governor, the Maryland Congressional delegation, agencies of federal and state governments, key local officials and major higher education associations. Bryce's appointment began on December 1.

USM Chancellor William E. "Brit" Kirwan said Bryce is an ideal choice to lead the System's efforts to ensure continued strong support for public higher education from the state and federal governments, whether that support comes in the form of funding, legislative initiatives, or the positive resolution of issues effecting higher education such as student performance standards and teacher certification for elementary and secondary schools.

Bryce will advise the chancellor, the USM institution presidents, the System vice chancellors and the USM Board of Regents on matters related to governmental relations and public affairs policies. To that end, he will develop and implement strategies in support for the state budget for the USM, as well as identify and formulate positions on pending legislation relevant to the USM and communicate those positions to state and federal policy makers. He also will chair the USM's State Relations Council, which includes state- and federal-relations representatives of the USM institutions.

Wenke Publishes Fiction and Scholarship

Dr. John Wenke, professor of English, is having both creative and scholarly pieces published this winter. They include an award-winning short story and a new essay published by the prestigious Cambridge University Press.

Wenke was one of four scholars on Herman Melville to have works included in New Essays on Billy Budd, a collection edited by Donald Yannella. In "Melville's Indirection: Billy Budd, the Genetic Text, and 'the Deadly Space Between,'" Wenke examines the workings of Melville's mind as seen through changes in successive drafts of this unfinished manuscript.

In addition to his recognition as a scholar, Wenke is also gaining a reputation as a fiction writer. His short stories have appeared in Writers' Forum, Cariton Review, Cimarron Review, North Atlantic Review and Chesapeake East. Most recently, a short story was published in the winter 2002 edition of the Delmarva Quarterly, a new magazine that honors the art, history and way of life that is unique to the Delmarva Peninsula. The Quarterly published "Choke Hold," which won Wenke the $6,000 Individual Artist Award from the Maryland State Arts Council in 2000. It was the single largest award given that year. Copies of the Delmarva Quarterly are sold at the SU Bookstore as well as at local newsstands, bookstores and drug stores.

Wenke's other works on Melville include the book Melville's Muse: Literary Creation and the Forms of Philosophical Fiction and numerous shorter pieces. Also a noted scholar on American fiction author J. D. Salinger, Wenke was recently featured on To the Best of Our Knowledge, an exploration of the life and legacy of Salinger. This National Public Radio broadcast also included interviews with Garrison Keillor and Margaret Salinger.

Wang Enters Software Engineering Program

Dr. Xiaohong (Sophie) Wang of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Sciences has been accepted to the SEED (Software Engineering for Educational Development) program. She will teach two "capstone" software engineering courses at SU. As part of her participation with SEED, Rational Software of Lexington, MA, granted her software vital to computer science majors.

In addition, Wang has been accepted by the IBM Scholars Program. Considered the first step toward achieving e-business and technology leadership within the academic community, the program affords her access to IBM's wealth of resources and information. IBM has granted her professional database software that will be used by both computer science and information systems management students.

Earlier this year, Wang was named recipient of the Welcome Fellowship, a three-year, $20,000 grant, for her work with object-oriented computer programming.

White Researches in Montreal

Dr. Arlene White of the Department of Modern Languages recently returned from the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts where she toured the special exhibit on 17th century French art, "Richelieu - Art and Power." White was doing research for her art and civilization course to be taught next year.

Welsh Co-directs Lit./Film Conference

Three amigos at the 2002 Film & History League Conference on the West: LFQ editor Jim Welsh flanked by erstwhile SCS President Don Staples of North Texas State University and John O'Connor, founding editor of Film & History.

Dr. Jim Welsh, professor of English and editor of Literature/Film Quarterly, recently co-directed the annual conference of the Literature/Film Association at Dickinson College in Carlisle, PA, where he also presented a paper on the topic of biography and film.

He introduced plenary speaker Christine Whittaker of the BBC Television archives in London. Whittaker, whom Welsh had personally invited to the conference, currently serves as president of the International Association for Media and History. The IAMH held its international congress at SU in 1977 under Welsh's leadership.

In November Welsh served as area chair for film adaptations at the Film and History League Conference on the American West in Kansas City, MO. He presented his research on "The 'Twilight' Western in the Shadow of Vietnam."

Welsh worked on four books that were on exhibit at the Kansas City Country Club Plaza Marriott. Published by Facts on File and its subsidiary, Checkmark Books, they are: Shakespeare Into Film, The Encyclopedia of Filmmakers, The Encyclopedia of Stanley Kubrick and The Encyclopedia of Alfred Hitchcock.

Editors representing five specialized academic journals were represented at the conference: Literature/Film Quarterly, Film & History, The Journal of Popular Culture, The Journal of Popular Film and Wide Angle.

Welsh was joined at the Kansas City conference by Donald M. Whaley and Dr. Maarten Pereboom of SU's History Department.

Bardzell Is Invited Lecturer

Dr. Michael Bardzell of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science was the invited lecturer for the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas Mathematical Sciences Departments recently.

The lecture, "Cellular Automata and Discrete Dynamical Systems," was given at McPherson College, which is one of the six associated colleges. McPherson is also one of the test sites for the PascGalois Project, a grant from the National Science Foundation received by SU's Dr. Kathleen Shannon and Bardzell. Currently the abstract algebra students from three of the associated colleges in Kansas are testing materials developed at SU for the grant.

Bardzell met in the computer laboratory at McPherson with the students from the three colleges and worked with them on project materials.

DECEMBER 2002 COMMENCEMENT INFORMATION • Please read carefully!

GENERAL INFORMATION AND DIRECTIONS

1. Commencement will be held at 2 p.m., Saturday, December 21, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center. ADMISSION WILL BE BY TICKET ONLY. Doors will be opened to the public at 1 p.m. All graduates are requested to enter through the Civic Center Danang Room entrance to form for processional at 1 p.m. in the side corridors adjacent to the main arena on the first floor of the Civic Center.

2. The student commencement speaker will be Cristy A. Rybacki.

3. Students/Guests with Physical Disabilities: - Students with physical disabilities who will need assistance should contact the office of the Vice President of Student Affairs at 410-543-6080. For guests with physical disabilities please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 to reserve physically disabled seating. A reserved section is provided on the main floor of the arena. Space is limited, therefore, only one guest may be seated with each physically disabled person. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

4. Hearing Impaired Guests - Signers are present for the entire graduation ceremony. Please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 for information about seating. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

5. The First Aid Staff of the Civic Center will be on duty in the office on the right side of the foyer entrance just outside the main arena.

6. Caps, gowns, master's hoods, tickets and announcements were distributed at the Graduation Center in the SU Bookstore through November 20. Please note that students who were not able to pick up their graduation items during the above listed period may still pick them up until noon on December 20. Graduation items may be retained by the graduates and need not be returned following the ceremony. Problems with caps and gowns can be corrected at the SU Bookstore (normal hours) OR prior to the ceremony by SU Bookstore employees at the Civic Center in Flanders Room No. 1, near the snack bar to the left of the arena entrances. Bookstore hours are Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m, Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. GRADUATES MUST PICK UP THE NECESSARY ITEMS BEFORE NOON FRIDAY, DECEMBER 20.

TICKETS FOR GRADUATION WILL BE DISTRIBUTED BY THE SU BOOKSTORE. EACH STUDENT WILL RECEIVE NINE GUEST TICKETS. GUESTS ARE REQUIRED TO BE SEATED BY 1:45 P.M.**

Students should NOT bring personal property, such as coats, cameras, purses, backpacks, etc. to graduation. If necessary, the above items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1. This room will be locked during the graduation ceremony. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over. Students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends. You will not be allowed to carry personal items during the ceremony.

7. Students will first be awarded degrees by school (e.g., School of Liberal Arts), and will be asked, by President Dudley-Eshbach, to stand and remain standing until all degrees have been awarded for that school. President Dudley-Eshbach will then signal undergraduates to move the tassel from the right side to the left side of the mortarboard and then to be seated.

8. Then students will individually be awarded their diploma. The faculty marshals will have given each graduate a card containing his/her name and school, (e.g. Perdue School of Business). The card is to be handed to the person at the podium when the graduate reaches the stage and, at the same time, the graduate is to announce his/her name to the person at the podium, who will then know who the person is and how to pronounce the name correctly. THE NAME ON THE CARD MUST NOT BE CHANGED FOR ANY REASON.

9. Students are expected to return to their seats and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony.

10. DURING THE RECESSIONAL, GRADUATES AND FACULTY ARE TO RETURN TO THE AREA WHERE THEY ASSEMBLED PRIOR TO THE CEREMONY. They should not stop or congregate in the lobby.

11. A brief reception for graduates and their guests will be held immediately following commencement in the Fireside Lounge and the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center on SU's campus. The reception is sponsored by the Salisbury University Alumni Association, and at the conclusion of the ceremony graduates will be official alumni of Salisbury University.

12. Degree candidates who do not plan to participate in the commencement exercises MUST NOTIFY THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE by calling 410-543-6150 no later than Friday, December 13. All graduates will receive a blank folder at commencement, and all diplomas will be mailed approximately six weeks after the ceremony. It should be noted that the recognition of graduates and those who will achieve Honors is tentative pending certification of all graduation requirements.

13. The Department of Nursing will hold its Nursing Convocation in the Worcester Room, Commons, on Friday, December 20, at 5 p.m. A reception will follow the ceremony.

14. Faculty and staff should enter through the Midway Room entrance and line up for the processional at 1:15 p.m. in the Danang Room of the Civic Center. Faculty members are required to attend; those who are unable to do so should inform their respective school dean.

15. BACHELOR OF SCIENCE candidates with last names beginning with the letter A through the letter L will report to DRS. ED SENKBEIL AND KIM HUNTER . When you enter the main entrance of the Civic Center, go to the left corridor at the rear and line up alphabetically along the inside wall, facing East (the rear of the building). You will sit in Section 3* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle.
BACHELOR OF SCIENCE candidates beginning with the letter M through the letter Z will report to DRS. AUGUSTINE DIGIOVANNA AND HAREL BARZILAI. When you enter the main entrance of the Civic Center, go to the left corridor and line up alphabetically along the windows, facing West (the front of the building). You will sit in Section 5* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle.

16. BACHELOR OF ARTS candidates will assemble in the south corridor of the Civic Center (to the right after you enter the front doors, on the side nearest the park). Candidates with last names beginning with the letter A through the letter L, will report to DRS. HOMER AUSTIN AND FRANCES KENDALL at the rear of the corridor and will line up alphabetically facing east (the rear of the building). You will sit in Section 4* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the section starting from the side aisle.
BACHELOR OF ARTS candidates with last names beginning with the letter M through the letter Z will also go to the right after you enter the front doors of the Civic Center, but will go to the cross corridor (leading to the Midway Room) and report to DRS. VICTORIA HUTCHINSON AND CAROLYN BOWDEN. You will line up alphabetically in that corridor against the wall nearest the rear of the building. You will sit in Section 6* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the section starting from the side aisle.

17. BACHELOR OF FINE ARTS candidates will assemble in the south corridor of the Civic Center, to the right after you enter the front doors. Report to DR. HOMER AUSTIN and he will tell you where to stand in the line. You will sit in Section 4* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seat via the center aisle.

18. BACHELOR OF ARTS IN SOCIAL WORK (B.A.S.W.) candidates will also go to the right after you enter the front doors of the Civic Center. You will proceed to the cross corridor (leading to the Midway Room) and report to DR. CAROLYN BOWDEN. You will line up alphabetically in that corridor against the wall nearest the front of the building. You will sit in Section 6* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the rows starting from the side aisle.

19. ALL MASTER'S DEGREE candidates (M.A., M.S., M.B.A., M.A.T. and M.Ed.) will enter the Civic Center at the Midway Room front entrance (closest to the park) and report to a faculty marshal in that corridor.
M.A., M.S. and M.B.A. candidates will report to DR. DARRELL MULLINS. You will line up according to his direction, alphabetically by degree, and will sit in Section 7* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the rows starting from the side aisle.
M.A.T. and M.Ed. candidates are to report to DR. STARLIN WEAVER and line up alphabetically at her direction. You will also sit in Section 7* on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the rows starting from the side aisle.

20. DRESS CODE
Graduation is a formal academic occasion and should be viewed as such in dress and demeanor. The academic robe is black with a V neckline and will show part of your clothing underneath. The recommended dress therefore is similar to what you would wear to a formal interview. Thus you should be mindful of the following considerations:

- Dress clothing, preferably black or navy.
- Black dress shoes (or some other dark color).
- The gown should be mid-calf. If a dress is worn, the gown should cover the length of the dress.
- No visible jewelry. Fraternity or sorority pins/ribbons may be worn; these are academic emblems and are not considered jewelry as such. Kente cloths are permissible as well.
- No flowers on the academic robe, and no flowers are to be carried.
- The mortarboard (academic hat) is to be worn with the front point over the forehead below the front hairline, so the flat board is parallel to the floor. (Not worn on the back of the head with the board pointing upward.) NO DECORATION OF ANY KIND IS TO BE PLACED ON THE MORTARBOARD.
- Honors students will have a gold and white hood. It is to be worn with the gold side out and the white inner lining turned out at the top, over the gold (like a collar). Gold cords would be worn under the honors hood.
- Candidates for the bachelor's degree should come into the auditorium with the tassel on the right, hanging near the right eye. After the degrees are conferred, the tassel is shifted to the left side. The signal for shifting the tassel will be given by the president (and/or your faculty marshal).
- Candidates for the master's degree will wear both the robe and hood. Faculty marshals will give you more specific information.
- Graduates will receive graduation picture information from Chappell Studio, Inc. This information will arrive at your permanent address in the near future.
- Candidates should not chew gum or tobacco.
- Candidates should NOT have personal belongings in their possession during the commencement ceremony. If necessary, personal items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1 during the graduation ceremony, when the room will be locked. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over and students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends.

21. GRADUATION DECORUM
Graduation ceremonies are, by their very nature, festive occasions. The festivity manifests itself in many ways including the dress of the students and faculty adorned in academic regalia and the warmth, joy and satisfaction of accomplishment. The ceremonies are also marked by seriousness where the actual conferring of degrees signifies long hard work on the part of everyone involved: students, faculty, administrators, parents and spouses. As a consequence of the serious nature of the ceremony, students are expected to maintain a measure of decorum consonant with the occasion. Applause and other recognition of the conferring of degrees should be limited to a joint effort at the conclusion of each graduation group, (e.g., B.S., B.A., etc.). Students are expected to return to their seats after receiving their diploma, and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony. Family and guests are asked to remain seated for the entire ceremony, refraining from leaving their seats in order to take pictures or to talk to graduates.

Men's Soccer Team Receives Postseason Awards

Following a 15-3-1 campaign and a berth in the NCAA Championship Tournament, Salisbury University placed three players on the season-ending all-South Region men's soccer teams, as selected by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA).

Senior back Mike Steinen was named to the 11-player first team, with senior forward C.R. Krauss selected to the second team and sophomore midfielder Dan Lader named to the third team. These players are now eligible for the national all-America team, to be announced in January.

Steinen served as the anchor of Salisbury's record-setting defense which allowed just seven goals in 19 games this past season. The Sea Gulls set a new team record for fewest goals allowed in a season and finished with a 0.36 goals against average.

Krauss led the Sea Gulls in scoring with 10 goals and 25 points in 2002. He concluded his four-year career tied for second in team history with 37 career goals.

Lader led the Gulls with eight assists and finished third on the team in scoring with 44 total points.

SU Head Coach Gerry DiBartolo was also selected by his peers as the NSCAA/adidas South Region Coach of the Year. As one of eight regional winners, he is now eligible for the national coach of the year award, to be announced in January.

In addition to these awards, two other members of the squad have been recognized in the Verizon District 2 All-Academic team. Junior midfielder John Muto and senior defenseman Brook Riggleman were both selected to the 11-player first team, based on a combination of academic and athletic success.

Revisit 'Broadway's Bombs'

The Department of Music presents "Broadway's Bombs and Best Kept Secrets" from December 11-13 at 8 p.m. in the Black Box Theatre, Fulton Hall.

The revue focuses on shows that did not succeed on Broadway. Numbers such as "Heart and Music" will be performed from productions including Seussical the Musical, Baby and Children of Eden.

The evening explores such topics such as brain tumors, Dr. Seuss, pregnancy and the Bible. The public is invited to hear tunes not heard before.

The production is free and no tickets are required. For more information call the Office of Public Relations at 410-543-6030.

Sons of the American Revolution Contests

The National Society Sons of the American Revolution is sponsoring two contests for high school students: the George S. and Stella M. Knight Essay Contest and the Joseph S. Rumbaugh Historical Oration Contest

The Knight Essay Contest is for an original researched and proven topic written in English. The topic of the essay shall deal with an event, person, philosophy or ideal associated with the American Revolution, the Declaration of Independence or the framing of the United States Constitution. For detailed contest information visit www.sar.org/youth/knight.htm. Submit entries by Saturday, December 28, to Raymond L. Jackson, president, Capt. John Smoot Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, 108 N. Church St., Snow Hill, MD 21863. Only one entry per student is permitted each year. In addition to local and state prizes, national winners can win up to $7,500

The Rumbaugh Oration Contest is designed to explore the influence of the Revolutionary War on present day America. The preliminary rounds of the contest are held by chapters and/or state societies of the Sons of the American Revolution to select one winner from each participating state. The national competition is held during the NSSAR's National Congress in June. For more information contact Jackson at 410-632-0300.

Give a Gift that Will Last a Lifetime

The Miller Alumni Garden at the SU Alumni House is fast becoming a showplace on campus, as well as one of the most beautiful formal gardens in the Salisbury area. Be sure to stop by and see the pergola, the latest addition, which includes a brick walkway surrounding a fountain.

Faculty, staff, students, parents and alumni may purchase a brick in that walkway and have it inscribed. Won't you consider purchasing an inscription on a brick in honor or memory of someone who has been a great influence on you or your career at SU? Your one-time donation of $100 will last a lifetime, and your purchase can be considered your Annual Fund contribution.

For more information or to order your brick, go to http://www.salisbury.edu/alumni/ and click on the Garden Bricks link, or pick up a form in the Alumni House, or call the Office of Alumni Relations at 410-543-6042.

Nursing Students Elected to Honor Society

Twenty-three SU undergraduate, accelerated program and graduate nursing students have been elected to membership in Sigma Theta Tau international honor society of nursing through SU's Lambda Eta chapter.

Sigma Theta Tau works to foster, develop and connect nurse scholars and leaders worldwide to improve health care. The society promotes nursing excellence through its initiatives in research, leadership, an electronic library, programming and publications and develops and distributes nursing knowledge for use in practice.

Undergraduate inductees include Nicole Culton, Elizabeth Davis, Brandon Shea Ellis, Jennifer Fisher, Ryan Germuth, Claire Holton, Heidi Humburg, Anne Jarboe, Kimberly Kalista, Ernestine Kon-Bendu, Jennifer Marquess, Courtney Norman, Brianna Shaffer, Laurie Specht, Treva Stuart, and Erica Espinoza Thankachan. Accelerated program inductees include Sara Anderton, Kathryn Bradshaw, Cynthia Knight, Steven Palmer and Vashti Savoy-Russell. Graduate inductees are Jennifer Ghidini and Alana Lewis.

Membership to Sigma Theta Tau is by invitation to baccalaureate and graduate nursing students who demonstrate excellence in scholarship, and to nurse leaders who demonstrate exceptional achievement in nursing. The undergraduate student must have at least a 3.0 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, be in the upper 35 percent of his/her graduating class, have completed at least one-half of the nursing curriculum to qualify for membership and meet the expectation of academic integrity.

Business School Adds Financial Planning Track

The Perdue School of Business now offers a financial planning undergraduate degree program, and it is registered with Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc.

An independent certifying organization, CFP Board awards the CFP ®, Certified Financial Planner ™ certification marks.* The Perdue School is one of about 70 undergraduate programs nationwide to be registered with CFP Board. Students receiving a business degree while completing the financial planning track at Salisbury University will be eligible to sit for the national CFP ® Certification Examination.

According to Dr. E. Tylor Claggett, the financial planning track director at the Perdue School, "CFP Board certification greatly enhances the career opportunities of financial planning degree recipients. Graduates can begin their own financial planning business or work for a larger firm. Financial planners also join banks as trust officers or law firms and design retirement plans."

Claggett characterized the current job market as excellent for financial planning graduates. "With Baby Boomers entering retirement, many with considerable accumulated wealth, competent and qualified financial planners will be much in demand," said Claggett. "Wealthy seniors will need seasoned professional advice on how to protect and invest their lifetime assets."

CFP Board has four requirements for certification: education, examination, experience and ethics.

Elaine Bedel, chair of CFP Board's board of governors, said, "CFP Board is pleased that Salisbury University is now offering its approved financial planning curriculum. We believe the Perdue School's program will help many dedicated stu-

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222. Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Inclement Weather Policy

Should inclement weather result in classes being canceled information will be given to all local radio and television stations. Students can receive information concerning cancellations by listening to local stations, by visiting SU's Web site, www.salisbury.edu, or by calling the Gull Line at 410-546-6426.

The institutional policy with regard to closing is that unless there are the most dire circumstances the institution will remain open for business. Students, staff and faculty members must exercise their best judgment about whether they attend class or report to work. Different conditions prevail for each individual under inclement weather situations so the decision should be essentially an independent one.

If you do not hear an announcement about cancellation of classes, then classes and events will be held as scheduled. Please do not call the University Police Office about cancellation notices so that office can assist with emergency needs.

Equal Opportunity Employment

Trace Your Littleton Heritage

A meticulously-researched history of the Littleton family on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia is now available at the Edward H. Nabb Center for Delmarva History and Culture.

The Littleton Heritage: Some Descendants of Colonel Nathaniel Littleton (1605-1654) of Northhampton County, Virginia and His Royal Forbears, written by Dr. Matthew Wise, is one of the most complete genealogies of the Littletons and descendant surnames. They include Bell, Denwood, Eyre, Fassitt, Gilliss, Long, Pollitt, Purnell Roach, Robins, Savage, Tazewell, Tingle, Waters, Whittington, Wilson, Winder and many others. Wise traced some of the Littleton ancestry as far back as English royalty.

Nathaniel Littleton came to Virginia in 1635 at age 30. Less than 20 years later, he died the owner of more than 5,700 acres of land in Accomack and Northampton counties.

Cost of the book is $35; mail orders are available. Call the Nabb Research Center for more information at 410-543-6312 or visit the Web site http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu .

Web Office: New Location, New Numbers

The Web Development Office is now located at 1106 Camden Avenue—the third house from the corner of West College and Camden avenues, two houses south of the Conflict Resolution Center. The new phone number for Shelley Wetzel is 410-219-2871 and for Scott Bassford is 410-219-2872. They invite you to visit their new location!

Maryland Charity Campaign Results

The 2002 Maryland Charity Campaign (MCC) generated $13,247.04 in contributions from SU employees for statewide charities, the second largest collective amount pledged in University history.

Of the University's 922 employees, 67 (7 percent) made pledges, averaging $197.71 per annual gift.

Since its inception in 1983, SU employees have donated over $175,000 to charitable organizations through the MCC.

Winners of the random drawing at the campaign's conclusion were: Debbie Merryweather, Business and Finance Office, DVD player (grand prize donated by the SU Foundation), Dr. George Whitehead, Psychology Department, and Anne Welsh, Publications Office, meal for two at the Commons (donated by University Dining Services), and Dr. Don Cathcart, Mathematics and Computer Science Department, Richard Culver, Public Relations Office, and Mary Kane, Nursing Department, SU mugs (donated by the Bookstore).

SU's campaign coordinator, Gains Hawkins of the Public Relations Office, thanks everyone who participated: "Your gift is making a positive difference in the lives of all Marylanders." Special thanks are extended to the SU Foundation, UDS and the Bookstore for their generous contributions.

View Glass Waterfalls 'Of Liquid and Light'

The University presents "Of Liquid and Light," an exhibit of hand-blown and drawn glass by sculptor Dan Marder of the Department of Art, from Friday, January 10-Friday, February 14, in the Fulton Gallery. A reception is Friday, February 7, from 6-8 p.m.

Marder said, "This installation is intuitive in nature and process-driven, though it contains visual representations of my experience and a change in perception I've undergone since living in a coastal region." This is Marder's second solo exhibit in three months. He founded SU's hot glass studio in 1998.

"Of Liquid and Light" is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs and is free and open to the public. Fulton Gallery hours are: Tuesdays through Fridays, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and, beginning February 1, Saturdays-Sundays, noon-4 p.m.

For more information call 410-548-2547.

View a 'Well-Aged Exhibit'

The Institute for Retired Persons (IRP) presents "Well-Aged Exhibit" from Tuesday, January 21-Wednesday, February 5, at the Atrium Gallery, Guerrieri University Center.

The show features arts and crafts in various media by 18 local IRP members.

Atrium Gallery hours are Tuesday-Friday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. For more information call 410-548-2547.

Upcoming in the Atrium Gallery

Wicomico County School System Visual and Performing Art Program Third Annual Exhibit February 11-21

Opening Reception: Tuesday, February 11, 5-7 p.m.

Business School Adds Financial Planning Track

dents pursue a rewarding career at financial planning's highest standards by preparing them to sit for our CFP® Certification Examination. "

Dr. William Moore, dean of the Perdue School, explained, "We are truly honored to have our curriculum recognized by CFP Board as one that meets its rigorous standards. Providing challenging educational opportunities that enable our students to distinguish themselves is a tradition at Salisbury University. This new program is an example of the growing list of such opportunities and indicates our commitment to prepare students for success in today's competitive business environment."

SU's Perdue School of Business was endowed in 1986 by a multimillion dollar gift from agri-businessman and philanthropist Frank Perdue. The Perdue School's baccalaureate and master's programs are accredited by AACSB International; only 25 percent of the nation's business schools enjoy that distinction.

Those interested in the new financial planning degree program should send inquiries to Claggett at 410-677-5021 or etclaggett@salisbury.edu.

Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc., owns the marks CFP ® and Certified Financial Planner ™ * which it awards to individuals who successfully complete initial and ongoing certification requirements. Salisbury University does not certify individuals to use the CFP®, Certified Financial Planner ™ certification marks.* CFP certification is granted only by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc., to those persons who, in addition to completing an educational requirement such as this CFP Board-Registered program, have met its ethics, experience and examination requirements.

Art Faculty Juries Portfolio Exhibit

Dr. Anke Van Wagenberg of the Art Department juried the Tidewater Artists' Association Annual Portfolio Exhibition last December, in Portsmouth, VA. She selected 13 artists for this exhibition and the work is of a consistently high quality. The "portfolio" exhibition concept, in which jurying is based on a body of work rather than individual pieces, generally helps insure a certain level of quality.

Art critic Betsy Dijulio stated that "Van Wagenberg's selections make for an exceptionally well-balanced survey of paintings. In terms of media, acrylic, oil, watercolor, pastel and mixed media all have a strong presence."

The exhibition can be seen through Sunday, January 26, in the Courthouse Gallery in the historic 1846 Courthouse Building in Olde Towne Portsmouth. Call 757-393-8543 for more information.

New Scholarship Opportunities

Unless otherwise noted, applications are available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213.

Students planning careers in medicine or pharmacy are not eligible for this program.

Awards are for up to $2,500 for freshmen and up to $3,000 for sophomores, juniors and seniors per academic year. Application forms are available at http://chemistry.org/scholars. To obtain other information, please call, 1-800-227-5558 (Ext. 6250) or send e-mail to scholars@acs.org.

The Dwight P. Jacobus Scholarship

Established by the Association of School Business Officials of Maryland and the District of Columbia, scholarships may be awarded to persons who have been residents of Maryland or the District of Columbia for at least one year preceding the date of award, been accepted for admission as a full-time student, demonstrated a financial need and have a minimum 3.0 overall GPA.

Each scholarship is for $1,000 for the school year awarded, to be paid directly to the school in which the recipient is enrolled. The scholarship is renewable subject to several conditions.

Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office or at http://asbo.org. The deadline is Saturday, March 1.

Talbots Women's Scholarship Fund

Applicants to the scholarship must be women currently residing in the U.S.; be women who have earned a high school diploma or their GED on or before September 1993; be enrolled or planning to enroll in a full- or part-time undergraduate course of study at an accredited two- or four-year college, university or vocational-technical school; be attending the fall 2003 academic year and receiving a degree no earlier than May 2003; and have at least two semesters (or a minimum of 24 credit hours) remaining to complete their undergraduate degree as of the beginning of the 2003 fall academic term. Students who have previously obtained a bachelor's degree are not eligible to apply.

Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office or at w.talbots.com/about/scholar/scholar.asp. Application postmark deadline is Monday, March 3, or until 1,000 applications have been received, whichever is earlier.

Mary Rubin and Benjamin M. Rubin Scholarship Fund

The scholarship is based on ability and need to qualified women to attend or continue attendance in a college, university or other institution of higher learning. Awards range from $500 to $2,500 per year for tuition only. To be eligible for consideration, students must have been out of high school for at least 12 months (graduating high school seniors are not eligible for this scholarship), be a female, be a Maryland resident attending an accredited post-secondary school with a 3.0 or better GPA on a four-point scale, have an annual family income of no more than $50,000 with a $7,500 additional allowance for each dependent child.

All applications must be received by Saturday, March 1, 2003. Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office or at www.centralsb.org.

Delmarva Flock Supervisor's Association

The scholarship is for any junior or senior at a four-year institution who has an academic major or a major interest in poultry. The association will offer at least one scholarship, and more if funding permits, in amounts ranging from $500 to $1,500. Applicants may reside in any state, but preference will be given to residents of the Delmarva Peninsula. Consideration will be given to, but not limited to, applicants planning a career in Delmarva's poultry industry.

Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office or at www.dpichicken.org. Applications must be received at the following address by August 4, 2003.

National Federation of the Blind Scholarships

All applicants for these scholarships must be legally blind and pursuing or planning to pursue a full-time, post-secondary course of study in the fall semester of 2003, in the U.S., except that one scholarship may be given to a full-time employee also attending school part-time.

A listing of the various scholarships and applications that NFB is offering is available in the Financial Aid Office. The scholarships range from $3,000 to $10,000. The deadline for filing applications is Monday, March 31.

Share Your Cultural Events Ideas

Dr. Timothy O'Rourke, chair of the University Cultural Affairs Council, invites members of the campus community who have proposals for future cultural events to present their ideas at an open meeting on Monday, February 10, 3:30-5 p.m., in the Manokin Room, Guerrieri Center.

The council is particularly interested in proposals for the 2003-04 academic year and beyond; it is also interested in hearing suggestions for ways to better link cultural affairs programming with course offerings and classroom activities. Those planning to attend should contact June Krell-Salgado at 410-543-6271 no later than Monday, February 3.

Those unable to attend may submit ideas to Krell-Salgado via e-mail, jekrell-salgado@salisbury.edu, before the February 10 meeting.

Nabb Research Center Open House

The Edward H. Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture invites the public to its Open House on Monday, January 27, from noon-7 p.m. The event kicks off the new display, "The Heritage of Our Liberty: Delmarva Defenders from WWI to the Present."

Attendees will discover what the Center is all about and view artifacts and ephemera from local veterans who served during 20th century conflicts. Refreshments will be served.

The Nabb Research Center is located on SU's East Campus in the Power Professional Building. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Dance Company Spring Auditions

Auditions for the annual Spring Concert and Children's Matinee will be held on Monday, February 3, from 4:30-6 p.m. in the Maggs Center Dance Studio. Selected students will be required to add DANC 106, Dance Company (1.0 credit hours). Both returning and prospective company members are required to entrance audition for this course at the beginning of each semester.

Please arrive before 4:30 p.m. to sign-in, register and warm-up. The required dress is a black leotard and convertible tights with ballet slippers, jazz shoes and bare feet. Brief ballet, jazz and modern dance combinations will be taught and performed in small groups. A panel of faculty and guest artists will judge the audition and make recommendations to the director-course instructor. The results will be posted Tuesday, February 4, with add and drop registration forms.

The company meets 4:30-6:30 p.m. every Monday for master classes with guest artists and rehearses throughout the week. The annual Spring Concert celebrates National Dance Week and the Children's Matinee supports the Maryland Food Bank. For information, please contact Dr. Victoria Hutchinson, director, at vvhutchinson@salisbury.edu or call 410-543-6353.

A Mid-Winter's SSO Concert

The Salisbury Symphony Orchestra performs Saturday, February 1, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The orchestra performs The Barber of Seville Overture by Gioacchino Rossini; Rodrigo's Concierto de Aranjez with featured classical guitar soloist and SU adjunct professor, Lars Helgert; and Copland's musical landscape, Down a Country Lane.

The SSO, under the direction of conductor Thomas Elliot, boasts 63 members, some who travel up to three hours for rehearsals and performances. Founded in 1986, the orchestra will also perform Ralph Vaughn William's Sea Songs, a short march-like tune, reflecting folk tunes from English sea ports. Concerto in D Major by C.P.E. Bach features two members on oboe, Julie Barton and John O'Meara.

Mozart's Trauermusik is offered in memory of three charter members lost this past year: Kenner Lyons, Evan Wolcott and Cecil Yates. A hauntingly beautiful piece, it was written as "funeral music" by Mozart to honor several of his fellow Masons.

Tickets are sold through Salisbury Wicomico Arts Council outlets (Peninsula Bank and Bank of Delmarva branches) and at the door. Admission is $15 for adults and $10 for seniors (60 and over) and children (18 and under). For information call 410-548-5587.

SU Students Meet the Fed Challenge

A team of five SU students imparted economic advice to Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan and members of the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) in November. The presentation won the sixth annual College Fed Challenge, a competition that involves researching and analyzing data on current and near-term economic conditions to recommend whether to raise, lower or maintain interest rates. The participating teams included 10 universities and colleges from the Federal Reserve District of Richmond.

Several of these campuses have larger economic departments. "I'm very proud of our students achievements," said Dr. Ying Wu of the Department of Economics and Finance and an advisor to the group.

In their presentation, they advised that the federal funds rate should remain unchanged for the near future. They stated, "Although we are not currently experiencing deflation, it is looming. The combination of deflation and heavy debt would greatly complicate economic recovery and reduce the effectiveness of monetary policy." They discussed their concerns over a potential war with Iraq and considered the important consequences of changes in consumer confidence, oil prices and the financial markets. After the 20-minute presentation, the students defended their analysis in a 15-minute Q&A session.

Afterward the students said the competition helped them connect what they learned from the classroom with the real world. They feel the Fed Challenge provided an opportunity for them to experience the fun and power of economics, a subject that is traditionally dubbed a dismal science.

The Federal Reserve-sponsored competition is in its sixth year. Shippensburg University and the United States Naval Academy were selected as finalists. Honorable mention was given to Gettysburg College, Loyola College, McDaniel College, Mount St. Mary's College, University of the District of Columbia and the University of Maryland Eastern Shore.

The Baltimore Branch Office of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond will hold a formal awards ceremony and luncheon reception in January for the winning students and their families.

Sea Gulls 20th In Directors' Cup Standings

Coming off the fall season success of the field hockey and men's soccer teams, Salisbury is ranked 20th in the latest NACDA Directors' Cup Division III Standings.

The Sea Gulls have 133 total points and are the highest ranked member of the Capital Athletic Conference as well as among schools in the state of Maryland. Points are awarded based on each school's post-season finish in 18 sports. Each national champion receives 100 points.

African-American History Month

Brown Bag Discussion Of DuBois and Washington

SU presents the kick-off event for its Brown Bag Lunch Discussion Series at noon on Friday, February 7, with "A Comparison and Discussion of the Philosophies of W.E.B. DuBois and Booker T. Washington" by the Rev. Benjamin Jordan Jr. The public is invited to bring lunch to Nanticoke Room A in the Guerrieri University Center.

Jordan is director of youth programs at Berean Baptist Church in Washington, D.C. Also an education policy analyst for the U.S. General Accounting Office, he received his B.A. in political science from Central State University in Wilberforce, OH, and his Master of Divinity from Howard University. For the past 15 years, Jordan has appeared around the country speaking on such topics as minorities and postsecondary education, civil rights, cultural diversity, the African presence in the Hebrew Bible and African-American history.

The event, free and open to the public, is sponsored by SU's Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the Black History Month Planning Committee.

African-American History Month Keynoter Explores DuBois

Dr. Jean-Marie Makang presents the keynote lecture for African-American History Month on Monday, February 3, with and "Darkly as Through a Veil: DuBois and Double Consciousness, 1903 and 2003." The talk is at 7:30 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

Makang is assistant professor in the Department of Philosophy and director of African-American studies at Frostburg State University. He received his Ph.D. in philosophy from Boston College and a Master of Divinity from Hekima College, Jesuit School of Theology in Nairobi, Kenya, and has done postgraduate studies in history at Northeastern University. Makang has written and researched extensively on the philosophies of DuBois.

The national theme for the February 2003 African-American History Month is "The Souls of Black Folk: Centennial Reflections." This year marks the 100th anniversary of the publication of The Souls of Black Folk in which DuBois took a critical look at the concept of double consciousness confronting African-Americans and redefined the terms of the cultural and political psychology of peoples of African descent.

The event, free and open to the public, is sponsored by SU's Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the Black History Month Planning Committee.

Music and Musings From the Harlem Renaissance

The University presents "Of Ebony Embers" on Sunday, February 9, at 3 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. A musical-theatre work for solo actor and chamber music trio, "Of Ebony Embers" explores the life and times of African-Americans who have helped shape the Harlem Renaissance.

The piece makes a connection to the lives and works of three outstanding but different African American poets: Langston Hughes, Countee Cullen and Claude McKay, as seen through the eyes of the renowned painter and muralist Aaron Douglas.

Music by the Core Ensemble, a nationally-acclaimed trio of cello, piano and percussion, features compositions by such artists as Duke Ellington, Jelly Roll Morton, Billy Strayhorn, Thelonius Monk, Charles Mingus, and composers Jeffrey Mumford and George Walker.

The event, free and open to the public, is sponsored by SU's Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the Black History Month Planning Committee.

Highland Beach, near Annapolis, was settled by Charles Redmond Douglass, son of Frederick Douglass, as a summer retreat for African-Americans in 1894-95. This community has a rich history and is believed to be the first chartered African-American township in Maryland. Incorporated in 1922, Highland Beach continues to thrive today with its own mayor and governing council.

Blackwell Library hours are Monday-Thursday from 8 a.m.-midnight, Friday from 8 a.m.-10 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m.-8 p.m. and noon-midnight on Sunday.

The exhibit, free and open to the public, is sponsored by SU's Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the Black History Month Planning Committee.

Mentoring Matters

Join SU's AmeriCorps program for a live, national satellite broadcast, "Mentoring Matters," by the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Justice Programs, and Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. The broadcast, on Friday, February 7, from 1:30-3:30 p.m. in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri Center, aims to raise awareness of mentoring, examines mentoring in a variety of settings, presents examples of successful recruitment strategies, and provides information and resources related to mentoring.

Those interested should register by Monday, February 3, by calling 410-548-5119 or 410-677-4586. The event is sponsored by ShoreCorps/PALS-AmeriCorps, Salisbury's Promise and Wicomico Mentoring Project.

Gillespie Shares 'Smart's

Dr. Mary Gillespie, director of instructional resources, Teaching and Learning Network and provost project manager, has published an article in College and University Media Review.

"The Verizon Studio: Putting the 'Smart' in Smart Classrooms" focuses on "smart" technology and its effect on teaching and learning. Gillespie described SU's Verizon Studio and the benefits faculty members have found in the studio's philosophy of sharing products and information, its centralized location and on-demand accessibility.

Garlock Earns Nabb Research Prize

Marc R. Garlock

Marc R. Garlock has been awarded the Miles-Stevenson Student Prize by the Edward H. Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture.

The Miles-Stevenson Prize, awarded in the spring and fall semesters, was established by Marelyn Zipser in honor of Roger Atwood Miles and Arintha May Stevenson for outstanding historical research by an SU student enrolled in Proseminar, a history methodology course.

Garlock earned a B.A. in psychology from SU in 1995 and is currently pursuing a second B.A. in history/secondary education.

Garlock won the award for his biographical sketch of 17th century Somerset County, MD, resident Miles Gray. His research will be published in the March 2003 issue of Shoreline, the newsletter of the Nabb Research Center.

A Puppet Odyssey

Homer's epic tale of adventure and daring deeds on the high seas is given a lively staging—in miniature—as puppets perform The Odyssey on Friday-Sunday, January 31-February 2, at the Black Box Theatre in Fulton Hall. Performance times are 7 p.m. on Friday and 1 and 3 p.m. shows on Saturday and Sunday.

The Bobbi Biron Theatre production of The Odyssey, conceptualized by Dr. T. Paul Pfeiffer, director of theatre at SU, is the work of three students collaborating in a winter term advanced children's theatre course. With guidance from Pfeiffer and faculty instructor and costume designer Lisa Lantz, students are responsible for everything from evolving the script to designing and producing the puppets, costumes and scenery.

This updated classic brings new appeal to young audiences with lively music and pop songs. The show is given a semi-satirical, farcical atmosphere with plenty of jokes and gags.

Tickets are $5 or one free per SU ID and are available beginning Friday, January 24, at the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk. For reservations or information call 410-543-6228.

SU's M.Ed. Program Expands to Wye Mills

Educators pursuing a Master of Education can now complete SU's degree program through coursework at the Eastern Shore Higher Education Center (ESHEC) in Wye Mills. Classes are offered year-round to provide a continuous program leading to the M.Ed. Courses are taught by faculty from SU's Seidel School.

Although the program is designed primarily for a M.Ed. in elementary education, selected courses may help fulfill the requirements for other master's tracks such as Middle/Secondary Education, Post-Secondary Education, Reading Specialist, School Administration, and Teaching and Learning with Technology.

Courses are scheduled in the evening and summer to accommodate the needs of working professionals. The sequence is flexible so students can begin in any term and complete the program in just over three years or at a pace that fits their needs.

Dr. Joan Buffone, currently an assistant superintendent on the Eastern Shore, is the instructor for the spring 2003 offering, Seminar in Curriculum Construction. The semester begins Wednesday, January 29, at 5:30 p.m. Students may register in person at SU or on the first night of class in the new ESHEC building, Room 116.

Dr. Edward C. Robeck is the coordinator for the M.Ed. program at SU.

"This program at Wye Mills gives educators from Mid- and Upper Shore counties an excellent opportunity to advance their professional development without commuting to Salisbury," Robeck said. "Bringing the M.Ed. program to ESHEC is just one example of SU's commitment to the collaborative trend in education."

For additional information about admission to Salisbury University and the M.Ed. program, or specific course offerings at ESHEC, contact Debra Clark at djclark@salisbury.edu or 410-543-6281 or visit the SU Web site at www.seidel.salisbury.edu/~educatio/med/welcome.htm.

Grant Expands Math ADEPT

Dr. Harel Barzilai of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science has been awarded a $95,000 Maryland Math ADEPT grant from the Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC) to expand courses for in-service middle school teachers.

The grant complements an existing three-year $513,000 grant, the Allied Delmarva Enhancement Program for Teachers (Math ADEPT) from the National Science Foundation (NSF) previously awarded to Barzilai and Dr. Homer Austin, also of the Mathematics Department.

The two grants have enabled SU to create a suite of eight graduate level mathematics courses for middle school teachers. These eight courses will serve as a core for a proposed Master of Science in math education, the department's first ever master's program, currently in the approval process.

The MHEC grant culminates in a summer 2003 capstone workshop for area teachers. The workshop will be co-designed by Barzilai along with Drs. Don Cathcart and Don Spickler of the Mathematics Department, who designed and taught the two MHEC-sponsored courses this academic year.

The courses sponsored by MHEC and NSF have either free tuition, or other incentives, and area educators are encouraged to contact Barzilai for more information at hxbarzilai@salisbury.edu or 410-543-6471.

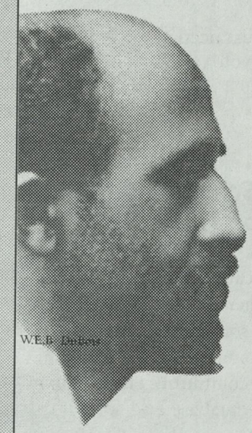
A Time of Reflection: SU Celebrates African-American History Month

The national theme for the February 2003 African-American History Month is "The Souls of Black Folk: Centennial Reflections." This year marks the 100th anniversary of the publication of The Souls of Black Folk in which W.E.B. DuBois took a critical look at the concept of double consciousness confronting African-Americans and redefined the terms of the cultural and political psychology of peoples of African descent. In celebration of this milestone, SU and the Office of Multiethnic Student Services are sponsoring several events.

February 1-14 - Photo Exhibit, "Highland Beach Community" - Blackwell Library

Monday, February 3 - Keynote Lecture, "Darkly as Through a Veil: DuBois and Double Consciousness, 1903 and 2003" by Dr. Jean Marie Makang - 7:30 p.m. Wicomico Room, Guerrieri Center



Friday, February 7 - Brown Bag Lunch Discussion, "A Discussion and Comparison of W.E.B. DuBois and Booker T. Washington" with Rev. Benjamin Jordan - noon, Nanticoke A, Guerrieri Center

Sunday, February 9 - Musical-Theatre Work, "Of Ebony Embers" with music by the Core Ensemble - 3 p.m. Holloway Hall Auditorium

Tuesday, February 11 - Lecture, "Is Africa My Home?: The Debate About the Colonization of Maryland Blacks in the 19th Century" with Debra Newman Hamm (sponsored by the Nabb Research Center) - 4 p.m., Great Hall, Holloway Hall

Friday, February 21 - Brown Bag Lunch Discussion, topic to be determined - noon, Nanticoke A, Guerrieri Center

Friday, February 28 - Brown Bag Lunch Discussion, "An Oral History: Interviews with African-American World War II Veterans" moderated by Drs. Clara Small and Polly Stewart - noon, Nanticoke A, Guerrieri Center

Friday, February 28 - Poetry Slam featuring Malik Shalom and Native Son (sponsored by the SU chapter, NAACP) - 8 p.m., Wicomico Room, Guerrieri Center

What you need to know

Where the Answers Are: A Welcome from New Student Experience

by Lawanda Dockins-Gordy, Director
Office of New Student Experience, Guerrieri University Center

Welcome back, or if this is your first semester at SU, welcome to our community! SU has an abundance of resources available to help students succeed academically, socially and personally, and we are here to help you!

The Office of New Student Experience is the place to start with those questions. We can put you in contact with the right person or department to get help with test-taking, study skills, questions about your academic advisor, where to go for help when you are using the library and many, many other important resources on the campus. Come by our office in Guerrieri University Center Room 222 or give us a call at 410-543-6100 and we will be glad to help.

While visiting the Office of New Student Experience, you can also stop by the Information Desk located on the first floor and buy discounted movie tickets for that weekend. The Information Desk has SU products available for sale. Do you need a blue book for that quiz or exam, we've got them!

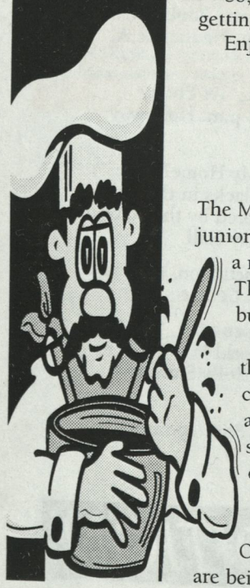
Also housed in the Guerrieri Center is Cool Beans, SU's coffeehouse featuring Starbucks coffee, lattes, mochas, smoothies and a huge inventory of confections, drinks, salads and sandwiches. Cool Beans is always a great place to visit on a cold day. Need to do a little Internet research for your class—there are several computers located for your use in Cool Beans.

Just looking for a quiet spot to study, reflect on the day, rest a little before that next class? The lounges in the Guerrieri Center are the place to be. You are greeted by a warm inviting fire in the fireplace and seating areas that just say "come and relax."

Got questions about a student organization … stop by the Office of Student Activities and Organizations while you're visiting. And don't forget about the Career Services and Work Experience offices. The Office of Student Affairs, Multiethnic Student Services, International Student Services and Student Counseling Services are also located in the Guerrieri Center on the second floor.

So, don't be shy! Got questions, looking for services, just need some help getting around and getting started … we're here to serve you!

Enjoy your semester!



Have a Saferide

Saferide reminds all students that Saferide operates every Thursday-Saturday from 10 p.m.-3 a.m. Call 410-677-5000 for a fast, free and no-questions asked ride home from any off-campus party or bar. Visit Saferide on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/students/saferide.

Student Emergency Medical Squad

Is a career in medicine in your future? Are you interested in learning how the EMS system works? Then you should join the Student Emergency Squad (SEMS). There are many ways you can get involved:

- Attend our meetings and training sessions
- Staff First Aid tables at major events.
- Volunteer with our on campus first response unit.

Please visit http://students.salisbury.edu/~sems or e-mail SEMS@salisbury.edu for more information.

Math/Computer Science Majors Open a Place of Their Own

The Mathematics and Computer Science Department has opened a new computer facility for use initially by junior and senior math/computer majors. The facility, located in Henson Science Hall Room 105, is unique in a number of ways. Open Source software is used rather than proprietary Microsoft-based applications. The Open Source software is free, so no funding for software was necessary. Moreover, the facility was built and is being maintained almost entirely by SU students.

The facility provides a powerful but easy-to-use computing environment in which users can do all their usual word processing, presentation graphics, database and software development work. Word processing and presentation graphics are done using "Open Office." Documents can be readily created and accessed by Open Office, Microsoft Word and Microsoft Powerpoint interchangeably. Database construction and maintenance is done using MySQL, a major industrial-strength database system. Users can access their P-drive and the K-drive through a graphical network connection to Information Technology's Novell servers. The Mozilla (just like Netscape) browser provides full Web access, including to SU e-mail through Groupwise. Maple, a commercial mathematics package, is the only non-Open-Source software in the facility. No additional cost was incurred since existing SU Maple licenses are being used.

GullNet: Latest in Web-Based Student Academic Services

GullNet is a new approach to providing student and faculty services over the Web. It will grow as the University grows and is expected to add more services, while integrating already-existing services. It will provide a new dimension of services to the campus.

Overview
SU provides a variety of important computer-based services that enable students to apply for admission, register for classes, maintain academic transcripts, receive and pay bills, and receive financial aid.

The University is now replacing the old computer systems with the Peoplesoft suite of software products. These new products will allow SU to provide many more self-service, Web-based services to the campus community in the near future. Peoplesoft will become the cornerstone of GullNet.

Why is the University planning GullNet?
The University's goal is to provide a wide range of Web-based academic, financial and human resource services, called GullNet. Ultimately, GullNet will be a campus portal that will house not only the Peoplesoft software, but also other campus software like GroupWise e-mail, WebCT and the new RMS housing management software.

Why is the University doing this?
SU provides a small number of Web-based services now, but GullNet will be much more comprehensive. Check out the list of services on the GullNet Web site: www.salisbury.edu/gullnet/.

When will all of this take place?
The SU Admissions and Human Resources offices are already using Peoplesoft software. The Registrar's Office will use it for registration for fall 2003 (in April 2003). This is the first time most students and faculty will utilize GullNet.

Contributor relations (alumni services) will go live in January 2004. The Campus Portal, which will tie all of this together and link to other systems will come online in 2004.

Watch for more information on how registration will be done this spring. This information will be coming out soon … and check out www.salisbury.edu/gullnet/.

Keep an eye on GullNet!

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Library News

Library Announces Emergency Closing Hours
The library wants to provide some level of service and safe harbor to everyone on campus when the campus is closed due to weather emergencies. At the same time, the safety and well-being of its staff are vitally important. With these considerations in mind, the library has established its new emergency closing hours as follows: Monday through Saturday, 10-a.m.-4 p.m., and Sunday, noon-6 p.m. During these times, the library will attempt to provide all basic services.

Library Launches New Online Catalog
On January 6, Blackwell Library and the other libraries in the University System of Maryland and Affiliated Institutions (USMAI) launched its new online catalog which replaces VictorWeb and offers many new features. Called simply "The Catalog," the new system provides a variety of search options including the ability to limit by specific collections, formats and dates. Journal titles, which are included in the main catalog, may also be searched through a journals-only link. Course Reserves, too, will now be easier to find since it has its own separate section, searchable by instructor's name, course name or number and department as well as by title. Like VictorWeb, The Catalog also enables faculty, students and staff who are registered borrowers to place electronic requests for items owned by the other libraries in the USMAI system.

The new catalog gives registered library users a convenient way to keep track of their searches, loans, requests, fines and other information. The "My Account" section keeps track of items checked out, items requested and library fines. Other options allow users to set preferences for displaying search results and to save searches and records online or download to a disc.

Many additional features and enhancements are planned for The Catalog. Final testing is now underway for SFX, a citation/resource-linking technology that will connect the library's databases and e-journals to The Catalog, providing quick and easy access to any available full text articles. Future developments will include an e-mail updating service for those who want to be informed about new books added to the library in their subject areas.

Reference librarians will be offering training sessions on how to use the new catalog. Anyone who is interested in attending one of these sessions or scheduling instruction for a class should call Kathryn Kalmanson at 410-543-6190 or e-mail kcklamanson@salisbury.edu.

RAD Self Defense for Women

University Police is committed to providing the safest environment possible. With this in mind, UP offers SU students, faculty and staff Rape Aggression Defense (RAD) classes in the spring semester.

RAD is an international self-defense organization that offers a free life-time return and practice policy. Once you have completed the program, you can return to any RAD program across the country to practice your techniques free of charge.

The program starts with a personal safety discussion, which includes information focusing on awareness and risk reduction. Student participation and information sharing is encouraged. Topics include safety in the home, the car and while traveling as well as current hot issues like "Should I carry pepper spray?"

The majority of the time is spent practicing physical, self-defense techniques for all types of confrontations using different levels of force. Participation is strongly encouraged. You can work at your own pace. Prior experience is not necessary. The RAD system is specifically designed for women who are willing to consider defense as a viable option in situations where their life is in jeopardy.

The program concludes with a simulated attack. A well-padded officer will confront students to allow them the chance to practice the techniques they have learned to defend themselves—a tremendous confidence builder.

If you are interested in signing up for a RAD class, please call to be added to the waiting list. Classes are limited to 15 students. Classes are on the following dates/times: Please plan to attend all four days.

Session 1: February 4, 6, 11, 13; 1-4 p.m.

Session 2: April 2, 4, 9, 11; 5-8 p.m.

To register please go online at www.salisbury.edu/police or contact Sgt. Cinda Howell, RAD coordinator/instructor, at cchowell@salisbury.edu or 410-543-6222.

Easy Access to GRE Prep On SU Lab Computers

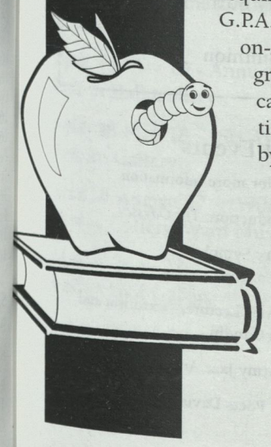
Through the combined efforts of IT and SU Career Services, students going to graduate school can now easily access the GRE PowerPrep software to prepare for the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). Log onto any lab computer, open the Netware Application Launcher and click on the PowerPrep GRE icon. This service is free, comprehensive and invaluable for your test-taking success! Watch your e-mail for the date and time for this spring's semester Graduate School Workshop(s) as well.

M.B.A. 4 + 1 Program

Did you know that the Perdue School of Business offers a one year M.B.A. program available to all students who have completed the foundation courses and meet admissions requirements? Foundation courses may be completed during your undergraduate career as part of our 4 + 1 program which will also earn you an undergraduate minor in business! More information is available on the M.B.A. Web site at www.salisbury.edu/schools/perdue/mba or contact the M.B.A. director, Janine Vienna, at jmvienna@salisbury.edu, 410-548-3983, to set up an appointment to discuss your options.

Attention Phi Eta Sigma Members!

Applications for the National Phi Eta Sigma Scholarship are in the Office of the Provost in Holloway Hall. Active participation in the local chapter is required. If you have a cumulative G.P.A. of at least 3.5 and participate in on-/off-campus service leadership groups come and pick up an application. Please return all applications to the Office of the Provost by Friday, February 14.



Study Abroad Opportunities

Students interested in spending a summer, semester, year or intersession abroad should contact the Office of International Education Programs at 410-548-4503 to set up an appointment with a study abroad advisor. Students are also invited to stop by the Study Abroad Library, Guerrieri Center Room 242B, to learn more about living and learning abroad.

Study Abroad Fair

Come to SU's winter study abroad fair on Thursday, February 13, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m., in the Link of Nations (between the Commons and the Guerrieri Center) and learn about your opportunity to earn credits while studying abroad in locations such as Spain, Ecuador, England, France, Australia, Ireland, Germany, Honduras and New Zealand (just to name a few). Call 410-548-4503 for more information. Don't miss it!

Student Research Conference Call For Papers/Creative Projects

Students, share your work with the campus by presenting a paper or poster at the SU Student Research Conference on Friday, April 25. Gain valuable experience in presenting your ideas before your peers. Select a favorite project, discuss it with a faculty sponsor, and submit an abstract by Friday, April 4. Papers will be presented in scheduled sessions with common themes (biology, creative writing, business cases, music, etc.), while posters will be shared in a common overarching session. Students may submit projects from any field taught at SU: original research, term papers, independent inquiries, case or clinical studies; group projects; creative projects like poetry, fine art, graphic design; or a music or theatre performance. Keep your eyes peeled for the conference Web site information which will be published early in the spring term.

Research/Creative Mentor Award

The SU Student Research Committee invites nominations for the inaugural Research/Creative Mentor Award. Students and faculty are invited to nominate faculty mentors who have proven to be excellent supervisors of student research or creative work. The award will be given during a brief ceremony at the Student Research Conference on April 25, and will recognize a faculty member who has inspired excellence in student research or independent creative composition or performance. Nominations are sought from all disciplines taught at the University. Self-nominations are also welcome.

Nominating students and faculty are asked to write a brief letter addressing the nominee's performance as a mentor, including, where relevant, a history of projects supervised, particular benefits to former students, the quality of student projects, and students who have been inspired to go on to further research or creative work. Please send these letters to Dr. Jill Caviglia-Harris, Economics Department, by Friday, March 14.

Communiversity Choir

The University announces the creation of a "Communiversity Choir," open to individuals interested in performing a concert of masterworks for chorus and orchestra. The performance will be held in March with the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra.

Director of Choral Activities Patrick Freer will prepare the chorus for the concert. The idea for the "Communiversity Choir" was suggested following the popular response to the community reading of Mozart's Requiem during SU's 9/11 commemoration.

Rehearsals are Tuesday evenings beginning February 4 at 7:30 p.m. in Fulton Hall Room 130. Auditions are not required, but prior experience and the ability to learn music quickly are recommended. A rehearsal pianist is also needed.

The repertoire includes Beethoven's "Choral Fantasy" (in German), Faure's "Pavane" (in French) and Vaughan Williams' "Serenade to Music" (in English). Music will be provided, but choristers should bring personal scores if available.

Interested individuals should plan on attending the February 4 rehearsal which begins promptly at 7:30 p.m. To indicate interest, all should contact Freer with name, voice part and telephone number/e-mail at 410-543-6386 or pkfreer@salisbury.edu.

Fishing Club

The SU Fishing Club invites all interested students, faculty and staff to its first meeting of the semester on Tuesday, February 4, at 3:30 p.m. in the Fireside Lounge, Guerrieri Center. Come hear about one of SU's fastest-growing club and the many events SUFC has planned for spring.

The SUFC also invites anyone interested in learning the art of fly fishing to its guest lecture on Tuesday, February 18, at 6 p.m. in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall. A fly fisherman, with over 40 years of experience, will speak on technique, studying a body of water, and even tying your own lures.

Visit www.salisbury.edu/students/fishing or e-mail fishing@salisbury.edu for more information.

Peace and Conflict Cultural Series

"We make war that we may live in peace," said Aristotle. This tenuous balance between peace and conflict is made all the more relevant in our post-9/11 culture where aspirations for peace are offset by the reality of terrorism and war. At SU, this balance is the primary teaching, research and practical focus of the Center for Conflict Resolution. Illuminating these issues, the Cultural Affairs Council sponsors a semester-long series of events that will address such questions as: "What role does protest play?" and "Is force ever justified?" Fleshing out the relationship between peace and conflict are several events including a visit from the grandson of Mahatma Gandhi and a lecture providing historical context for U.S. conflict as a means of expansion. Check the SU Web site, www.salisbury.edu, and future editions of the SU News for information on upcoming events. Here are highlights from the series:

PEACE & CONFLICT

Wednesday, February 12 - 7 p.m. - Holloway Hall Auditorium
"Terrorism and Nonviolence" Lecture with Arun Gandhi. Arun Gandhi is the grandson of spiritual leader, Mahatma Gandhi, and founder of the M.K. Gandhi Institute for Nonviolence, headquartered at Christian Brothers University.

Thursday, March 13 - 7 p.m. - Great Hall, Holloway Hall
Michael Hovey Lecture. Hovey is executive director of the Hague Appeal for Peace, an international network of peace and justice organization dedicated to sowing the seeds of abolition of war.

Wednesday, April 9 - 8 p.m. - Wicomico Room, Guerrieri Center
"Nurse Without Borders" Lecture with Mary Lightfine. Lightfine, a distinguished member of Doctors Without Borders, has lived and worked in some of the most hellish spots on Earth. She shares her stories from Afghanistan, Somalia and Sudan.

Wednesday, April 16 - 7 p.m. - Wicomico Room, Guerrieri Center
James Turner Johnson Lecture. Johnson, professor at Rutgers University, lectures on the justification of force in conflict.

outreach

Bilingual Education Office

The Bilingual Education Office at SU hosts two special programs aimed at improving educational opportunities for English language learners on the Eastern Shore.

The Training for All Teachers Project (TAT) offers free workshops on English as a Second Language (ESL) teaching strategies and cultural diversity for in-service and pre-service classroom teachers, adult educators, and college faculty and staff. The Bilingual Education Career Ladder Program (BECLP) offers scholarships to teachers who wish to pursue an M.A. in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) and to bilingual students and community members interested in becoming teachers. The office also offers free ESL classes for adults and maintains a Bilingual Education/ESL Resource Center.

Upcoming events sponsored by the Bilingual Education Office include the annual ESL Professional Development Day and Book Fair on April 11. The featured workshop is "Navigating Unchartered Territory: Managing ESL Programs in Rural Schools," by Dr. Barney Bérubé. On June 27-28, TAT and BECLP host the annual Bilingual Education Summer Institute and Principals' Institute.

For more information about TAT or BECLP, call 410-677-5009 or visit www.salisbury.edu/community/tat.

Join the 'Relay for Life'

SU will be holding its second annual Relay For Life, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, on Saturday, April 5, from 6 p.m.-6 a.m., at the intramural fields. Teams consist of 8-15 people, where team members take turns walking around the track during the event to raise money for the search to cure cancer. Teams may sign up until the start of the event while fundraising may continue until midnight the night of the event. Come enjoy the live bands, games, raffles and more while contributing to a great cause—the team fight against cancer. If interested in signing up a team, volunteering for the event or donating to the event please e-mail lah1962@salisbury.edu.

ShoreCorps/PALS (Partnership for Adolescents on the Lower Shore)

Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
1212 Camden Avenue (Camden House), Rooms 201 & 202
410-548-5119
www.salisbury.edu/community/americorps/

ShoreCorps/PALS (Partnership for Adolescents on the Lower Shore) is an AmeriCorps program located at SU. AmeriCorps is a domestic peace corps funded by the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS). PALS members must meet the following criteria: be at least 20 years of age, have reliable transportation, be a U.S. citizen, and possess a high school diploma or GED certificate. Experience serving youth and/or adolescents is helpful.

PALS will start its ninth year in September 2003. The PALS program mentors and tutors at-risk youth and adolescents in several non-profit and governmental agencies on the Eastern Shore. Members serve in positions providing tutoring/mentoring services, conflict resolution training, parent and family support services, health education programs, counseling services for pregnant adolescents, establishing peer support groups, conducting community outreach activities and recruiting volunteers to support project activities.

The PALS program requires a one-year commitment: members may serve full time (1,700 hours/year) or part time (900 hours/year). Full-time members will receive a living allowance of $9,900, health insurance, education award of $4,725, child care, six credits of University course work, loan forbearance and interest accrual. Part time members will receive a living allowance of $4,950, a post-education award of $2,363, six credits of University course work, loan forbearance and interest accrual. The AmeriCorps class at SU every Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. is mandatory.

Sea Gull Century Makes a Difference

The SU-hosted 14th annual Sea Gull Century bicycling event provided over $18,000 in donations to various volunteer student groups. All of the equipment in Maggs Fitness and Strength rooms has been purchased with proceeds from this event. In addition, bicycles for University Police, exercise bikes for the Physiology Lab, an automatic defibrillator for athletic training, and indoor climbing wall materials have been purchased.

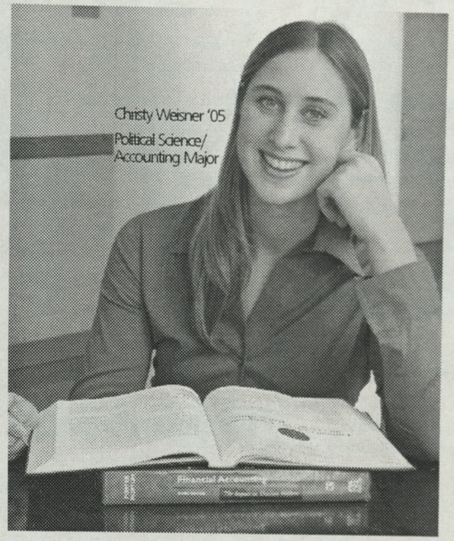
Held each October, this event showcases SU to over 7,000 people from across the country. This event is the single largest one-day tourism event in Wicomico County with an economic impact of over $1.5 million. Proceeds from this event benefit the campus as well as the community. Each year hundreds of bicycle helmets are purchased and given to local school children.

Through the years over $100,000 has been donated by Century participants to Salisbury's chapter of Habitat for Humanity. This year's event raised nearly $300,000 for the Leukemia Society's Team in Training Program.

Support A Salisbury University Education

"Throughout high school, I knew that I wanted to attend Salisbury University to pursue degrees in political science and accounting. Such degrees would require a lot of hard work and commitment on my part, both in and out of the classroom. Being awarded scholarships from the Alumni Association and the Perdue School have allowed me to concentrate on my studies instead of worrying about the financial responsibility of tuition. In addition, being able to focus on my education has provided me the opportunity to broaden my college experience.

"Please make a gift to the Salisbury University Fund this year. Your donation, whether to a program or scholarship, will allow other students to have the same amazing educational experience that I have been able to enjoy."



By making a gift to the Salisbury University Fund, you can support the many programs and scholarships available to SU students.

Community Mediation At the Center for Conflict Resolution

Do you ever find yourself involved in conflict? Would you know where to go or who to talk to? Do you find satisfaction in helping others resolve conflict?

The Center for Conflict Resolution is proud to announce the creation of CMILES, the Community Mediation Initiative of the Lower Eastern Shore. The goal of CMILES is to empower community members to mediate community disputes and to provide access to mediation services at various locations throughout the Lower Eastern Shore region. The program offers mediation services free of charge to individuals and organizations involved in conflict that wish to preserve their respective relationships. Interested individuals may become trained community mediators and gain experience in the process of mediation. Cases appropriate for mediation range from neighborhood disagreements to business and family disputes.

Anyone who is interested in exploring mediation as a problem-solving alternative and may wish to refer cases to the center or who may be interested in hosting a community mediation location site is invited to request a brochure (410-219-2877) or check www.conflict-resolution.org (click on the CMILES button). See how the community mediation system works from referral to follow up and how neighborhoods, businesses, organizations, agencies and individuals can benefit from its free services.

Perdue School's BEACON Shines From a New Location

If you've noticed something different at the corner of College and Camden avenues, you've noticed right! SU's former International House now sports a sign for BEACON House, a.k.a. SU's Business, Economic and Community Outreach Network, which recently moved from the Power Professional Building on Salisbury's East Campus to its new location.

BEACON, an outreach unit of the Perdue School of Business, offers consulting and technical assistance to regional clients. Some of BEACON's better-known initiatives include helping to develop the Lower Shore's first regional transit system (Shore Transit) and initiating Bienvenidos a Delmarva, a project to help regional service providers better serve the Shore's growing Hispanic population.

BEACON also carries out an important academic mission by involving faculty and students. BEACON's new location makes these joint efforts more convenient. "It puts us right across the street from our business school colleagues and better facilitates collaborative projects," said Memo Diriker, Perdue School professor and director of BEACON.

To learn more about BEACON, stop by, visit http://beacon.salisbury.edu, call 410-546-6001 or e-mail beacon@salisbury.edu.

Time for a Healthy U

A new car could be yours, along with gas and insurance paid for a year, if you sign up and win in Healthy U! SU is a partner in this unique, year-long program designed to bring a healthier lifestyle to area residents, including SU's faculty and staff. Two new cars will be given away to individuals. Groups also may compete for $5,000 prizes.

The tri-county area (Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset) has among the highest rates of cardiovascular disease, cancer and diabetes in the U.S.

In an unprecedented effort initiated by Mitzi Perdue, Healthy U of Delmarva has been created to bring together area hospitals, local medical professionals, boards of education, county health departments, area universities, the ministerial coalition and non-profit health organizations to promote healthier lifestyles.

In the Healthy U program, which begins this week, participants are rewarded for initiating healthier behaviors. To participate, SU faculty and staff are urged to attend signups at Maggs Center, January 28-February 14, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from 3:30-6 p.m. Mondays-Thursdays.

Participants will have their height, weight, waist and hip measurements taken. They will also be asked questions about diet, exercise and smoking habits. Twelve months later they again will be assessed.

Throughout the year activities including a Walking Club, smoking cessation classes and health-related lectures will be offered. Participants may earn "tickets" by participating. These tickets will qualify them for monthly prize drawings as well as the cars and cash at the end of the year.

The goal is a community of healthier non-smoking individuals with improved diet and exercise. For more information read the SU News, check the local paper, visit www.healthyudelmarva.org or call 410-742-9202.

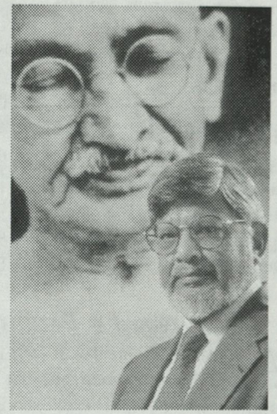
The Philosophy Of Nonviolence

The name Gandhi is matched by few in world history for its powerful image of integrity, courage, hope and social harmony.

On Wednesday, February 12, Arun Gandhi, grandson of the legendary peace fighter and spiritual leader, Mahatma Gandhi, speaks on the "Powerful Philosophy of Nonviolence," as part of SU's spring Peace and Conflict Cultural Series. His talk begins at 7 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Growing up in South Africa as a person of Indian heritage meant violent racial confrontations. Filled with rage as a boy, Gandhi subscribed to bodybuilding magazines to help him fight back. When his parents discovered the reason for their 12-year-old son's sudden fascination with exercise, they decided that a visit with his grandfather was in order. What followed was an 18-month stay that would give him the keys to the powerful philosophy of nonviolence and help shape the foundation for his life's work.

At age 23, Arun Gandhi returned to India and worked as a journalist and reporter for The Times of India. He, his wife, Sunanda, and several colleagues founded India's Center for Social Unity, a successful economic initiative whose mission is to alleviate poverty and caste discrimination. The Center's outreach has spread to over 300 villages, improving the lives of more than 500,000 rural Indians.



Arun Gandhi

The Gandhis moved to Mississippi in 1987. At the University of Mississippi in Oxford, they researched race issues present in the American south, color discrimination in South Africa and the caste system in India. In October 1991, they founded the M.K. Gandhi Institute for Nonviolence at Christian Brothers University in Memphis, TN, where Dr. Gandhi is also a scholar-in-residence.

The Institute's mission is to examine, promote and apply the principles of nonviolent thought and action through research, workshops, seminars and community service.

Author of numerous books and articles, Gandhi and his wife, herself senior researcher at the Institute, have two children and four grandchildren.

This event, free and open to the public, is co-sponsored by SU's Center for Conflict Resolution and the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222. Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Career Services Job Fairs

SU Job Fair 2003 - Thursday, February 20, noon-4 p.m. - first floor, Guerrieri Center. Over 100 companies will be at SU to recruit new hires and interns.

SU Education Job Fair - Thursday, March 13, 2:30-5 p.m. Wicomico Room, Guerrieri Center. A variety of school districts will have the opportunity to speak to SU students about teaching jobs.

Study Abroad Fair

Thinking about study abroad? If so, don't miss SU's Study Abroad Fair on Thursday, February 13, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. in the Link between the Commons and the Guerrieri University Center. Representatives from well-known study abroad programs such as AIFS, Australearn and Arcadia will be in attendance with information and advice on their programs.

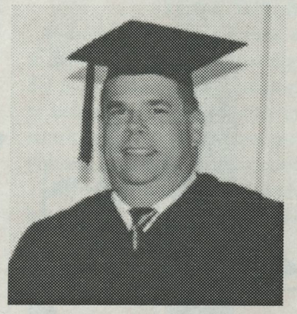
Need a Personal Trainer?

Are you an SU faculty or staff member interested in starting an exercise regimen and just lack the motivation, desire or know-how? Senior-level exercise science students will be personal trainers for faculty and staff throughout the spring semester.

The program includes an initial consultation during which the student will determine program goals as well as risk stratification for exercise. At that time, the student will design an exercise program with your needs in mind, and educate you in proper exercise modalities, be they aerobic exercise, weight training, etc. The student will obtain some baseline measurements pertaining to initial physical fitness. Then, he/she will monitor progress throughout the semester and test you at the end of the program.

All SU employees who want to make a difference in their lives through exercise should contact Dr. Todd Astorino at taastorino@salisbury.edu.

Gladding Honored for Alumni Service



Daniel H. Gladding

SU recently presented Daniel H. Gladding ('78) with the 2002 Alumni Service Award, given annually for dedication and outstanding service to the University and the Alumni Association.

A Pocomoke City native, Gladding graduated in 1978 with a Bachelor of Science in biology. During a building campaign in the early 1990s, Gladding donated a sophisticated, $10,000 sound system to the Alumni House—a fitting tribute to his student career when he was well-known for his sound and lighting work with theatre productions in addition to his disc jockey role at WSSC, the student-run radio station.

One of the founding members of the SAE fraternity, Gladding served on a host of student organizations and committees and continues to be involved with SAE.

Following his graduation, Gladding worked at the University from 1978-1984 as a certified energy auditor, responsible for preventative maintenance, the post office, telephones, central duplicating and switchboard. In addition, he supervised the pilot project for Work Experience, SU's student employment program.

Once he left the Salisbury area, he founded the Baltimore chapter of the SU Alumni Association. He also served on the Alumni Association's board of directors from 1990-92, the board of visitors from 1998-2001, and the Faculty Appreciation Award Committee for the Henson School for the last two years. He currently resides in Alabama where he is an on-site administrator for Compel.com in the Social Security Administration.

History Honor Society Seeks Nominees

SU's Eta Iota chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the International Honor Society in History, is seeking nominations for its spring 2003 initiation. Nominees must have completed at least 12 hours in history above History 101 and History 102 with a GPA of 3.0 and a cumulative GPA of 3.1 overall. Membership consists of juniors, seniors, graduate students and faculty.

If interested, please contact the faculty advisors, Drs. Dean Kotlowski (Holloway Hall Room 332), Kristen Walton (Holloway Hall Room 386) and Clara L. Small (Holloway Hall Room 333), prior to Friday, February 14.

Dance Club Advisor Needed

The newly-formed SU Dance Club has members and funding, but needs an advisor. Any interested faculty or staff member interested in helping should contact Portia Wright at 410-546-4528.

Tickets Available for Jazz Ambassadors

The Jazz Ambassadors of the U.S. Army Field Band from Washington, D.C., returns to SU for one of its most popular events on Monday, February 24, at 7 p.m. at Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The members of the Jazz Ambassadors are chosen through a highly competitive audition system. Some transferred from other units in the Army, while others enlisted specifically to perform with the group. Jazz Ambassadors' alumni have performed with the big bands of Stan Kenton, Buddy Rich, Maynard Ferguson, Woody Herman, Mel Lewis, Doc Severinsen and many others.

The evening is sponsored by WSCL public radio and the SU Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Two free tickets per person are available beginning Monday, February 10, at the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk from 8 a.m.-10 p.m., Mondays-Saturdays, and noon-10 p.m. on Sundays.

Ticket holders must be seated by 6:45 p.m. on the night of the performance after which time all available seating is open to non-ticket holders. For more information call 410-543-6271.

'Is Africa My Home': 19th Century Colonization

"Is Africa My Home? The Debate About the Colonization of Maryland Blacks in the 19th Century," is at 4 p.m. on Tuesday, February 11, in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall.

Sponsored by the Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU and the Maryland Humanities Council, the discussion explores the colonization movement in the antebellum United States.

Although slavery divided the North and South during the first half of the 19th century, a group of statesmen, clergymen and others from both regions founded the American Colonization Society in 1816 to settle free people of color in Africa. In 1831 Maryland's auxiliary formed the autonomous Maryland State Colonization Society.

Over a 20-year period, this organization assisted some 1,200 African Americans from Maryland and other states in settling on the west coast of Africa at Cape Palmas.

Ham, a member of the Maryland Humanities Council Speakers Bureau, is professor of history at Morgan State University where she teaches classes on African, African American, archival and public history. She received her Ph.D. in African history from Howard University, her M.A. in African history from Boston University, and her B.A. in history from Howard University.

The event is free and open to the public and sign language interpretation is available upon request. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

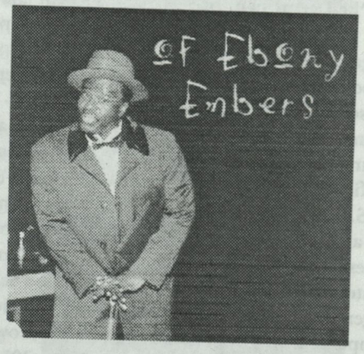
Music and Musings From the Harlem Renaissance



The University presents "Of Ebony Embers" on Sunday, February 9, at 3 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. A musical-theatre work for solo actor and chamber music trio, "Of Ebony Embers" explores the life and times of African-Americans who have helped shape the Harlem Renaissance.

The piece makes a connection to the lives and works of three outstanding but different African-American poets: Langston Hughes, Countee Cullen and Claude McKay, as seen through the eyes of the renowned painter and muralist Aaron Douglas.

Music by the Core Ensemble, a nationally-acclaimed trio of cello, piano and percussion, features compositions by such artists as Duke Ellington, Jelly Roll Morton, Billy Strayhorn, Thelonius Monk, Charles Mingus, and composers Jeffrey Mumford and George Walker.

The event, free and open to the public, is sponsored by SU's Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the Black History Month Planning Committee.

Artists' Co-Op Supports Park Renovation

The Artists' Co-Op is exhibiting at The Gallery and Clay in Rare Form Studio through March 29. In addition to various paintings, collages, photomanipulations and dimensional art, the exhibition also will include 12 different visual responses to the bridge in Salisbury's City Park. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the pieces will be donated to the bridge and bandstand restoration project.

Members of the Co-Op include SU faculty Marie Cavallaro and Clytie Whitson-Taylor, retired SU staff Paula Hepburn, and SU alumna Nancy Mysak.

Native American Medicine Workshop

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture presents a workshop on Native American Medicinal Practices on Monday, February 17. Two sessions are offered: 1-3 p.m. or 5-7 p.m.

Chief Dawn Manyfeathers, of Eden, MD, is director of the Lenapehauken Educational and Research Center, a non-profit organization dedicated to public education about the Eastern Woodland Indians. In addition to demonstrating traditional cleansing ceremonies such as "smudging" and "sweeping," Manyfeathers discusses Native American beliefs in the four sacred herbs as well as plant "signatures."

Cost of workshop is $20 per person ($15 for SU students and Nabb Research Center members). Attendees will receive a class workbook. Class size is limited and reservations required. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu

Nursing Seeks Accreditation

The Department of Nursing is currently engaged in a self-study process as part of its efforts to secure accreditation by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE). Officially recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Education as a national accreditation agency, the CCNE is an autonomous accrediting agency contributing to the improvement of the public's health. CCNE ensures the quality and integrity of baccalaureate and graduate education programs preparing effective nurses. CCNE serves the public interest by assessing and identifying programs that engage in effective educational practices. As a voluntary, self-regulatory process, CCNE accreditation supports and encourages continuing self-assessment by nursing education programs and the continuing growth and improvement of collegiate professional education.

The accreditation visit will be April 9-11. If you have questions about the accreditation process, please contact Dr. Susan Battistoni, chair, Department of Nursing (Power Professional Room 203, sbbattistoni@salisbury.edu) or Dr. Lisa Seldomridge, the accreditation process coordinator (Power Professional Room 205, laseldomridge@salisbury.edu). The Department of Nursing invites you to submit comments about its undergraduate and graduate nursing programs to CCNE. If you choose to do so, comments should be sent by Saturday, March 1, directly to: Mark Jenkins; data and records coordinator; Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education; 1 DuPont Circle, NW, Suite 530; Washington, D.C. 20036-1120.

Peninsula Bank Gives Study Abroad Boost

Peninsula Bank recently donated $10,000 to the Perdue School of Business to enhance the Peninsula and Mercantile Banks Scholarship Fund. The fund is designed to encourage and assist Perdue School students with participation in study-abroad seminars.

"The support we enjoy from Peninsula Bank is outstanding," said Dr. William Moore, dean of the Perdue School. "It has enabled many more students to study abroad and we know their international business education is richer for the overseas experience."

Scholarships funded by the Peninsula Bank gift typically subsidize no more than half the cost of a students study-abroad experience. In existence since 1991, the program has helped several Perdue School students including 12 who spent winter term in England and Ireland.

Application Deadline for Nursing Majors To Begin Junior Curriculum

All current sophomore-level SU nursing majors who are ready to begin the junior curriculum this upcoming fall in the traditional track must file an "Intent to Enroll" form by Monday, February 17. These forms are available from the Nursing Department secretary located in Power Professional Building Room 201. Any questions regarding the admissions procedure, please contact Eleanor Morris at 410-543-6401.

Department of Nursing Scholarships

The Department of Nursing in the Henson School of Science and Technology is pleased to announce the following nursing scholarships for the 2003-2004 academic year: Avery W. Hall, Virginia Mills Edwards, Garland D. & Vivian J. Bull, Marilyn Seidel, Margaret Johnson Elmore, and the Sigma Theta Tau International Nursing Honor Society undergraduate and graduate scholarships. These scholarships are available to current sophomores who intend to begin the traditional program's nursing core curriculum in fall 2002, as well as to current junior nursing majors.

For further information, contact Mary DiBartolo, nursing scholarship coordinator, 410-543-6403, or to request an application packet, please call the department secretary Eleanor Morris at 410-543-6401.

University Police Earn Recognition

Recently the University Police and several of its officers received various awards for their efforts.

University Police has once again received the prestigious Governor's Crime Prevention Award for 2002. The award is presented to law enforcement agencies in the state of Maryland for outstanding efforts in the development and implementation of programs to prevent and control crime. University Police has received the award for the eighth year for its efforts to help create a safer environment for the campus community.

In addition, Sgt. Kevin Boothe received a Governor's Crime Prevention Award in the category of "Individual Officers." Boothe received the award for his efforts to help prevent crime within the campus community. He taught a number of student-orientation classes throughout the year in addition to his normal duties as a shift supervisor. He gave freely of his time as a Faculty/Staff Fellow for Nanticoke Hall and received an additional award from the Wicomico County Underage Drinking Coalition for his efforts in combating underage drinking. Boothe is the first officer to receive the award since Carlton "Toby" Tobias did so in 1991.

Through the diligent efforts of Cpl. Kelly Craven and with the most gracious help of the University community, $1,500 was raised for Special Olympics through the Maryland Special Olympics Torch Run Relay. The Torch Run involves more than 1,200 law enforcement officers from around the state who take part in a 600-mile, one-week torch relay to pass the Special Olympics "Flame of Hope" across Maryland.

'Tributes' Program Celebrates Faculty Contributions

The faculty and staff of Blackwell Library are delighted to announce the establishment of "Tributes," a new library program that celebrates the contributions of faculty and others to students' lives, SU's commitment to educational excellence, and the library's support of that mission. Tributes was created to honor and recognize faculty members who have touched, inspired or otherwise positively motivated students during their years of study at Salisbury.

Students who wish to honor a faculty member will work with a librarian to purchase a book that focuses on the faculty member's specific personal or professional interest. The book, bearing a special bookplate that shows the name of the faculty member and the person who has honored them by purchasing the book, will then be added to the library's collection.

Anyone who is interested in honoring their favorite professor with a Tributes book should call Susan Brazer at 410-546-4370 or stop by the library to pick up an information sheet.

Area Students Exhibit at SU

The University presents the Wicomico County School System Visual and Performing Art Program (VPA) third annual exhibit February 11-21 at the Atrium Gallery, Guerrieri University Center. An opening reception is Tuesday, February 11 from 5-7 p.m.

Under the direction of art supervisor Gary Beauchamp, the program features juniors and seniors from James M. Bennett, Wicomico and Parkside high schools.

Oil pastel by Kristina Meganleo

Now in its 15th year, the visual component of the VPA Program has successfully prepared students for higher-level art instruction and professional careers in the visual arts.

VPA students receive special, intensive, advanced art instruction several hours each day at Wicomico High School. They study drawing, painting, photography, 3-D design/crafts, graphic design/printmaking and sculpture. The program also gives students the opportunity to present themselves and their artwork in oral critiques and interview settings. Art instructors Mike Morris, Margaret Tossey and Martha Williams teach the classes.

The exhibit, sponsored by SU's Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs, the Wicomico County Board of Education Visual and Performing Arts Program and a grant from Maryland State Arts Council, is free and open to the public. Gallery hours are Tuesdays-Fridays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. For more information, call 410-548-2547.

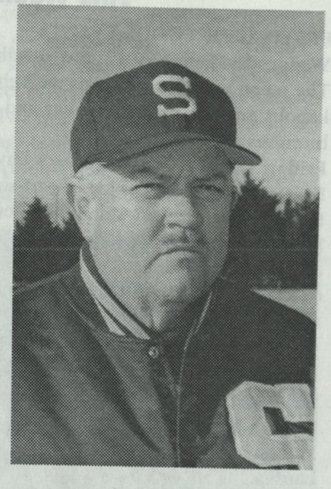
Fleetwood Selected to Maryland Coaches



Doug Fleetwood, head baseball coach and football offensive coordinator, has been selected to the Maryland High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame. He will be formally inducted at a banquet on February 15 at Ravens Stadium in Baltimore.

Fleetwood was selected for the Hall of Fame in recognition of his stellar coaching career at Cambridge-South Dorchester High School. Fleetwood served 21 years as the head coach at C-SD, winning three state championships (1979, 1995, 1996) and compiling a 190-50 overall record. His Vikings won 14 regional championships and appeared in the state playoffs in 16 of his 21 seasons. In addition to winning the state championship three times, C-SD finished as the championship runnerup on three other occasions.

Fleetwood was selected as the Bayside Conference's Coach of the Year seven times in his career, and was named the Associated Press' Maryland Coach of the Year in 1996.

"This award is very meaningful for me," said Fleetwood. "It's pretty rewarding to be selected by my peers because I have a lot of respect for this group and this organization. I view this as the ultimate honor in my career."

Tickets to the February 15 induction banquet are available to the public, but must be reserved in advance. Tickets are $37 and can be purchased by contacting Joe Russo at 410-203-9377, or 410-313-7605.

Fleetwood stepped down as head coach at Cambridge-South Dorchester following the 1999 season and has spent the past three years on the Sea Gull athletics staff.

SBDC Expands

The Small Business Development Center (SBDC), Eastern Region, recently expanded its staff when it appointed Marie Vogel as a business consultant. Vogel received her B.A. in 1980 from Holy Cross College in Worcester, MA. Before joining SBDC, she worked as the general manager of Feldman's Market Street Antiques in Salisbury for five years. Vogel and her husband, Joe, also manage the "Downtown Park and Flea," a project of Urban Salisbury, Inc.

In July of 2002, Steffanie Malkus was appointed training and marketing director for the SBDC. She received her B.A. in speech communications from the University of Maryland College Park. Steffanie recently moved to the Eastern Shore from Washington, D.C., where she worked as a technical writer for McKessonHBOC.

Cirillo Earns Bellavance Intern Award

The Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement (PACE) recently announced that Ron Cirillo has become the second student to receive the Bellavance Intern Award.

Given to an upperclassman who has demonstrated a commitment to civic engagement and the public good, the award provides the intern with the opportunity to interact with government officials and play an integral role in PACE's public affairs programs. It also includes a $2,500 stipend. The honor is made possible by a donation from the family of the University's sixth president, Dr. Thomas E. Bellavance.

A 1997 graduate of North Caroline High School, Cirillo is an SU senior with a double major in political science and conflict resolution/peace studies. In addition to holding a seat in the University's Student Government Association, he also represents students on the SU Government Relations Committee. He has been active in Salisbury City community affairs including the recent mayoral campaign and has worked as an intern in the downtown law offices of Laws and Robertson.

Last spring, Cirillo presented a paper on the evolution of U.S.-Vietnamese relations at the National Conference for Undergraduate Research. After graduating, he plans to attend the University of Wales in Aberystwyth to pursue a master's degree in international intelligence and strategy.

"Too often politics is made to seem as though it is totally separate from the day to day lives of most people," Cirillo wrote in his application. "I am a strong believer that all politics are local, and that all political choices come down to individuals and their ideas." Cirillo said his goal is to get students more involved in the political process because it affects them everyday.

"Ron is but another example of the quality student PACE has been able to attract," said Dr. Fran Kane, co-director of PACE.

Inclement Weather Policy

Should inclement weather result in classes being canceled information will be given to all local radio and television stations. Students can receive information concerning cancellations by listening to local stations, by visiting SU's Web site, www.salisbury.edu, or by calling the Gull Line at 410-546-6426.

The institutional policy with regard to closing is that unless there are the most dire circumstances the institution will remain open for business. Students, staff and faculty members must exercise their best judgment about whether they attend class or report to work. Different conditions prevail for each individual under inclement weather situations so the decision should be essentially an independent one.

If you do not hear an announcement about cancellation of classes, then classes and events will be held as scheduled. Please do not call the University Police Office about cancellation notices so that office can assist with emergency needs.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Math Faculty Conference Happenings

Several faculty members recently participated in the annual Joint Mathematics Meetings of the American Mathematical Society (AMS) and Mathematical Association of America (MAA) in Baltimore.

Dr. Homer W. Austin presented "Number Theory from a Multicultural and Historical Perspective: A Math ADEPT Course" at the MAA session on Courses and Projects Addressing the Shortage of K-12 Teachers.

Dr. Harel Barzilai was co-organizer of the MAA session on Courses and Projects Addressing the Shortage of K-12 Teachers. At that session he presented "Conceptual Algebra for Teachers: Integrating Algebra into a New Graduate Program for Middle School Teachers."

Dr. Michael J. Bardzell presented a poster, "The PascGalois Project: Visualizing Abstract Algebra," at the MAA poster session on Projects Supported by the NSF Division of Undergraduate Education. Dr. Kathleen Shannon is co-author of the poster.

Dr. Jennifer A. Bergner presented "The Concept of Point: A Historical and Metaphorical Perspective" at the SIGMAA session on Research in Undergraduate Mathematics Education.

Dr. Steven M. Hetzler was co-organizer of the MAA general contributed paper sessions. He also presented "Using the Writing Process to Help Teach the Mathematical Modeling Process" at Mathematical Modeling In and Out of the Classroom and "Reading Discrete Mathematics: A Semester-long Assignment in Communication" at the MAA session on Getting Students to Discuss and to Write About Mathematics.

Professor Kurt E. Ludwick presented "Sums of Squares and Congruence Restrictions of the Theta Function" at the AMS special session on Modular Forms, Elliptic Curves and Related Topics.

Dr. E. Lee May was a panelist for the MAA panel discussion, Successful Strategies for Implementing a Texas-style (modified Moore method) Course.

Dr. Mohammad Moazzam presented "Mathematics in the Islamic Era" at the MAA general contributed paper session.

Shannon presented "The PascGalois Project: Visualization Projects for Abstract Algebra," at the MAA session on Creative Visualization Labs. Bardzell is co-author of the paper.

Dr. Donald Spickler presented "The Cartesian Triad: Algebra, Geometry and the Cartesian Coordinate System - A Focus on Middle School Math Teachers" at the MAA general contributed paper session; "Making the Transition from Euclidean to Non-Euclidean Geometry Through Exploration," at Creative Visualization Labs; and "Environmental Data Motivates the Connections Between Algebra and Geometry" at the MAA session on Environmental Mathematics in the Classroom.

Dr. Robert M. Tardiff presented "Portfolio Design and the Genetic Algorithm" at the MAA session on Mathematics Experiences in Business, Industry and Government.

Dr. Barbara Wainwright presented "Statistical Activities for a Math ADEPT Course: Improving Middle School Teachers' Statistical Reasoning" at the MAA session on Best Statistics Projects/Activities.

Time for a Healthy U

The new car pictured here could be yours, along with gas and insurance paid for a year, if you sign up and win in Healthy U! SU is a partner in this unique, year-long program designed to bring a healthier lifestyle to area residents, including SU's faculty and staff. Two new cars will be given away to individuals. Groups also may compete for $5,000 prizes.

The tri-county area (Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset) has among the highest rates of cardiovascular disease, cancer and diabetes in the U.S.

In an unprecedented effort initiated by Mitzi Perdue, Healthy U of Delmarva has been created to bring together area hospitals, local medical professionals, boards of education, county health departments, area universities, the ministerial coalition and non-profit health organizations to promote healthier lifestyles.

In the Healthy U program, which begins this week, participants are rewarded for initiating healthier behaviors. To participate, SU faculty and staff are urged to attend signups at Maggs Center, through February 14, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from 3:30-6 p.m. Mondays-Thursdays.

Participants will have their height, weight, waist and hip measurements taken. They will also be asked questions about diet, exercise and smoking habits. Twelve months later they again will be assessed.

Throughout the year activities including a Walking Club, smoking cessation classes and health-related lectures will be offered. Participants may earn "tickets" by participating. These tickets will qualify them for monthly prize drawings as well as the cars and cash at the end of the year.

The goal is a community of healthier non-smoking individuals with improved diet and exercise. For more information read the SU News, check the local paper, visit www.healthyudelmarva.org or call 410-742-9202.

SU Faculty/Staff Lead Healthy U Run

Provost David Buchanan and three other SU runners scored top three finishes in their respective age groups in the inaugural Healthy U 5K Run and Walk last Saturday over a snow-covered cross-country trail course in Salisbury.

Buchanan finished third in the 60-69 age group; Dr. Sid Schneider of the Respiratory Therapy Department was first in his age group (50-59) and fifth overall; Jay Scifers of the Physical Education Department was first in his age group (30-39) and 10th overall; and Gains Hawkins of the Public Relations Office was third in his age group (50-59).

SU Supports Regional Professional Development

The Center for Professional Development was recently established at SU to offer professional development and personal enrichment opportunities for businesses, professional organizations, non-profits and individuals.

Faculty and staff are invited to contact the CPD to discuss potential courses, seminars and workshops that could be offered to the community as non-degree programs. Many programs require a fee for participants, providing revenue opportunities for both individuals and departments.

Utilizing faculty and staff expertise at SU as well as regional experts and consultants in a broad array of disciplines, the CPD provides programs, seminars, courses and workshops targeted at satisfying organizational goals, professional development and personal enrichment. Programs complement SU credit programs with

Carol Brady

Kathryn Redden

Continuing Education Units (CEUs) offered for certain coursework and customized courses developed for organizations and professional associations.

An example of an upcoming professional development program coordinated by the CPD is series of courses on "Alternative Dispute Resolution," held in conjunction with SU's Center for Conflict Resolution and aimed at several audiences: business owners, human resource managers, legal and law enforcement professionals, doctors, educators and school administrators, and community leaders.

Courses held last fall included: "EEO Law Update Conference," "Women in Business: Finding Balance in Your Life" and psychology and social work continuing education courses for psychologists, counselors and social workers.

In the development stage are training programs for Latino workers, helping them better understand English and American culture, as well as seminars for English-only speaking supervisors who manage Latino workers.

Tickets for Graduation

PLEASE NOTE: There will be two spring graduation ceremonies on Thursday, May 22, held at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center:

• Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies and Perdue School of Business at 10 a.m.

• Fulton School of Liberal Arts and Henson School of Science and Technology at 2 p.m.

The University Graduation Committee issues tickets for guests who wish to attend the graduation ceremony.

Admission will be by ticket only. Each May graduate will be provided 10 guest tickets and may request one ticket (on a first-come, first-served basis until supply is depleted) to admit a friend who is graduating in the alternate ceremony. Unfortunately, there are no extra tickets available.

March 17, 18 and 19
Grad Fair, University Bookstore, Commons—9 a.m.-6 p.m. Place orders for nursing pins, caps and gowns. (Note: There is no charge for caps and gowns. A representative is available for custom gown/cap fitting on March 17-19. Cap and gown orders may be placed in the University Bookstore through March 28.) You may also order announcements, diploma frames and rings at this time. For questions once you have placed your order call the following numbers: announcements: 1-800-278-7644, diploma frames: 1-800-297-GRAD, rings: 1-800-952-7002, all other calls: 410-548-2077.

April 22, 23 and 24
Pick up caps and gowns and 10 tickets at the Graduation Center in the University Bookstore—9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Students who are not able to pick up their graduation items because they are student teaching outside the area or otherwise not on campus may contact Nancy Watson at the University Bookstore (410-548-5996) to make special arrangements. Please note: Caps, gowns and tickets will be available for pick up through May 21 at noon.

More information on the foregoing will be available throughout the semester. Check regularly in the SU News or on the SU Web www.salisbury.edu for details.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

SU Supports Regional Professional Development

The CPD played a pivotal role in the creation of the Academy for Leadership in Education, a partnership with the Seidel School (with impetus from the Greater Salisbury committee), which provides courses for a cohort of educational professionals seeking school administration positions. The Academy has been an immediate success, with a full contingent of enrollees.

Among the development and enrichment programs that are being offered or considered are family counseling, forensic social work, environmental issues, American Disabilities Act, diversity in the workplace, financial planning, accounting, Web design, motivational leadership, team building, interpersonal communications, and public relations and marketing.

Courses are held both on and off the SU campus, and are delivered in the classroom or via the Web, video or audiotape, or self-paced.

Administering the CPD offerings are Kathryn E. Redden and Carol Brady. Redden, program director, has extensive professional experience in the field of human resources in varied industries such as automotive, pharmaceutical and banking, and in the public sector. Brady, program coordinator, has over 30 years of experience with college administration and the University System of Maryland.

To find out about upcoming programs available through the Center for Professional Development or to suggest new courses, contact Redden or Brady at 410-548-4481 or visit the Web site www.salisbury.edu/community/cpd.

Seniors - Graduation Application Deadline

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in December 2003 or winter term 2004 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, March 7, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to their last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

Faculty and staff: In this stressful time what can you do to feel better and lighten the day? Sign up for SU's Healthy U program! It's easy, free and improving your health will help you manage all your challenges! There are prizes, money, drawings for gifts and good company!

But first you have to sign up. It's easy. Just go to the Healthy U clipboard on the information rack in the main lobby of Maggs Center (near racquetball courts). Sign up for an assessment time, which is 11 a.m.-2 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from 3:30-6 p.m. Mondays-Thursdays.

Assessment is simple—height, weight, waist and hip measurements and a few questions about diet, exercise and smoking habits. It literally takes minutes. Twelve months later participants check in again. Time is running out (deadline is Friday, February 14) so do it now!

Already the Healthy U Walking Club is off to a great start. It meets every weekday at 12:10 p.m. in front of Maggs Center. Routes are mapped out and a Healthy U Walking Club leader is there everyday. They walk, rain or shine, as long as the temperature is above 30 degrees. Walking routes (as well as those for cycling) are also available at the information rack in Maggs Center near the racquetball court. Some 20 different routes are mapped for walking, jogging and cycling. For more information call the Campus Recreation Office at 410-543-6350.

The noon-time Walking Club is just the start. More programs will be added over the months. Stay tuned for updates.

Tickets Available for Jazz Ambassadors

The Jazz Ambassadors of the U.S. Army Field Band from Washington, D.C., returns to SU for one of its most popular events on Monday, February 24, at 7 p.m. at Holloway Hall Auditorium.

The members of the Jazz Ambassadors are chosen through a highly competitive audition system. Some transferred from other units in the Army, while others enlisted specifically to perform with the group. Jazz Ambassadors' alumni have performed with the big bands of Stan Kenton, Buddy Rich, Maynard Ferguson, Woody Herman, Mel Lewis, Doc Severinsen and many others.

The evening is sponsored by WSCL public radio and the SU Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Two free tickets per person are available beginning Monday, February 10, at the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk from 8 a.m.-10 p.m., Mondays-Saturdays, and noon-10 p.m. on Sundays.

Ticket holders must be seated by 6:45 p.m. on the night of the performance after which time all available seating is open to non-ticket holders. For more information call 410-543-6271.

Writers-on-the-Shore Series Returns for Spring

Poets Stephen Corey and Dzvinia Orlowsky read from their works Tuesday, February 25, at 8 p.m. in the Montgomery Room of the Commons

As part of its Writers-on-the-Shore series, the Department of English presents poets Dzvinia Orlowsky and Stephen Corey on Tuesday, February 25, at 8 p.m. in the Montgomery Room, Commons building.

Orlowsky has published three volumes of poetry, Except for One Obscene Brushstroke (2003), Edge of House (1999) and A Handful of Bees (1994), all from Carnegie Mellon University Press. She teaches in the Stonecoast Master of Fine Arts Program at the University of Southern Maine.

Corey has published several volumes of poetry including All These Lands You Call One Country (University of Missouri, 1992) and has co-edited three books including Spreading the Word: Editors on Poetry (Bench Press, 2001). Since 1983, Corey has been an editor of The Georgia Review.

In addition to the readings, a special discussion at 4 p.m. in the Montgomery Room features Corey's comments about The Georgia Review. Free sample copies of the journal will be distributed.

The readings are free and open to the public. For more information call Dr. Michael Waters at 410-543-6540.

Native American Medicine Workshop

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture presents a workshop on "Native American Medicinal Practices" on Monday, February 17. Two sessions are offered:
1-3 p.m. or 5-7 p.m.

Chief Dawn Manyfeathers, of Eden, MD, is director of the Lenapehauken Educational and Research Center, a non-profit organization dedicated to public education about the Eastern Woodland Indians. In addition to demonstrating traditional cleansing ceremonies such as "smudging" and "sweeping," Manyfeathers discusses Native American beliefs in the four sacred herbs as well as plant "signatures."

Cost of workshop is $20 per person ($15 for SU students and Nabb Research Center members). Attendees receive a class workbook. Class size is limited and reservations are required. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

BEACON Responds To Immigration Trends on Delmarva

Hispanic population from 1990-2000 increased by as much as 300 percent in parts of Lower Delaware and 200 percent in some areas of the Lower Eastern Shore according to U.S. Census figures.

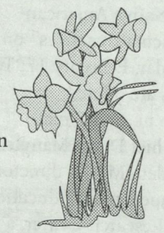
This demographic trend presents distinct challenges to local service providers, who are not necessarily accustomed to working with an immigrant community. A cultural competency workshop sponsored by the Perdue School's Business, Economic and Community Outreach Network (BEACON) enabled over 120 participants to better understand the particular needs and characteristics of this growing population. Dr. Memo Diriker, BEACON director said, "Sometimes being late to the game is a significant advantage. We can avoid the mistakes of other regions of the United States where the immigrant population has soared, and we can learn from their successes."

"Cross-Cultural Services on the Delmarva Peninsula," the BEACON workshop, offered information about immigrant cultures and dealing with diversity. Dr. Larry Purnell, an internationally known expert on cultural competency from the University of Delaware, presented "Migration to the Delmarva Peninsula." Dr. Timothy Dunn, an SU assistant professor of sociology, shared his most recent research findings of the growing immigrant populations on the Eastern Shore in the presentation "Recent Mexican Migration to the Rural Delmarva Peninsula: Human Rights Mediated on the Local Level."

Because of the high demand for the workshop, BEACON plans to hold another similar event in spring 2003.

For additional information about future workshops, Bienvenidos a Delmarva or BEACON, call 410-546-6001, e-mail beacon@salisbury.edu or visit BEACON's Web site at http://beacon.salisbury.edu.

Daffodil Days Are Coming



Winter blues getting you down? Wish there was some way to bring spring a little early? Well you're in luck! It's time for the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days, March 13-14. Celebrate spring and help save lives by donating to the American Cancer Society.

Daffodil Days benefits American Cancer Society research, education, advocacy and patient services. Cancer information and support is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week and 365 days a year by calling 1-800-ACS-2345 or at www.cancer.org.

Daffodils are available in bunches of 10 cut flowers for $6 or potted miniatures for $8.50 and will be available for pick up on March 13-14. Please contact Susan Tontonoz at 410-543-6080 or sgtontonoz@salisbury.edu February 17-20 to order flowers or make a donation.

Nursing News

Nursing Department Open House

The Department of Nursing presents its annual open house on Friday, March 7. This informational session begins at 9 a.m. in the Worcester Room of the Commons with morning refreshments.

At 9:30 a.m., the formal program begins with an overview of the traditional nursing program by Dr. Susan Battistoni, department chair. Other speakers include Dr. Thomas Jones, dean of the Henson School, Marylane McGlinchey, advising coordinator of the Henson School, and Barri Zimmerman from the Financial Aid Office. Current junior- and senior-level nursing students will also offer their perspective on life as a nursing major at SU, with time allotted for specific questions for faculty members and students.

Lunch will be held in the Bistro at noon where nursing faculty will also be available. After lunch, tours of the skills/learning labs located in Power Professional Building will be conducted beginning at 1:15 p.m.

Although this event is primarily offered to high school seniors and transfer students considering SU's program for the fall, current SU students considering the nursing major are also welcome to attend.

For more information or to register for the event, please contact Eleanor Morris, department secretary, at 410-543-6401.

Application Deadline for Nursing Majors To Begin Junior Curriculum

All current sophomore-level SU nursing majors who are ready to begin the junior curriculum this fall in the traditional track must file an Intent to Enroll form by Monday, February 17. These forms are available from the Nursing Department secretary located in Power Professional Building Room 201. Any questions regarding the admissions procedure, please contact Eleanor Morris at 410-543-6401.

Department of Nursing Scholarships

The Department of Nursing in the Henson School of Science and Technology is pleased to announce the following nursing scholarships for the 2003-2004 academic year: Avery W. Hall, Virginia Mills Edwards, Garland D. & Vivian J. Bull, Marilyn Seidel, Margaret Johnson Elmore, and the Sigma Theta Tau International Nursing Honor Society undergraduate and graduate scholarships. These scholarships are available to current sophomores who intend to begin the traditional program's nursing core curriculum in the fall, as well as to current junior nursing majors.

For further information, contact Mary DiBartolo, nursing scholarship coordinator, 410-543-6403, or to request an application packet, please call department secretary Eleanor Morris at 410-543-6401.

Senior Games Registration Begins

Athletes from across the Mid-Atlantic region converge on SU for the fourth annual Eastern Shore Senior Games from Thursday-Saturday, April 24-26.

Open to men and women age 50 and over, participants compete in a variety of athletic events, both individual and team, at several area sports venues. A shotgun start kicks off the golf tournament at noon on Thursday, April 24.

Last year more than 400 senior athletes took part.

"The growth of the Eastern Shore Games over the last three years has been extraordinary," said Dr. K. Nelson Butler, chair of the Eastern Shore Senior Games and a faculty member in the SU Department of Physical Education. "Our primary goal remains to provide an opportunity for people in our region to compete and promote a healthy, active lifestyle."

This year's roster of individual events includes aquatics, archery, badminton, billiards, bowling, cycling, floor and foul (basketball) shooting, golf, handball, horseshoes, racquetball, softball and football throw, table tennis, tennis, and track and field. Team events include line dancing, softball and volleyball.

Participation is open to Maryland, Delaware and Eastern Shore of Virginia residents 50 years of age or older, with established risk guidelines. Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded to the top three male and female contestants in each competition category (50-54, 55-59, 60-64, 65-69, 70-74, 75-79, 80-84, 85-89, 90-94, 95+). If participant numbers are insufficient, age groups may be combined for competition purposes.

The Eastern Shore Senior Games of the Maryland Senior Games, coordinated by the SU Department of Physical Education, is affiliated with the Maryland Senior Games Commission. The Maryland Senior Games Commission encourages year-round training for all Senior Games participants.

Eastern Shore Senior Games 2003 sponsors are the SU Foundation, Inc., Sea Gull Century Committee, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Salisbury, Conectiv, the Wicomico County Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Azar Eye Institute.

For a registration booklet or more information, please call Butler at 410-543-6177 or 410-548-4183.

SU News Guidelines

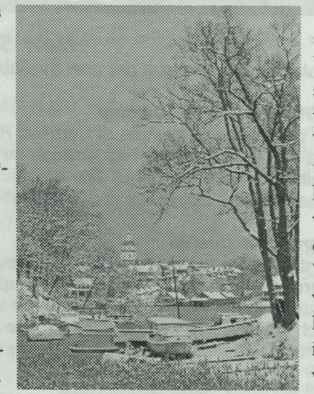
The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Warren Photography Exhibit Opens



SU presents "A Retrospective Vision: The Photography of Marion E. Warren, 1939-2003," from Friday, February 21-Friday, April 4, in Fulton Hall Gallery. The previously announced opening reception has been cancelled.

A celebrated photographer, Warren has won national acclaim for his depiction of the picturesque charm and beauty of Maryland and the Chesapeake Bay. Born in 1920 and raised in Missouri, he has lived in Annapolis since 1947. His prints have appeared in Time, Life, National Geographic and Washington Post Magazine.

"A Retrospective Vision" represents over 60 years of Warren's photographs; his legacy is a visual journal of more than 75 black-and-white Maryland images. His work is divided into four categories: the Chesapeake Bay, architecture and industry, landscape and people.

The exhibit, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs and a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council. Fulton Gallery hours are Tuesdays-Fridays 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and weekends noon-4 p.m.

For more information call 410-548-2547.

Women's Basketball Wins 10th Straight

Senior guard Amy Campion scored a game-high 22 points, including a key three-pointer in the final minute, as the women's basketball team rallied for a 69-64 Capital Athletic Conference win at home Saturday. The Sea Gulls extended their winning streak to 10 straight while improving to 18-3 overall and 10-0 in the CAC.

Trailing 61-55 with 3:37 remaining, Salisbury used a 6-0 run to knot the score at 61 with 2:21 left. After two free throws by York pushed the visitors ahead 63-62, Campion put Salisbury in front to stay with her three-point field goal with 48 seconds remaining. The Sea Gulls converted four of four free throws in the final 23 seconds to seal the win.

Freshmen Christen Barney and Kiera Watkins finished with 13 points each for the Gulls, with forward Pam Kenney adding 12. Campion, who leads the nation in scoring with a 24.5 ppg average, also grabbed a game-high 15 rebounds for her 14th double-double performance of the season.

The SU men's and women's teams close out their regular season home schedule this week with a doubleheader against Goucher on Saturday. The women's game begins at 5:30 p.m., followed by the men at 7:30 p.m. A full afternoon of basketball at the Maggs Center also includes men's and women's alumni games, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

SCHOLARSHIP NEWS

New Scholarship Opportunities

The following scholarship applications are now available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213.

Accountemps/AICPA Student Scholarship
Accountemps and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants are offering a scholarship to two AICPA student affiliate members. In addition, a student must be an undergraduate or a graduate student pursuing studies in accounting, finance or information systems to be eligible for the scholarship. The amount of the scholarship is $2,500 for one year. Applications also available at www.aicpa.org. The deadline for receipt of all application materials is April 1.

AICPA John L. Carey Scholarship
Liberal arts students wishing to pursue graduate accounting study can receive scholarships based on academic achievement, leadership and future career interests, and are contingent upon acceptance in a graduate accounting program. Scholarship recipients must begin their graduate program within the year that the scholarship is awarded. Recipients must be full-time students throughout the period during which they receive the scholarship. The amount of the scholarship is $5,000 for one year. It is renewable for an additional year of study, provided satisfactory scholastic progress is maintained. All application materials must be received by the AICPA by April 1.

AICPA Scholarship for Minority Accounting Students
This is a competitive merit-based award of up to $5,000 for outstanding minority accounting students who show significant potential to become certified public accountants. To be eligible for the undergraduate scholarship, a student must be a declared accounting major with an overall and accounting GPA of at least 3.3 on a 4.0 scale; a minority student who has satisfactorily completed at least 30 semester hours, including at least six semester hours in accounting; and an enrolled full-time undergraduate student at a four-year institution. The application deadline is July 1.

Hispanic College Fund
HCP offers scholarships to students pursuing majors in business, science and technology. The fund currently has two scholarship programs: The Business Scholarship Program and the National Hispanic Explorers Scholarship Program. To be eligible, a student must be a U.S. citizen of Hispanic background residing in the 50 states or Puerto Rico; must be pursuing a business, computer science, engineering or business major (for Business Scholarship Program) or a NASA-related major (for Explorers Scholarship Program); must be starting as a college freshman, sophomore, junior or senior by fall 2003; must plan to enroll as a full-time undergraduate student from fall 2003 through spring 2004; and must be in good academic standing with a cumulative GPA of no less than a 3.0 on a 4.0 scale. The application is available online now at www.hispanicfund.org. The application deadline is April 15.

Soroptimist International of Salisbury:
The Eleanor L. Caldabaugh Scholarship, awarded by the Soroptimist International of Salisbury, will be given to a woman who has been a resident of Wicomico County for at least three years. The student must be studying in a program which serves humanity, for example, education, health, human studies, social work, etc. A 3.0 GPA or higher is required and recommendation by her college advisor. Consideration will be given to scholastic record, leadership ability, participation in school and extracurricular activities, citizenship as displayed by participation in service clubs, church or civic volunteer activities, and financial need as evidenced by family description. This award will be announced by April 30. An award of approximately $1,000 will be planned for each year.

Lighthouse International
Lighthouse International invites applications for the 2003 Career Incentive Awards Program. The awards are designed to reward excellence, recognize accomplishments and help students who are blind or partially sighted achieve their career goals. There are four different categories: College-bound Award, Undergraduate Award I, Undergraduate Award II and Graduate Award, and each carries a $5,000 prize. The awards will be presented on June 11.

John Gyles Education Awards
Full Canadian or American citizenship is a requirement. Awards are available to both male and female students for all areas of post-secondary study. A minimum GPA of 2.7 is required. Criteria other than strictly academic ability and financial need are considered in the selection process. Selected students will receive up to $3,000. Filing dates for mailing applications in 2003 are April 1, June 1 and November 15. To receive an application, students must send a stamped self-addressed envelope only to John Gyles Education Awards; Attention: The Secretary; P.O. Box 4808; 712 Riverside Drive; Fredericton, New Brunswick; Canada E3B 5G4.

U.S. Coast Guard College Student Pre-Commissioning Initiative
The CSPI program is a scholarship program for students entering their junior year of college. An application and brochure listing the eligibility requirements and benefits of the program may be picked up at the SU Financial Aid Office or at www.gocoastguard.com.

Italian American Civic Club of Maryland, Inc.
To be eligible for these scholarship grants, a student must be of Italian heritage by either parent, maintain a 2.5 GPA each semester and is a permanent resident of the Maryland. The amount of each scholarship grant is $500 per academic year and will continue to be awarded to the student for a maximum of four years provided the student continues to need financial assistance. A letter from the applicant giving family history, personal objectives and a brief essay about their Italian heritage will serve as an application. The letter should be addressed to: Andrew A. Lioi, Chairman; 1214 Saint Paul Street; Baltimore, MD 21202.

Jazz Ambassadors Return to SU

The Jazz Ambassadors of the U.S. Army Field Band from Washington, D.C., return to SU for one of its most popular events on Monday, February 24, at 7 p.m. at Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Organized in 1969, this versatile 19-piece ensemble travels more than 100 days annually presenting a musical package that appeals to all ages. Originally called the Studio Band and later the Soldiers of Sound, the Jazz Ambassadors carry the sounds of pop and patriotic music, melodic big band tunes and modern jazz to every part of the world.

The members of the Jazz Ambassadors are chosen through a highly competitive audition system. Some transferred from other units in the Army, while others enlisted specifically to perform with the group. Jazz Ambassadors' alumni have performed with the big bands of Stan Kenton, Buddy Rich, Maynard Ferguson, Woody Herman, Mel Lewis, Doc Severinsen and many others.

A few of the Jazz Ambassadors' prestigious performances have included a 30-day, six-city tour of India and 32-day European tour during which the band performed in four internationally renowned jazz festivals: the Nice and Vienne Jazz festivals in France; the North Sea Jazz Festival in The Hague, Holland; and the Montreux Jazz Festival in Switzerland. At the Montreux Jazz Festival, the Jazz Ambassadors had the distinction of being the first military jazz band to perform on the main stage.

Other appearances include: conventions of the International Association of Jazz Educators; the Toronto Jazz Festival; the Wichita Jazz Festival; the Newport Jazz Festival in Rhode Island; the World's Fair in Vancouver, British Columbia; the International Freedom Festival in Detroit and Windsor, Ontario; and the grand opening of the Japan branch of the Glenn Miller Birthplace Society in Tokyo.

The evening is sponsored by WSCL public radio and the SU Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Programs. Two free tickets per person are available at the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk from 8 a.m.-10 p.m. Mondays-Saturdays and noon-10 p.m. on Sundays.

Ticket holders must be seated by 6:45 p.m. on the night of the performance after which time all available seating is open to non-ticket holders. For more information call 410-543-6271.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222. Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Writers-on-the-Shore Series Returns for Spring

As part of its Writers-on-the-Shore series, the Department of English presents poets Dzvinia Orlowsky and Stephen Corey on Tuesday, February 25, at 8 p.m. in the Montgomery Room, Common.

Orlowsky has published three volumes of poetry, Except for One Obscene Brushstroke (2003), Edge of House (1999) and A Handful of Bees (1994), all from Carnegie Mellon University Press. She teaches in the Stonecoast Master of Fine Arts Program at the University of Southern Maine.

Corey has published several volumes of poetry including All These Lands You Call One Country (University of Missouri, 1992) and has co-edited three books including Spreading the Word: Editors on Poetry (Bench Press, 2001). Since 1983, Corey has been an editor of The Georgia Review.

In addition to the readings, a special discussion at 4 p.m. in the Montgomery Room features Corey's comments about The Georgia Review. Free sample copies of the journal will be distributed.

The readings are free and open to the public. For more information call Dr. Michael Waters at 410-543-6540

Yes! That's Right! It's Time for Graduation Information

Tickets for Graduation

There will be two spring graduation ceremonies on Thursday, May 22, held at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center:

- Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies and Perdue School of Business at 10 a.m.
- Fulton School of Liberal Arts and Henson School of Science and Technology at 2 p.m.

The University Graduation Committee issues tickets for guests who wish to attend the graduation ceremony.

Admission will be by ticket only. Each May graduate will be provided 10 guest tickets and may request one ticket (on a first-come, first-served basis until supply is depleted.) to admit a friend who is graduating in the alternate ceremony. Unfortunately there are no extra tickets available.

Please note the following dates and deadlines:

March 17, 18 and 19

Grad Fair, University Bookstore, Commons - 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Place orders for nursing pins, caps and gowns. (Note: There is no charge for caps and gowns. A representative is available for custom gown/cap fitting. Cap and gown orders may be placed in the University Bookstore through March 28.) You may also order announcements, diploma frames and rings at this time. For questions once you have placed your order call the following numbers: announcements: 1-800-278-7644, diploma frames: 1-800-297-GRAD, rings: 1-800-952-7002, all other calls: 410-548-2077.

April 22, 23 and 24

Pick up caps and gowns and 10 tickets at the Graduation Center in the University Bookstore - 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Students who are not able to pick up their graduation items because they are student teaching outside the area or otherwise not on campus may contact Nancy Watson at the University Bookstore (410-548-5996) to make special arrangements. Please note: Caps, gowns and tickets will be available for pick up through May 21 at noon.

More information on the foregoing will be available throughout the semester. Check regularly in the SU News or on the SU Web www.salisbury.edu for details.

Seniors— Graduation Application Deadline

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in December 2003 or winter term 2004 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, March 7, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to their last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

NAACP Poetry Slam

SU's student chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) sponsors a Poetry Slam on Friday, February 28, at 8 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

The evening features Malik Shalom, Native Son and introductory poetry readings by SU students.

Admission is $3 at the door or free to SU ID holders. For more information call 410-543-6030.

Brown Bag Explores African-Americans in World War II

The University continues its spring Brown Bag Lunch Discussion Series at noon on February 28, with "An Oral History: Interviews with African-American World War II Veterans," moderated by Drs. Clara Small and Polly Stewart.

Small is professor of history at SU and a widely-recognized authority on African-American history. She has written Reality Check: Brief Biographies of African-Americans on Delmarva and her article on "Abolitionists, Free Blacks and Runaway Slaves" appears in A History of African-Americans on Maryland's and Delaware's Eastern Shore.

Stewart is a professor of folklore, mythology and medieval literatures in SU's Department of English. In addition to conducting extensive fieldwork in Utah, Idaho and Maryland, she has supervised student folklore collecting for many years and is director of the folklore archives at the Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU.

The event, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the African-American History Month Planning Committee. For information call 410-543-6030.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

Publications Office

A strong visual identity system offers Salisbury University advantages: it helps unify and strengthen the University and projects an image of excellence and cohesiveness that is important in attracting high-quality students and faculty. It is for these reasons all publications representing the University to off-campus publics must come through the Publications Office. It is our goal to provide the best possible product in a timely and cost-efficient manner.

The Publications Office provides total printing and design solutions, whether you have a large four-color publication or a simple one-color flyer. Our staff of professional designers, writer/editor, photographer and desktop publishing specialists works with the Copy Center or external printers.

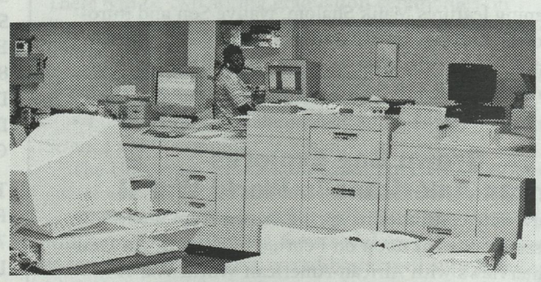
Located in Holloway Hall (second floor, entrance facing library), the Publications Office offers the following services:

- design
- dry mounting photographs
- writing and editing
- printing and copying — color and black/white
- general advice and information on publications
- illustration
- photography
- preflighting disks (from other departments)
- publishing lab manuals and course packets
- scanning photos for students and faculty
- producing color copies and transparencies for students and faculty
- outputting student and faculty jobs from disks or the network
- burning CDs

Fees: Design fees range from $25 for a one-color flyer to $500 for a multiple-signature, four-color magazine.

Please contact the Publications Office at 410-548-2500. We'll be glad to be of assistance!

Copy Center



The Copy Center provides quality, prompt, affordable copying and binding to all members of the University community (students, faculty and staff).

Located in Holloway Hall (basement, entrance facing library), the Copy Center:

- copies (color and black/white)
- binds
- folds
- staples
- collates

Fees: Copies are 5 cents single side, 9 cents double side on plain white 8 1/2"x11", 8 1/4"x14" or 11"x17" in black/white. Special papers, high-quality binding and color copying are also available.

Call the Copy Center at 410-543-6180 for additional information.

Nursing Department Open House

The Department of Nursing presents its annual open house on Friday, March 7. This informational session begins at 9 a.m. in the Worcester Room of the Commons with morning refreshments.

At 9:30 a.m., the formal program begins with an overview of the traditional nursing program by Dr. Susan Battistoni, department chair. Other speakers include Dr. Thomas Jones, dean of the Henson School, Mary Lane McGlinchey, advising coordinator of the Henson School, and Barri Zimmerman from the Financial Aid Office. Current junior- and senior-level nursing students will also offer their perspectives on life as a nursing major at SU, with time allotted for specific questions for faculty members and students.

Lunch will be held in the Bistro at noon where nursing faculty will also be available. After lunch, tours of the skills/learning labs located in Power Professional Building will be conducted beginning at 1:15 p.m.

Although this event is primarily offered to high school seniors and transfer students considering SU's program for the upcoming fall, current SU students considering the nursing major are also welcome to attend.

For more information or to register for the event, please contact Eleanor Morris, department secretary, at 410-543-6401.

Major Changes to Honors Policy

The following information describes the changes made to the GPA requirements necessary for receiving Latin honors upon graduation.

Beginning in fall 2003, two new policies will be in effect that change the requirements needed to be eligible for graduating with honors. The minimum cumulative GPA needed for graduation with Latin honors' distinctions will be raised. In addition, the minimum number of hours of graded coursework needed to be eligible for honors will change. The new policies bring the expectations at Salisbury University to levels more consistent with those found in other University System of Maryland universities.

Students will now have to graduate with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 to receive the Cum Laude distinction. Magna Cum Laude will be reserved for students with at least a cumulative GPA of 3.7 while students with a cumulative GPA of 3.9 or above will receive Summa Cum Laude honors.

In order to be eligible for honors, students must complete a minimum of 56 graded hours of coursework at SU with grades of A, B or C. At least 30 of those graded hours must be in 300- or 400-level courses.

Preserving the distinction associated with graduating with honors is a foremost concern among the faculty and administration at Salisbury University. Academic achievement is highly valued, and the new expectations for honors eligibility will maintain the integrity of a Latin honors' distinction. In addition, these changes will make it possible for students falling short of the minimum number of graded hours needed (usually due to transfer credits) to now be eligible for honors.

EASTERN SHORE Senior Games

Registration Begins

Athletes from across the Mid-Atlantic region converge on SU for the fourth annual Eastern Shore Senior Games from Thursday-Saturday, April 24-26.

Open to men and women age 50 and over, participants compete in a variety of athletic events, both individual and team, at several area sports venues. A shotgun start kicks off the golf tournament at noon on Thursday, April 24.

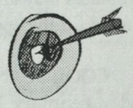
Last year more than 400 senior athletes took part.

"The growth of the Eastern Shore Games over the last three years has been extraordinary," said Dr. K. Nelson Butler, chair of the Eastern Shore Senior Games and a faculty member in the SU Department of Physical Education. "Our primary goal remains to provide an opportunity for people in our region to compete and promote a healthy, active lifestyle."

This year's roster of individual events includes aquatics, archery, badminton, billiards, bowling, cycling, floor and foul (basketball) shooting, golf, handball, horseshoes, racquetball, softball and football throw, table tennis, tennis, and track and field. Team events include line dancing, softball and volleyball.

Participation is open to Maryland, Delaware and Eastern Shore of Virginia residents 50 years of age or older, with established risk guidelines. Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded to the top three male and female contestants in each competition category (50-54, 55-59, 60-64, 65-69, 70-74, 75-79, 80-84, 85-89, 90-94, 95+). If participant numbers are insufficient, age groups may be combined for competition purposes.

The Eastern Shore Senior Games of the Maryland Senior Games, coordinated by the SU Department of Physical Education, is affiliated with the Maryland Senior Games Commission. The Maryland Senior Games Commission encourages year-round training for all Senior Games participants.



Eastern Shore Senior Games 2003 sponsors are the SU Foundation, Inc., Sea Gull Century Committee, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Salisbury, Conectiv, the Wicomico County Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Azar Eye Institute.

For a registration booklet or more information, please call Butler at 410-543-6177 or 410-548-4183.

Turning Over a New Page—Check Out Library News

New Faculty Book Collection in Library

Books written by Salisbury University faculty members are now being featured in a new permanent collection in Blackwell Library. Located in the first floor seminar room, this collection is available for browsing only, while second copies of all these publications will be added to the general collection, available for checkout. Faculty members are encouraged to keep the library liaison for their department informed about their book publications to make sure that these volumes are added to the new collection.

Library Plans Room For the Visually Impaired

Library users who have visual impairments will soon have better access to library and research materials. Working in conjunction with the Office of Disability Support Services, Blackwell Library is creating a resource center with equipment designed to read text from computer screens and printed materials. Located on the main floor, this room will include a computer with software that reads aloud from the computer screen into a headset. This software works with word processing and e-mail as well as with Web pages and other electronic text. Another computer will run the Kurzweil 1000 software which scans written material and reads it aloud through a headset. Also included is a VisualTek workstation that magnifies text and displays it on a television screen.

The opening date for this new resource room will be announced soon. At present the room is being renovated to allow installation of the computer hardware.

Student Advisory Committee Works To Improve Library

Incorporating students' opinions into the decision-making process at Blackwell Library is becoming increasingly important as the library attempts to tailor its collections and services to their academic needs. In many academic libraries, major changes are made without providing students the opportunity to supply feedback about alterations that could profoundly affect their use of the library. Through the efforts of Dr. Alice Bahr, dean of libraries and instructional services, the library has made great strides toward establishing a closer relationship with students and encouraging them to voice their needs and concerns.

In December, the newly established Student Advisory Committee held its first meeting. The purpose of this committee is to allow interested students to collaborate with library faculty about important issues pertaining to their use of the library. Three librarians and three students attended the first session, and the discussions that followed demonstrated the high level of enthusiasm that exists among the students about developments within the library. Among the topics discussed were the creation of a café within the library, the possibility of student evaluations of library Web pages and a proposed survey of the student body. The students also made the librarians aware of a variety of concerns about the library.

Students on the Advisory Committee will continue to discuss issues of importance with each other prior to reporting back to the librarians. In this way, students will be able to foster changes that will not only improve their own library experience but also will benefit other students in the years ahead. These students will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are contributing to the improvement of Blackwell Library and SU as a whole.

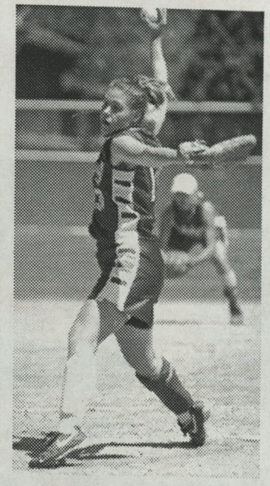
Sea Gulls Ranked 7th in Preseason Softball Poll

Coming off a 40-11 campaign and a fifth place finish at the 2002 NCAA Championship, the Salisbury softball team has been tabbed seventh in the 2003 USA Today/NFCA preseason poll. The Sea Gulls return eight position starters this spring, including two-time all-America 3B Lisa Gentilella and third team all-America pitcher Katie Mullinix. Salisbury, which has a current streak of six straight NCAA Tournament appearances, opens the season on March 1 at home against Gallaudet.



Third team all-America pitcher Katie Mullinix

The women's lacrosse team also begins the season ranked among the national leaders. Heading into its second season under the guidance of Head Coach Jim Nestor, the Gulls are ranked 18th in the IWLCA 2003 Preseason Poll. Salisbury is one of three CAC teams ranked in the preseason top 20. The Sea Gulls return 12 letterwinners from last year's 9-6 club, and begin the new season at Notre Dame (MD) on Saturday, March 1. Nestor also announced that senior Katie Zielinski and junior Amber Stansbury have been selected as the 2003 team captains.

Sophomores Tristan Gilbert and Brad Ellis had strong individual showings at last week's University of Delaware Indoor Track Invitational. Gilbert won the 800-meter run (2:00.25) and Ellis finished second in the 1,000-meter run (2:38.96) to pace the Sea Gull men. Gilbert notched his win in a field of 17 Division I, II and III runners. Top performers in the women's division included a third place showing by senior Kristin Camp in the 1,000-meter run (3:25.28) and a fifth place finish by freshman Amy Lang in the 3,000-meter run (11:51.83). The SU men finished seventh of 17 in the final team standings, while the SU women were seventh in a field of 16 teams.

Weather permitting, the men's lacrosse team is scheduled to open its 2003 season at home Saturday against conference-foe Catholic. The Sea Gulls return 30 letterwinners from last year's 13-5 squad, and begin the 2003 campaign ranked fourth in the national preseason poll.

Healthy U Assessments Extended

Have you been wondering where to get more information about SU's Healthy U program? Then go to SU's Web site and click on the Faculty/Staff page. Information regarding Healthy U assessments and a direct link to the Healthy U Web site is there for your use. Hopefully, you have been assessed and are off to a Healthy U start.

If not, there's still time. The Healthy U Steering Committee has made arrangements to extend assessment times. If you wish to participate but still have not been assessed, then contact the Student Health Services Office in Holloway Hall. The SHS staff is offering Healthy U assessments Monday-Friday from 8:15 - 9 a.m. and noon-1 p.m., by appointment. Faculty and staff may call 410-543-6262 to arrange a time. Assessments begin Thursday, February 20 and continue through March 31.

It's quick, it's easy and participants may qualify for prizes. Enjoy this opportunity to create a healthier you in 2003.

4-H Honors Campbell For Volunteer Excellence

William Campbell, a faculty member in the Nursing Department, has been awarded the 2002 Delaware Salute to Excellence 4-H Volunteer of the Year State Winner in Delaware. The award was presented for "exemplary volunteer leadership and dedication to the 4-H program." The presentation was made by Joy Sparks, State 4-H youth development coordinator, at the University of Delaware. Campbell's portfolio and references have been forwarded for consideration for the National Award.

Campbell is active in the Delaware 4-H Youth Program. During the summer he serves as a volunteer nurse at the state 4-H camp and as a judge at the Delaware State Fair. He is a committee member on several state planning committees including the new State Fair 4-H Building and Ice Skating Ring. Campbell recently completed his second year as president of the Sussex County 4-H Leaders Association.

Campbell served as the co-leader of a local 4-H club in Laurel until last year when he re-chartered his own 4-H club, the Mt. Pleasant 4-H Club, and became the organizational leader for the club he had belonged to as a youth. In its first year the club had 29 members, about double what many clubs average, and is continuing to grow. The club in its first year earned a Blue Seal which is the highest award a club can receive for its members' participation and community service.

SU Needs Your Help!

The University System of Maryland (USM) represents 7.5 percent of the State budget and yet has already sustained 30 percent of the cuts from the General Fund in the Governor's proposed budget for 2004.

The impact on Salisbury University of budget cuts taken in Fiscal 2003 is over $5.6 million.

Those cuts have been absorbed through operating reductions, a hiring freeze and transfers of money from auxiliary and summer session accounts. The mid-year 5 percent tuition increase generated some $560,000 toward SU's deficit. Most distressing, staff layoffs will be necessary to meet the balance of SU's obligation. Thus far, however, the cuts have had minimal impact on the teaching faculty and academic departments.

Now an additional $39 million cut to the USM is being proposed to the Maryland General Assembly over and above the Governor's proposed '04 budget. SU's portion of that cut would be some $1.17 million and would result in more staff layoffs, curtailment of faculty searches currently underway, support for further tuition hikes, a severe reduction in adjunct faculty, reduced selection of courses, increased class size and the possible retrenchment of academic programs.

Inevitably, with more limited course offerings, students with limited flexibility in their course scheduling would find it necessary to extend their studies at SU by a semester or more, adding thousands of dollars to their total education costs.

SU recognizes the need to reduce budgets in these austere times. During this economic downturn, all must share in the hardship. The additional cuts, however, threaten to do irreparable harm to the University and its students.

Students are urged to call their parents and home district legislators at a special "No More Cuts Phonathon" on Thursday, February 27, from 6-8 p.m. at the Commons in the Caroline Room.

The Salisbury University Advocacy Network, composed of faculty, staff and students, have put together a Web site, www.salisbury.edu/nomorecuts, that provides information for everyone in the campus community to locate and contact the legislator from their district.

For more information, contact any member of the Advocacy Network (see the Web site for member list).

Student Speakers for May Commencement:

The University Graduation Committee is again seeking eligible students to deliver a brief address to graduating seniors this May. Two students will be selected—a student from the Perdue or Seidel schools for the 10 a.m. ceremony and a student from the Fulton or Henson schools for the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Criteria for eligibility include a cumulative GPA of 3.3 or above (including winter 2003 if applicable) and completion of at least 60 semester hours in 300- or 400-level courses (grades of A, B or C). Applications have been sent to May graduates requesting that eligible candidates deliver six typed copies of his/her application and speech to Dr. Mary Gillespie in Holloway Hall Room 246 by noon, Friday, March 21.

NAACP Poetry Slam

SU's student chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) sponsors a Poetry Slam on Friday, February 28, at 8 p.m. in the Wicomico Room, Guerrieri University Center.

The evening features Malik Shalom, Native Son and introductory poetry readings by SU students.

Admission is $3 at the door or free to SU ID holders. For more information call 410-543-6030.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

SU News Guidelines

The SU News is published by the offices of Public Relations and Publications each Thursday during the fall and spring semesters, unless otherwise noted. The deadline is Thursday at noon for articles to appear the following week.

Any story relating to the life of the campus is welcome. Newsletter items should be submitted via e-mail to Christine Smith. Articles may be edited for length and content, and will run a maximum of two times.

For more information call Smith at 410-548-4769 or send e-mail to cbsmith@salisbury.edu.

Yes! That's Right! It's Time For Graduation Information

Tickets for Graduation

There will be two spring graduation ceremonies on Thursday, May 22, held at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center:

- Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies and Perdue School of Business at 10 a.m.
- Fulton School of Liberal Arts and Henson School of Science and Technology at 2 p.m.

The University Graduation Committee issues tickets for guests who wish to attend the graduation ceremony.

Admission will be by ticket only. Each May graduate will be provided 10 guest tickets and may request one ticket (on a first-come, first-served basis until supply is depleted.) to admit a friend who is graduating in the alternate ceremony. Unfortunately there are no extra tickets available.

Please note the following dates and deadlines:

March 17, 18 and 19

Grad Fair, University Bookstore, Commons - 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Place orders for nursing pins, caps and gowns. (Note: There is no charge for caps and gowns. A representative is available for custom gown/cap fitting. Cap and gown orders may be placed in the University Bookstore through March 28.) You may also order announcements, diploma frames and rings at this time. For questions once you have placed your order call the following numbers: announcements: 1-800-278-7644, diploma frames: 1-800-297-GRAD, rings: 1-800-952-7002, all other calls: 410-548-2077.

April 22, 23 and 24

Pick up caps and gowns and 10 tickets at the Graduation Center in the University Bookstore - 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Students who are not able to pick up their graduation items because they are student teaching outside the area or otherwise not on campus may contact Nancy Watson at the University Bookstore (410-548-5996) to make special arrangements. Please note: Caps, gowns and tickets will be available for pick up through May 21 at noon.

More information on the foregoing will be available throughout the semester. Check regularly in the SU News or on the SU Web www.salisbury.edu for details.

Seniors— Graduation Application Deadline

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in December 2003 or winter term 2004 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, March 7, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to their last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

Hamlet on the SU Stage

Justin Gallo as Hamlet

Internationally renowned theatre and opera director and lecturer at Shakespeare's Globe Theatre in London, Charles Duff, directs SU's production of Hamlet for eight shows beginning Thursday, March 6.

Hamlet opens in Fulton Hall Theatre on Thursday, March 6, at 7 p.m. with additional evening performances Friday-Saturday, March 7-8, and Thursday-Saturday, 13-15. Matinee performances at 2 p.m. are Sunday, March 9 and 16. General admission is $10, $8 for senior citizens and children. Reservations are recommended by calling the Theatre Box Office at 410-543-6228.

The cast includes SU student Justin Gallo as Prince Hamlet and behind the scenes is SU student Jessica Fritz, who is the stage and production manager.

Nabb Explores 'Parson of the Islands'

The Edward H. Nabb Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU presents a lecture on 19th century local history by the Rev. Joseph F. DiPaolo on Tuesday, March 11, at 3 p.m. at the Nabb Center.

DiPaolo discusses his book, My Business Was to Fight the Devil: Recollections of Rev. Adam Wallace, Peninsula Circuit Rider, 1847-1865. Wallace is known locally as biographer of the Methodist itinerant minister Joshua Thomas, the "parson of the islands." The author explores Wallace's memoirs about life on Delmarva during the antebellum and Civil War eras. Wallace left behind insights and revelations about local religious, social and cultural norms of the day.

Born and raised in New York City, DiPaolo now resides in Pennsylvania. He is pastor of a 185-year-old church and has written two other historical works.

The talk is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu .

Rev. Jordan Brown Bag Rescheduled

The Rev. Benjamin Jordan Jr. presents "A Comparison and Discussion of Philosophies of W.E.B. DuBois and Booker T. Washington" on Wednesday, March 5, at noon in the Guerrieri University Center's Wicomico Room.

The lecture is part of the University's Brown Bag Lunch Discussion Series and was originally scheduled February 7.

The public is invited to bring lunch to this free program. It is sponsored by SU's Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the Black History Month Planning Committee.

Merwin Leadership Scholarship

The Merwin Leadership Scholarship in the amount of $500 is available for a rising full-time junior or senior with a 3.0 cumulative GPA who also demonstrates leadership in either on-or off-campus programs.

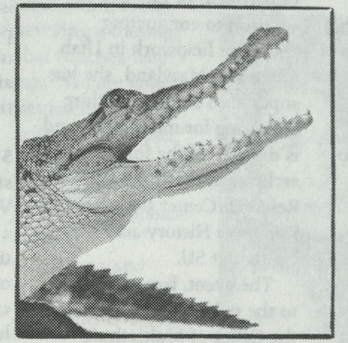
Qualified students should submit a current resume, a letter of application showing evidence of a commitment to leadership, and the names and contact information for two references by Friday, March 14, to the Office of the Vice President of Student Affairs, Guerrieri Center Room 212.

Portraits of Endangered Species At Ward Museum

Through May 11, the LaMay Gallery at the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art, features an exhibit whose subject matter is most difficult to find, and the most likely to vanish in years to come. "Portraits of North American Endangered Species" is a provocative exhibit of photographs and artifacts that explores the lives of endangered species across North America.

A special lecture by Valerie Fellows, the outreach and partnership coordinator of the Chesapeake Bay Field Office in the Endangered Species Division of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is on Thursday, February 27, at 7 p.m. in the Ward Museum Lobby.

The majority of the exhibit is a selection of photographs from Susan Middleton and David Liittschwager's collection of photographic portraits of 100 plants and animals currently on the Endangered Species List of North America. "Middleton and Liittschwager's images are poignant, and their message simple: this exquisite array of flora and fauna will disappear forever if something is not done to prevent the destruction of their habitat," said Kenneth Basile, museum director. "These portraits bear testimony to the beauty, diversity and sacredness of life on this planet with a charismatic directness that is undeniably powerful."



These photographs are coupled with artifacts from the collections at U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service concerning endangered species protection, rehabilitation and education. Included in the exhibit are animal hides and other objects that were confiscated from those illegally poaching endangered wildlife. Additionally, "Recovering A Species: The Red Wolf," a documentary film by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service addressing the recent reintroduction of red wolf populations to the wild, will be shown daily.

For more information about the lecture or exhibit, call Lora Bottinelli at 410-742-4988, Ext. 111.

National Foreign Language Week

National Foreign Language Week, March 2-8, is an opportunity to emphasize the importance of knowing a second language and culture in today's global society. The Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies sponsors the following activities:

Tuesday, March 4

Mardi Gras Dinner - 5-7 p.m., Commons, Bistro - free to students with meal cards, $8.75 for the public

La Ciudad Film - 7 -9 p.m., Honors Center (Spanish with English subtitles) - Stories of loss, love, frustration and hope as four people recently arrived in New York City struggle to build their lives, their communities and their dreams. Filmmaker David Riker's sensitive portrayals urge viewers to take a closer look at today's immigrants, who are not so different from many of our ancestors when they first arrived from a foreign land.

Wednesday, March 5

Amélie Film - 7-9 p.m., Guerrieri Center, Pocomoke Room (French with English subtitles) - Amélie is a shy waitress in a Paris café who makes a surprising discovery which changes her life and those of many others—nominated for five Academy Awards.

Friday, March 7

La Société Française - 4:30-5:30 p.m., Adam's Ribs, Fruitland - French conversation group.

Brown Bag Explores African-Americans in World War II

The University continues its spring Brown Bag Lunch Discussion Series at noon on February 28, with "An Oral History: Interviews with African-American World War II Veterans," moderated by Drs. Clara Small and Polly Stewart.

Small is professor of history at SU and a widely-recognized authority on African-American history. She has written Reality Check: Brief Biographies of African-Americans on Delmarva and her article on "Abolitionists, Free Blacks and Runaway Slaves" appears in A History of African-Americans on Maryland's and Delaware's Eastern Shore.

Stewart is a professor of folklore, mythology and medieval literatures in SU's Department of English. In addition to conducting extensive fieldwork in Utah, Idaho and Maryland, she has supervised student folklore collecting for many years and is director of the folklore archives at the Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU.

The event, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Office of Multiethnic Student Services and the African-American History Month Planning Committee. For information call 410-543-6030.

Arts Scholarships

Applications are now being accepted for the Salisbury Wicomico Arts Council 2003-2004 arts scholarships for students who show promise in the arts, either visual, performing, creative writing, media or communication arts. Deadline for applications is Thursday, March 20.

To be eligible for the up to $4,000 in scholarships, the student must be a resident of Wicomico County and either a high school senior or a full-time college freshman, sophomore or junior who is enrolled in formal study leading to a certificate or a degree in the arts during the 2003-2004 academic year.

For a copy of this year's guidelines and application forms, students may call 410-543-ARTS.

Major Changes To Honors Policy

Beginning in fall 2003, two new policies will be in effect that change the requirements needed to be eligible for graduating with honors. The minimum cumulative GPA needed for graduation with Latin honors' distinctions will be raised. In addition, the minimum number of hours of graded coursework needed to be eligible for honors will change. The new policies bring the expectations at SU to levels more consistent with those found in other University System of Maryland institutions.

Students will now have to graduate with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 to receive the Cum Laude distinction. Magna Cum Laude will be reserved for students with at least a cumulative GPA of 3.7, while students with a cumulative GPA of 3.9 or above will receive Summa Cum Laude honors.

In order to be eligible for honors, students must complete a minimum of 56 graded hours of coursework at SU with grades of A, B or C. At least 30 of those graded hours must be in 300- or 400-level courses.

Preserving the distinction associated with graduating with honors is a foremost concern among the faculty and administration at SU. Academic achievement is highly valued, and the new expectations for honors eligibility will maintain the integrity of a Latin honors' distinction. In addition, these changes will make it possible for students falling short of the minimum number of graded hours needed (usually due to transfer credits) to now be eligible for honors.

'I WANT TO BE A WOMAN LIKE ME'

SU Celebrates Women's History Month

In addition to the events highlighted here, the following is planned:

Tuesday, March 11, "Women in Information Technology: Opportunities and Challenges"

Wednesday, March 12, "Women of Achievement in Maryland History"
7 p.m., Montgomery Room, Commons

Thursday, March 13, Pugsly Concert
5:30 p.m., Gull's Nest, Guerrieri Center

Tuesday, March 18, "Caring and Moral Education"
7:30 p.m., Holloway Hall Auditorium

Boys Don't Cry Writer/Director Discusses Film

The critically acclaimed independent film Boys Don't Cry, followed by a discussion with director Kimberly Peirce, is presented Wednesday, March 5, in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Kimberly Peirce

Boys Don't Cry is a romantic tragedy based on a true story of a young Nebraska woman who changes her gender. Called by film critic Roger Ebert "one of the best films" of 1999, Hilary Swank won an Academy Award for her role as Brandon Teena, the "lonely girl" Ebert simply said, who "would rather be a boy."

Peirce wrote and directed this independent film. She will lead a discussion and question and answer period following the movie. The issues range from social conflict and diversity to the woman's role as a director in Hollywood.

Boys Don't Cry begins at 6 p.m. with Peirce's comments starting at 8.p.m. Admission is free. The program is part of the many activities marking Women's History Month at SU.

Vagina Monologues Performance Benefits Local Crisis Center

A special performance of the off-Broadway hit The Vagina Monologues is Saturday, March 1, at 8 p.m. in the Guerrieri University Center's Wicomico Room. This is the first event in the campus-wide celebration of Women's History Month.

Donations will be collected at the door with proceeds benefiting Salisbury's Life Crisis Center, a non-profit agency for victims of abuse.

Student director Chrissy Moore

Theatre major Chrissy Moore directs Eve Ensler's play, which is based on over 200 interviews from diverse groups of women from around the world. Ensler explores this fundamental but taboo subject with hilarity and heartbreak. The Vagina Monologues is a daring and intricate balance of Ensler's vision, compassion and brutally honesty exploration.

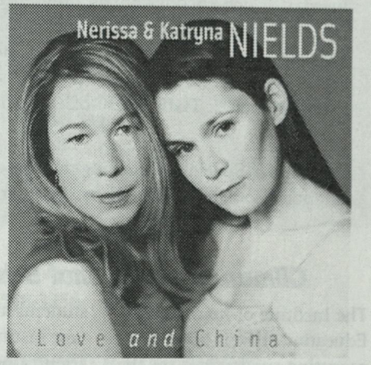
Moore's efforts with this production do not end with directing and fund-raising. She is also gathering information from the women of the University community in order to write a new monologue to be performed that evening.

The Vagina Monologues has been performed in over 40 countries and has been translated into over 35 languages.

Nields In Concert

The acoustic duo, Nerissa and Katryna Nields, perform in Holloway Hall Auditorium Thursday, March 6, at 8 p.m. as part of the campus-wide celebration of Women's History Month.

These sisters have been singing together since they were children and are now seasoned performers. They blend alternative country to classic folk rock, carrying a message that touches listeners. "We are able to get really intimate with the audience," Katryna said, adding that their shows "are spontaneous."



Nerissa and Katryna launched their music career in the New England coffeehouse folk circuit. By 1995 they had put together a five-piece folk-rock band and started touring nationally as The Nields. Between 1994 and 2000 the band released six CDs; performances as a duo began after 1998. Their first CD together is titled Love and China and was released in fall 2001.

The Women of Math Discovered

Pythagoras, Euclid, Omar Kayyam, Descartes, Pascal, Newton, Boole—all famous mathematicians—and all men. What did women contribute in this field, and under what circumstances?

Department of Mathematics and Computer Sciences faculty members Dr. Jennifer Bergner and Dr. Kathleen Shannon will discuss women and their contributions to mathematics as part of the Women's History Month celebration on Tuesday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m. This free program will be held in Henson Hall Room 101.

The presentation, "Women and Mathematics: The Pythagorean's Even Numbers," will provide an overview of the mathematical achievements of women and the societal boundaries they overcame from the time of Pythagoras in 500 B.C. to the present.

Gilman International Scholarship

The Institute of International Education (IIE) is now accepting applications for the fall 2003 academic year 2003-2004 cycle of the Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship. Sponsored by the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, and administered by IIE through its Southern Regional Center, this program enables students who have limited financial means the opportunity to participate in study abroad opportunities worldwide.

The program provides awards of up to $5,000 for U.S. citizen undergraduate students at two- and four-year institutions to pursue country-based semester or academic-year long study abroad opportunities. To be eligible students must be receiving a Federal Pell Grant at the time of application and cannot be studying abroad in a country currently under a U.S. Department of State Travel Warning or in Cuba.

For more information, full eligibility criteria and the online application please access the Gilman Program Web site at www.iie.org/gilman. The online application deadline is Tuesday, April 15.

Focus on 'Me' in 2003

HealthyU of SU continues to sponsor assessments through Student Health Services, Monday-Friday, 8:15-9 a.m. and noon-1 p.m. Call Student Health Services at 410-543-6262 to make an appointment.

The assessment takes less than 10 minutes and includes a couple of measurements and self-report lifestyle questions. Your information is anonymous and confidential, and your assessment will enroll you in HealthyU of Delmarva. As you improve your health, your participation in campus and community HealthyU activities will make you eligible to win monthly prizes (and a car at the end of the year!).

The lunch time walking club is off to a great start and leaves every weekday at 12:10 p.m. from in front of Maggs Center. A variety of programs offered through SU's Human Resources Staff Development Program qualify as HealthyU activities, as well. For more information, go to www.salisbury.edu/HR/prodev or contact Lee Ann Shull at 410-677-5068. Look for ways to register your program or activity as a part of Healthy U in next week's SU News.

Men's Lacrosse Opens with Shutout Victory

Freshman Dan Boyer scored nine goals in his collegiate debut and the Sea Gull defense recorded the sixth shutout in team history with a 23-0 win over Catholic in Sunday's season and Capital Athletic Conference opener. Boyer, who scored on nine of his 10 shots, including six straight in the third quarter, finished two goals shy of the SU single-game record, set by Dave Cottle against the University of Baltimore in 1976.

The shutout is the first for the Sea Gulls (1-0) since blanking Mary Washington 11-0 in 1997. Three goalies combined on the shutout, with sophomore starter Dan Korpon registering five saves in 29 minutes. Mike Taylor did not record a save in 16 minutes, and Patrick O'Keefe added two stops in 15 minutes of action. The Gulls, ranked fourth in the national preseason poll, outshot Catholic 51-10, and allowed the Cardinals just three shots in the second half.

Sophomore Melissa Lewis won the women's weight throw event and the men's distance medley team set a new meet record to highlight Saturday's Mason-Dixon Indoor Championship in Newport News, VA. Lewis set a new school-record with a throw of 39' 1/2", while the distance medley squad of Brad Ellis, Justin Johnson, Tristan Gilbert, and Will Murdoch shattered the previous mark with a time of 10:43.51.

Other Sea Gull highlights included third place finishes by Sarah Hynes (800 meters), Dana Sillers (triple jump), Beau Ridgway (shot put), and Will Murdoch (1,500 meters). Ellis finished fourth in the 1,500 meters, and Brandon Fields was fourth in the weight throw. The SU men finished fourth of seven teams, while the women placed fifth of seven.

Study Abroad Travel Grants

The University is offering several travel grants to students who plan to study abroad during summer and fall 2003 sessions. Grant amounts may vary depending on individual circumstances. This grant stipulates that recipients will perform well academically in their classes and be willing to participate in study abroad workshops/information sessions upon their return.

Applicants need to have a declared major, be enrolled full time and have a 3.0 or higher GPA.

Applications are available in the International Student Services Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 229A; Department of Modern Languages, Holloway Hall Room 347; or the International Education Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 256. Applications are also available online at www.salisbury.edu/Students/ISS/HelpYou/whatsnew.html.

Deadline for returning the applications is Friday, March 21. For more information, please contact Agata Liszkowska at 410-543-6313.

Important Research Information

Faculty, staff or students conducting research should be aware of their responsibilities and the charge of the Committee on Human Research. Prior to conducting any research with human subjects, researchers must fill out a protocol and have it approved by the committee. Information about various categories of human research and application forms are available in the Office of Grants and Sponsored Research, Holloway Hall Room 264, or follow the "Human Research/IRB" link at www.salisbury.edu/grants.

For the purposes of this committee, "research" is defined as "a systematic investigation, including research development, testing and evaluation, designed to develop or contribute to generalizable knowledge. It would not be considered research when evaluation is done using instruments designed to test ongoing success of programs (e.g. alumni surveys) or employing routine classroom activities that involve informal surveying." "Human subject" is defined as "a living [human] individual about whom an investigator (whether professional or student) conducting research obtains data through intervention or interaction with the individual or identifiable private information." "Protocol" is defined as "procedures and information including the purpose of the research, strategies to protect human subjects, subject selection, research procedures, risks and benefits, assurances for confidentiality, and information and consent forms."

For any questions please contact any committee member:

Student Research Conference Deadline Approaching

The deadline for submission to the third annual SU Student Research Conference is approaching on Friday, April 4, at 5 p.m. Interested students need to select a project, discuss it with a faculty sponsor and submit an abstract using the Web submission form. Interested faculty need to contact exceptional students and encourage them to submit a proposal.

The definition of research that applies to the work presented is broad and covers the spectrum of activities that apply in all disciplines taught at SU. Students may submit projects that include original research as well as term papers, independent inquiries, case or clinical studies, group projects, creative projects (like poetry, fine art, graphic design) or a music or theatre performance.

For more information about the call for papers and submission process, see the conference Web site at www.salisbury.edu/academic/ugresearch/susrc.htm.

Arts Scholarships

Applications are now being accepted for the Salisbury Wicomico Arts Council 2003-2004 arts scholarships for students who show promise in the arts, either visual, performing, creative writing, media or communication arts. Deadline for applications is Thursday, March 20.

To be eligible for the up to $4,000 in scholarships, the student must be a resident of Wicomico County and either a high school senior or a full-time college freshman, sophomore or junior who is enrolled in formal study leading to a certificate or a degree in the arts during the 2003-2004 academic year.

For a copy of this year's guidelines and application forms, students may call 410-543-ARTS.

Merwin Leadership Scholarship

The Merwin Leadership Scholarship in the amount of $500 is available for a rising full-time junior or senior with a 3.0 cumulative GPA who also demonstrates leadership in either on-or off-campus programs.

Qualified students should submit a current resume, a letter of application showing evidence of a commitment to leadership, and the names and contact information for two references by Friday, March 14, to the Office of the Vice President of Student Affairs, Guerrieri Center Room 212.

Gilman International Scholarship

The Institute of International Education (IIE) is now accepting applications for the fall 2003 academic year 2003-2004 cycle of the Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship. Sponsored by the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, and administered by IIE through its Southern Regional Center, this program enables students who have limited financial means the opportunity to participate in study abroad opportunities worldwide.

The program provides awards of up to $5,000 for U.S. citizen undergraduate students at two- and four-year institutions to pursue country-based semester or academic-year long study abroad opportunities. To be eligible students must be receiving a Federal Pell Grant at the time of application and cannot be studying abroad in a country currently under a U.S. Department of State Travel Warning or in Cuba.

For more information, full eligibility criteria and the online application please access the Gilman Program Web site at www.iie.org/gilman. The online application deadline is Tuesday, April 15.

Study in Australia

Ashley Borden, a study abroad representative from AustraLearn, will be on campus Monday, March 10, in the Commons lobby, 11 a.m.-2 p.m. to discuss exciting study abroad opportunities in Australia and New Zealand! AustraLearn offers year-long, semester or summer programs as well as internships with Australian organizations and companies.

Nabb Explores 'Parson of the Islands'

The Edward H. Nabb Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU presents a lecture on 19th century local history by the Rev. Joseph F. DiPaolo on Tuesday, March 11, at 3 p.m. at the Nabb Center.

DiPaolo discusses his book, My Business Was to Fight the Devil: Recollections of Rev. Adam Wallace, Peninsula Circuit Rider, 1847-1865. Wallace is known locally as biographer of the Methodist itinerant minister Joshua Thomas, the "parson of the islands." The author explores Wallace's memoirs about life on Delmarva during the antebellum and Civil War eras. Wallace left behind insights and revelations about local religious, social and cultural norms of the day.

Born and raised in New York City, DiPaolo now resides in Pennsylvania. He is pastor of a 185-year-old church and has written two other historical works.

The talk is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu .

See the World and Teach English as You Go

How would you like to be trained to teach English as a foreign language in countries around the world? How would you like to learn this skill in an exotic, real-world setting? SU can help make this happen during a special course proposed for 2004.

Professor Sue Mackarness, a Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL) training specialist with over 15 years experience will teach this intensive course in Cuenca, Ecuador, with SU's Study Abroad Program. An interest and information meeting is Tuesday, March 11, at 3:30 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 109.

The TEFL course is intensive and consists of 105 hours. The class involves two sessions of 1.5 hours of methodology and teaching techniques each day and two hours of teaching practice with students of English in Ceunca. Approximately 2.5 hours a day are spent outside the classroom preparing lessons. All teaching sessions are observed by peers and instructors followed by oral and written feedback by the trainer.

"The TEFL certificate earned at the end of the program is the certificate required by institutions around the world that teach English to their own populations," said Dr. Gerald St. Martin, Department of Modern Languages faculty member. It will not replace formal ESOL (English to Speakers of Other Languages) training to teach in most U.S. public schools, but it is one of the keys to being able to travel the world and teach English in countries where English is not the native language.

Pending departmental and curriculum approval, it is anticipated the course will award three undergraduate credits. Mackarness, who most recently was invited to work in Korea, will attend the interest meeting to give more details and answer questions.

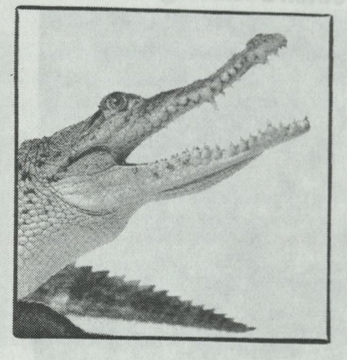
For more information, call St. Martin at 410-543-6254.

Portraits of Endangered Species At Ward Museum

Through May 11, the LaMay Gallery at the Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art, features an exhibit whose subject matter is most difficult to find, and the most likely to vanish in years to come. "Portraits of North American Endangered Species" is a provocative exhibit of photographs and artifacts that explores the lives of endangered species across North America.

The majority of the exhibit is a selection of photographs from Susan Middleton and David Liittschwager's collection of photographic portraits of 100 plants and animals currently on the Endangered Species List of North America.

These photographs are coupled with artifacts from the collections at U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service concerning endangered species protection, rehabilitation and education. Included in the exhibit are animal hides and other objects that were confiscated from those illegally poaching endangered wildlife. Additionally, "Recovering A Species: The Red Wolf," a documentary film by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service addressing the recent reintroduction of red wolf populations to the wild, will be shown daily.



For more information about the lecture or exhibit, call Lora Bottinelli at 410-742-4988, Ext. 111.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Griffin Wood Sculpture in Atrium Gallery

The Atrium Gallery in Guerrieri University Center at showcases the work of figurative wood sculptor Martha Griffin, through Friday, April 11.

Griffin has worked with many media but today concentrates on wood. She starts with a small sketch, which she then doubles in size. In the carving process she integrates the human form with the form she finds within the grain and structure of the wood. Griffin said she is "happiest blending human form with the grain, color and texture of wood."

This show features her most recent work, a relief series sculpted from 3- to 4-inch slabs of mahogany as well as a series of color reduction linoleum block prints from her sketches of the woodcarvings.

Griffin is a Philadelphia native who moved to New York City to study drawing at the Art Students League and sculpture at the National Academy School of Fine Arts. She currently resides in Seaford, DE, where she has a sculpture and printmaking studio.

"Martha Griffin: Expressions of Human Nature" is sponsored by the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Program and is partially funded by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council. There is no admission to either the exhibit or opening reception and the public is cordially invited. For more information contact the Atrium Gallery at 410-548-2547.

Stegman Discusses Women Of Maryland History

Dr. Carolyn Stegman, author of the book Women of Achievement in Maryland History, addresses the main issues surrounding women's historical climb to equality and presents information about outstanding women during a Women's History Month program.

During the past generations, many women not only rose above the provincial "glass ceiling" but sometimes literally smashed it. Their efforts, along with their struggles and disappointments, are profound and enlightening. Stegman presents personal, motivational biographies about these women of achievement.

Stegman has taught courses in Psychology of Women, Gender Communication and Conflict Resolution at SU. For six years she wrote a weekly column in the Salisbury Daily Times and she has presented seminars on women's issues throughout the United States as well as Europe, Africa and Japan.

Women of Achievement in Maryland, a non-profit project chaired by former Maryland First Lady Frances H. Glendening, was published in 2002. Stegman's presentation is Wednesday, March 12, at 7 p.m. in the Montgomery Room, the Commons.

County Honors Two Women from SU

As part of Women's History Month celebrations, the Wicomico County Commission for Women (WCCW) is honoring 13 area leaders including two from SU: BEACON Managing Director Ruth Baker and Nabb Research Center Director Rebecca F. Miller.

Maryland Delegate Addie Eckhardt, (R- 37B), is featured speaker at the Women's Recognition Day 2003 ceremonies Sunday, March 9, from 2-4 p.m. in SU's Great Hall of Holloway Hall. WCCW recognizes outstanding accomplishments that women have made to Wicomico County through both social change and personal triumph in employment, education, civic engagement and public service, said Charletta House, chair of the commission.

The WCCW Hall of Fame also posthumously honors women whose legacies have enriched the lives of all.

Area women being honored also include: Barbara Butler, Loretta Carr, Maryrose Custer, Cecelia Dennis, Julia Gibbs, Virginia Glaze, Laura Hamilton, Violet McLennon, Kathleen Momme, June Sargent and Catherine Smoot, M.D.

A reception follows in the Holloway Hall Social Room. Admission is free and the public is cordially invited. For more information call House at 410-543-6306 or 410-749-2318.

Women in IT

The Perdue School presents "Women in Information Technology: Opportunities and Challenges," Tuesday, March 11, at 7 p.m. in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

This panel discussion with several women in industry who work in the information technology field is moderated by Dr. Catherine Beise and Dr. Kathleen Wright, both faculty members in the Department of Information and Decision Sciences.

This free program is part of SU's inaugural campus-wide celebration of Women' s History Month.

Amnesty Speaker Explores Immigration Post 9/11

America's response to immigration changed after September, 11, 2001. Foreigners who seek asylum in the U.S. experience new threats to their wellbeing as they attempt to escape political oppression in their home countries.

In an effort to raise awareness about the treatment of asylum seekers in our community, SU's Amnesty International chapter hosts Zachary Dziedzic of Catholic Charities Immigration Legal Services (ILS) Tuesday, March 11, at 7 p.m. in the Scarborough Student Leadership Center. His topic, "America, Refuge and Terror: The Ethics of Immigration Post 9/11" examines the current policy of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) to detain asylum seekers who arrive in the U.S. without valid visas or passports.

Most asylum seekers are held in rural county jails with the general prison population until an immigration judge is able to hear their case. In Maryland, most asylum seekers are detained on the Eastern Shore. ILS is one of the few non-profit immigration law offices in Maryland that helps detained asylum seekers obtain legal status.

Dziedzic is raising awareness about the treatment of asylum seekers by bicycling nearly 500 miles from the ILS office in Baltimore to detention centers in Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore. He meets with representatives from local churches, colleges, universities and community groups along the way.

Dziedzic is a Board of Immigration Appeals accredited representative who represents clients before the INS and the immigration court. He holds a Bachelor of Arts in government from Georgetown University and a Master of Arts in philosophy from Fordham University. He accepts donations for his bike ride which benefit ILS's work with asylum seekers. Donations may be sent to ILS/Zach's Bike Ride, 430 S. Broadway, Baltimore, MD 21231.

Globe Theatre Director Presents Hamlet at SU

An internationally renowned theatre and opera director and lecturer at Shakespeare's Globe Theatre in London directs SU's production of Hamlet for eight shows beginning Thursday, March 6.

Charles Duff, who in 2000 directed Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream at SU, returns to direct this Renaissance tragedy at Fulton Hall Theatre.

Duff, 53, is a bestselling author of The Lost Summer, the Heyday of the West End Theatre. He has worked with university students from Notre Dame, Connecticut, Colorado and St. Lawrence but has the highest regard for students at SU. He is teaching an honors course on the text of Hamlet and the acting Shakespeare class, said SU director of theatre, Dr. T. Paul Pfeiffer, who is hosting Duff and coordinating the presentation.

"He is doing almost the entire play," Pfeiffer said, which with two intermissions, "will run over three hours."

Duff's youth was spent among artists. His father's best friend was Cecil Beaton, a famed designer best known in this country for his costumes in My Fair Lady. Duff's great-grandmother, Lady Ripon, brought the Diagilev Ballet to England prior to World War I. His grandmother, Lady Juliet Duff, was close friend to the Broadway actors and husband and wife, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. Duff's mother even trained and performed as a professional actress prior to World War II.

His titled family associated with both "society" and artists, "but they preferred artists," Duff said. He bolted from aristocratic tradition entirely when, after arguing with his father, instead of attending university he enrolled in the Bristol Old Vic, one of two of the country's best drama schools. There he was classmates with Jeremy Irons. After a 10-year acting career he switched to directing, which he said is "what I do best."

For seven years Duff was vice principal at the London Theatre School and director of productions. The paradox of the one-time failing student becoming an academic and author is not lost on him. "I think my own struggles have made me a more tolerant and kinder teacher," he said.

Hamlet opens Thursday, March 6, at 7 p.m. with additional evening performances Friday-Saturday, March 7-8 and Thursday-Saturday, 13-15. Matinee performances at 2 p.m. are Sunday, March 9 and 16. General admission is $10, $8 for senior citizens and children. Reservations are recommended by calling the Theatre Box Office at 410-543-6228.

Pfeiffer said the set design is inspired by the wreckage of the World Trade Center and costumes "will be early 17th century." Rehearsals began in January and included lessons in stage combat.

The cast includes SU student Justin Gallo as Prince Hamlet and behind the scenes is SU student Jessica Fritz, who is the stage and production manager.

Dance Company Gears Up for Spring

The SU Dance Company of 22 members, under the artistic direction of Dr. Victoria Hutchinson, welcomes new member Rebecca Rowe. The spring semester entrance audition judges were dance faculty Judy Binkowski and Linda Scott-Collison.

The guest artist teachers this semester will be Linda Scott-Collison (ballet) and Jaime Coronado (flamenco) of the Spanish Dance Theatre in Washington, D.C.

Executive council officers are Erin Rhoades, president; Kathryn Wickless, vice president; Tracee Torrillo, secretary; Jessica Grabau, treasurer; and Tammy Noe, public relations/publications.

The Company is preparing for the annual Spring Concert on Thursday-Saturday, April 24-26, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium and the annual free Children's Matinee in support of the Maryland Food Bank on Thursday, April 24. Members will teach for the Henson School Excel Science program. Performances are also scheduled for the Sigma Rho Dance Honorary Society 6th Annual Showcase at Towson University and the Eastern Shore Senior Games.

For more information contact the Dance Program at 410-548-4183 or visit its Web site at www.salisbury.edu/schools/seidel/dance.

Softball Team Enjoys Perfect Opening Weekend

Senior All-America pitcher Katie Mullinix threw a perfect game and had five strikeouts to lead the Sea Gulls to a 7-0 win in the opening game of a doubleheader on Sunday. Freshman pitcher Lacey Lister earned the victory in the second game, throwing seven shutout innings en route to a 3-0 victory.

The doubleheader sweep completed a perfect opening weekend for the No. 7 ranked Sea Gulls, who also posted a pair of shutouts (17-0, 11-0) over Gallaudet in Saturday's conference opener.

Along with the perfect game, her second no-hitter in as many days, Mullinix was 4-for-4 at the plate, including a double, two RBI, and two runs scored. Freshman Erin Ruest was 2-for-4 with one RBI.

The Sea Gulls jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the second inning, led by an RBI single by 3B Lisa Gentillela. The Gulls added two more runs in the fifth to push their lead to 7-0 and account for the final outcome.

In game two, the Gulls broke a scoreless tie in the fifth inning when sophomore Kim Rementer scored on Gentillela's RBI double for a 1-0 lead. The Gulls added two in the sixth and Lister had three of her 13 strikeouts in the seventh to seal the win.

Salisbury improves to 4-0 overall and travels to the Virginia Wesleyan Tournament this week.

The women's lacrosse team plays its postponed season opener this week, hosting St. Anselm in a non-conference game Wednesday. Salisbury was scheduled to open the season at Notre Dame (MD) last weekend, but had the game called off due to unplayable field conditions.

SU returns 12 letterwinners from last year's 9-6 team, but must find some offensive replacements after graduating the top three scorers on last year's squad. Nevertheless, with a strong core of midfielders and defenders back, the Sea Gulls hope to challenge for their third Capital Athletic Conference championship in four years.

"I've been impressed with the team during our preseason practices," said second-year Head Coach Jim Nestor. "We've shown good teamwork and good balance throughout the lineup."

Student Speakers for May Commencement:

The University Graduation Committee is again seeking eligible students to deliver a brief address to graduating seniors this May. Two students will be selected—a student from the Perdue or Seidel schools for the 10 a.m. ceremony and a student from the Fulton or Henson schools for the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Criteria for eligibility include a cumulative GPA of 3.3 or above (including winter 2003 if applicable) and completion of at least 60 semester hours in 300- or 400-level courses (grades of A, B or C). Applications have been sent to May graduates requesting that eligible candidates deliver six typed copies of his/her application and speech to Dr. Mary Gillespie in Holloway Hall Room 246 by noon, Friday, March 21.

Seniors— Graduation Application Deadline

All undergraduate students who plan to complete degree requirements in December 2003 or winter term 2004 must complete an Application for Diploma by Friday, March 7, in the Office of the Registrar. There is no graduation fee.

The purpose of this early application deadline is to allow time for each senior's record to be reviewed in detail prior to their last semester of attendance at the University, and this ensures that students are aware of their academic status early enough to make any last minute adjustments in their plan of study.

Please complete an Application for Diploma in the Office of the Registrar, Holloway Hall Room 120, or mail it to the Office of the Registrar, Salisbury University, 1101 Camden Avenue, Salisbury, MD 21801. For information, please call 410-543-6150.

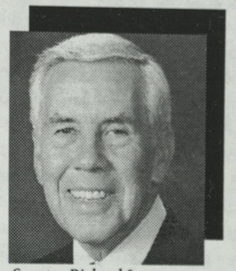
Senate Foreign Relations Chair Is Sarbanes Lecturer

SU's Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement (PACE) welcomes Richard Lugar, Republican Senator from Indiana, to speak in Holloway Hall Auditorium Friday, March 14, at 2 p.m.

Senator Lugar's lecture, titled "The Changing World," will address issues in foreign affairs, particularly the volatile situation in the Middle East and terrorism. "I cannot imagine a voice more distinguished and reasonable than Richard Lugar's," said Dr. Harry Basehart, PACE's co-director. "In his 27 years in the Senate, he has been a leader in foreign policy issues, from his championing the Anti-Apartheid Act of 1986 to the Nunn-Lugar program that has dismantled nearly 6,000 nuclear warheads. For the last three years he has been a Nobel Peace Prize nominee."

Richard Green Lugar was born in Indianapolis on April 4, 1932. He graduated from Denison University and was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University where he met Paul Sarbanes and struck up a life-long friendship with the future senator from Maryland.

After serving in the Navy, he returned to his hometown and was elected mayor of Indianapolis. During his two terms, he developed a city-county unification plan, known as Unigov, which was credited with revitalizing the downtown area and initiating an unprecedented economic growth for the region.



Senator Richard Lugar

He was elected to his first term in the Senate in 1976 and, in his last three elections, he has won by a record breaking, two-thirds majority. During his Senate tenure, he has made his mark in the arena of foreign affairs and currently holds the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee. Characterized in a recent New York Times editorial as "one of the G.O.P.'s most seasoned and sensible foreign policy hands," the editors praised him for his "thoughtful views on issues … his solidly internationalist outlook … [and] his bipartisan legislative style." His ownership of his family farm in Marion County has made him particularly attentive to the challenges and needs of rural communities.

Senator Lugar is the second speaker in the Paul S. Sarbanes Lecture Series, established last year as a joint partnership between the senior senator from Maryland and Salisbury University's PACE Institute. Senator Sarbanes gave the inaugural address in the fall semester. "We are thrilled to have a speaker of

Scholarships

American Association Of University Women Scholarship

The Salisbury Branch of the American Association of University Women offers a $1,000 scholarship to a rising SU junior or senior woman attending full time who is also a resident of the Eastern Shore of Maryland and in need of financial assistance. Applications may be obtained from the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 211, or from the Vice President of Student Affairs Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 212. Deadline for return of completed applications to the Office of the Vice President of Student Affairs is Thursday, March 20.

Study Abroad Travel Grants

The University is offering several travel grants to students who plan to study abroad during summer and fall 2003 sessions. Grant amounts may vary depending on individual circumstances. This grant stipulates that recipients will perform well academically in their classes and be willing to participate in study abroad workshops/information sessions upon their return.

Applicants need to have a declared major, be enrolled full time and have a 3.0 or higher GPA.

Applications are available in the International Student Services Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 229A; Department of Modern Languages, Holloway Hall Room 347; or the International Education Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 256. Applications are also available online at www.salisbury.edu/Students/ISS/HelpYou/whatsnew.html.

Deadline for returning the applications is Friday, March 21. For more information, please contact Agata Liszkowska at 410-543-6313.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Senator Lugar's stature coming to campus," said President Janet Dudley-Eshbach. "It's further indication of our University's distinguished and growing reputation."

"The purpose of our lecture series," said Dr. Francis Kane, co-director of PACE, "is to offer our students the opportunity to hear politicians whose lives of devotion to the public good can offset their often negative image of politics. People may not realize it," Kane continued, "that, long before the phrase 'compassionate conservative' became fashionable, Senator Lugar quietly lived it. He has been a consistent advocate of school lunches and literacy, scholarships for minority students, pre-natal care for the poor and support for fighting birth defects."

At the lecture, Senator Paul S. Sarbanes (D-MD) is introducing his long-time colleague. Though on separate sides of the aisle both men have great mutual respect for each others' principles and dedication to the public good.

"I am extremely pleased and honored that my long-time friend and colleague, Dick Lugar, has agreed to participate in PACE's lecture series," said Senator Sarbanes. "Having known him since our days at Oxford, I have grown to respect his opinion and value our discussions, even when we disagree, on foreign policy issues. He brings to Salisbury University and the University community a major understanding and insight of the foreign policy issues facing our country today. It will indeed be a pleasure for me to introduce him to my hometown community."

Senator Lugar's talk is free and the public is cordially invited. For more information, call PACE at 410-677-5045.

No News

Due to Spring Break, there will be no SU News on Thursday, March 20. Publication will resume on Thursday, March 27. Articles for that issue should be to Christine Smith (cbsmith@salisbury.edu) in the Publications Office by noon, Thursday, March 20.

Homeland Security

Not a single day goes by that we do not remember, or are in some way reminded, of the events of 9/11. University Police (UP) Chief Jim Phillips reassures the campus community that the UP monitors events that may increase anxiety levels on our campus. In addition, the UP maintains emergency contacts with an array of off-campus committees, organizations and networks, staying informed and alerted of all potential threats.

Recently, an ad hoc University committee revised and updated SU's emergency response procedures. These procedures cover topics such as medical emergencies, workplace violence, threats of violence, sexual assault, facilities emergencies (hazardous materials management and utility failure), emergency cancellations/closings, bio-terrorism, civil disturbance and evacuations.

From the UP Web page, www.salisbury.edu/police, there are "Homeland Security" links to the Maryland Emergency Management Agency's Office of Domestic Preparedness and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. These Web sites provide information on how to prepare for emergencies.

Phillips assures that in any emergency the University will respond quickly and appropriately, keeping all members of the community as safe and secure as possible.

Please feel free to contact Phillips at jlphillips@salisbury.edu if you have suggestions or concerns.

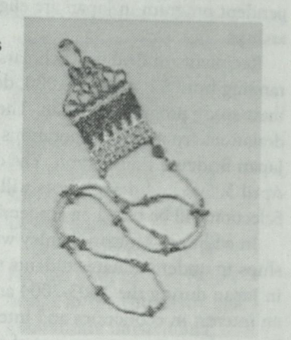
Native American Cultural Workshops

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture presents three Native American cultural workshops in March and April.



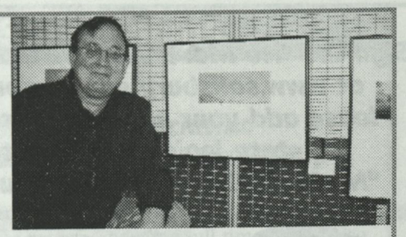
Topics include amulet bead bag making, medicinal practices of Native Americans and gourd-making. Chief Dawn Manyfeathers, of Eden, MD, hosts these activities. She is director of the Lenapehauken Educational and Research Center, a nonprofit organization dedicated to public education about the Eastern Woodland Indians.

On Monday, March 17, at 1-3:30 p.m. or 5-7:30 p.m., Manyfeathers will lead participants through the technique of making stitched bead bags. Native Americans treasured these bags whether from stone, bone, shell or glass. The workshop is $25 and includes project materials.

Native American Medicinal Practices, originally scheduled February 17 and canceled due to weather, is Monday, April 14, 1-3 p.m. or 5-7 p.m. In addition to demonstrating traditional cleansing ceremonies such as "smudging" and "sweeping," Manyfeathers discusses Native American beliefs in the four sacred herbs as well as plant "signatures." The cost is $20 and attendees receive a class workbook.

Gourds served a practical function as bowls and storage vessels in Native American cultures. They are durable and prized through the centuries. Learn how to cure, dress and decorate a gourd Monday, April 28, 1-3:30 p.m. or 5-7:30 p.m. The cost is $25.

Class sizes are limited and reservations are required. There is a $5 per program discount for SU students and Nabb Research Center members. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu/.



HATLEY WINS AI&G JURIED EXHIBIT: Dr. James Hatley, a member of the Philosophy Department, recently won first place in a juried exhibit at the Art Institute and Gallery of Salisbury. Hatley's photograph titled, "Square Butte: Stunted Rainbow," was taken at Great Falls, MT, near the Missouri River. Square Butte is a landmark mentioned in the Lewis and Clark journals. Show judge Michel Damanche cited Hatley's image for its "understanding of light, color, contrast, form and presentation; also for a unique approach to a common subject." The award included a $100 prize.

Study Abroad in Japan Scholarships

The Association of Teachers of Japanese (ATJ) Bridging Scholarship program will award 70 scholarships to American students participating in study-abroad programs in Japan that begin in fall 2003. Undergraduate students majoring in any field of study and attending any recognized exchange or independent program in Japan are eligible to apply for these scholarships.

Recipients of Bridging Scholarships will receive stipends ranging from $2,500 to $4,000, depending on the length of their study program in Japan. The scholarships are funded by donations from U.S. corporations and foundations to the US-Japan Bridging Foundation. The deadline for applications is April 3. Successful applicants will be notified by May 30. Selection will be based on academic potential and financial need.

In addition, Morgan Stanley will award two $7,500 scholarships to undergraduate students who will be studying abroad in Japan during the 2003-2004 academic year and who have an interest in economics and international finance. Applicants must submit an essay on one of several designated public-policy topics together with an application for the Bridging Scholarship program.

Information on the Bridging and Morgan Stanley scholarships and downloadable application forms are available at ATJ's Web site: http://www.colorado.edu/ealld/atj/Bridging/scholarships.html. Printed application brochures are also available.

For more information contact Rob Hallworth at 410-548-5782 (rxhallworth@salisbury.edu, Guerrieri Center Room 256).

Study Abroad Graduation Sash

Are you graduating in May? Have you studied abroad while in college? If so, you have the opportunity to commemorate that learning experience at graduation. International Student Services is taking orders for graduation sashes that represent the country in which you studied. The colors and design of these sashes are based on the official flags of nations. The cost is $30 and samples are available for you to see in the ISS office. In order to receive the sashes by graduation, all sash orders must be received by Friday, March 21. If you are interested in ordering a sash, please stop by International Student Services, Guerrieri Center Room 242E/F. For more information, please contact Carol Wellinghoff at 410-548-4503.

Variety Show Auditions

SU students, faculty, staff and alumni get ready for V14—the 14th annual SU Variety Show. Auditions for masters and mistresses of ceremonies are Monday, March 17, and Wednesday, March 19. Auditions for performers are Tuesday-Wednesday, April 1-2. To audition, talent must sign up for an audition time at the Information Desk of Guerrieri University Center. Auditions times will be determined at sign-up.

V14 is open to any type of talent that artists would like to show the audience. The show is open to the University and local community. Between the performing acts, V14 is going to feature the SU "funomena" Pugsly, a faculty band.

V14 will be held Friday-Saturday, April 11-12, at 7:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. For more information about V14, please call 410-548-4597.

Kim Curates UMES Exhibit

Jinchul Kim, SU art faculty member is curator of "Transited Phenomena," through March 28 at the Mosely Gallery, University of Maryland Eastern Shore. The exhibition indicates various personal transitions toward strategies of "Being," the subjectivity from personalized formal issues, a passionate tension combined with constructive logics, and a new metaphysical vision from the phenomenal world. Displaying this aesthetic sequence as a band is the main intention for this show.

Artists in the exhibition include Kim, John Cleary, David Scott, Brooke Rogers, Kent English, Alyssa Maloof and Chris Harrington. The gallery is open Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. For further information, please call 410 651 6490

Latin Honors Change Postponed

PLEASE NOTE: The policy changes to the Latin Honors' criteria reported in the SU News and eSU News have been postponed until fall 2004. Students graduating in December 2004 and beyond will be held to the standards of the new policy.

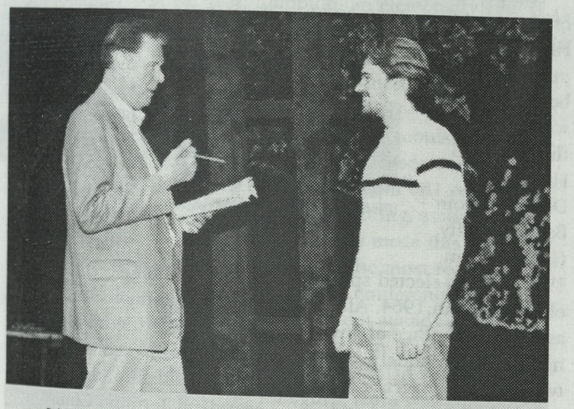
White Promotes Language and Thinking

Dr. Arlene White is involved with several educational projects promoting foreign language education and critical thinking.

In December, White met with foreign language supervisors from around the state at the Maryland State Department of Education. A faculty member in the Department of Modern Languages, White began deliberations on a new framework for foreign language instruction for grades K-12.

A January conference, "Critical Thinking and General Education," was organized by White, who serves as special assistant to the provost for general education. Dr. Mark Weinstein of Montclair (NJ) State University was keynote speaker and discussions followed by SU faculty.

Also in January, White traveled to Louisville, KY, to see "Millet to Matisse," an exhibit of French paintings from the 19th and 20th century. White is conducting research for her French civilization course which will be offered next spring.



LAST CHANCE TO SEE HAMLET: Charles Duff, guest director with SU Theatre, works with Justin Gallo, who portrays the title role in Shakespeare's Hamlet. Duff has taught and directed at the Globe Theatre in London and is author of The Lost Summer, The Heyday of the West End Theatre. Hamlet runs for eight performances through March 16 in Fulton Hall Theatre. Curtain is 7 p.m. Thursday-Saturday with 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday. Reservations are suggested. Call 410-543-6228.

SU Faculty Development Workshop Held

The SU Faculty Development Committee, Provost's Office and the Eastern Shore Association of Colleges-Faculty Development Institute recently sponsored a workshop titled "Critical Thinking and General Education."

Dr. Mark Weinstein, chair and professor in the Department of Educational Foundations at Montclaire (NJ) State University, was the keynote speaker. He has written extensively about critical thinking and has served as a consultant and coordinator for a variety of thinking skills projects.

Approximately 60 faculty, staff and administrators attended the workshop. Weinstein's presentation was followed by discussion sessions led by SU faculty.

Riall Lecturer Explores 'Caring and Moral Education'

SU's spring Riall Lecture is delivered by prominent educator and author Dr. Nel Noddings on Tuesday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Dr. Nel Noddings

Noddings, emirita professor of education at Stanford University, speaks on "Caring and Moral Education."

A widely published author, Noddings has written Caring: A Feminine Approach to Ethics and Moral Education; Women and Evil; The Challenge to Care in Schools; Educating for Intelligent Belief and Unbelief; and Philosophy of Education. Her writings include over 170 articles and chapters on topics ranging from the ethics of care to mathematical problem-solving. Last year Noddings published Starting at Home: Caring and Social Policy (University of California Press) and Educating Moral People: A Caring Alternative to Character Education (Teachers College Press).

For 15 years Noddings worked as a teacher, administrator and curriculum developer in public schools. In New Jersey she served as chair of the mathematics department; she was director of laboratory schools at the University of Chicago.

In 1997 Noddings received her third Award for Teaching Excellence from Stanford University where she served as associate dean and acting dean.

The current president of the National Academy of Education, she is also a laureate member of Kappa Delta Pi, and holds two honorary degrees. Harvard University bestowed her with the Anne Rowe Award for Contributions to the Education of Women. Noddings also received the Willystine Goodsell and Lifetime Achievement awards from the American Educational Research Association. Pi Lambda Theta honored her with their Excellence in Education Award.

In addition, Noddings is past president of the Philosophy of Education Society and of the John Dewey Society.

Begun in 1988, the E. Pauline Riall Lecture Series brings to the University and community outstanding national lecturers in the field of education. The series was established by the late Riall, long-time principal and teacher of the former Campus School at SU. A generous bequest was provided by her will to fund this special program.

The program, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Seidel School.

New USM Regents Named

Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. recently named four new members to the University System of Maryland Board of Regents. They are the Honorable Marvin Mandel, Robert L. Pevenstein, Robert L. Mitchell and Richard E. Hug.

"I am proud that these four Marylanders are joining the University System of Maryland community. They share my commitment to providing the citizens of Maryland with the best public higher education possible," said Ehrlich.

Mandel served as governor of Maryland from 1969-1979. His career in public service began when he was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates from Baltimore City (District 5) in 1952. He was elected speaker of the house in 1964. After assuming the office of governor in 1969, Mandel was twice elected governor in his own right, his second and final term ending in 1979. Today, he practices law on a daily basis in his Annapolis office. Mandel received his L.L.B in 1942 from the University of Maryland's School of Law. He is the former president of the University of Maryland Terrapin Club.

Pevenstein is president of Princeville Partners LLC, a merger and acquisition and business consulting firm in Timonium. Prior to starting Princeville Partners in 1998, Pevenstein served as senior vice president and chief financial officer of UNC, Inc., an aviation services firm in Annapolis. Pevenstein served as adjunct assistant professor of accounting at the University of Maryland College Park from 1976-1984. He also earned his B.S. in business administration from UMCP in 1969 before serving as a first lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

Mitchell is chairman and chief executive officer of Mitchell & Best Homebuilders LLC in Bethesda. Beginning in 1987, he served two terms as president of the Maryland State Builders Association. He is a member of the University System of Maryland's Chancellor's Advisory Council. Mitchell received his undergraduate degree in civil engineering from the UMCP and served as the 1997 president of the Maryland Terrapin Club.

A PROUD MEMBER OF USM UNIVERSITY SYSTEM OF MARYLAND

Hug is chairman emeritus of Baltimore's Environmental Elements Corporation, a global provider of innovative technology for plant services, air pollution control equipment and other products. Campion Named Basketball Academic All-American

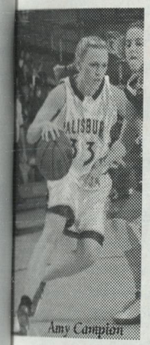
Senior guard Amy Campion of the women's basketball team received two significant honors in as many days last week. One day after being named the Capital Athletic Conference's 2003 Player of the Year, Campion was named to the Verizon Academic All-America Basketball second team, as selected by CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America). She is one of just 15 players named to the first, second and third teams, selected from among all NCAA Division II and Division III teams nationally.

The latest award adds to an impressive list of career accomplishments for Campion, a four-year starter who capped her career last week as Salisbury's all-time scoring and steals leader. She finished her career with 1,938 points and 420 steals. Campion was also the 2002 and 2003 Capital Athletic Conference Player of the Year and is a strong candidate to be named to the Kodak/NCAA Division III All-America team for the second straight year. Campion, an elementary education major, earned the latest national academic award after being recognized last month as a Verizon Academic All-America All-District 2 selectee.



Amy Campion

In addition to her career records, Campion set a new Salisbury single-season scoring record in 2003, finishing with 681 points and a 24.3 ppg average. She led the CAC in scoring, assists, steals, free throw percentage and three-point FGs made this year, and ranks second in the nation in scoring in the most recent NCAA statistics. She has played on three conference championship teams and three NCAA Tournament squads in her career. The Sea Gulls finished 23-5 overall in 2003.

This year marks the 51th year of the CoSIDA Academic All-America program, with the inaugural team was announced in 1952. All told, 816 student-athletes will be selected to 12 different Academic All-America teams during the 2002-03 academic year.

Pi Gamm Mu Earns Roll of Distinction

SU's Gamma chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the international honor society in social science, is the recipient of the Roll of Distinction for 2002. The Roll of Distinction is the top award granted to a chapter by the board of trustees and is based on the annual reports filed by the chapters.

Among the criteria reported are facts indicative of the activity and effectiveness of the chapter on campus as well as its efficiency of operation.

The Maryland Gamma chapter was officially chartered at SU in 1983. The president of the local chapter is Ryan Charles Cox and faculty advisors are Drs. Richard Bowler, Michael Lewis, Melanie Perreault and Clara Small.

FED CHALLENGE PARTICIPANTS: Five Perdue School students were recently honored along with their families and coach, Dr. Ying Wu of the Department of Economics and Finance, by the Federal Reserve Bank in Baltimore. The Perdue School team took first place in the sixth annual College Fed Challenge, a competition analyzing data to recommend possible changes in interest rates. "Unlike some of the other campuses, Salisbury has been competing for only two years. Within two years you were winning. We're very proud of you," said Federal Reserve Senior Manager Gordon Woelper. Competitors included campuses within the Federal Reserve District of Richmond such as Gettysburg and Loyola colleges and the United States Naval Academy. The SU trophy was presented at a festive Federal Reserve Bank luncheon in Baltimore. Pictured (left-right) are students Zelalame Tamre, team coordinator Zachary Richards, Tyler Wickline, Bryan Shone and Andrew Doyle and Wu. Also attending the luncheon was Dr. William Moore, Perdue School dean.

Nurse Without Borders

Healing Without Boundaries

An American nurse who works in some of world's hottest spots shares her moving stories at SU on Wednesday, April 9, at 8 p.m. in the Guerrieri University Center's Wicomico Room. "Nurse Without Boundaries" Mary Lightfine has lived and worked in Afghanistan, Somalia, Sudan, Kosovo and many other countries, often based in some of the most hellish locations on earth.

After working as a registered nurse in emergency rooms, the admitted adrenaline junkie decided to join the International Medical Corps and Doctors Without Borders. Lightfine said that decision changed her life.

She was in Afghanistan during heavy fighting and was forced to traverse the mountains teeming with land mines. She can tell stories about Mogadishu before the U.S. military lost its Black Hawk helicopter in 1993. Lightfine has been ambushed, shot at, robbed and delivered babies in the jungle. She has seen the best and worst of humanity and can speak about world affairs as witnessed from behind the headlines.

In 1999, Lightfine was among distinguished members of Doctors Without Borders to be honored with the Nobel Peace Prize. She has also been nominated as a lecturer of the year by Campus Activities magazine.

Lightfine's lecture is free and the public is invited. For more information, call the Office of Cultural Affairs and Museum Program at 410-543-6271.

Non-Perishables Needed

The AmeriCorps program at SU needs nonperishable items for the Maryland Food Bank of Salisbury. Food items needed include canned meat, vegetables, soup and fruits; boxed milk; prepared boxed dinners; boxed baby food and cereals; and plastic jarred food such as peanut butter. Nonfood items needed include personal hygiene items, toilet paper, paper towels, detergent, bath soap, dish liquid, etc. The AmeriCorps members will create a sculpture at the Centre at Salisbury with the donated goods on May 17. After the promotion, the Food Bank will remove the sculptures and give to needy families. If you would like to donate any items please drop them off at the Camden House or contact Jamie Cugler-Dwyer at 410-548-5119 or jccugler-dwyer@salisbury.edu for pick up.

Summer Session II Dates Changes

Because Summer Session II is currently scheduled to accommodate SU's M.Ed. program, it is necessary to change the starting date due to additional days being added to many of our regional school district's calendars. The new Summer Session II dates are June 23-July 31. Please note the change on your academic calendar.

Fiscal Advisory Committee on the Web

Fiscal Advisory Committee minutes and business are available on the Campus Governance Web site, www.salisbury.edu/campusgov/. Students, faculty and staff who wish to have current information regarding the activity of the committee are encouraged to consult the Web. Any problems or questions concerning the operation of these Web pages should be directed to Jennifer Berkman, committee chair, at 410-543-6262.

Continuing Ed. Scholarships

Alpha Sigma Lambda, the national honor society for adult students in continuing higher education is awarding seven $1,000 scholarships and one $1,500 scholarship for the 2003-04 academic year. The grants are based on scholarship, leadership, clarity and content of personal statement, strength of recommendation and need. To be eligible, a student must be 22 years of age or older, have completed 30 graded semester hours in coursework at SU with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.4 and must demonstrate financial need.

Applications are available on the ASL Honor Society Web site at www.alphasigmalambda.org or from Agata Liszkowska, International Student Services, Guerrieri University Center Room 229. Applicants must also submit an official transcript of their academic record, a personal statement and one letter of recommendation. Applications must be returned to Liszkowska by Friday, April 11.

Latin Honors Change Postponed

PLEASE NOTE: The policy changes to the Latin Honors' criteria reported in the SU News and eSU News have been postponed until fall 2004. Students graduating in December 2004 and beyond will be held to the standards of the new policy.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

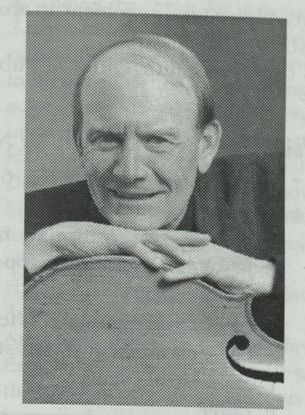
McCarter Watts Duo Perform



Cellist Donald Watts

Two musicians who combine cello and piano perform together Wednesday, April 2. The McCarter Watts Duo pairs pianist Kevin McCarter and cellist Donald Watts in a performance of music by the old masters along with one of McCarter's original compositions.

Observations, which is McCarter's first work for cello and piano, is part of the 7 p.m. program that includes compositions from Vivaldi, Brahms and Bach. It will be held in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

McCarter is a University of Southern California graduate who has appeared across the county as an accompanist for vocal and instrumental soloists and choral ensembles. In recent years he has been increasingly active as a composer with his 2000 work Chamber Symphony selected for the Orchestra Reading Project in Minneapolis.

Watts holds a Ph.D. in music theory and Master of Music in cello performance. An active professional, he has served as principal cellist in notable Baltimore-area venues: Gettysburg Symphony, Annapolis Opera Theater, Opera Vivente and the Morris J. Mechanic Theater. Last year, Watts appeared as recitalist on the "Music at First Reformed Church" series in New Brunswick, NJ, and was featured a number of times on Baltimore's Cathedral Concert Series. Currently, he is a member of the music faculties of Towson University and Baltimore's St. Paul's School.

The free concert includes an intermission. The public is cordially invited.

SU Archaelogist Uncovers the Past

Dr. Elizabeth Ragan of the Department of History presents "The Archaeology of Old Somerset: Life on the Manokin in the 17th Century" on Saturday, April 5, at 1 p.m. at SU's Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture.

Ragan and a team of SU archaeology students have been working to uncover artifacts on Thornton, an estate patented by William Thorne, one of Somerset County's founding magnates and its first militia captain. Although its location has long been known from documentary sources, the plantation's large size meant the archaeological site was not discovered until 1996.

Ragan discusses findings at Thornton as well as ongoing efforts to establish a local center for archaeological research.

The Nabb Center hosts this event, free and open to the public, as part of Maryland Archaeology Month. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Delegate Rawlings Honored by PACE

Leading the charge for reasonably priced housing, available healthcare, and a better chance for minorities in higher education are his strong suits; committing 23 years of service in the Maryland House of Delegates is his pride. Recently, Maryland State Delegate Howard "Pete" Rawlings was honored by SU and its Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement (PACE) with the second John Hargreaves Distinguished Legislator Award. At the recent SU Day in Annapolis, President Janet Dudley-Eshbach presented the Delegate with the PACE award recognizing outstanding state legislators.

Funding for the program was made possible by the John R. Hargreaves Memorial Fund. Delegate Hargreaves was a distinguished member of the Maryland General Assembly from Caroline County. Upon his death, a fund was established in his name at SU.

Rawlings went to Morgan State University after growing up in Baltimore's Edgar Allen Poe housing projects (the first public housing units in Baltimore). He was motivated by a math professor to pursue his education in mathematics. After graduating with a B.A. in mathematics, he continued his education at the University of Wisconsin and received an M.S. in mathematics.

As he pursued his doctoral studies, Rawlings became increasingly interested in politics and he gained experience in coalition building and legislative advocacy. Rawlings was elected in 1979 to the Maryland House of Delegates to represent the 40th District in Baltimore City. He currently sits on numerous boards including the Maryland Education Coalition, the Maryland Historical Society and the Maryland Low Income Housing Coalition.

"Delegate Rawlings is the type of person with whom anyone can sit down and talk," said Dudley-Eshbach. "He is a powerful person who is passionate about those issues that have attracted him and kept him in the political arena."

The Hargreaves Distinguished Legislative Fellow Program is a unique program in Maryland which provides an opportunity for a renowned member of the Maryland General Assembly to engage Salisbury University students in civic education.

For more information call PACE at +10-677-5045.

Baseball, Softball Teams Begin Spring Trips With Wins

The Sea Gull baseball team opened their six-game Florida trip with a doubleheader sweep over Otterbein on Sunday, winning 4-1 and 5-2. Senior LHP Cory Willey went the distance in the opener, allowing seven hits and striking out three to improve to 2-0 on the year. Senior OF Pete Davidovich delivered the key hit with a two-run home run in the seventh inning. The Gulls (13-5-1) won the nightcap as sophomore Brian Shipe (3-2) worked six innings and Star Kriger earned the save with one inning of relief duty. Senior DH Rob Kassekert finished 3-3, including a solo HR and two RBI.

The softball team won four of five games at the East Coast Challenge in Roanoke, to improve to 17-2-1 overall. The Gulls opened with a 5-4, 8-inning win over Averett on Friday evening. SU dropped a 4-3 decision to Emory in its first game on Saturday before rebounding with wins over Emory & Henry (6-2) and York (10-0). The Gulls then closed out with a 5-2 win over Marietta on Sunday. Senior pitcher Katie Mullinix (9-1) and freshman Lacey Lister (8-1) each carned two victories.

Five members of SU's 2002 Final Four field hockey team were recently recognized by the National Field Hockey Coaches Association as members of the national academic squad. Players must have grade point averages of 3.0 or better during the fall 2002 semester to be eligible. Sea Gulls named to the squad were senior Lindsay Bard, sophomore Erin Budd, senior Jessica Manzone, junior Melissa Taylor and sophomore Melissa Webster.

Head Coach Bridget Benshetler of the women's basketball team was one of eight winners of the WBCA's Regional Coach of the Year Awards last week. Benshetler was named Region 3 Coach of the Year after leading the Sea Gulls to a 23-5 overall record and first place regular season finish in the Capital Athletic Conference. Benshetler and the other regional winners are now eligible for the WBCA's National Division III Coach of the Year Award, to be announced on April 7.

Johnson Conducts U.S. Naval Academy Band

Dr. Richard L. Johnson, professor of music and chair of the Department of Music, serves as guest conductor for the United States Naval Academy Band on Sunday, April 6, at 8 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church in Annapolis.

Johnson has appeared internationally conducting works by Hedwig Van Amerigen Rome Prize Fellow David Rakowski at the American Academy in Rome as well as at the Ferenc Liszt Academy in Budapest, Hungary, at the invitation of Liszt Academy conductor, Lazlo Marosi.

Johnson, who holds advanced degrees in performance and music education from the University of Illinois at Urbana/Champaign and Michigan State University at East Lansing, recently appeared with the Arlington Echo Advanced String Orchestra in Annapolis and at Yale University for the Eastern Division of the College Band Directors National Association.

The United States Naval Academy Band was formed in 1852 and is the oldest band in the United States Navy, the third oldest active duty military band in America, and one of the oldest professional musical organizations in the country.

The performance will feature clarinetist, Chief Musician Marcia L. Diehl of Cleburne, TX, who currently serves as co-principal. The ongoing Chamber Music Series features smaller ensembles with recitals planned and presented by individual band members. From its 66 members, the band calls upon two jazz groups, brass and woodwind quintets, trombone and clarinet quartets, tuba and percussion ensembles, and two reception combos.

Oral History Project Participants

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU is one of the regional study centers participating in the Maryland Historical Society's (MdHS) oral history project.

The MdHS recently launched a statewide effort to collect oral histories for its upcoming exhibition, "Looking for Liberty in Maryland," which opens in November. The exhibit explores Marylanders' pursuit of liberty from the Colonial period to the present.

In the coming months, folklorist and historian Dr. Richard Vidutis will travel throughout the state conducting interviews. The oral histories he collects will represent a broad view of Marylanders' experiences over the past century. "This work will serve as a means to preserve these important stories to come," Vidutis said.

The Nabb Center is providing contacts for Vidutis. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Greater Salisbury Committee Supports Leadership Academy

The Greater Salisbury Committee has raised over $15,000 for SU's Academy for Leadership in Education, a program to attract a new generation into educational leadership positions. These funds offset the cost of the tuition. The Academy has enrolled over 50 education professionals who wish to assume even greater leadership roles within their local schools.

The ALE is a collaborative effort developed by SU's Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies, the Greater Salisbury Committee and the superintendents of Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset counties. Counties also served are Dover Capitol District, DE, Tangier, VA, and, in Maryland, Caroline, Talbot and Dorchester counties.

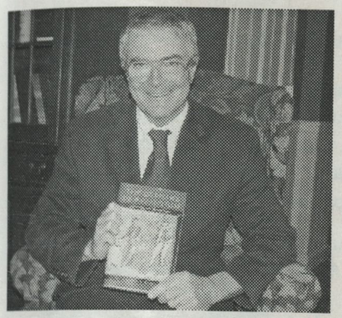
History Professor Publishes Book



Dr. Timothy Miller

Among the controversial issues in America today is the debate over how best to care for abandoned and neglected children. Largely absent from the debate, however, is any discussion of past practices. In his just published book, The Orphans of Byzantium: Child Welfare in the Christian Empire (Catholic University Press), Dr. Timothy Miller of the History Department argues that it is necessary to look at the history of orphanages, their successes and failures, and their complex roles as social institutions for unwanted and homeless children.

In Orphans of Byzantium, Miller provides a perceptive and original study of the evolution of orphanages in the Byzantine Empire. Contrary to the popular belief and even expert opinion, medieval child-welfare systems were sophisticated, especially in the Byzantine world. Combining ancient Roman legal institutions with Christian concepts of charity, the Byzantine Empire evolved a child-welfare system that tried to either select foster parents for homeless children or to place them in group homes that could provide food, shelter and education. Miller discusses how successive Byzantine emperors tried to improve Roman regulations to provide greater security for orphans, and notes that they achieved greatest success when they widened the pool of potential guardians by allowing women relatives to accept the duties of guardianship.

After a thorough discussion of each element of the Byzantine child care system, the book closes by showing how Byzantine orphanages provided models for later Western group homes, especially in Italy. From these Renaissance orphan asylums evolved the system of modern European and American religious orphanages until the foster care movement emerged at the beginning of the 20th century. Miller's study of these systems provides models for reforming the troubled child-welfare system today.

Miller is a Byzantine and medieval historian. He is also the author of The Birth of the Hospital in the Byzantine Empire and numerous articles on this period. His other research interests include the explorations of Christopher Columbus and the support he received from Pope Innocent VIII.

Entrepreneur Cites Shipper

Dr. Frank Shipper of the Perdue School of Business, has been cited recently in several recognized management publications. In the March issue of Entrepreneur magazine, in an article by Chris Penttila reviewing the emphasis businesses place on increased productivity, Shipper warns that small businesses must maintain the quality of their products over the quantity produced.

In International Abstracts of Human Resource Management Journal, an abstract of Shipper's recent paper "A Model and Investigation of Managerial Skills, Employees' Attitudes, and Management Skills" is included in the journal's new online database. The database allows managers to access over 2,000 article abstracts on topics concerning managers and human resources professionals.

Shipper has also contributed to an article in Business and Legal Reports, a human resources online magazine. He was quoted on the importance of increasing self-awareness through 360 Feedback—a management development process where individuals get to see themselves as others see them. Shipper explained, "Shown by our research, the fatal flaw in would-be fast-trackers is a lack of self awareness."

Shipper has been a professor of management in the Perdue School for 12 years.

ARTFX Exhibits SU Student

ARTFX exhibits SU student Paul Smartwood's hand-blown glass in its Annapolis gallery, April 1-30, with an artists reception on Sunday, April 6, from 5-8 p.m.

Children's Lit Festival

Renowned artist, author and illustrator Bryan Collier speaks during SU's 2003 Children's Literature Festival on Wednesday, April 9.

The author and illustrator of such children's books as Uptown and Visiting Langston and illustrator of Martin's Big Words and Freedom River, Collier grew up in Pocomoke City, MD. For his children's books, Collier received the prestigious Coretta Scott King Award and the Ezra Jack Keats Award.

A graduate of Washington High School in Princess Anne, MD, he resides in Harlem, NY, where he served for 12 years as program director for the Harlem Horizon Studio and Harlem Hospital Center. The center provides working space and materials for self-taught artists in the community.

Collier speaks at 3:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall, followed by a book signing and reception at 5 p.m. in Blackwell Library. He speaks again in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall at 6 p.m. at the Young Author's Awards Ceremony, sponsored by the Eastern Shore Reading Council.

Author Nikki Grimes joins Collier during the 5 p.m. book signing. A prolific writer, Grimes is the author of many award-winning books for children, including the novel Bronx Masquerade and picture books Meet Danitra Brown and My Man Blue and the poetry collection A Pocketful of Poems.

She received the 2003 Coretta Scott King Author Award for her novel Bronx Masquerade. Her Jazmin's Notebook was a Coretta Scott King honor book and a Bank Street College Book of the Year. Her picture book Talkin' About Bessie received the 2003 Coretta Scott King Illustrator Award and Author Award.

This year's Children's Literature Festival also features the grand opening of the International Board on Books for Young People's Display of Books for Children with Disabilities at 5 p.m. in Blackwell Library.

Highlighting 43 books, the exhibit includes titles nominated in 18 countries as the best books to use with children with special needs. SU and Ohio State University are the only two U.S. venues scheduled for the display. The exhibit at Blackwell Library runs throughout April. Admission for all events is free and the public is cordially invited.

For more details call 410-543-6280.

Non-Perishables Needed

The AmeriCorps program at SU needs nonperishable items for the Maryland Food Bank of Salisbury. Food items requested include canned meat, vegetables, soup and fruits; boxed milk; prepared boxed dinners; boxed baby food and cereals; and plastic jarred food such as peanut butter. Nonfood items needed include personal hygiene items, toilet paper, paper towels, detergent, bath soap, dish liquid, etc. The AmeriCorps members will create a sculpture at the Centre at Salisbury with the donated goods on May 17. After the promotion, the Food Bank will remove the sculptures and give to needy families. If you would like to donate any items please drop them off at the Camden House or contact Jamie Cugler-Dwyer at 410-548-5119 or jccugler-dwyer@salisbury.edu for pick up.

Law Student Scholarship

The Montgomery County Women's Bar Foundation, Inc. Scholarship Fund offers scholarships to qualified individuals to assist in their undergraduate or law school education. Scholarship awards range from $500-$2,500.

Applicants for the scholarships are evaluated according to the following criteria: service to school and community, essay, academic performance, financial need, recommendations. At the time of application, applicants must be registered or accepted at an accredited college, university or law school; if registered, applicant must be in good standing with such college, university or law school.

The application is now available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213. The application deadline is Thursday, May 1. Applications received after the deadline will not be considered.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Continuing Ed. Scholarships

Alpha Sigma Lambda, the national honor society for adult students in continuing higher education, is awarding seven $1,000 scholarships and one $1,500 scholarship for the 2003-04 academic year. The grants are based on scholarship, leadership, clarity and content of personal statement, strength of recommendation and need. To be eligible, a student must be 22 years of age or older, have completed 30 graded semester hours in coursework at SU with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.4 and must demonstrate financial need.

Applications are available on the ASL Honor Society Web site at www.alphasigmalambda.org or from Agata Liszkowska, International Student Services, Guerrieri University Center Room 229. Applicants must also submit an official transcript of their academic record, a personal statement and one letter of recommendation. Applications must be returned to Liszkowska by Friday, April 11.

Social Science Honorary Supports Library

SU's Maryland Gamma chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the International Honor Society of the Social Sciences, has embarked upon a campaign to purchase much-needed books for Blackwell Library while simultaneously contributing to the Tribute Program at the library.

The Tribute Program allows individuals or organizations to purchase books and to donate them in the name of the organization, a favorite professor, administrator, mentor or loved one.

In light of the University's budgetary crisis, it is a good service project from which any and all organizations and the campus can benefit. Therefore, Pi Gamma Mu challenges any and all groups on campus to contribute to this worthy cause. For further details please contact any member or advisor to Pi Gamma Mu, Drs. Richard Bowler, Michael Davis, Melanie Perreault, Clara Small, or the members of the Reference Department of Blackwell Library.

Summer Session II Dates Changes

Because Summer Session II is currently scheduled to accommodate SU's M.Ed. program, it is necessary to change the starting date due to additional days being added to many of our regional school district's calendars. The new Summer Session II dates are June 23-July 31. Please note the change on your academic calendar.

Fiscal Advisory Committee on the Web

Fiscal Advisory Committee minutes and business are available on the Campus Governance Web site, www.salisbury.edu/campusgov/. Students, faculty and staff who wish to have current information regarding the activity of the committee are encouraged to consult the Web. Any problems or questions concerning the operation of these Web pages should be directed to Jennifer Berkman, committee chair, at 410-543-6262.

SU Archaeologist Uncovers the Past

Dr. Elizabeth Ragan of the Department of History presents "The Archaeology of Old Somerset: Life on the Manokin in the 17th Century" on Saturday, April 5, at 1 p.m. at SU's Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture.

Ragan and a team of SU archaeology students have been working to uncover artifacts on Thornton, an estate patented by William Thorne, one of Somerset County's founding magnates and its first militia captain. Although its location has long been known from documentary sources, the plantation's large size meant the archaeological site was not discovered until 1996.

Ragan discusses findings at Thornton as well as ongoing efforts to establish a local center for archaeological research.

The Nabb Center hosts this event, free and open to the public, as part of Maryland Archaeology Month. For more information call 410-543-6312 or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu .

Trumpet Recital

Amy Bejm

Music education major Amy Bejm presents her senior trumpet recital Sunday, April 13, at 2 p.m. in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

Bejm is president of the National Association for Music Education Chapter 416 and principal trumpet for the SU Wind Ensemble. The Dean's List student performs with the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra, the Jazz Guitar Ensemble and the Annapolis Wind Symphony. She is part of the University's Women's Choral and Chamber Choir.

Bejm was awarded Presidential, Maryland Hope and Nettie C. Bentley scholarships and at SU is secretary of the Environmental Students Association.

The recital is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6385.

Faculty Help Support SWAC

Dr. Memo Diriker of the Perdue School and Véronique Diriker, part-time instructor of French, played the roles of Monsieur and Madame Claude Monet at the recent "Monet's Table" fundraiser sponsored by the Salisbury-Wicomico Arts Council. Dr. Arlene White, also of the Department of Modern Languages, was on the steering committee for the event.

"Monet's Table" was a dinner based on a recipe book of food prepared by and for Monet at his home in Giverny, outside Paris. The fundraiser raised $7,500 for SWAC. There was a silent and live auction as well.

Second Annual ESL Professional Development Day

The Training for All Teachers (TAT) Project and the Bilingual Education Career Ladder Program will sponsor the Second Annual English as a Second Language (ESL) Professional Development Day and Book Fair on Friday, April 11, from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Guerrieri University Center.

Dr. Barney Bérubé will deliver the featured presentation, "Navigating Unchartered Territory: Managing ESL Programs in Rural Schools." Bérubé is uniquely qualified to address the challenges faced by rural educators. He has been an ESL/bilingual education specialist with the Maine Department of Education for 24 years. He is also a member of the ESL faculty at the University of Maine and the University of Southern Maine and the author of Managing ESL Programs in Rural and Small Urban Schools.

Additional sessions will include workshops on teaching strategies for English language learners, panel discussions and demonstrations of new technologies for second language learning. ESL publishers will exhibit books and materials throughout the day, and the Delmarva ESL Teachers Association (DETA) will meet in the afternoon.

The TAT Project is funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Education to address the needs of the growing population of English language learners on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia. TAT disseminates effective teaching strategies for English language learners to in-service and pre-service teachers, principals, and higher education faculty throughout the region.

Mainstream classroom teachers are especially encouraged to attend. This event is free and open to the public, but registration is required. Please contact Stephanie Shultz at 410-677-5009 for more information or visit the TAT Web site at www.salisbury.edu/community/tat to register online.

Mullinix Featured in Sports Illustrated

Senior softball pitcher Katie Mullinix is featured in this week's issue of Sports Illustrated (March 31 edition). Mullinix appears in the magazine's Faces in the Crowd section and is recognized for throwing back-to-back no-hitters to start the 2003 season.

Mullinix, who led NCAA Division III in victories with a 35-10 record in 2002, hurled the no-hitters against Gallaudet (March 1) and Wesley (March 2). Mullinix is currently 12-1 on the season and the Sea Gulls are 19-2-1 overall.

WSCL Life on Delmarva Series Wins National Honor

89.5 WSCL

A series of unique station identification announcements aired by SU's public radio station WSCL has received one of the highest honors in public broadcasting, a Golden Reel Award from the National Federation of Community Broadcasters (NFCB).

The producer of the Life on Delmarva series, Bruce Schimmel, accepted the award at the March NFCB annual conference in San Francisco. The WSCL series won in the promotion category.

Life on Delmarva productions are extended station identifications, in which subjects talk about their interests, passions and philosophies and how they are part of "life on Delmarva." Subjects ranged from watermen to musicians, conservationists to an airplane mechanic, a chestnut tree farmer to a belly dancer.

Although none of the finished pieces is more than one minute long, each is a tantalizing peek into the life of a resident of Delmarva. The series gives subjects a chance to add their self-portraits to a collective picture of the people of this unique place.

Schimmel, a veteran print journalist and radio producer, said the Life on Delmarva series received the NFCB recognition because it represents an innovation in radio formatting.

"This is a promotional series that is at heart a humanities project," said Schimmel. "We worked closely with subjects to give them an opportunity to communicate effectively to a large radio audience about what their avocations mean to them and to the community.

"What we found is that behind the things which people care about most are values that everyone can relate to, even share," said Schimmel.

The first 65 interviews in the ongoing series were produced in 2002 and aired from September through December on WSCL and WSDL, Delmarva's classical music and news stations. Interviews produced in 2002 were partly funded by a grant from the Delaware Humanities Forum, a state program of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

A second series of interviews is in production now and broadcast is scheduled to resume this spring.

WSCL FM is a service of the SU Foundation, Inc. and broadcasts classical music and news to Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland from SU 24 hours a day. For more information call Fred Marino at 410-543-6895.

BEACON Analyzes the Impact Of Maryland's Resource-Based Industries

BEACON
Business, Economic, and Community Outreach Network
at Salisbury University

Did you know that Maryland's agriculture industry generates more than $11 billion in revenues annually? Non-metropolitan counties such as Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester contribute 58 percent of the state's entire farm output. Recognizing the importance of this sector, the Perdue School's Business, Economic, and Community Outreach Network (BEACON) has completed a county-by-county analysis of the economic impact of agriculture and other resource-based industries (e.g., forestry, fisheries/seafood, mineral extraction) throughout the State of Maryland. This effort was commissioned by the FORVM for Rural Maryland (a consortium dedicated to addressing critical issues facing rural Marylanders) and funded by the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development.

"Although agribusiness is a critical industry on the Shore, its impact is often unappreciated," noted BEACON Managing Director Ruth Baker. BEACON's report provides detailed information about the effects of resource-based industries on the state's economy, including:

- What specific sectors comprise this industry sector?
- How is the agricultural sector affected by urban pressures?
- What are the economic issues related to the preservation of agriculture in Maryland?
- What is the overall impact of agriculture and resource-based industries on the economy, the environment and Marylanders' quality of life?

"The importance of resource-based industries to Maryland's economy is underestimated by policy decision-makers," noted BEACON Director Memo Diriker. "This study highlights that gap and helps to more accurately assess the true impact of these industries."

'Just Use of Force' Lecture April 16

One of the nation's foremost thinkers in the "Just War" tradition speaks Wednesday, April 16, at the University. Dr. James Turner Johnson, a faculty member in the departments of Religion and Political Science at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, talks on "Justifying the Use of Armed Force: The Just War Idea and the Iraq Debate," at 7 p.m. in the Guerrieri University Center's Wicomico Room.

Johnson's research and teaching focus on the historical development and application of moral traditions related to war, peace and the practice of statecraft. His latest books, Morality and Contemporary Warfare and Just War and Jihad: Historical and Theoretical Perspectives on War and Peace in Western and Islamic Traditions, deal with cross-cultural applications of the just war tradition.

Johnson is co-editor of the Journal of Military Ethics and a trustee and editorial board member of The Journal of Religious Ethics. He has lectured at venues ranging from Harvard University to the U.S. Naval Academy.

Study in Sunny Ecuador Winter 2004

SU is once again offering students the exciting opportunity to study Spanish language, literature and culture with its winter session trip to Ecuador. Those interested are invited to an early interest meeting on Tuesday, April 22, at 3:30 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 107.

In English, the program offers Latin American Women's Issues, the education course School in a Diverse Society, a Certificate in Teaching English as a Second Language (TEFL) and Photography. The dates of the program are December 26, 2003-January 24, 2004. The number of airline tickets held will be limited. If you are interested and cannot make the meeting, please contact either Dr. Gerry St. Martin, director, at grstmartin@salisbury.edu, or Dr. Brian Stiegler, assistant director, at bnstiegler@salisbury.edu.

Law Student Scholarship

The Montgomery County Women's Bar Foundation, Inc. Scholarship Fund offers scholarships to qualified individuals to assist in their undergraduate or law school education. Scholarship awards range from $500-$2,500.

Applicants for the scholarships are evaluated according to the following criteria: service to school and community, essay, academic performance, financial need, recommendations. At the time of application, applicants must be registered or accepted at an accredited college, university or law school; if registered, applicant must be in good standing with such college, university or law school.

The application is now available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213. The application deadline is Thursday, May 1. Applications received after the deadline will not be considered.

Non-Perishables Needed

The AmeriCorps program at SU needs nonperishable items for the Maryland Food Bank of Salisbury. Food items requested include canned meat, vegetables, soup and fruits; boxed milk; prepared boxed dinners; boxed baby food and cereals; and plastic jarred food such as peanut butter. Nonfood items needed include personal hygiene items, toilet paper, paper towels, detergent, bath soap, dish liquid, etc. The AmeriCorps members will create a sculpture at the Centre at Salisbury with the donated goods on May 17. After the promotion, the Food Bank will remove the sculptures and give to needy families. If you would like to donate any items please drop them off at the Camden House or contact Jamie Cugler-Dwyer at 410-548-5119 or jccugler-dwyer@salisbury.edu for pick up.

Attention May Graduating Stafford Loan Borrowers

May graduating Stafford Loan borrowers are reminded to complete the Direct Loan Online Exit Counseling Session by Monday, April 28. Please refer to the letter sent to you by the Office of Financial Aid on April 1 regarding this federal mandate.

If you choose not to complete the online exit session(s) your academic records will be held.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

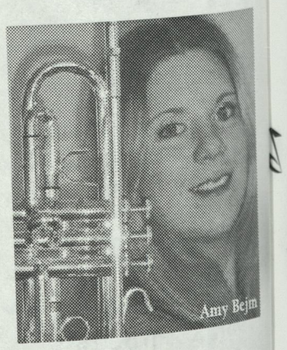
- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first-floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Trumpet Recital

Music education major Amy Bejm presents her senior trumpet recital Sunday, April 13, at 2 p.m. in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

Bejm is president of the National Association for Music Education Chapter 416 and principal trumpet for the SU Wind Ensemble. The Dean's List student performs with the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra, the Jazz Guitar Ensemble and the Annapolis Wind Symphony. She is part of the University's Women's Choral and Chamber Choir.



Amy Bejm

Bejm was awarded Presidential, Maryland Hope and Nettie C. Bentley scholarships and at SU is secretary of the Environmental Students Association.

The recital is free and open to the public. For more information call 410-543-6385.

Horizons Is Coming

Horizons is a program designed to train the campus community (including faculty and staff) on lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgendered (LGBT) issues. Begun over four years ago by the Student Affairs Committee of the Forum and with support of the administration, Horizons training acquaints participants with information and resources available, allowing them to become allies to those LGBT students in need. Over 100 people have already attended. The next training is slated for Thursday, April 24, from 3:30-5 p.m. in Guerrieri University Center Room 206. Please RSVP Jim McCallops (jsmccallops@salisbury.edu) by Monday, April 21, if you're interested.

April Native American Workshops

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU presents two Native American cultural workshops in April.

Topics are medicinal practices of Native Americans and gourdmaking. Chief Dawn Manyfeathers, of Eden, MD, hosts these activities. She is director of the Lenapehauken Educational and Research Center, a nonprofit organization dedicated to public education about the Eastern Woodland Indians.

Native American Medicinal Practices, originally scheduled in February and canceled due to weather, is Monday, April 14, 1-3 p.m. or 5-7 p.m. In addition to demonstrating traditional cleansing ceremonies such as "smudging" and "sweeping," Manyfeathers discusses Native American beliefs in the four sacred herbs as well as plant "signatures." The cost is $20 and attendees receive a class workbook.

Gourds served a practical function as bowls and storage vessels in Native American cultures. They are durable and prized through the centuries. Learn how to cure, dress and decorate a gourd Monday, April 28, 1-3:30 p.m. or 5-7:30 p.m. The cost is $25.

Class sizes are limited and reservations are required. There is a $5 per program discount for SU students and Nabb Research Center members. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

Jazz at Lunch

The SU Jazz Ensemble, directed by Jerry Tabor, presents the biannual "Jazz at Lunch" concert on Friday, April 18, at noon in Fulton Hall Room 112. The ensemble is back by popular demand in the Fulton School, just across the hall from the Fulton Plaza Satellite Dining area. Bring your lunch and enjoy some hot jazz and blues, while showing your support for really great SU student and Eastern Shore community players. The "Jazz at Lunch" concert was originally a Fulton treat and is well on its way to becoming a Universitywide tradition in the Bistro. Please continue to make it a success in the ensemble's Fulton Hall venue by stopping by at your convenience between noon and 1 p.m.

No. 1 Ranked Men's Lacrosse Remains Unbeaten

Senior Josh Bergey and sophomore Cory O'Neil scored three goals each and four other Sea Gulls scored twice apiece as No. 1 ranked Salisbury defeated No. 5 Gettysburg 17-2 in a non-conference game at home Saturday.

Junior Kevin Gemmell (2g-2a) scored twice and Dan Boyer (2g), Chris Phillips (2g-3a) and Bergey scored once each as Salisbury jumped to a 5-0 lead and led 6-1 after one quarter. Bergey's second goal and two markers by O'Neil in the second quarter pushed SU's advantage to 9-1 at halftime. The Gulls continued their domination in the third quarter, outshooting Gettysburg 16-2 in the frame. Senior Chris Lauer (2g-1a) scored twice, Bergey and O'Neil each tallied their third, and Phillips and Boyer each added their second as SU's lead grew to 15-2 after three periods.

Salisbury finished with a 47-18 advantage in total shots and controlled 16 of 22 face-offs in the game. Led by defensemen Eric Martin, Evan Howard and Jeff Bigas, the Sea Gulls registered their third game this season in which the opponent scored two goals or less. Salisbury has allowed just seven goals in its last three victories.

The women's lacrosse team improved to 7-1 overall with a 19-3 win at Frostburg on Saturday. The Sea Gulls, ranked No. 10 in the nation, scored the first 10 goals of the contest to easily capture the non-conference victory. Senior Shannon Jarrett paced SU with four goals, with Amber Stansbury and Linda Ackerman adding three each.

The softball team, ranked eighth in the latest national poll, won three of four games last weekend to improve to 24-3-1 overall. The Gulls split a home doubleheader with Mary Washington, winning 3-0 in game two after losing the first game 3-1. SU followed with a road sweep at Chowan, winning 4-2 and 4-1. Freshman pitcher Lacey Lister earned two of the victories, pushing her record to 13-1 on the season.

Fall 2003 Peer Leaders Needed

The Office of New Student Experience is seeking students interested in becoming peer leaders for the fall 2003 semester. Each student peer leader will be paired with a facilitator (faculty or staff member) to help orient new students to the resources available at Salisbury University. Peer leaders earn $125. Requirements include: have sophomore, junior or senior status as of the fall 2003 semester and have completed two semesters at SU; have a minimum 2.0 grade point average; possess excellent communication skills and a strong interest in helping new students be successful academically, socially and personally at SU; and exemplify a positive academic, co-curricular and leadership behavior. All students accepted into the peer leader program must attend a skills workshop (date and time to be announced). Applications can be picked up at the New Student Experience Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 222.

As part of its Writers-on-the-Shore series, the Department of English presents poet Page Dougherty on Thursday, April 17, at 8 p.m. in the Montgomery Room, Commons.

Dougherty has published a volume of poetry, No One with a Past is Safe (Word Press, 2002). Some of her poems detail the years she lived in West Virginia as a labor organizer among coal miners and their families. Her work has appeared in The Kenyon Review, The Gettysburg Review, Ontario Review, TriQuarterly and other journals. In addition, she is the recipient of a New York Foundation for the Arts Fellowship.

The reading is free and open to the public. For more information call Dr. Michael Waters at 410-543-6540.

Dance Company Supports Troops

The SU Dance Company sponsors a car wash 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, April 12, at Cheers on South Salisbury Boulevard, raising funds to purchase telephone calling cards for armed forces overseas through Operation Uplink.

The cards enable U.S. troops to stay in touch with their families and friends.

Six raffles to raise money for the project will be held during the Dance Company's annual Spring Concert Thursday-Saturday, April 24-26, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. Prizes for each drawing include more than $100 in merchandise and gift certificates. Raffle tickets are $1 each and are available at the door.

The Company donates 10 percent of its Spring Concert admissions to the project.

The Dance Company's executive council chose Operation Uplink for its spring 2003 semester fund-raising project following a successful fall 2002 semester fund-raising project for the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

For more information, call 410-548-4183.

PACE Seminar Proposals Due

Proposals to develop and teach a Civic Engagement Seminar with PACE (Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement) are due Tuesday, April 15. PACE is offering a stipend of $500 in the fall 2003 semester for a faculty member (from any department) to develop a spring 2004 semester course on a governmental or non-profit local, county or regional issue that has ramifications for public policy. An additional $2,500 will be available in the spring for reassigned time or stipend purposes.

PACE would like the seminar to give students an opportunity to do research (in the broadest sense of that word) in the community on a practical problem that has policy ramifications. To apply, submit a two-page proposal that identifies the topic and potential student population; describes the proposed methodology (as you initially conceive it); describes what the product outcome might be; explains how the course would be taught (new or already existing course); and contains a statement of support from your department chairperson.

If you have any questions or would like more information, please contact PACE 410-677-5045.

Youth Symphony Concert

The Salisbury Symphony Orchestra Affiliated Youth and Collegiate Symphony performs its spring concert Thursday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

The group, conducted by Dr. Thomas Elliot, ranges in age from 10 to 21 and members hail from around Delmarva including students from SU.

The Orchestra will perform "Sleepers Wake" by Bach; the "Meditation" from Theis by Massenet; the "Liberty Bell March" by John Phillip Sousa; a piece for two harps featuring SU students Danielle Carboni and Jessica Whelan; as well as several other works.

Admission to the performance is $5 for adults and $2 for children 18 and under and tickets will only be available at the door. For more information call 410-548-5587.

Second Annual ESL Professional Development Day

The Training for All Teachers (TAT) Project and the Bilingual Education Career Ladder Program will sponsor the Second Annual English as a Second Language (ESL) Professional Development Day and Book Fair on Friday, April 11, from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Guerrieri University Center.

Dr. Barney Bérubé will deliver the featured presentation, "Navigating Unchartered Territory: Managing ESL Programs in Rural Schools." Bérubé is uniquely qualified to address the challenges faced by rural educators. He has been an ESL/bilingual education specialist with the Maine Department of Education for 24 years. He is also a member of the ESL faculty at the University of Maine and the University of Southern Maine and the author of Managing ESL Programs in Rural and Small Urban Schools.

Additional sessions will include workshops on teaching strategies for English language learners, panel discussions and demonstrations of new technologies for second language learning. ESL publishers will exhibit books and materials throughout the day, and the Delmarva ESL Teachers Association (DETA) will meet in the afternoon.

The TAT Project is funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Education to address the needs of the growing population of English language learners on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia. TAT disseminates effective teaching strategies for English language learners to in-service and pre-service teachers, principals, and higher education faculty throughout the region.

Mainstream classroom teachers are especially encouraged to attend. This event is free and open to the public, but registration is required. Please contact Stephanie Shultz at 410-677-5009 for more information or visit the TAT Web site at www.salisbury.edu/community/tat to register online.

Support the Troops

Hearts from Home, a coalition of staff members at SU, is conducting a $1 campaign in support of our troops and their families. This is not a political action group, but a humanitarian group interested in doing what it can to see that men and women in uniform and their families are provided for during this time of war.

Donations of $1 will be accepted toward the goal of $5,000. All funds from the SU community will be given to the USO-Delaware (Dover Air Force Base). A large number of area reservists and guards persons are stationed out of Dover Air Force Base.

Donation jars can be found at the following locations: Blackwell Library (BL-104), Guerrieri University Center Information Desk (GC 125), Maggs Gym (MC-248), Physical Plant (MB-101), Power Professional (PP-201), Holloway Hall (HH-153) University Bookstore (Customer Service Desk), University Dining Services (Cashier's Station) and University Police (UP 107).

In addition to these locations, donation jars will be set up at Satellite Dining in Fulton Hall, Caruthers Hall and Henson Science Hall.

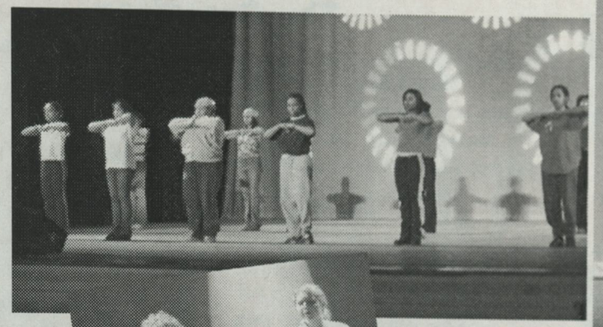
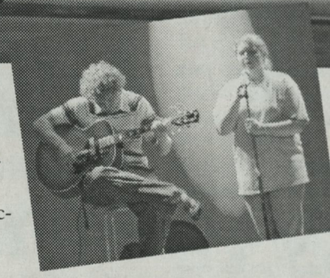
SU Talent Shines





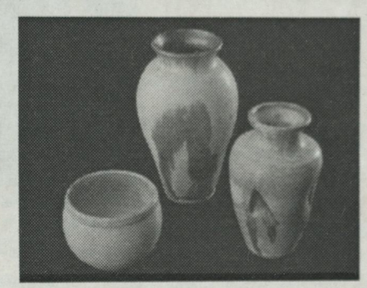
The 14th annual Salisbury University Variety Show is Friday-Saturday, April 11-12, at 7:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. Also known as V14, the show features many performing styles from SU students, faculty, staff and alumni.

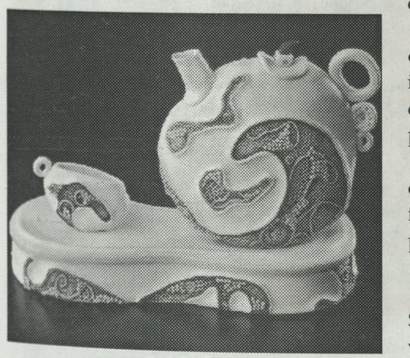
Individual acts include group solo vocal performances, Irish dance, a guitar and banjo act and a few other surprises. A rock and roll band, featuring three styles of guitar playing, follows a monologue about rock and roll itself. The newly formed Salisbury University Step Squad performs in this year's show as well.

Between individual performances, four SU students, serving as masters and mistresses of ceremonies, entertain the audience, along with the faculty pit band Pugsly. Puglsy also warms up the audience starting at 7:15 p.m.

Tickets are $5 each and are on sale at the door. They may be reserved by calling 410-548-4597. Admission is free for anyone displaying a current SU identification card.

29th Annual Senior Student Art Exhibit





The Department of Art presents its 29th annual Senior Student Art Exhibit on Friday, April 18, at the University Gallery in Fulton Hall. The student works will remain on display through Tuesday, May 13.

The exhibit features an exciting mix of media, including blown glass, drawing, painting, computer-aided graphic design, photography, sculpture, digital printmaking and ceramics.

The artists will be in the gallery during the opening night reception from 6-9 p.m. Refreshments will be provided by local vendors.

Admission to the exhibit is free and the public is cordially invited.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and noon-4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. For more information, call 410-548-2547 or visit the SU Web site at www.salisbury.edu.

White Has Eventful Spring

Dr. Arlene White, Department of Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies, recently attended the spring technology conference of the Maryland Foreign Language Association held at Bowie State University. White attended a workshop on finding and using effective online learning materials in foreign languages. White is a member of the board of director of MFLA.

In her role as special assistant to the provost for General Education, White recently attended a conference in Philadelphia sponsored by the Association of American Colleges and Universities. The conference was titled "General Education: Goals, Strategies and Assessments for Powerful Learning." White attended a variety of sessions and talked with colleagues about the status and direction of General Education programs across the United States.

In addition, White, a board member of the Eastern Shore Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, was in charge of the Future Educators of America conference recently held on campus. More than 70 students from six area high schools spent the day on campus listening to a panel of University students from SU and UMES talk about their educational experiences. Students attended sessions led by area public school teachers and SU and UMES faculty and heard Beth Sheller, Wicomico County Teacher of the Year 2002, speak at lunch.

USM Honors SU Professors

Three SU professors have received the highest honor given to faculty by the University System of Maryland, the Regents Faculty Award for Excellence.

At its April 11 meeting at Towson University, the USM Board of Regents recognized SU's Dr. Memo Diriker, Dr. Kimberly Hunter and Dr. Judith Stribling for their outstanding contributions, along with eight from other System institutions.

"These 11 educators, recommended by the Regents Faculty Award Committee, are an example for every person in higher education," said Clifford M. Kendall, chairman of the Board. "Through their hard work, dedication and creative endeavors, they have shown that for teachers and students alike, real learning knows no boundaries. The Board is pleased to bestow its highest honor upon them."

"These three distinguished individuals represent more than a fourth of this year's award winners," said SU President Janet Dudley-Eshbach. "The only other institution represented by three is the University of Maryland College Park, which has a far larger faculty enjoying greater resources. The Regents Committee has verified what I sincerely believe: Salisbury University faculty are providing a sterling education to their students which is second to none in Maryland. I am proud and grateful to call them colleagues."

Each recipient of an award for mentoring, public service, teaching, research, scholarship and creative activity will receive $1,000 and a plaque of recognition for the honor. Each recipient of an award for interinstitutional collaboration will receive $500 and a plaque.

This year's award winners for excellence in USM interinstitutional collaboration are SU's Stribling, associate professor of biology, and Gian Gupta, professor of environmental sciences and chemistry in the Department of Natural Sciences at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. Stribling and Gupta lead the nationally recognized undergraduate dual-degree program in environmental/-marine science and biology at their respective institutions. Ten years ago, UMES and Salisbury began a collaboration that took advantage of their existing strengths and avoided the costs of duplicating a program offered at a nearby institution. Stribling was assigned by SU to coordinate and strengthen the program in 1997, and she

Horizons Training

Horizons is a program designed to train the campus community (including faculty and staff) on lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgendered (LGBT) issues. Begun over four years ago by the Student Affairs Committee of the Forum and with support of the administration, Horizons training acquaints participants with information and resources available, allowing them to become allies to those LGBT students in need. The next training is slated for Thursday, April 24, from 3:30-5 p.m. in Guerrieri University Center Room 206. Please RSVP Jim McCallops (jsmccallops@salisbury.edu) by Monday, April 21, if you're interested.

'Buy, Buy Louisiana' Lecture

SU presents "Buy, Buy Louisiana, Hello World: Considering the Extraordinary Impact of the Louisiana Purchase on the Occasion of its 200th Anniversary," a lecture by Dr. Timothy O'Rourke, dean of the Fulton School, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 29, in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

For more information call 410-543-6450 or visit the SU Web site at www.salisbury.edu.

Religion and Spirituality Workshop

Religion and Spirituality, a professional workshop on helping families and individuals to heal, is 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday, April 25, in the Worcester Room of the Commons. Program fee is $90 per person.

Workshop objectives include increasing awareness of post-modern trends influencing the contemporary emphasis on religion and spirituality in society and social work, and integrating newer knowledge developments in the psychosocial theories of religion, spirituality, faith development and the development of God's representation within social work knowledge and values.

Presenters will be Dr. Mary Vincentia Joseph and Dr. Ann Patrick Conrad, both of American University.

Continental breakfast and mid-day refreshments are included at the Religion and Spirituality workshop, sponsored by the SU Department of Social Work and Center for Professional Development.

Apply Now for Folklife Field School

SU, in conjunction with the Library of Congress American Folklife Center, sponsors the 2003 Folklife Field School at SU and in Crisfield, MD, Friday, June 13-Thursday, July 3. This nationally recognized program is an intensive three-week course in professional development for cultural preservation and presentation through interviewing, photography and other techniques. A team of seasoned cultural specialists provides instruction through lectures, demonstrations, discussion and hands-on practice in University classrooms and at the Crisfield field site.

This year's field school theme is particularly appropriate to the Eastern Shore: The Passing of Tradition and the Passing of Time: Exploring a Maritime Community's Response to Cultural, Economic and Environmental Change. Materials produced through the class will be eligible for display at the Smithsonian Institution Center for Folklife and Cultural Heritage's 2004 Smithsonian Folklife Festival on the Mall in Washington, D.C.

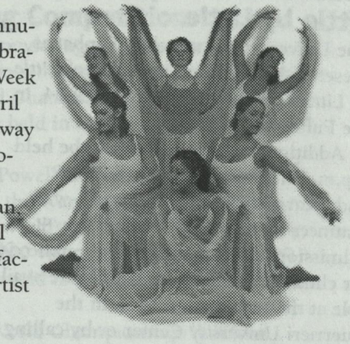
The school is designed for adults who have a strong professional, academic, personal or artistic interest in cultural documentation, but little or no training or experience in techniques. Organizers will choose 15 applicants for the school, with preference given to residents of the Middle Atlantic area, including Maryland, the Delmarva Peninsula and the Chesapeake Bay region. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply. Academic credit is available. Participants must be age 18 or older. Cost for the class is $750, covering instruction, living costs, equipment use, travel to and from the field site and course materials. Application deadline is Friday, April 25. For application information, call Dr. Polly Stewart at 410-548-4241 or write pxstewart@salisbury.edu.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222. Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Dance Company Spring Concert



SU's Dance Company's annual Spring Concert in celebration of National Dance Week is Thursday-Saturday, April 24-26, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. The program features Flamenco dancer Shahram Tehranian, classical guitarist Michael Perez and five works by faculty, student and guest artist choreographers.

Perez and Tehranian return to SU to present the drama and passion of Flamenco, the quintessential manifestation of Spanish folk music and dance. The programs for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will feature different Flamenco suites.

Artistic Director Victoria Hutchinson premieres "Rhapsodic Dialogue," an abstract lyric modern dance costumed by senior Priscilla Magalee. Johann Sebastian Bach's unaccompanied "Cello Suites" as played by Mstislav Rostropovich provide the musical inspiration for the dance. In the choreography, light rhythmic patterns contrast with fiery rhythms that emerge, accumulate and decline in space.

The featured student work, "An Angel's Requiem" by senior Erin Fair Rhoades, is the winner of the Fall Dance Showcase adjudication. Set to the music of the Pat McGee Band, this lyric dance is dedicated to those who have left this earth too soon.

The one-hour program includes three guest choreographer works: "Haiku" by Doug Hamby, "Shaken Not Stirred" by Linda Hallman-Darr and "Triple Threat" by Kathryn Ferguson. Ferguson, a 2002 SU graduate and former member of the Dance Company, is a freelance choreographer who coaches the Urbana High School Dance Team in Frederick, MD.

Tickets for the performance are $8 for adults and $6 for senior citizens, teen-agers and alumni. Children under 12 and SU ID holders are admitted free. Tickets are available at the door 30 minutes before curtain. Fund-raising benefits Operation Uplink's efforts to purchase telephone calling cards for overseas troops.

For more information call 410-548-4183 or visit the Web at www.salisbury.edu/schools/seidel/dance.

SU Summer Help Needed

The Conference Planning Office is seeking students interested in summer employment, from May 28-August 15. Responsibilities include working with various camp/conference directors in assisting with the coordination of various facilities and services required by each group. The conference assistants will also work closely with University staff (University Dining Services, Housing Office, University Park and Administrative Services) to ensure that the appropriate support is available for each conference, camp or special program. These positions require some evening and weekend hours with overtime available. If interested please contact the Conference Planning Office, Commons Room 200 or call 410-543-6172 or e-mail jevickers@salisbury.edu.

Art Faculty Sunday Painters Exhibit

Traditional and modernist style works of art highlight the "Salisbury University Art Faculty Sunday Painters" exhibit April 18-May 18, at the University's Atrium Gallery.

The show features paintings and prints from Art Department faculty members James Adams, Gary Brotman, Clytie Taylor, Jinchul Kim, Brooke Rogers, Ed Brown and Paul Flexner, SU graphic design instructor who is curator for the show.

Flexner began his art career as an illustrator and syndicated cartoonist for Philadelphia newspapers while earning an interdisciplinary B.F.A. from Tyler School of Art. Upon completing an M.F.A. at Penn State University in 1982, he began exhibiting his paintings in Philadelphia. Galleries featuring his work have included Kunsthaus Buhler Gallery in Stuttgart, Germany.

"Doing the Backstep" by James Adams

Adams received his M.F.A. from the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts in Philadelphia. He has received a number of awards, including the Violette deMazia Scholarship from the Barnes Foundation in 2000. His paintings have been the subjects of solo exhibitions at the Vox Populi Gallery in Philadelphia and elsewhere in Pennsylvania, New York and North Carolina.

Brotman, a Delaware resident and native of Baltimore, earned an M.F.A. at Indiana University. He teaches drawing and painting this semester at SU.

Taylor earned her M.F.A. at the Maryland Institute College of Art. Specializing in experimental photography, printmaking, papermaking and mixed media, she has illustrated textbooks for exceptional children and has showcased her work at shows throughout Maryland, Delaware and Virginia.

Born in South Korea, Kim grew up in the suburbs of Seoul. As a B.F.A. student at King Sejong University, he won numerous art competitions. He showed his work at galleries in the In-sa-dong fine art area in Seoul. After moving to New York in 1986, he began focusing on mixed media and installation work. His American exhibition sites have included the So Hyun Gallery in New York City, the Perry House Gallery in Arlington, VA, and the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

Rogers grew up in Ocean City, MD, where he still resides. Graduating from the Hoffberger School of Painting at the Maryland Institute and College of Art in Baltimore, he maintains studios in Newark, DE; Maryland and Manhattan, NY.

Brown received his M.F.A. in painting from Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, MI. His solo exhibit sites have included the Mill River Gallery in Oella Mill, MD, and the Howard County Center for the Arts in Ellicott City, MD. He received the Individual Artist Award in Visual Arts from the Maryland State Arts Council in 2000.

The Atrium Gallery is open 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Friday. For more information, call 410-548-2547.

Study in Sunny Ecuador Winter 2004

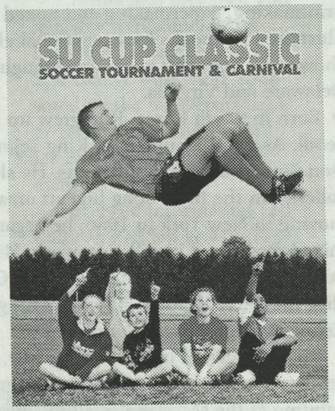
SU is once again offering students the exciting opportunity to study Spanish language, literature and culture with its winter session trip to Ecuador. Those interested are invited to an early interest meeting on Tuesday, April 22, at 3:30 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Room 107.

In English, the program offers Latin American Women's Issues, the education course School in a Diverse Society, a Certificate in Teaching English as a Second Language (TEFL) and Photography. The dates of the program are December 26, 2003-January 24, 2004. The number of airline tickets held will be limited. If you are interested and cannot make the meeting, please contact either Dr. Gerry St. Martin, director, at grstmartin@salisbury.edu, or Dr. Brian Stiegler, assistant director, at bnstiegler@salisbury.edu.

SU Cup Soccer Tournament

Take a group of students from the Perdue School of Business and pose the following question: What can you do to create better relations between SU students and the community? What was their answer? Let's have a soccer tournament and community fun day to bring us all together and we will donate the proceeds to local charities. Then they put their idea into action.

The inaugural SU Cup Classic will be held on Sunday, April 27, from 9 a.m.-10 p.m. on SU's intramural fields (Wayne Street). This charity event is a combined soccer tournament and community fun fair to benefit the Wicomico Mentoring Project as well as the Maryland Food Bank. Admission is an optional donation of one canned food item.



Forty teams of SU students will compete in a round-robin, co-ed soccer tournament for a spot on the SU Cup Classic plaque to be displayed in Maggs Gym, a team trophy, and championship jerseys.

On the sidelines from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 40 different SU clubs as well as campus and local organizations plan a Community Fun Fest to include food and carnival games and all sorts of family oriented fun activities.

For more information about sponsoring the SU Cup or providing a booth for the Community Fun Fest, contact Rusty Brown at 443-783-4585 or via e-mail at hrb0207@salisbury.edu for more information.

Student Theatre Production: Little by Little

The University theatre club, Sophanes, presents the Maryland premiere of Little by Little at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 24, in the Fulton Hall Theatre.

Additional performances will be held 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, April 25-26, and Thursday-Saturday, May 1-3, with matinees Sunday April 27 and May 4. Admission is $8 for the general public, $6 for children and seniors. Tickets are available at the Information Desk in the Guerrieri University Center or by calling the Theatre Box Office at 410-543-6228.

Originally produced at the Coconut Grove Playhouse in Miami, FL, the intimate chamber work, with music by Brad Ross and lyrics by Ellen Greenfield and Hal Hackaday, follows three middle school friends who grow up and discover the perfect combination of friendship and love. The York Theatre Company presented the New York City premiere.

Choir Spring Concert

The University Chorale and Chamber Choir presents its spring concert, "Testaments to Freedom," 4 p.m. Sunday, April 27, at Asbury United Methodist Church.

For more information call Patrick Freer at 410-543-6386 or visit the SU Web site at www.salisbury.edu

Fall 2003 Peer Leaders Needed

The Office of New Student Experience is seeking students interested in becoming peer leaders for the fall semester. Each student peer leader will be paired with a facilitator (faculty or staff member) to help orient new students to the resources available at Salisbury University. Peer leaders earn $125. Requirements include: have sophomore, junior or senior status as of the fall semester and have completed two semesters at SU; have a minimum 2.0 grade point average; possess excellent communication skills and a strong interest in helping new students be successful academically, socially and personally at SU; and exemplify positive academic, co-curricular and leadership behaviors. All students accepted into the peer leader program must attend a skills workshop (date and time to be announced). Applications may be picked up at the New Student Experience Office, Guerrieri University Center Room 222.

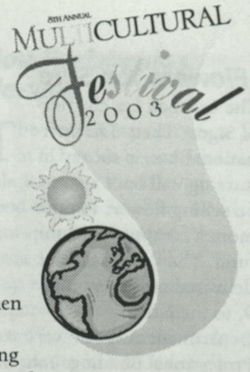
Get Ready For Multicultural Festival Week



The Office of Multiethnic Student Services sponsors Multicultural Festival Week Monday-Friday, April 28-May 2, at the SU campus.

Activities begin 7 p.m. Monday, April 28, with Dr. Fariyal Ross-Sheriff's lecture, "The Role of Women in Exile and Repatriation" in Caruthers Hall Auditorium. Teaching at Howard University's School of Social Work for 27 years, Ross-Sheriff's work emphasizes women, children and the elderly.

Her training and research focus on displaced populations, including international refugees, immigrants, the homeless in the United States and disaster victims. She is director of the Ph.D. program in social work at Howard University and has worked for the past 15 years in the planning and repatriation of Afghan refugees under international, non-governmental organizations such as Focus Humanitarian Assistance.

Events continue noon-1:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 29, with a brown bag lunch in the Nanticoke Room of the Guerrieri University Center. Dr. Greg Cashman, author of What Causes War? An Introduction to Theories of International Conflict, presents the topic "Cause and Effect of War in a Multicultural World." Sodas, chips and cookies are provided.

Wednesday, April 30, brings language tables to the Bistro in the Commons. Students and visitors are invited to join specially designated tables at lunchtime for conversation in French, Spanish, German, Russian, Swahili, Korean, Urdu and Chinese. (If not on an SU meal plan, standard lunch admission applies.)

The SU Office of Cultural Affairs sponsors a concert for peace featuring the Jewish-Arab music group Atzilut at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Red Square. Rain location is the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri Center. A peace vigil, sponsored by the SU Conflict Resolution Club, follows.

Thursday, May 1, is Multicultural Festival Day, featuring samples of multicultural food and entertainment from noon-3 p.m. at SU's Devilbiss Hall mall area and Pergola. Rain location is the Guerrieri Center. Performers include the Caribbean steel drum band Steel Kings, the Andean modern and classical music group Mystic Warriors, Irish dancing, bagpipes and the SU Step Squad.

The percussive dance ensemble Step Afrika! USA performs at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri Center. The group's repertoire includes stepping, tap, modern, hip-hop, house and freestyle dancing, as well as South African dances such as Zulu and gumboot.

The Hands Around Campus event held in conjunction with past SU Multicultural Festival weeks will not take place this year.

Admission to all activities except the Wednesday lunch tables is free, and the public is cordially invited.

Calling All Faculty

The Public Relations Office is looking for professors willing to participate in the ProfNet online database, a national media service for higher education.

ProfNet (www.profnet.com) connects journalists with experts from campuses across the country. From 50-100 reporters search the ProfNet Database each day and connect with experts via highly targeted profile searches. By posting academic profiles on ProfNet, professors make their expertise accessible to reporters from around the country. Some of the publications whose reporters utilize ProfNet are USA Today, Computer World, Washington Times, U.S. News & World Report, Parenting Magazine and The New York Times.

Seven SU faculty members currently have their profiles posted on ProfNet, including Dr. Augustine DiGiovanna, an expert in gerontology. "Creating a profile was easy and quick to do," said DiGiovanna. Besides answering interview requests, as a ProfNet expert DiGiovanna can suggest topics to reporters by submitting brief article ideas called leads. Leads are sent to reporters once a week.

If you are interested in joining ProfNet or would like to have more information about the program, contact Mickey Burke in the Public Relations Office at 410-543-6030.

SU Hosts Senior Games

Athletes from across the Mid-Atlantic region converge on SU for the fourth annual Eastern Shore Senior Games Thursday-Saturday, April 24-26.

Open to men and women age 50 and over, participants compete in a variety of athletic events, both individual and team, at several area sports venues. A shotgun start kicks off the golf tournament at noon on Thursday, April 24.

Last year more than 400 senior athletes took part.

For information, please call 410-543-6177 or 410-548-4183.

Students Benefit from Hyatt

About 40 SU students learned about career options available to them at Hyatt Regency Chesapeake Bay Golf Resort, Spa and Marina in Cambridge, MD, during an informal session at the University recently.

Hyatt Human Resources Director Maryann VaRence spoke about the types of employment available at the resort, then surprised two SU students by presenting them with raffle prizes. Senior conflict analysis and dispute resolution major Michael Lowe and junior physics major Brent Hart each won a two-person stay at the resort, complete with all services associated with a traditional Hyatt stay.

found a ready ally in Gupta, who has led the UMES side of the effort since 1991. Both Gupta and Stribling teach a full load of courses and advise more than 25 students. Gupta supervises graduate students and serves in the faculty governance organizations at UMES and Stribling performs community service with several nonprofit and environmental organizations, supervises undergraduate research, and advises the student Bioenvirons Club. Recognized nationally in 1998 by the Theodore M. Hesburgh Award for collaborative programming between a historically black institution and a predominantly white campus, the UMES-Salisbury dual-degree program has been hailed as an example of the kind of collaboration that can be achieved within the USM family of institutions.

Winner for excellence in public service is Diriker, associate professor of marketing. Diriker has been a tireless contributor to many endeavors that have enriched the Eastern Shore's quality of life. Residents of the Eastern Shore feel an attachment to SU because of Diriker. They may read his weekly newspaper column, may have seen him interviewed on television, or may make use of his annual Regional Economic Forecast. They may own a business that used him as a consultant, belong to the same civic organization, or speak Spanish and appreciate his initiation of Bienvenidos a Delmarva. Diriker's community involvement affects his classroom, becoming a basis for case studies, student projects and further research. Under his guidance, the student chapter of the Perdue School's American Marketing Association won its first national awards. Awareness of the need to apply his extensive knowledge of economic and marketing principles to understand and solve public sector challenges has spurred him to develop online learning modules and to use technology to help diverse communities communicate.

Winner of the award for excellence in teaching is Kimberly Hunter, assistant professor of biological sciences. Hunter is a leader in engaging Salisbury's biology majors as well as students from other disciplines in learning about biology, botany in particular, through undergraduate research. She has mentored more than 140 students in various research projects since she arrived on campus in 1997. Hunter teaches the required complement of three or four courses each semester, advises 30 students, and fulfills expectations for University and community service. What separates top-tier scientists from the rest is their capacity for asking important questions. Hunter helps her students learn how to recognize those important questions and how to ask them. About 20 students are involved in research each semester working on one of five projects, with two to five students on each project. Each project involves field collection of plant samples, modern genetic analysis, intensive literature research, grant writing, lab work, data analysis and project presentation of work. In some cases, a paper may be produced for peer review. All projects focus on population genetics and use similar DNA analysis techniques. Hunter regularly checks each group's progress and demonstrates proper lab techniques to a few students who teach others. Experience in this efficiently run laboratory helps students discover or raise their career goals, learn skills that are immediately useful in industry or graduate school, and contribute their independent effort to a group project.

"Professors Diriker, Hunter and Stribling were nominated by their faculty colleagues at the University, which is in itself a significant honor," said SU Provost David Buchanan. "Their creative and innovative leadership is helping SU fulfill its mission both on campus and in the surrounding region."

Call for Facilitators

The Office of New Student Experience is seeking faculty and full-time exempt staff members as instructors for the ASAP Success Program (Achieving Social, Academic and Personal Success) for the fall semester. All new students with 24 credits or less are required to take this class. The class provides new students with information about resources available to them at Salisbury. Classes are either Monday/Wednesday or Tuesday/Thursday for five weeks beginning on the first day of classes in September. Students are required to attend special presentations with regard to drugs and alcohol and diversity prior to the beginning of classes. All instructors are asked to attend an information training session that will be held the week prior to the beginning of classes. If interested, e-mail Marie Bradford at mbbradford@salisbury.edu for more information.

Non-Perishables Needed

The AmeriCorps program at SU needs nonperishable items for the Maryland Food Bank of Salisbury. Food items requested include canned meat, vegetables, soup and fruits; boxed milk; prepared boxed dinners; boxed baby food and cereals; and plastic jarred food such as peanut butter. Nonfood items needed include personal hygiene items, toilet paper, paper towels, detergent, bath soap, dish liquid, etc. The AmeriCorps members will create a sculpture at the Centre at Salisbury with the donated goods on May 17. After the promotion, the Food Bank will remove the sculptures and give to needy families. If you would like to donate any items please drop them off at the Camden House or contact Jamie Cugler-Dwyer at 410-548-5119 or jccugler-dwyer@salisbury.edu for pick up.

Student Research Conference

For many it represents the culmination of 16 years of formal education. For all, it's a chance to highlight a passion. On Friday, April 25, some 150 students show what they're made of academically at the third annual SU Student Research Conference.

The conference features student presentations, panel discussions and poster sessions that represent the best student work from every school of the University.

This year's conference includes a new award, the Outstanding Research Mentor Award, presented to one of many SU faculty members who inspire and guide student research The award is presented at 6 p.m. in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center.

The conference allows students to share their work with the campus community. This year's submissions' titles include "Who's Behind Perdue Farms, Inc.?" "Virtual Simulation Saves Real Lives" and "The 2003 Session of the Maryland General Assembly: A Student Intern's Perspective."

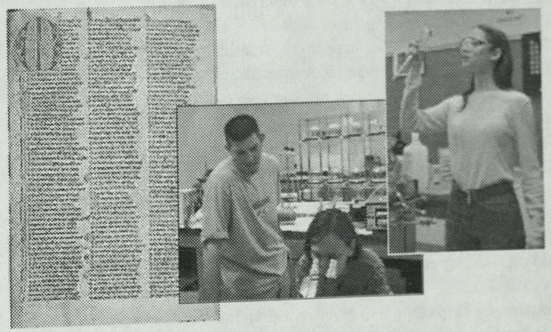
Conference sessions are designated at specific times beginning at 1 p.m. in Henson Science Hall and the Guerrieri University Center. A program of the sessions and poster titles will be published on the Internet at www.salisbury.edu/academic/ugresearch/program-2003.htm. The campus community, parents of students and the general public are invited to attend.

"Undergraduate research is becoming an increasingly expected norm by graduate and professional schools," said Dr. Richard England, assistant director of the Bellavance Honors Program. "Students also hone the critical thinking, writing and presentation skills that they have been developing all their lives."

"This research—whether it takes the form of a scientific investigation, an exploration of a problem in a humanities or professional field, or a creative performance or portfolio—provides an unparalleled capstone experience," England said.

The 2003 edition of Kaplan's Unofficial, Biased Insider's Guide to the 320 Most Interesting Colleges lists undergraduate research as one of SU's strongest assets.

For more information call 410-543-6030 or visit the SUSRC Web site, linked to the SU homepage, www.salisbury.edu.



Student Theatre Production: Little by Little

The University theatre club, Sophanes, presents the Maryland premiere of Little by Little at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 24, in the Fulton Hall Theatre.

Additional performances will be held 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, April 25-26, and Thursday-Saturday, May 1-3, with matinees Sunday April 27 and May 4. Admission is $8 for the general public, $6 for children and seniors. Tickets are available at the Information Desk in the Guerrieri University Center or by calling the Theatre Box Office at 410-543-6228.

Originally produced at the Coconut Grove Playhouse in Miami, FL, the intimate chamber work, with music by Brad Ross and lyrics by Ellen Greenfield and Hal Hackaday, follows three middle school friends who grow up and discover the perfect combination of friendship and love. The York Theatre Company presented the New York City premiere.

Adam Lehman directs the SU production, which features performances by Jocelyn Andersen, Nicki Dziduch and Justin Huebner. Sunny Kim provides piano accompaniment and Megan Centineo stage manages.

Dance Company Spring Concert

SU's Dance Company's annual Spring Concert in celebration of National Dance Week is Thursday-Saturday, April 24-26, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. The program features Flamenco dancer Shahram Tehranian, classical guitarist Michael Perez and five works by faculty, student and guest artist choreographers.

Tickets for the performance are $8 for adults and $6 for senior citizens, teen-agers and alumni. Children under 12 and SU ID holders are admitted free. Tickets are available at the door 30 minutes before curtain. Fund-raising benefits Operation Uplink's efforts to purchase telephone calling cards for overseas troops.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

Visit SU Police on the Web at www.salisbury.edu/police.

Apply Now for Folklife Field School

SU, in conjunction with the Library of Congress American Folklife Center, sponsors the 2003 Folklife Field School at SU and in Crisfield, MD, Friday, June 13-Thursday, July 3. This nationally recognized program is an intensive three-week course in professional development for cultural preservation and presentation through interviewing, photography and other techniques. A team of seasoned cultural specialists provides instruction through lectures, demonstrations, discussion and hands-on practice in University classrooms and at the Crisfield field site.

This year's field school theme is particularly appropriate to the Eastern Shore: The Passing of Tradition and the Passing of Time: Exploring a Maritime Community's Response to Cultural, Economic and Environmental Change. Materials produced through the class will be eligible for display at the Smithsonian Institution Center for Folklife and Cultural Heritage's 2004 Smithsonian Folklife Festival on the Mall in Washington, D.C.

The school is designed for adults who have a strong professional, academic, personal or artistic interest in cultural documentation, but little or no training or experience in techniques. Organizers will choose 15 applicants for the school, with preference given to residents of the Middle Atlantic area, including Maryland, the Delmarva Peninsula and the Chesapeake Bay region. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply. Academic credit is available. Participants must be age 18 or older. Cost for the class is $750, covering instruction, living costs, equipment use, travel to and from the field site and course materials. Application deadline is Friday, April 25. For application information, call Dr. Polly Stewart at 410-548-4241 or write pxstewart@salisbury.edu.

Concert for Peace

Poet Trethewey Reading

Cave Canem Poetry prizewinner Natasha Trethewey reads from her work Tuesday, April 29, at 8 p.m. in the Montgomery Room of the Commons.

Trethewey is the winner of the inaugural Cave Canem Poetry Prize for the best first book, chosen by Rita Dove, by an African-American poet for Domestic Work (Graywolf, 2000). She has also published Bellocq's Ophelia (Graywolf, 2002), a sequence based on photographs of mixed-race prostitutes in New Orleans circa 1912.

Natasha Trethewey

Co-sponsored by the Department of English and Office of Multiethnic Student Services, the reading is free and the public is cordially invited. The event is part of the Writers-on-the-Shore series.

For more information call Dr. Michael Waters at 410-543-6540.

Gourdmaking Workshop

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture at SU presents a Native American cultural workshop Monday, April 28.

The topic for the workshop is gourdmaking. Chief Dawn Manyfeathers, of Eden, MD, demonstrates the Native American art of curing, dressing and decorating gourds. She is director of the Lenapehauken Educational and Research Center, a nonprofit organization dedicated to public education about the Eastern Woodland Indians.

Gourds served a practical function as bowls and storage vessels in Native American cultures. They are durable and prized through the centuries.

Workshops are from 1-3:30 p.m. or 5-7:30 p.m. The cost is $25.

Class sizes are limited and reservations are required. There is a $5 per program discount for SU students and Nabb Research Center members. Call 410-543-6312 for more information or visit the Nabb Center Web site at http://nabbhistory.salisbury.edu.

'Buy, Buy Louisiana" Lecture

SU presents "Buy, Buy Louisiana, Hello World: Considering the Extraordinary Impact of the Louisiana Purchase on the Occasion of its 200th Anniversary," a lecture by Dr. Timothy O'Rourke, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 29, in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

Exactly 200 years ago this month, the United States, at President Thomas Jefferson's direction, bought the Louisiana Territory from France for $15 million. "The deal doubled the size of the United States, gave birth to the mythology of the American West and marked off the battleground for the politics of slavery and cultural conflict in the 19th century," said O'Rourke.

The purchase also led to the establishment of 13 states, created the possibility of a continental nation and transformed the stature of the United States on the world stage.

"It is no exaggeration to say that the Louisiana Purchase affects events even to the present day," said O'Rourke.

The dean of the Fulton School, O'Rourke was executive director of the National Louisiana Purchase Bicentennial Committee and was executive director of the Virginia Commission on the Bicentennial of the Constitution from 1985 to 1992.

Chorale/Choir Spring Concert

The SU Chorale and Chamber Choir presents its spring concert, "Testaments to Freedom," 4 p.m. Sunday, April 27, at Asbury United Methodist Church.

The theme of this year's concert is freedom, with the centerpiece belonging to Randall Thompson's "Testament of Freedom," whose texts are written by Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson's words are drawn from writings that made the case for Americans to pursue war, first in preparation for the Revolutionary War, then in a reflective letter to John Adams written in 1821.

The texts are particularly timely given the current action in Iraq and the government's efforts to persuade the American people to support the cause, Dr. Patrick Freer, director of choral activities, said.

In addition to the Jefferson texts, selections examine the reactions of those left behind when war claims the lives of soldiers. Other concert pieces explore the meaning of physical, emotional and religious freedom. The concert repertoire includes folk songs, spirituals and gospel selections, concluding with two patriotic anthems: "God Bless America" and "America."

For more information call Patrick Freer at 410-543-6386.

Service Opportunities With AmeriCorps

AmeriCorps is a national service initiative that offers citizens an opportunity to address community needs in the areas of health, education, public safety and the environment. ShoreCorps/PALS is seeking individuals of all abilities, including those with physical or cognitive disabilities, to join the national service movement. Members serve at-risk youth as tutors, mentors and program aides for one year. In return, they earn a living stipend, an education award, and six tuition-free college credits.

If you would like to learn more about service opportunities with AmeriCorps, please join ShoreCorps/PALS at an open house. The open houses will be held in the Camden House (located at 1212 Camden Avenue) for those aged 20 and up who want to give something back to others. Several dates and times are available: Tuesday, April 29, noon-2 p.m.; Wednesday, May 14, 2:30-4:30 p.m.; Wednesday, May 21, 2:30-4:30 p.m.; and Thursday, May 29, noon-2 p.m. Refreshments will be provided.

To register for an open house, or for more information, please contact the ShoreCorps/PALS Office at 410-548-5119 or e-mail nrhatch@salisbury.edu.

The program is funded by Access AmeriCorps—a federal initiative to recruit, retain, support and accommodate qualified persons with disabilities in national service programs.

Harp Recital

Washington, D.C., harpist Melissa Tardiff performs at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 4, in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall. Flutist Sharon Woster Pabon and pianist Kimberly Weber accompany Tardiff. The concert is free and the public is cordially invited. For more information call 410-543-6271 or visit the University's Web site at www.salisbury.edu.

PACE Internship Opportunity

The Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement (PACE) announces a call for applications for its third annual Thomas E. Bellavance Internship. Established through the generosity of the Bellavance family, this internship offers an opportunity for a student to work with national and state legislators through the Paul S. Sarbanes Lecture Series and the John Hargreaves Distinguished Legislator Program. In addition, the student will have an opportunity to work with PACE on public policy issues and other activities depending on the student's interest.

The award carries with it a $2,500 stipend. Applicants should preferably be of junior or senior status, should be able to demonstrate a record of scholastic achievement, and, finally, have an interest in and commitment to civic engagement. PACE encourages interested students to apply for this unique opportunity and ask faculty to encourage students who might be interested to apply.

The internship dates are September 2003 through May 2004. Completed applications are due in the PACE office on or before Monday, April 28. For more information, or if you would like to nominate a student for this internship, please contact PACE at 410-677-5045 or pace@salisbury.edu.

Nursing Scholarship Winners

The Department of Nursing announces the winners of the various nursing scholarships for the 2003-2004 academic year.

They are: Avery W. Hall—Melissa Mansfield; Virginia Mills Edwards—Jenna Sterling and Angela Kukta; Garland D. & Vivian J. Bull—Rebecca Skorobatsch; Seidel Nursing Scholarship—Kimberly Orwig and Erin Brinkley; and the Sigma Theta Tau International Nursing Honor Society Scholarship—Cheyenne Richmond (undergraduate) and Elena DuJordan (graduate).

In addition to the above scholarships, three other awards were announced. They are: Erin Brinkley winner of the Diana Marie Clayton Award; Nicole Culton, who will receive the Fondes Outstanding Graduating Senior Award; and Courtney Norman, who is the winner of the Undergraduate Nursing Achievement Award.

The majority of these scholarships and awards are recognized at the Spring Honors Convocation. Congratulations to all these students on their academic achievements.

Any questions regarding these scholarships or awards may be directed to Dr. Mary DiBartolo, scholarship coordinator, Department of Nursing at 410-543-6403.

Attention Graduating Perkins Loan Borrowers

May 22 graduating Federal Perkins Student Loan borrowers are required by federal regulations to attend a mandatory exit interview for their Federal Perkins Student Loan. Those who choose not to attend will have their diploma and academic records held.

Perkins Loan borrowers who are anticipating graduating on May 22 need to contact the Perkins Loan Office at 410-546-6201 or on-campus ext. 6-6201 or stop by Holloway Hall Room 217 to schedule an appointment. The sessions are Thursday, May 1, in the Montgomery Room of the Commons at 8-9 a.m. and 2-3 p.m.

There will be no make-up sessions; you must make arrangements to attend one of these two scheduled meetings. Each session will last approximately one hour and you will be provided with pertinent information pertaining to the repayment of your Federal Perkins Loan. This will also be your opportunity to ask questions you may have regarding your Federal Perkins Loan.

Remember, this interview must be completed before you graduate or a hold flag will be placed on your account and your diploma and/or academic records will be withheld.

This Federal Perkins Loan exit interview is in no way associated with the separate exit process you may need to attend for your Direct/Stafford Student Loan.

Tylenol Scholarship

The makers of the Tylenol family of products will award $250,000 in higher education scholarships to students who demonstrate leadership in community and school activities and who intend to major in areas that will lead to health-related fields. Ten scholarships of $10,000 each and 150 scholarships of $1,000 each will be made.

Those planning to attend an undergraduate or graduate course of study this fall at an accredited two- or four-year college, university or vocational-technical school are eligible to apply. This includes students currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate course of study and have one or more years of school remaining. Applications are available at http://tylenolscholarship.com/. Application deadline is Wednesday, April 30.

CAC Tournament Week Arrives For Spring Sports Teams

Championship Week has arrived for all of the spring sports teams as they battle for Capital Athletic Conference titles this week. Four Sea Gull squads—baseball, softball, men's lacrosse and women's lacrosse—secured No. 1 seeds for their respective CAC Tournaments by virtue of finishing first in the regular season. Those teams will maintain home field advantage throughout the playoffs.

Four other teams, the men's and women's track teams and men's and women's tennis teams, travel to Fredericksburg, VA, with Mary Washington serving as pre-determined host of those championships.

The baseball team (22-8-1 overall) hosts No. 6 seed Gallaudet in its first round game. The Gulls then play either Catholic or York in the second round on Thursday. The baseball tournament continues through Sunday, April 27, with all weekend games also hosted by the Sea Gulls, who are trying to capture their fourth straight CAC title.

The softball team (28-3-1) hosts the four-team double-elimination finals on Saturday and Sunday as the Gulls chase their seventh CAC crown. Salisbury begins play against either No. 4 Catholic or No. 5 Gallaudet on Saturday.

The men's lacrosse team (12-1 overall) earned a first round bye and hosts either No. 4 Goucher or No. 5 Marymount in Thursday's semifinal round game. A victory moves SU into Sunday's championship contest. The CAC Tournament winner receives an automatic berth for next month's NCAA Championship Tournament.

The women's lacrosse team (10-1) also earned a first round bye and hosts either No. 4 Marymount or No. 5 Goucher in Friday's semifinal round game. Like the men, a victory moves SU into Sunday's championship game, also to be played at home. The Gulls bring an eight-game winning streak into this week's CAC Tournament.

The baseball, softball and women's lacrosse teams are all ranked in the national polls and all hope to receive at-large bids for their respective NCAA Championship Tournaments. Unlike men's lacrosse, the conference champion does not receive automatic bids in those sports.

SU Cup Classic

The inaugural SU Cup Classic is Sunday, April 27, 9 a.m.-10 p.m. on the intramural fields (Wayne Street).

Proceeds benefit the Wicomico Mentoring Project and the Maryland Food Bank.

Admission is an optional donation of a canned food item.

Forty teams of SU students compete in a round-robin, co-ed soccer tournament for championship jerseys, a team trophy and a spot on the SU Cup Classic plaque to be displayed in Maggs Gym.

On the sidelines from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., 40 SU clubs as well as campus and local organizations plan a community fun fest to include food, carnival games and family-oriented activities.

For more information call Rusty Brown at 443-783-4585 or e-mail hrb0207@salisbury.edu.

Intramural Golf Tournament

The Intramural Office will hold its annual spring golf tournament on Friday, May 2, at 1 p.m. (shotgun start), at Wood Creek Golf Course in Delmar. The format will be an 18-hole, two-person team scramble. The entry deadline is Thursday, May 1, at noon. Entry forms are available at the Campus Recreation Office in Maggs Gym. The cost is $9 per person and should be paid when your entry form is submitted. If you have any questions contact Wayne Gorrow at wdgorrow@salisbury.edu or call 410-548-3266

Teackle Lecture

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture presents a free lecture, "The Teackles in Flesh and Bone," in celebration of Preservation Month.

Decorative arts dealer and Somerset County Historical Society member William Germain of Princess Anne discusses his recent work documenting the life of Littleton Dennis Teackle, Saturday, May 3, at 1 p.m.

Teackle was a prominent 19th century Somerset County resident. He led a fascinating life establishing connections with many important figures of his day including President James Madison.

The lecture will take place at the Nabb Research Center. Call 410-543-6312.

Spring Philosophy Symposium

Two of America's liveliest writers and thinkers lead SU's Spring Philosophy Symposium titled "What is a Good Citizen?" on Saturday, May 3, from 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m.

Harvard University's Elaine Scarry argues for a paradigm shift in the way we think about citizenship after September 11. Author of On Beauty and Being Just, Scarry will be engaged in dialogue by Dana Villa from the University of California, Santa Barbara. Scarry caused a stir with an online article she wrote for the Boston Review in which she argued that despite an increasingly "authoritarian" national defense since World War II, it has proven ineffective particularly on September 11, 2001. Ironically, the actions of passengers in Flight 93 that day might hold clues to a new defense strategy.

The morning session is in Caruthers Hall Auditorium, and the afternoon session is in Henson Science Hall Room 243. The afternoon session is devoted to open discussion.

A continental breakfast is available at 9 a.m., and lunch is available in the Commons. A reception with the participants follows immediately after the program in the Philosophy House. The public is cordially invited to attend this free program.

Reservations are not required, but those attending are asked to call 410-677-5070 or e-mail fikane@salisbury.edu.

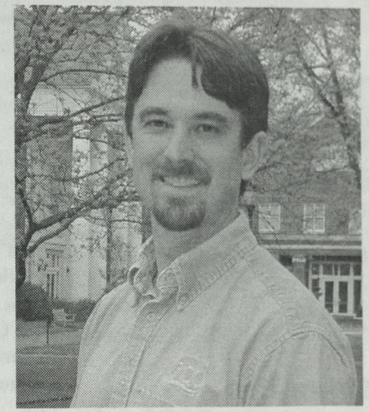
Honors Convocation 2003: Zoo Director Shares His Gifts

SU alumnus James L. Rapp, a cum laude graduate of the Class of 1991, returns to campus Friday, May 2, to give the featured address for the University's spring Honors Convocation. Ceremonies begin at 3:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. His speech is titled "When Returning Gifts Is the Right Thing To Do."



SU alumnus and zoo director, James L. Rapp

In 1992 Rapp started working as a groundskeeper at Salisbury Zoological Park. Two years later, at age 25, he was elevated to director, becoming one of the youngest, if not the youngest, zoo directors in the country.

Most often seen around town with a bird, snake or some other animal wrapped around his arm, he has brought a tireless enthusiasm and ready smile to what he admits is "a calling"—the preservation of wildlife. "By making learning entertaining," he said, "I hope to generate an enthusiasm for animals. It's a good way to make sure they continue."

If he had not become a zoo director, Rapp said he probably would have become a teacher. His own experience has made him a convincing advocate for volunteerism, internships and international education. As a high school senior, he remembers having a heart-to-heart talk with his guidance counselor, having no idea what he wanted to do. "I like animals," he finally blurted out and was immediately pointed toward veterinary medicine. But working with sick cats and dogs wasn't really a fit.

He would soon find his path. His freshman year at SU he did some volunteering at the Salisbury Zoo and attended a zoo conference in town. There, a speaker from the recently established park in the capital of Belize spoke passionately about what is called "The Best Little Zoo in the World." Rapp was smitten and asked if he could volunteer at the Belize City Zoo. The first semester of his sophomore year was spent in Central America working at a park which originally had started as a last ditch effort to provide a home for wild animals used in the making of documentary films about tropical forests.

Rapp returned to Salisbury enraptured. "I had never thought about working in a zoo," he said. Now he could think of nothing else. Some 15 years later, he feels the same way. "I love the Salisbury Zoo," he said. "I have no desire to leave. But if I had to,

BEACON March of Dimes Grant

The Perdue School's Business, Economic, and Community Outreach Network (BEACON) recently received a $20,000 grant from the March of Dimes to support its Bienvenidos à Delmarva (Welcome to Delmarva) initiative. Through the Bienvenidos project, BEACON is helping the University respond to the significant increase in the Eastern Shore's Hispanic population by creating a network of service providers who work together on the common issues and challenges involved in serving immigrants in this region.

BEACON's new March of Dimes project, De La Madre Al Bebe (From Mother to Infant) will help to improve access to and quality of health care for women and infants in the Hispanic immigrant communities located on the Lower Eastern Shore of Maryland. The focus is on strengthening regional providers' "cultural competency," i.e., their ability to understand and respond effectively to a culturally diverse population. "This grant will allow Bienvenidos to take the next step in providing training and technical assistance to providers and organizations in improving their cultural competency," said director of BEACON, Memo Diriker.

For additional information about future workshops, Bienvenidos à Delmarva, or BEACON, call 410-546-6001, e-mail beacon@salisbury.edu or visit BEACON's Web site at http://beacon.salisbury.edu.

Personal Safety Tips

These tips, compiled by the University Police, apply wherever one resides.

- You are your own best protection.
- Keep your door locked at all times. Don't unlock the door for strangers. Keep first floor windows locked.
- Walk in well-lit areas and stay near the curb, away from alleys, entry ways and bushes where someone could be hiding.
- Do not walk or jog alone after dark.
- Avoid short cuts. Walk where there are other people present.
- Do not hitchhike or accept rides from strangers. If a driver asks you for directions, stay far enough away so that you cannot be pulled into the car. Do not pick up strangers.
- If you are being followed when walking, change directions, vary speed. Go to a well-lit place where there are other people. If followed by someone in a car, turn and walk in the other direction. Record the license number.
- Park your car in a well-lit area and lock the doors.
- If you need an escort to or from your car, call the University Police, 410-543-6222.
- Report any suspicious activity or crimes to the University Police, located in the University Police Building, 410-543-6222.

SU Receives Sixth PLANT Award

The Maryland Community Forest Council and Forest Service honored SU with the University's sixth People Loving and Nurturing Trees (PLANT) Award during an Earth Day ceremony at Salisbury Zoological Park.

Interim Director of Horticulture/Grounds Rebecca Rosing-Johnson accepted the award on behalf of SU. The University received a green award, the highest presented through the program. Green awards recognize well-established, funded and staffed tree- and plant-related programs.

The award lauded SU for its tree planting and classification system. The campus is classified as an arboretum.

Schools, homeowners associations and other nonprofit organizations are eligible for the awards. Other Eastern Shore organizations receiving PLANT Awards this year included the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Atkins Arboretum and James M. Bennett High School.

Established in 1991, the PLANT Award honors organizations that go beyond normal measures to help ensure tree planting and care in Maryland. SU has received a PLANT Award each year since 1998.

Bernstein Award Finals, May 3

The public is invited to the culmination of this year's Bernstein Award Competition, which awards a prize of $5,000 for the best business plan created by SU students. The competition, which has run since 1987, has become one of the University's proud traditions. This year's finalists were selected from 26 business plans, representing a variety of industries, submitted by students from the University's various schools.

Presentations by the four finalist teams will run from 2-5:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall Room 114 on Saturday, May 3. Judges from the local business community will select the winners, who will be announced at an awards dinner that evening.

Presenters will be: 2-2:40 p.m., Cosmic Cleaners (Timothy O. Wheeler); 2:50-3:30 p.m., Flooring Dimensions (Charles A. Kramms Jr.); 3:50-4:30 p.m., SeaScape Sailing School (Denise Baird and Janel Kenner); and 4:40-5:20 p.m., Stripe Tech (Janet Lynne Wilson).

For more information on this event, please contact Michele Nelson at the Perdue School of Business at 410-548-4504 or menelson@salisbury.edu.

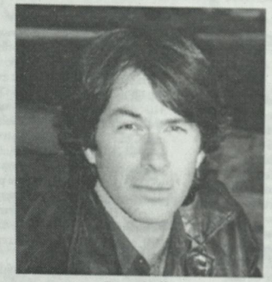
Spring Philosophy Symposium

Elaine Scarry



Dana Villa

Two of America's liveliest writers and thinkers lead SU's Spring Philosophy Symposium titled "What is a Good Citizen?" Saturday, May 3, from 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m.

Harvard University's Elaine Scarry argues for a paradigm shift in the way we think about citizenship after September 11. Author of On Beauty and Being Just, Scarry will be engaged in dialogue by Dana Villa from the University of California, Santa Barbara. Ironically, the actions of passengers in Flight 93 that day might hold clues to a new defense strategy.

Scarry is the Walter M. Cabot professor of Aesthetic and the General Theory of Value at Harvard. An English professor, her writings lean toward the philosophical. She argues in her 1999 book that the experience of beauty awakens in us an appreciation of and passion for justice. In 2000 she shared the Truman Capote Award for Literary Criticism with fellow Harvard professor Philip Fisher.

Dana Villa is an associate professor of political theory. In his book Socratic Citizenship he argues more value should be placed on conscientious citizenship with emphasis on the value of independent thought and action in public life. He is one of the foremost authorities on 20th century political thinker Hannah Arendt, whose theories—particularly those concerning the banality of evil—Villa said are often misunderstood.

The morning session is in Caruthers Hall Auditorium, and the afternoon session is in Henson Science Hall Room 243. The afternoon session is devoted to open discussion.

A continental breakfast is available at 9 a.m., and lunch is available in the Commons. A reception with the participants follows immediately after the program in the Philosophy House. The public is cordially invited to attend this free program.

I'd go somewhere else—to another zoo. It's something that I have to do.

"I tell students find something meaningful to you. I have friends who went for the (big) paycheck. They find it a lot harder getting up in the morning. It's harder when it's only money. I still tell myself, 'I get paid for this!'"

Last fall he married another SU alum, Cheryl Williams of the Class of 2001, a social worker. He said his wife feels the same about her career: "She loves helping people. At night I'll be working in my office and she'll be there typing on papers" for her graduate school classes—united by the same passion in their separate callings.

And, they share other things: two dogs, two cats and (temporarily) two rattle snakes they care for a friend.

It must be a calling.

MAY 2003 COMMENCEMENT INFORMATION

(Please read carefully!)

A. GENERAL INFORMATION AND DIRECTIONS FOR ALL GRADUATES

1. Students/Guests with Physical Disabilities: Students with physical disabilities who will need assistance should contact the Office of the Vice President of Student Affairs at 410-543-6080 by May 3. For guests with physical disabilities please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 to reserve physically disabled seating. A reserved section is provided on the main floor of the arena. Space is limited, therefore, only one guest may be seated with each physically disabled person. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

2. Hearing Impaired Guests: Signers are present for the entire graduation ceremony. Please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 for information about seating. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

3. The First Aid Staff of the Civic Center will be on duty in the office on the right side of the foyer entrance just outside the main arena.

4. Caps, gowns, master's hoods, tickets and announcements (quantities are limited) will be distributed at the Graduation Center in the SU Bookstore through May 21 at noon. Graduation items may be retained by the graduates and need not be returned following the ceremony. Problems with caps and gowns can be corrected at the SU Bookstore (normal hours) OR prior to the ceremony by SU Bookstore employees at the Civic Center, in Flanders Room No. 1, near the snack bar to the left of the arena entrances. Bookstore hours Monday through Thursday are 9 a.m.-6 p.m., and on Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

• GRADUATES MUST PICK UP THE NECESSARY ITEMS BEFORE NOON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 21.

• TICKETS FOR GRADUATION ARE DISTRIBUTED BY THE SU BOOKSTORE. EACH STUDENT WILL RECEIVE 10 GUEST TICKETS AND MAY REQUEST ONE TICKET (WHILE SUPPLY LASTS) TO ADMIT A FRIEND WHO IS GRADUATING IN THE ALTERNATE CEREMONY.

• GUESTS ARE REQUIRED TO BE SEATED FIFTEEN MINUTES PRIOR TO THE BEGINNING OF THE CEREMONY.

Students should NOT bring personal property, such as coats, cameras, purses, backpacks, etc. to graduation. If necessary, the above items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1. This room will be locked during the graduation ceremony. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over. Students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends.

You will not be allowed to carry personal items during the ceremony.

5. Students will first be awarded degrees by school (e.g., School of Liberal Arts), and will be asked by President Dudley-Eshbach to stand and remain standing until all degrees have been awarded for that school. President Dudley-Eshbach will then signal undergraduates to move the tassel from the right side to the left side of the mortarboard, and then to be seated.

6. Then students individually will be awarded their diplomas. The faculty marshals will have given each graduate a card containing his/her name and school, (e.g. Perdue School of Business). The card is to be handed to the person at the podium when the graduate reaches the stage and, at the same time, the graduate is to announce his/her name to the person at the podium, who will then know who the person is and how to pronounce the name correctly.

THE NAME ON THE CARD MUST NOT BE CHANGED FOR ANY REASON.

7. Students are expected to return to their seats and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony.

8. DURING THE RECESSIONAL, GRADUATES AND FACULTY ARE TO RETURN TO THE AREA WHERE THEY ASSEMBLED PRIOR TO THE CEREMONY. They should not stop or congregate in the lobby.

9. A brief reception for graduates and their guests will be held immediately following Commencement on University Hill near the Pergola (rain location will be in the Fireside Lounge and the Wicomico Room in the Guerrieri University Center) on campus. The reception is sponsored by the Salisbury University Alumni Association, and at the conclusion of the ceremony, you will be official alumni of Salisbury University.

10. Degree candidates who do not plan to participate in the commencement exercises MUST NOTIFY THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE by calling 410-543-6150 no later than Thursday, May 15. All graduates will receive a blank folder at commencement, and all diplomas will be mailed approximately six weeks after the ceremony. It should be noted that the recognition of graduates and those who will achieve Honors is tentative pending certification of all graduation requirements.

11. The Department of Nursing will hold its Nursing Convocation in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall, on May 21 at 5 p.m. A reception will follow the ceremony.

12. Faculty and staff should enter through the Midway Room entrance and line up for the processional at 9:15 a.m. for the Perdue/Seidel morning ceremony and at 1:15 p.m. for the Fulton/Henson afternoon ceremony in the Danang Room of the Civic Center. Faculty members are required to attend; those who are unable to do so should inform their respective school dean.

13. Dress Code: Graduation is a formal academic occasion and should be viewed as such in dress and demeanor. The academic robe is black with a V neckline and will show part of your clothing underneath. The recommended dress therefore is similar to what you would wear to a formal interview. Thus you should be mindful of the following considerations:

• Dress clothing, preferably black or navy.

• Black dress shoes (or some other dark color).

• The gown should be mid-calf. If a dress is worn, the gown should cover the length of the dress.

• No visible jewelry: Fraternity or sorority pins/ribbons may be worn; these are academic emblems and are not considered jewelry as such. Kente cloths are permissible as well.

• No flowers on the academic robe, and no flowers are to be carried.

• The mortarboard (academic hat) is to be worn with the front point over the forehead below the front hairline, so the flat board is parallel to the floor. (Not worn on the back of the head with the board pointing upward.) NO DECORATION OF ANY KIND IS TO BE PLACED ON THE MORTARBOARD.

• Honors students will have a gold and white hood. It is to be worn with the gold side out and the white inner lining turned out at the top, over the gold (like a collar). Gold cords should be worn under the honors hood.

• Candidates for the bachelor's degree should come into the auditorium with the tassel on the right, hanging near the right eye. After the degrees are conferred, the tassel is shifted to the left side. The signal for shifting the tassel will be given by the president (and/or your faculty marshal).

• Candidates for the master's degree will wear both the robe and hood. Faculty marshals will give you more specific information.

• Graduates will receive graduation picture information from Chappell Studio, Inc. This information will arrive at your permanent address in the near future.

• Candidates should not chew gum or tobacco.

• Candidates should NOT have personal belongings in their possession during the commencement ceremony. If necessary, personal items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1 during the graduation ceremony, when the room will be locked. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over and students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends.

14. Graduation Decorum: Graduation ceremonies are, by their very nature, festive occasions. The festivity manifests itself in many ways including the dress of the students and faculty adorned in academic regalia and the warmth, joy and satisfaction of accomplishment. The ceremonies are also marked by seriousness where the actual conferring of degrees signifies long hard work on the part of everyone involved: students, faculty, administrators, parents and spouses. As a consequence of the serious nature of the ceremony, students are expected to maintain a measure of decorum consonant with the occasion. Applause and other recognition of the conferring of degrees should be limited to a joint effort at the conclusion of each graduation group, (e.g., B.S., B.A., etc.). Students are expected to return to their seats after receiving their diploma, and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony. Family and guests are asked to remain seated for the entire ceremony, refraining from leaving their seats in order to take pictures or to talk to graduates.

15. BE SURE TO READ IMPORTANT INFORMATION ON THE LAYOUT (AVAILABLE ON THE SU WEB SITE AT WWW.SALISBURY.EDU/COMMENCEMENT) THAT PERTAINS TO YOUR GRADUATION CEREMONY.

Gulls Claim Four CAC Spring Championships

Salisbury capped the Capital Athletic Conference season by claiming four of the CAC's eight spring championships and placing second in the four others.

The Sea Gulls claimed conference titles in men's lacrosse (ninth straight year), women's lacrosse (third time in four years), softball (seventh straight year) and women's tennis (second straight year).

Conference runnerup finishes were in baseball, men's tennis, and both men's and women's track & field.

The men's lacrosse team, ranked second in the nation, dominated Mary Washington 26-1 in the CAC final. SU improves to 14-1 overall and closes the regular season at Washington College on Saturday (1:30 pm).

The women's lacrosse team edged Mary Washington 7-6 in their championship game to improve to 12-1 overall and also tie the school-record with their 10th straight victory. SU visits Rowan in its regular season finale on Friday.

The softball team posted a pair of shutouts in Sunday's championship round, blanking Mary Washington 6-0 and York 13-0. SU, ranked seventh in the nation, improved its overall record to 35-3-1 on the year.

The women's tennis team won three of six singles titles and all three doubles crowns to claim its second consecutive CAC championship.

Despite winning four titles, the only SU team to earn an automatic bid for next month's NCAA Championship Tournament is men's lacrosse. Likely at-large recipients for NCAA bids are women's lacrosse, softball and women's tennis.

The baseball team, 26-10-1 overall, still has eight games remaining on its regular season schedule. A strong finish by the Gulls could also garner an at-large NCAA invitation.

Cinco de Mayo Celebration

Mexican music, cuisine and dancing lessons highlight SU's Cinco de Mayo celebration 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday, May 5, outdoors between Henson Science Hall and Devilbiss Hall.

Cinco de Mayo commemorates May 5, 1862, the day a 4,500-member Mexican militia defeated the French Army in Puebla, Mexico, to halt France's takeover of the Mexican Empire.

SU's Organization of Latin American Students teaches salsa dancing during this year's Cinco de Mayo celebration, and the band Fugas plays Mexican music including salsa, meringue, cumbia, rancheras, Mexican country and Spanish rock.

Mexican foods available include nachos, beef tacos and quesadillas, as well as vegetarian items. The event features games and a mystery prize.

The SU Spanish Club sponsors the celebration. For more information call 410-543-6030.

Conflict Resolution Workshops

The SU Center for Conflict Resolution and Center for Professional Development present a series of professional workshops focusing on negotiation and resolution starting Thursday, May 8.

The initial topic is "Conflict Resolution" followed by "An Introduction to Alternative Dispute Resolution Practices" on Wednesday, July 16; "The Dance: The Art of Negotiation" Friday, September 19; and "Advanced Negotiation" Friday, December 5. The workshops are designed for the continuing education of business owners, human resources professionals, doctors, legal professionals, law enforcement professionals, community leaders, educators and school administrators.

Vanessa White presents the May 8 and July 16 sessions. With extensive experience in developing and delivering conflict programs, White has developed community alternative dispute resolution programs. She also developed the Community Mediation Initiative of the Lower Eastern Shore.

Dr. Brian Polkinghorn and Dr. E. Patrick McDermott present the September 19 and December 5 sessions. Polkinghorn is an associate professor of conflict resolution and executive director of the Center for Conflict Resolution. McDermott is an assistant professor in the Department of Management and Accounting and Legal Studies. He has extensive experience in corporate labor relations and has served as labor relations counsel at ABC Inc. and the Walt Disney Co.

Workshops are in the Worcester Room of the Commons from 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Continental breakfasts and mid-day refreshments are included. Program fees are $90 for each of the first three workshops. Program fee for the final workshop is $125 and attendance to the prior workshop, "The Dance: The Art of Negotiation," is required.

For more information call Kathryn Redden at 410-543-6394 or Carol Brady at 410-548-4481, e-mail keredden@salisbury.edu or cmbrady@salisbury.edu.

Virginia Commuters Grant

Applications are now available for the Virginia Commuters Grant providing assistance to residents of Northampton and Accomack counties who elect to complete their junior and senior years of college study as commuting students at Salisbury University or the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. The Eastern Shore Tuition Assistance Program (ESTAP) awards are intended to help defray the differential costs between in-state and out-of-state tuition.

A student wishing to participate in the ESTAP must be a domiciliary resident of Virginia's Northampton or Accomack counties for at least one year prior to enrollment; be a U.S. citizen or eligible noncitizen; plan to enroll at least half-time as a commuting student in a degree-seeking program as a junior or senior at UMES or Salisbury University; be in good academic standing with the institution they plan to attend; not hold any baccalaureate or higher degree; and complete and submit an application by July 31.

The ESTAP application is available in the Financial Aid Office, Holloway Hall Room 213.

Access 26 Community Calendar

If your non-profit organization is seeking another source to get its message out to the general public, please remember to utilize the Access 26 Community Calendar. Go to the Access 26 Web site, www.access26.org, and click on Community Calendar. There you can fill out the who, what, when, where and contact information and send it along to Access. Events are usually posted within two days of receipt. Organizers request that you give two to three weeks advance notice. For more information please contact Mike Goodson at 410-677-5041 or Creig Twilley at 410-546-3670.

PACE Proposal Deadline Extended

The deadline for proposals to develop and teach a Civic Engagement Seminar with PACE (Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement) has been extended to May 30. PACE is offering a stipend of $500 in the fall semester for a faculty member (from any department) to develop a spring semester course on a governmental or non-profit local, county or regional issue that has ramifications for public policy. An additional $2,500 will be available in the spring for reassigned time or stipend purposes. PACE would like the seminar to give students an opportunity to do research (in the broadest sense of that word) in the community on a practical problem that has policy ramifications.

Those applying should submit a two-page proposal that: identifies the topic and potential student population; describes the proposed methodology (as you initially conceive it); describes what the product outcome might be; explains how the course would be taught (as new or as an already existing course); contains a statement of support from your department chairperson. If you have any questions or would like more information, call 410-677-5045.

UDS Summer Jobs

Summer jobs are available with University Catering and Dining Services. Catering and UDS are looking for friendly and ambitious students (ages 16 and up) to be part of its team—no experience required. Be part of the best parties in town, help serve summer conference groups, work with people your own age and have fun doing it. Staff and faculty, please encourage your children and friends to apply. Applications are available online at www.salisbury.edu/dining/StudEmployApp.pdf or from the Commons cashier.

Pay starts at $5.50 per hour. Call Doug Jones (catering) at 548-5750 or Michael Elliot (UDS) at 543-6108 with questions.

Teackle Lecture

The Nabb Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture presents a free lecture, "The Teackles in Flesh and Bone," in celebration of Preservation Month.

Decorative arts dealer and Somerset County Historical Society member William Germain of Princess Anne discusses his recent work documenting the life of Littleton Dennis Teackle, Saturday, May 3, at 1 p.m.

Teackle was a prominent 19th century Somerset County resident. He led a fascinating life establishing connections with many important figures of his day including President James Madison.

The lecture will take place at the Nabb Research Center. Call 410-543-6312

Eberts Earns Management Certificate

Jacqueline Eberts, director of fiscal grants management in the Office of Financial Services, recently completed and was awarded a Grants Management Certificate Program plaque.

During the past 10 months, she completed 120 hours of intense classroom training sponsored by Management Concepts, Inc., based in Vienna, VA, for the Grant Recipient Track segment.

All courses focused on grant knowledge and comprehension, application and analysis while blending informational and competency-based elements.

Spring Dinner Theatre Returns

The Department of Music sponsors the dinner theatre musical revue From Hook-Up to Break-Up: A Look at Relationship Development in Broadway Musicals Friday-Sunday, May 9-11, in the Wicomico Room of the Guerrieri University Center.

A non-dinner performance, which does not require admission, kicks off the show's run at 8 p.m. Friday, May 9. Members of the University community will be seated first at this performance only.

Dinner begins at 6 p.m. Saturday, May 10, with a performance at 8 p.m. Dinner begins at 1 p.m. Sunday, May 11, with a performance at 3 p.m. Tickets are $20 per person and must be purchased in advance.

Directed by Dr. Darrell Mullins, Communication and Theatre Arts Department chair, the production focuses on the ups and downs of building and maintaining romantic relationships. The performances showcase well-known, as well as lesser-known, shows with songs from Guys and Dolls; The Full Monty; Follies; Company; Bye, Bye Birdie; I Love You, You're Perfect, Now Change; Miss Saigon; Personals and others.

The production serves as the final project for the Department of Music's Vocal Chamber Music Ensemble course.

For more information or to order tickets, call 410-543-6238, e-mail dgmullins@salisbury.edu.

Tardiff Returns for Harp Performance

Washington, D.C., harpist Melissa Tardiff performs at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 4, in the Great Hall of Holloway Hall.

An active soloist and chamber music musician, Tardiff performed at the world premiere of the film Gods and Generals and in private concert for the ambassador of Spain. She also has appeared with touring bands for singers Anne Murray and Connie Francis and performs at the U.S. Supreme Court, Kennedy Center and U.S. Naval Academy. She holds a Master of Music in harp performance from the Peabody Conservatory of Music and conducts a harp ensemble in Salisbury.

Flutist Sharon Woster Pabon and pianist Kimberly Weber accompany Tardiff.

Pabon has performed at venues as varied as the Baltimore Museum of Art and Oriole Park at Camden Yards. She maintains a private flute studio in Baltimore and provides lessons for the D.C. Youth Orchestra Program.

Weber, a music and chorus teacher at the Salisbury School, owns and operates the KI MUSIC studio, which offers private piano instruction and voice lessons.

The concert is free and the public is cordially invited. For more information call 410-543-6271.

SSO Spring Concert

The Salisbury Symphony Orchestra at SU presents its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 3, in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Conducted by Dr. Thomas G. Elliot, the concert features a number of musical pieces, including "Meditation" from Thais by Jules Massenet, "Blessed Are They" from A German Requiem by Johannes Brahms and "Victory at Sea" and "Flower Drum Song" by Richard Rogers, arranged for orchestra by Robert Russell Bennett. SU tuba music major Justin Henderson solos in "Concerto for Bass Tuba and Orchestra" by Ralph Vaughan Williams.

The concert also includes Morton Gould's "American Salute"" as a tribute to military personnel returning from overseas.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $10 for seniors over 60 and children 18 and under. Tickets are available at local branches of Peninsula Bank and Bank of Delmarva during normal business hours.

For more information call 410-543-6030.

Wind Ensemble Performs 'Band Classics'

The University Wind Ensemble presents its spring concert, "Band Classics," at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 6, in Holloway Hall Auditorium.

Featured soloist Amy Bejm performs Johann Nepomuk Hummel's "Concerto a Trombona Principale." Bejm, who is principal trumpet for the Wind Ensemble, also has performed with a variety of campus groups including the Chamber Winds Ensemble, the Brass Quintet, the Chamber Choir, the Jazz Guitar Ensemble, the Salisbury Youth and Collegiate Orchestra, and the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra as well as the Maryland Intercollegiate Band and the Annapolis Wind Symphony.

Bejm is president of Music Educations National Conference Student Chapter 416. After graduating from SU in May 2004, she plans to teach instrumental music in Maryland while pursuing her master's degree in music education from the Peabody Conservatory of Music.

Other pieces scheduled for performance include Paul Creston's "Celebration Overture," Vittorio Giannini's "Symphony Number 3 for Band" and Brian Balmages' "Star Above, Shine Brightly." The concert ends with Harry L. Alford's "The Purple Carnival March."

SU music professor Dr. Richard L. Johnson directs the Wind Ensemble. He has appeared internationally, conducting at the American Academy of Rome for David Rakoski. He recently appeared as guest conductor for the U.S. Naval Academy Band Chamber Music Series.

Johnson also has lectured at the Ference Liszt Academy in Budapest and conducted several world premieres of music by Peter Westergaard, James Syler, Beth Wiemann and, most recently, John Frantzen.

"Band Classics" is funded in part by the Fulton School of Liberal Arts and contributions to the Wind Ensemble. The concert is free and the public is cordially invited.

Spring 2003 Commencement Introduces New Format

This spring, to accommodate a graduating class of 1,152, the largest in its history, SU will hold two commencement ceremonies. Also, in what is believed to be another first, ceremonies will be on a weekday.

Commencement for the Perdue School of Business and the Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies is at 10 a.m., Thursday, May 22, in the Wicomico Youth & Civic Center. Ceremonies for the Fulton School of Liberal Arts and the Henson School of Science and Technology follow at 2 p.m.

These changes were made to better accommodate graduating seniors and their families, said Dr. Mary T. Gillespie, project manager in the Office of the Provost.

"Students requested that commencement occur after final examinations, but not on the Saturday during Memorial Day weekend, and that more tickets be available for guests," she said.

This year, ceremonies are on the Thursday after final exams. In the morning commencement for SU's two professional schools, 390 students receive the Bachelor of Science, 54 the Bachelor of Arts in Social Work and one the Bachelor of Arts. Graduate degrees include the Master of Business Administration—43, Master of Education—27, Master of Social Work—20 and Master of Science—four. A total of 539 graduate.

Jennifer Rexroth

In the afternoon, for arts and sciences, 343 receive the Bachelor of Arts, 233 the Bachelor of Science and 11 the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Graduate degrees include the Master of Arts—19 and Master of Science—seven. A total of 613 graduate.

Bejm Awarded Music Grant

One of the country's premiere music education organizations has honored SU student Amy Bejm with an instructional music grant award to assist with her goal of teaching instrument music. The grant for $500 is from MENC: The National Association for Music.

A senior instrumental music major with a teacher certification concentration, Bejm is president of the National Association for Music Education Chapter 416 and principal trumpet for the SU Wind Ensemble.

A Dean's List student, she performs with the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra, the Jazz Guitar Ensemble and the Annapolis Wind Symphony. She is also a member of the University's Women's Choral and Chamber Choir.

She credits her inspiration for teaching music to her music teachers, including Robert Miller, James Nick Ellis, Lee Stevens, Ken Pfabe, Dr. Richard Johnson and the SU Department of Music faculty.

After graduating in May 2004, Bejm plans to teach instrumental music in Maryland while pursuing her master's in music education from the Peabody Conservatory of Music.

Bernstein Prize Awarded

Two non-traditional students are this year's winners of the Perdue School's Bernstein Competition. Janet Lynne Wilson, a liberal studies major in the Fulton School of Liberal Arts, wins top prize of $5,000 for her business proposal, "Stripe Tech," an ornamental detailing service for cars.

Runner-up is Charles Kramms Jr., another non-traditional student in the Perdue School, for his proposal titled "Flooring Dimensions," which received a $1,000 prize. The night before, Kramms received the Perdue School's Best Management Student Award.

The four finalists' presentations were well attended, said Dr. Stephen Adams, competition coordinator, and with some 26 entries, the most in the Bernstein Award's 16-year history. "It's great to say that the entrepreneurial spirit is alive and well at Salisbury University," he said. "That is not just good for the campus community, but bodes well for the economic future of Delmarva."

Wagner Earns Doctoral Student Award

Diana Wagner, advising services coordinator in the Seidel School, has been honored for her work in the University of Delaware's Doctor of Education program.

Wagner is one of two UD graduate students receiving this year's College of Human Services, Education and Public Policy (CHEP) Panel of Outstanding Doctoral Students Award.

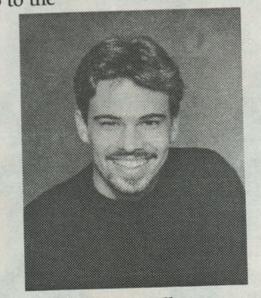
About 100 UD graduate students were eligible for the CHEP award. The University recognizes two graduate students with the award each year. Wagner is officially recognized during the annual Honors Day Friday, May 9.

Dr. Robert Hampel, one of Wagner's professors at UD, nominated her for the award, saluting her work in the program.

Wagner is pursing a doctorate with a concentration in administration and policy. She said she became interested in the field after starting work in the Seidel School in 1999. Her interests include equality and access issues for students at the grade school and university levels.

Theatre Student Earns $70K Scholarship

Justin Gallo has been awarded a scholarship to the University of Florida's theater graduate program. Gallo, who had the title role in SU's production of Hamlet directed by the Globe Theater's Charles Duff, will receive a full tuition waver and a stipend, together valued at $70,000 over the three-year period



Justin Gallo

Gallo is a candidate for a Bachelor of Arts from SU in May 2003, where he is a member of the communications' honor society Lambda Pi Eta and a past recipient of the Joanna Grant scholarship in theater.

He credits the University's Theatre Department with providing him the classical training necessary to achieve success in acting. While studying theater at SU, Gallo acted in 12 main stage productions.

Business Faculty Present At Management Meeting

Dr. Frank Shipper, Dr. Denise Rotondo and Dr. Richard Hoffman of the Perdue School of Business recently had their research accepted for presentation at the 2003 Academy of Management Meeting in Seattle. The Academy of Management Conference is the preeminent academic conference in its field, and the most selective of presenters, said Shipper.

Shipper, Rotondo and Hoffman will present their paper, "A Cross-Cultural Study of Linkage Between Emotional Intelligence and Managerial Effectiveness." The piece investigates emotional intelligence of managers in America, Europe and Asia and finds striking cultural differences regarding emotional intelligence and managerial effectiveness. Dr. Joel Kincaid, assistant professor of economics, assisted with the graphical presentation and interpretation of results. The paper will be part of a session titled, "Building Collaborative Knowledge and Wisdom: International Leadership."

This is the 18th time Shipper has been selected to present; this is his 11th consecutive year of presentations. Hoffman has presented 10 times and Rotondo five times.

Psychology Lecturer Sought

SU is accepting applications for a one-year, full-time contractual position in the Psychology Department. The position will begin on August 15, 2003, and continue until June 15, 2004. This person will teach General, Cognitive and other assigned courses. A Ph.D. in psychology is preferred. Send a letter of application with curriculum vita, transcripts, three letters of reference and evidence of effective teaching to Dr. Craig Clarke, chair, Search Committee, Psychology Department. Applications will be reviewed until position is filled.

Salisbury University has a strong institutional commitment to diversity and is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, providing equal employment and educational opportunities to all those qualified, without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, disability or sexual orientation.

Lit/Film Celebrates 30 Years

On Thursday, May 1, SU celebrated the 30th anniversary of one of the most respected film journals in the United States, Literature/Film Quarterly.

Honored at a celebration were its founders and editors, Dr. James Welsh and Dr. Thomas Erskine of the English Department, and business manager Anne Welsh.

The idea for the journal was sparked in Erskine by Gerald Barrett, a colleague at the University of Delaware in the early 1970s. Barrett had interested Erskine in the adaptation of literary works to film, and the pair had subsequently co-authored three books on the subject.

"It was like when Mickey Rooney would say to Judy Garland, 'Hey, let's start a band,'" he said. "We said, 'Hey, we should put out a journal.'"

The publication began at a time when universities nationwide were beginning to boost film programs, and huge information databases such as the Internet were still decades away.

"It was a good time for print journals to get started," said Erskine. "You have to be there when the interest is peaking. We were lucky."

Originally subsidized by the University in 1973, the journal was holding its own financially after just two years. Welsh became editor about that time and the publication continued to flourish.

According to the Rev. Gene D. Phillips of Chicago's Loyola University, a contributor to Literature/Film Quarterly, the new venture put SU on the map in the film studies world.

"The journal has steadily become very respected," he said. "I find the magazine extraordinarily interesting."

Towson University electronic media and film professor Peter Lev said Welsh and his wife, Anne, have been crucial to its success.

"Literature/Film Quarterly has for more than 30 years sustained a community of scholars devoted to the humanistic study of literature and film," he said. "I consider Jim a mentor and a friend. His great gift is an ability to bring scholars together in fruitful ways. Salisbury University should be very proud of Jim and Anne Welsh."

Throughout its history, Literature/Film Quarterly has provided each new generation of SU graduate and undergraduate students opportunities to learn about film studies and journal publishing through internships in its office.

Literature/Film Quarterly editor and proofreader Brenda Grodzicki earned her Bachelor and Master of Arts in English from SU. "I think the University is lucky to have Anne and Jim. They're wonderful to work for. And their publication is remarkable on many levels, certainly educationally, but also as a marketing tool for Salisbury University's name."

With issues featuring scholars from around the world, the Quarterly has drawn both national and international interest and can be found in libraries at Harvard, Yale, UCLA and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, among others. In all, circulation includes more than 30 countries.

Welsh's experiences have allowed him to rub elbows with his fair share of celebrities—from Jimmy Stewart to Rita Hayworth to Francis Ford Coppola. However, the scholar said meeting those stars brought him no particular excitement.

"The prestige comes not from rubbing elbows with movie stars and actors, but from earning the respect of other people in the film studies field," he said.

World Premier of Local Film

Fortunate Son, a locally made feature-length film exploring the tangled relationship of money and paternity, will have its world premiere on Saturday, May 10, at 8 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Auditorium. Afterward, the cast and director will hold a question and answer session with the audience. General admission is $8; SU ID card holders are admitted free. The evening is sponsored by the SU Theatre Department.

Produced and shot on location in Salisbury, the film features local actors Anne Colwell, Nita Gary and James Keegan, and recent SU graduate Anthony Parker. The script is an adaptation of a stage play originally written by poet and dramatist Jeff Skinner of Louisville, KY. Skinner taught at SU in the 1980s. Fortunate Son is produced by Nancy Mitchell, adjunct faculty in SU's English Department, and her husband John Ebert, who also directed. This is their first feature film.

For more information on the screening call 410-546-9534.

SU Recognizes Retirees

Collectively, they have taught students at Salisbury University for 201.5 years. Their influence on several generations of young minds and the spirit of the institution is incalculable. At press time, the following faculty had retired earlier this calendar year or were planning to at the completion of the semester:

Dr. Geraldine Rossi of the Education Department—31 years; Dr. Polly Stewart of the English Department (retiring from teaching)—30 years; Dean Burroughs of the Physical Education Department—30 years; Dr. Wavie Gibson of the English Department—26 years; Dr. Ben Greene of the Economics and Finance Department—25 years; and Thomas Horseman of the Mathematics and Computer Sciences Department—21 years.

In January Dr. Ed Shaffer of the Chemistry Department retired after 24 years and in February Dr. Roland Frank of the Education Department after 14.5 years.

Other faculty may have been considering retirement at press time and a more complete announcement will be published during the summer. The University wishes to extend its gratitude and best wishes to all.

MAY 2003 COMMENCEMENT INFORMATION

(Please read carefully!)

A. GENERAL INFORMATION AND DIRECTIONS FOR ALL GRADUATES

1. Students/Guests with Physical Disabilities: Students with physical disabilities who will need assistance should contact the Office of the Vice President of Student Affairs at 410-543-6080 by May 5. For guests with physical disabilities please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 to reserve physically disabled seating. A reserved section is provided on the main floor of the arena. Space is limited, therefore, only one guest may be seated with each physically disabled person. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

2. Hearing Impaired Guests: Signers are present for the entire graduation ceremony. Please call the Guerrieri University Center Information Desk at 410-543-6006 for information about seating. Since seats cannot be reserved, an early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.

3. The First Aid Staff of the Civic Center will be on duty in the office on the right side of the foyer entrance just outside the main arena.

4. Caps, gowns, master's hoods, tickets and announcements (quantities are limited) will be distributed at the Graduation Center in the SU Bookstore through May 21 at noon. Graduation items may be retained by the graduates and need not be returned following the ceremony. Problems with caps and gowns can be corrected at the SU Bookstore (normal hours) OR prior to the ceremony by SU Bookstore employees at the Civic Center, in Flanders Room No. 1, near the snack bar to the left of the arena entrances. Bookstore hours Monday through Thursday are 9 a.m.-6 p.m., and on Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

• GRADUATES MUST PICK UP THE NECESSARY ITEMS BEFORE NOON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 21.

• TICKETS FOR GRADUATION ARE DISTRIBUTED BY THE SU BOOKSTORE. EACH STUDENT WILL RECEIVE 10 GUEST TICKETS AND MAY REQUEST ONE TICKET (WHILE SUPPLY LASTS) TO ADMIT A FRIEND WHO IS GRADUATING IN THE ALTERNATE CEREMONY.

• GUESTS ARE REQUIRED TO BE SEATED FIFTEEN MINUTES PRIOR TO THE BEGINNING OF THE CEREMONY.

Students should NOT bring personal property, such as coats, cameras, purses, backpacks, etc. to graduation. If necessary, the above items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1. This room will be locked during the graduation ceremony. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over. Students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends.

You will not be allowed to carry personal items during the ceremony.

5. Students will first be awarded degrees by school (e.g., School of Liberal Arts), and will be asked by President Dudley-Eshbach to stand and remain standing until all degrees have been awarded for that school. President Dudley-Eshbach will then signal undergraduates to move the tassel from the right side to the left side of the mortarboard, and then to be seated.

6. Then students individually will be awarded their diplomas. The faculty marshals will have given each graduate a card containing his/her name and school, (e.g. Perdue School of Business). The card is to be handed to the person at the podium when the graduate reaches the stage and, at the same time, the graduate is to announce his/her name to the person at the podium, who will then know who the person is and how to pronounce the name correctly.

THE NAME ON THE CARD MUST NOT BE CHANGED FOR ANY REASON.

7. Students are expected to return to their seats and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony.

8. DURING THE RECESSIONAL, GRADUATES AND FACULTY ARE TO RETURN TO THE AREA WHERE THEY ASSEMBLED PRIOR TO THE CEREMONY. They should not stop or congregate in the lobby.

9. A brief reception for graduates and their guests will be held immediately following Commencement on University Hill near the Pergola (rain location will be in the Fireside Lounge and the Wicomico Room in the Guerrieri University Center) on campus. The reception is sponsored by the Salisbury University Alumni Association, and at the conclusion of the ceremony, you will be official alumni of Salisbury University.

10. Degree candidates who do not plan to participate in the commencement exercises MUST NOTIFY THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE by calling 410-543-6150 no later than Thursday, May 15. All graduates will receive a blank folder at commencement, and all diplomas will be mailed approximately six weeks after the ceremony. It should be noted that the recognition of graduates and those who will achieve Honors is tentative pending certification of all graduation requirements.

11. The Department of Nursing will hold its Nursing Convocation in the Great Hall, Holloway Hall, on May 21 at 5 p.m. A reception will follow the ceremony.

12. Faculty and staff should enter through the Midway Room entrance and line up for the processional at 9:15 a.m. for the Perdue/Seidel morning ceremony and at 1:15 p.m. for the Fulton/Henson afternoon ceremony in the Danang Room of the Civic Center. Faculty members are required to attend; those who are unable to do so should inform their respective school dean.

13. Dress Code: Graduation is a formal academic occasion and should be viewed as such in dress and demeanor. The academic robe is black with a V neckline and will show part of your clothing underneath. The recommended dress therefore is similar to what you would wear to a formal interview. Thus you should be mindful of the following considerations:

• Dress clothing, preferably black or navy.

• Black dress shoes (or some other dark color).

• The gown should be mid-calf. If a dress is worn, the gown should cover the length of the dress.

• No visible jewelry. Fraternity or sorority pins/ribbons may be worn; these are academic emblems and are not considered jewelry as such. Kente cloths are permissible as well.

• No flowers on the academic robe, and no flowers are to be carried.

• The mortarboard (academic hat) is to be worn with the front point over the forehead below the front hairline, so the flat board is parallel to the floor. (Not worn on the back of the head with the board pointing upward.) NO DECORATION OF ANY KIND IS TO BE PLACED ON THE MORTARBOARD.

• Honors students will have a gold and white hood. It is to be worn with the gold side out and the white inner lining turned out at the top, over the gold (like a collar). Gold cords should be worn under the honors hood.

• Candidates for the bachelor's degree should come into the auditorium with the tassel on the right, hanging near the right eye. After the degrees are conferred, the tassel is shifted to the left side. The signal for shifting the tassel will be given by the president (and/or your faculty marshal).

• Candidates for the master's degree will wear both the robe and hood. Faculty marshals will give you more specific information.

• Graduates will receive graduation picture information from Chappell Studio, Inc. This information will arrive at your permanent address in the near future.

• Candidates should not chew gum or tobacco.

• Candidates should NOT have personal belongings in their possession during the commencement ceremony. If necessary, personal items can be left in Flanders Room No. 1 during the graduation ceremony, when the room will be locked. It will be unlocked when the ceremony is over and students may pick up their possessions at that time. SU will not be responsible for these items; students are therefore encouraged to leave valuables with family or friends.

14. Graduation Decorum: Graduation ceremonies are, by their very nature, festive occasions. The festivity manifests itself in many ways including the dress of the students and faculty adorned in academic regalia and the warmth, joy and satisfaction of accomplishment. The ceremonies are also marked by seriousness where the actual conferring of degrees signifies long hard work on the part of everyone involved: students, faculty, administrators, parents and spouses. As a consequence of the serious nature of the ceremony, students are expected to maintain a measure of decorum consonant with the occasion. Applause and other recognition of the conferring of degrees should be limited to a joint effort at the conclusion of each graduation group, (e.g., B.S., B.A., etc.). Students are expected to return to their seats after receiving their diploma, and to remain seated for the rest of the ceremony. Family and guests are asked to remain seated for the entire ceremony, refraining from leaving their seats in order to take pictures or to talk to graduates.

15. BE SURE TO READ IMPORTANT INFORMATION ON THE LAYOUT (AVAILABLE ON THE SU WEB SITE AT WWW.SALISBURY.EDU/COMMENCEMENT) THAT PERTAINS TO YOUR GRADUATION CEREMONY.

B. ALL SEIDEL AND PERDUE GRADUATES:

Delancey Trio Performs

The Delancey Trio chamber group performs at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 14, in Fulton Hall Room 112.

The recital features pianist Dr. Patrick K. Freer, director of choral activities at SU, cellist Dr. Vic Spain and violinist Katina Streick.

Spain performs with the Orchestra Society of Philadelphia and Concert Operetta Theatre. Streick has played with the Orchestra Society of Philadelphia and the Mozart and Friends Opera Company.

The trio is named after Delancey Street in Philadelphia, where the ensemble meets for rehearsal and informal performance.

The recital includes brief introductory comments, instructing the audience members what to listen for in each piece. The trio performs movements from sonatas by Beethoven and Shostakovich, in addition to miniature pieces including Saint-Saens' "The Swan," Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise," Albeniz' "Tango in D" and Bridge's "Cradle Song."

Performance pieces also include the serene "Circulo" by Joaquin Turina and the rarely heard "Trio, No. 1" by Dmitri Shostakovich.

The recital is free and the public is cordially invited. For more information call 410-543-6386.

Harrington Has Busy Fulbright

Dr. Gary Harrington of the English Department has returned from a semester as Fulbright Distinguished Chair at The Marie-Curie Sklodowska University in Lublin, Poland.

While in Poland, Harrington presented a paper, "Searching for the Sun: Travel in Flannery O'Connor," at the annual convention of the Polish Association for American Studies in Wroclaw; he also chaired a separate session devoted to the Literature of the American South. By invitation, he gave a lecture, "Shootism vs. Sport: An Ecocritical Approach to Hemingway and Faulkner" at the Catholic University in Lublin.

Closer to home, Harrington's essay "The Shattered Mirror: Representations of Blanche in Streetcar" recently appeared in the volume Staging a Cultural Paradigm: The Political and the Personal in American Drama.

The Travels of 'Ishmael'

Students may have noticed that "Ishmael" has been missing from his home in the entrance of the Commons. "Ishmael," a life-size bronze sculpture of a silverback gorilla by sculptor Bart Walter, has spent the last several months traveling.

The sculpture was loaned to the Canton Museum of Art in Canton, OH, in November 2001 for display in an exhibit titled "The Soul of Africa." Ishmael was being transported back to campus in August 2002 when University Galleries were contacted by the National Geographic Society in Washington, D.C., requesting the loan of "Ishmael" for its new exhibit in Explorers Hall. The exhibit on conservation is titled "Biodiversity 911." Due to return to SU in April 2003, the National Geographic Society requested an extension of the loan until June.

"Ishmael" will be reinstalled in the Commons in late June.

Dragos Selected for Governor's Intern Program

Junior James Dragos has been selected as an intern through the Maryland Governor's Summer Internship Program (GISP).

The highly competitive program was created to introduce college students to the unique challenges and rewards of working within Maryland state government.

The internship runs for 10 weeks and begins June 2.

Salisbury Men, Women Begin NCAA Tournament Play

Salisbury begins play in the NCAA Division III Women's Lacrosse Tournament at home Saturday, May 10, (11:30 a.m.) as one of four regional host sites. The Sea Gulls, who finished 13-1 overall during the regular season, will face the winner of Wednesday's first round game between Colorado College and Wooster. William Smith and St. Mary's will also play Saturday in the Salisbury regional. Winners of Saturday's two games meet Sunday (1 p.m.) for a berth in the national semifinals.

Tickets for Saturday's games are priced at $3 for adults and $2 for students with ID from the participating schools and for children 12 and under. One ticket is valid for both games on Saturday. All patrons will need to purchase new tickets for Sunday's regional final.

The Sea Gulls, who won their third Capital Athletic Conference championship in 2003, are making their fourth NCAA appearance in the last five years. SU is also serving as one of the four regional hosts for the second time.

Salisbury concluded the regular season with a 9-8 win at Rowan on Friday and carries a school-record 11-game winning streak into Saturday's NCAA Tournament contest.

The Salisbury men's lacrosse team begins play in the NCAA Division III Championship Tournament on Saturday, May 10, at home. The Sea Gulls, making their 15th straight tournament appearance and 25th appearance overall, host the winner of Wednesday's Widener-Cabrini first round game. Saturday's game time at Sea Gull Stadium is 1 p.m.

Tickets for Saturday's game are $3 for everyone except for children 12 and under, who will be admitted for $1.

As the top-seed in the "Southern" bracket, Salisbury would maintain home field advantage through the semifinal round of the tournament. With a win on Saturday, the Sea Gulls would host either Franklin & Marshall or Lynchburg in the national quarterfinals on Wednesday, May 14.

Salisbury (15-1 overall) concluded the regular season with a 17-12 win at Washington (MD) College on Saturday as Josh Bergey and Chris Phillips paced the Gulls with four goals apiece.

Perdue School in Top 20%

Students in the Perdue School of Business have again put in a strong showing in a national business knowledge test, placing SU in the top 20 percent of schools in the country.

This test represents another external assessment of the quality of the Perdue School's curriculum. "The results further validate the School's place among the best business education programs in the Mid-Atlantic region," said Perdue Dean William Moore.

The 159 graduating Perdue seniors who took the Major Field Test for Business 2003, administered by the Educational Testing Service (best known nationally for the SAT), competed with students from other business schools across the country. The tests are used to gauge students' knowledge of accounting, economics, management, finance, marketing, information systems, and legal and international issues.

Finance, information/decision sciences, legal/social issues, management and marketing were areas of relative strength for all the Perdue School business students. Four students—finance majors Douglas Church and Alexis Johnson, management major Benson Harper and international exchange student Karsten Ploog—scored in the 99th percentile on the overall test. '93 Alum Is Honored Athletic Trainer

At the recent annual Athletic Training Banquet, Greg Smith, ATC, was honored as the 2002-03 Distinguished Athletic Training Alumni. Smith graduated from Salisbury in '93 and has enjoyed great success as an athletic trainer in professional hockey.

Smith presently is in his fourth season as the head athletic trainer of the Washington Capitals. Prior to joining the Caps, Smith served as the head athletic trainer with the Anaheim Mighty Ducks and the AHL's Baltimore Bandits. This summer he opened his own physical therapy clinic, Professional Sports Care and Rehab in Arlington, VA. Smith has also had the opportunity to work as the Athletic Trainer for Team USA at the 1998 World Hockey Championships.

"Greg Smith should be an inspiration for, not only athletic training students, but also to all students," said SU's Head Athletic Trainer Pat Lamboni. "Greg certainly embodies what our program here at Salisbury tries to achieve: a sound work ethic, a comprehensive educational experience and a professional sense of responsibility to the improvement of the profession of athletic training. I am very honored to be associated with Greg and feel this honor is well deserved."

Hunter Is Outstanding Research Mentor

Dr. Kimberly Hunter has received SU's first Outstanding Research Mentor Award, recently presented during the third annual SU Student Research Conference.

At an institution noted for undergraduate research, Hunter, a member of the Biology Department, has distinguished herself as a prolific and dedicated mentor.

She has pioneered new methods of undergraduate research, recruiting freshmen and sophomores into her laboratory teams. She offers them support and advice and helps them in acquiring research funding. By their junior and senior years, these students have selected projects, written grant proposals, performed field and laboratory work, analyzed data and presented the results at conferences.

In the past six years, 29 of Hunter's students have presented talks or posters at nine meetings regionally, nationally and internationally. Two student projects under her direction have been published in peer-reviewed journals.

major, delivers the commencement address for the professional schools. She compares the time immediately following graduation to her first day of kindergarten, when everything was new and a bit scary.

"Even though we're uncertain about where we're going at this point in our lives, everything will turn out," she believes. "Never settle for something that doesn't make you truly happy."

Senior Andrew Stuhl, a biology major, delivers the afternoon address for arts and sciences.

"If you truly want something, such as a change or experience, you are responsible for making it happen. There is no such thing as being over-committed," he said.

Rexroth plans to teach after graduation. Stuhl plans to live in Germany for the summer then pursue a career in outdoor education.

Admission to commencement is by ticket only. Receptions follow both ceremonies at University Hill, behind the Guerrieri University Center. Rain location is inside the Center. Receptions do not require tickets.

SU Represented at the Front: SU graduate Pat Wallace, a first lieutenant in the U.S. Army's 24th Transportation Battalion out of Ft. Eustis, VA, brought his school spirit to the battlefield in Iraq by raising the University's flag on a break during a convoy mission. Wallace participated in the ROTC program, graduating in 1999 with a degree in environmental health. His brother, Edward, captain in plans and operations, also attended SU and participated in ROTC. Edward graduated in 1997 with a history degree.

Buckle Up Challenge

The SU Police Department is a participant in this year's Chief's Challenge. The Chief's Challenge is a two-month nationwide campaign conducted through May 31. The purpose of the Chief's Challenge is for law enforcement agencies to increase their educational and enforcement activities in order to provide Maryland citizens with the knowledge and motivation to achieve a statewide 90 percent safety belt use rate by the end of 2003. The highlight of the Chief's Challenge occurs during the week of May 19 through the Memorial Day holiday. Over 12,000 law enforcement agencies will participate in the Click It or Ticket Mobilization in an effort to crack down on seat belt violators.

While the national average of seat belt use stands at 75 percent, the remaining 25 percent who don't wear their seat belts are disproportionately teens and young men ages 18-34. And at 69 percent, safety belt use for teens and young adults ages 16-24 continues to lag behind the rest of the population. The SU Police take pride in the fact that in an initial survey of seat belt use conducted in the library parking lot, the results showed an 86 percent usage rate. The community of Salisbury University is to be congratulated for this initial success in the use of their seat belts. This success is also reflected in the University Police "I Promise to Buckle Up" campaign. The goal of gaining 1,000 signatures from people who promise to, buckle up is well on its way. With several weeks left in the campaign, over 700 people have already promised to buckle up.

Career Services Hosts CIA

The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) conducted an information session in April at the Scarborough Student Leadership Center. Mid-Atlantic Regional Recruiter Karen McCarty explained career options at the CIA to approximately 80 students. Students were given information concerning such topics as jobs/internships, benefits and travel.

Nursing Information Night

The Department of Nursing hosts three information nights Tuesday, May 13, Thursday, May 15, and Tuesday, May 20, from 5-6 p.m. in Room 220 of the Power Professional Building.

Prospective students interested in obtaining information about the Family Nurse Practitioner Program and the Home Health Clinical Specialist Program should attend on May 13.

Information night May 15 focuses on health care leadership, a new master's track with courses in management, leadership and nursing informatics.

The final night, May 20, provides information on the second-degree bachelor's program. Specifically designed for individuals who already hold a bachelor's degree in another field, the program leads to a bachelor's degree in nursing in three semesters of full-time study.

For more information, call Diana Corbin at 410-543-6420 or e-mail ddcorbin@salisbury.edu.

Nursing Faculty Join National Association

Three members of the Department of Nursing have been selected to participate in special programs sponsored by the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN).

Dr. Susan Battistoni, department chair, is participating in the Leadership for Academic Nursing Program. This year-long venture is supported by the Helene Fuld Health Trust and designed to develop and enhance leadership skills in administrators for baccalaureate and graduate nursing programs.

Dr. Lisa Seldomridge and Dr. Karen Badros have been selected to serve as program evaluators for the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE), the accreditation body of the American Association of Colleges of Nursing. After completion of a training program, Seldomridge and Badros will serve on a CCNE evaluation team making site visits beginning in spring 2004.

Student Nurses Attend Conference

Eight members of Student Nurses Association (SNA) recently attended the 51st Annual Convention of the National Student Nurses Association in Phoenix, AZ. The students who attended were: Sarah Duryea, Jen Fisher, Erin Brinkley, Lori Mahmot, Kim Kalista, Kate Eder, Christina Jump and Kelly Muldon.

Elmore Nursing Scholarship Awarded

The Department of Nursing has selected Justin Somers as recipient of the 2003-04 Margaret Johnson Elmore Scholarship.

The Elmore Scholarship is for $2,000 per year up to four years and is available to residents of the Eastern Shore of Virginia who meet the academic criteria. Second priority is for students from Somerset or Wicomico counties.

Established in 1990, the award is presented in honor of the late Margaret Elmore Johnson by her son, D. Page Elmore, and his wife, Carolyn. A 54-year resident of Painter, VA, Mrs. Elmore devoted her life to the nursing profession.

For more information call 410-543-6403.
